Townwide Drive On For Books For Appalachia To Aid Depressed Area

A massive town-wide "Books for Appalachia" drive will be conducted in Winchester from Monday through Friday, April 5-9, through the coordinated efforts of several community organizations which wish to participate in a national "other than Federal Government" poverty aid program to the Appalachia area.

A list of some 400 books is being printed for distribution among the town's schoolchildren in an effort to get duplicate or outgrown titles donated. Several collection centers have been enlisted. Once collected the books will be boxed, and donations will be asked of organizations and individuals to pay specially arranged reduced rate shipping charges from Winchester to Appalachia.

The Community Schools Association has endorsed the "Books for Appalachia" drive, and enlisted the support of the School Department, through Superintendant Harry V. Gilson's approval of the project's being promoted in the public school system, as well as in other interested local groups and schools.

With funds contributed by Cub Scout Pack 503, about 4,000 copies of a list of specific book titles will be distributed at the ten public schools and at St. Mary's School on Monday, April 5. A similar list will be posted at the Public Library where adults may see what is needed to contribute what they are able to spare.

Collection boxes for the books will be placed in the schools and at the Library.

The books will then be taken to the Church of the Epiphany where Boy Scout Troop 503 will crate them. The scouts will make the shipping boxes according to specifications that will enable their being converted into bookshelves when they reach an Appalachia destination.

Finally, donations will be asked of organizations and individuals to pay the specially reduced Railway Express Agency rates for shipping —$1.95 is the cost of shipping each box of books from Winchester to Appalachia.

Questions regarding this project locally may be directed to Mrs. Howard S. Frazier (729-5657), or Mrs. Claude E. Shannon (729-4767).

In other communities across the country, Parent Teachers Associations are being alerted to the "Books for Appalachia" program, and they are also preparing to collect books to box and send to the disadvantaged southern mountain region.

Police Chief Hits Drinking By Minors In Motor Vehicles

During the past several months the Police Department has recommended to the Registry of Motor Vehicles that many licenses of minors who were operators or occupants of cars in which intoxicating beverages were found be suspended, according to Police Chief Joseph Derro.

"In all cases several persons were involved," Chief Derro said, "and usually one or more occupants had been previously involved with the police."

The Chief said that when the parents of minors (anyone under the age of 21) involved were notified, he was "surprised to find that the parents were unaware of the whereabouts of their children." In most cases, he said, the children had informed the parents that they were going some place other than where they were found.

"I must warn parents of minors," the Chief said, "that it is their responsiiblity to see that their children have no liquor in their possession while operating or in charge of a motor vehicle."

A few years ago because of the increase in drinking of intoxicating liquors by minors the Legislature saw fit to enact a law reading:

"Chapter 90, Section 24C Minors; operation of motor vehicles containing alcoholic beverages: Whoever, being a minor and unaccompanied by his parent or legal guardian, operates a motor vehicle upon a public way, knowing that there is any alcoholic beverage, as defined in section one of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight, in such vehicle or on his person, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars.

"A conviction of a violation of this section shall be reported forthwith by the court to the registrar who shall suspend, for not less than one month nor more than three months, the license of such person to operate a motor vehicle. Approved April 30, 1963."

"I have been reluctant to bring these cases before the court," Chief Derro said, "because I did not want these minors to have court records."

"In the future if this practice of having liquor in their possession continues I will be forced to prosecute," he added. "Minors must realize that they will have the stigma of a court record for the rest of their lives if they are brought before the courts," he said.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE TAX RATE ESTIMATE for 1965 on the Tax-O-Meter is slightly over $61. The 1964 tax rate $53.60 is indicated by lower left arrow. Upper right arrow shows where the committee predicted a "minimum" estimated tax rate for this year, based on its recommendations, at $59.60. The differential to $61 was the result of additional Town Meeting appropriations.

Freak Accident, Storm Skids Mar Weekend, Monday

The collision of a boat and a car was the result of an unusual accident on Cambridge Street Saturday morning when a 12-foot aluminum dory came loose from its lashings on top of a Chevrolet station wagon and "sailed" across the road into the front of a Valiant sedan.

Saturday morning at about 10:40 Joseph S. Golab of Burlington was proceeding north on Cambridge Street with his white Starcraft attached to his station wagon carrier when the boat came loose and lifted from the roof and left the car just as it passed the intersection of Oneida Road.

John F. O'Leary of Billerica was at the time driving south with his wife and seven-year-old son as passengers.

The boat that left the Chevvy headed slightly west of the car's course so that at the instant it dropped to windshield level it was in the path of the oncoming car. It hit the O'Leary car on its right front, bashing in the roof and windshield and damaging the right fender and hood.

Several calls alerted police to the accident and Sergeant Andrew Crawford and Officers Donald Pigott and Joseph Perritano responded in Car 53. Officer Perritano transported the two passengers, Mrs. Sarah O'Leary and John F., Jr., to the Winchester Hospital, where they were treated for injuries to the hand and face respectively.

MacFeeley Composes Opera, April 3 and 4 Lexington Showing

"Evergreen," a new one-act opera composed by Donald MacFeeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis MacFeeley of 207 Washington Street, will be presented on Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4, in Estabrook Hall, Town Hall, Lexington, at 8:30 p.m.

The production is being presented under the auspices of the Premier Performance Company (PPC) a community theatre organization which for the past four seasons has presented only original material: one-act and full-length plays, classical and popular music programs and poetry workshops.

Other major works by this talented young composer which have been presented by PPC include: an Advent Cantata, "Veni Emmanuel;" a full-length musical "This Manner of Man;" and a historical music-drama, "They Nobly Dar'd," commissioned by the Town of Lexington to celebrate its 250th Anniversary iin 1963. The latter production was awarded a New England Theatre Conference Regional Award in October, 1963.

Scored for piano and harp, "Evergreen" is a study of five personalities, each with its own inherent strengths and weaknesses expressed in musical statements. The libretto is by Elsa Olsen Sullivan of Lexington. Mr. MacFeeley will provide the piano accompaniment for the cast of five, assisted by Nellie Zimmer, harpist of Brookline.

French By Audio-Lingual Method At Junior High Level a Success

Six years ago "A-L-M," or audio-lingual-method French was introduced into the Winchester Junior High School curriculum. Last week Mme. Marthe Genicot, head of the high school foreign language department, evaluated its effects as highly successful.

By comparing the present senior French class, the first group to have had French in grades 7 through 12, with their predecessors, Mme. Genicot found that the 1965 product was superior to that of classes without this additional training. She explained her reasons for this belief.

French I in high school before the introduction of the modern oral-listening method consisted of studying the alphabet and the sounds associated with each letter, the accent marks and their definitions, and some vocabulary followed by the formal conjugation of "porter" or "aimer" depending on the text.

The pupils began to learn to read and write the language but most of them dared not utter a French sound for fear of derision from pals.

Now the French teachers introducing the language in junior high school stress the oral phase. Speaking and listening with little formal text book study highlight the program. Some parents have wondered how their children could speak in French but couldn't read or write what they were saying.

The idea of the method, Mme. Genicot explained, is to have the pupils become familiar with French intonation and inflection, correct pronunciation of the language and the acquistion of a basic vocabulary. By the use of records and tapes, the students become so accustomed to the correct French sounds that they gradually begin to think in French, which is a major advance.

In the ninth grade the speaking-listening method is continued with formal reading and writing becoming more prominent. As the foreign language course continues through high school, the oral approach is interwoven with the reading of literature, the writing of compositions and essays, and the formal study of grammar.

In the upper classes French works of literature are no longer translated line by line but are read and discussed in French. The seniors this year speak with more facility than did previous classes, although all French classes had had a thorough grounding in vocabulary, grammar, and reading.

BOAT AND CAR COLLIDE. The damaged boat in the foreground was the cause of even greater damage to the Valiant in the background, which suffered a broken windshield, crushed roof and damaged fender after the boat came loose from it's "moorings" on top of a station wagon heading north on Cambridge Street Saturday morning and dropped onto the compact heading south. Two passengers in the Valiant were injured.

The fifth session of the annual Town Meeting of 1965 was like a college lecture series in that two significant articles, funds requested for a go-ahead on plans for a new elementary school building and a request to extend a Business District zone off Washington Street into a General Residence zone for a medical building parking lot, were both presented in carefully organized informative fashion, with visual aid pictures and diagrams used to emphasize and prove points. Other articles were briefly discussed and passed on, in matter of fact fashion.

In the fifth session the Town (1) Voted to appropriate $52,000 for plans for a new elementary school building in the Tufts Road area; (2) Voted to appropriate $57,000 for a modern fire alarm control system and make renovation improvements in the Central Fire Station; (3) Voted to make land acquired from Lexington in last year's boundary shift into a Single Residence District; (4) Voted to make an area between Summer Street, the B. & M., and town Park land, into General Residence Zone; and (5) Voted not to extend a Business District zone off Washington Street into a General Residence zone by Eaton Street for the purpose of a medical building parking lot.

The sixth and final session of the annual Town Meeting was completed with an almost lesson book exercise in political maneuvering in one instance, where the once buried Library addition issue was raised from its death bed and reinstated to a need worth the buying—which the meeting did, and in another instance with masterful expertise in handling a controversial issue with delicate diplomacy, when the apartment house district zoning matter was deferred to a future special Town Meeting when it could be examined separately from specific map locations and after some current criticism could be resolved.

In the sixth session the Town (1) Voted finally to approve a $396,750 addition to the Public Library after voting it down at a special meeting last week; (2) Voted to indefinitely postpone an article calling for the creation of an apartment house district in the zoning by-laws; (3) Voted to indefinitely postpone changing the Beggs site into an apartment house zone; (4) Voted to indefinitely postpone changing land by Wedge Pond opposite Wildwood Cemetery into an apartment house zone; (5) Voted to accept building and zoning by-laws for swimming pools.

March 25: Fifth Session Three Map Zones Changed, Parking Lot Area Denied

In the fifth session the Town Meeting rseumed its adjourned discussion on a motion to indefinitely postpone Article Thirty-Three—calling for an appropriation of $52,000 for plans to build an elementary school on the Tufts Road site, which had been the object of some representative criticism on the grounds the full school building program hadn't been adequately or completely presented in a proper perspective for justifiable decision-making.

SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM

Earle Littleton, chairman of the elementary school building subcommittee to the Permanent Building Committee, told the assembly that it had been evident at the previous session that there was some doubt shown as to the need for a new elementary school building. He turned the School Department's case over to Richard Alt, chairman of the School Committee, for proof presentation to the Town Meeting.

Mr. Alt said he regretted not presenting the full need story at the earlier meeting, but said the School Committee had "perhaps assumed too much in thinking that the town and its representatives are fully aware of the need." He further noted that the committee's assumption was based on the fact that most of the need story had been discussed at the fall special Town Meeting in which funds were made available for preliminary study and work on a new elementary school.

With a series of slides projected on a stage screen, Mr. Alt presented statistical facts illustrating the School Department's dilemma and case for more elementary school space.

ENROLLMENT/POPULATION

A slide graphing the increase in school enrollments and town population from 1954 to 1964 showed: A 3,000 school enrollment in 1954 compared to a 17,500 town population. A 1964 school enrollment of nearly 5,000 students with a 22,-500 town population. This shows, Mr. Alt pointed out, that while the town's population increased 125%, the school enrollment went up 163%.

ENROLLMENTS 1964 - 1972

A slide graphing the projected increase in school enrollments based on the Marshall report, Planning Board studies and other sources showed: A 1964 enrollment of 2,717 kindergarten to sixth-grade pupils, 1,073 seventh to ninth-grade pupils, and 1,106 tenth to twelfth grade students. In 1972 the anticipated increases, respectively, will climb to 3,000 elementary population, 1,400 junior highers, and 1,500 high school students.

SCHOOL PROGRAMS UP

A slide graphing the increase in school program offerings showed the following innovations and improvements: audio visuals, speech therapy, team teaching, advance placement, special classes, grouped musical instruction, expanded athletics, more testing, language labs, guidance, remedial reading, foreign languages, more science and math in elementary grades, non-graded teaching, and homegeneous groupings. All of these additions to the total school program require space, Mr. Alt pointed out.

SCHOOLS AGING

A slide graphing the vintage of the elementary schools showed: Five of the seven elementary schools, all but Parkhurst and Vinson-Owen were built in the 1920's and are forty years old. Another correlative slide showed the inadequate facilities in some areas at some of the schools, such as a health room, conference room, large group instruction room, library, etc. In comparing the Lincoln, Noonan and Washington Schools with the Vinson-Owen on a chart, the former group lacked most of these facilities, while the latter showed up well. Mr. Alt asked whether the town wished to continue to have two school building standards . . . "Are we just going to have new facilities in the more newly developed area of town?" he asked.

SCHOOL CAPACITIES

A slide graphing the capacities of the Lincoln, Noonan and Washington Schools districts, which the proposed new elementary school would help relieve, showed: The educative capacity of those schools, respectively, is 221, 216, and 320, for a total of all three schools of 757. Enrollment at those schools in 1965, however, is 413, 439, and 443, respectively, or a total of 1,295—or an overload of 434 beyond what is a good educational standard capacity for them. FIFTH SESSION, cont. page 2

March 29: Final Session Apartment Zone Held Off, Swimming Pool Regulation

Following a prayer by the Rev. Joseph O'Donnell of the First Baptist Church Library Trustee chairman John Dolan quickly asked that Article Thirty One, calling for the town to approve the plans for an addition to the Public Library, be taken from the table and reconsidered by the Town Meeting.

LIBRARY ADDITION

Mr. Dolan explained the fact that there was a special Town Meeting article on a Library addition as well as a regular Town Meeting article due to circumstances of timing in which the Trustees asked the Selectmen for a special meeting on the issue but, not having a definite response by warrant deadline time, they inserted an article for the regular annual Town Meeting.

He noted there had been a lot of interest on the part of Library users that there was another chance for the addition to be passed after a plurality vote of 104 to 83 in its favor failed to reach the necessary two-thirds majority for a bond borrowing.

He added that Winchester compares itself to communities like Belmont, Wellesley, Needham and Brookline in other ways, but has not yet brought its Library facility up to what those towns have.

"We have spent a total of $30,-000 over recent years on plans for a Library addition and we suggest that you not waste this money by not building the addition," he said.

He noted that the architect had advised that the cost of construction would rise by about three to four per cent every year it was delayed, and this would add another $100,000 to the tab by waiting five or more years.

Gardner Bradlee, chairman of Library building subcommittee of the Permanent Building Committee told the meeting that it was now aware there would be no heavy school building cost this year but in future years there would be. "We have spent $23,700 this past year alone on plans for the Library and that's 28 cents on the tax rate," he said. The tax cost would be $1.04 this year, with subsequent costs diminishing from 29 cents next year to 12 cents nineteen years later on the bond payments.

Speaking as a resident of the town, he said "I've always been proud of Winchester in the way it cares for its schools, plows its streets, and in other things; and the library is part of this picture and it should be kept up to the standards the town expects of it."

George Barbaro said it seemed extraordinary to him that the meeting had to discuss the article again when the same arguments for and against would still be the same as debated last week. "I'm more convinced than ever," he said, 'the the taxpayers of Winchester don't want to spend another $400,-000 for the library addition at this time."

Richard Alt, chairman of the School Committee, re-stressed his earlier statement about the significant relationship between the schools and the library.

"We are attempting to correct the library dificiencies in the schools," he said, "but even then this does not cover out-of-school hours such as evenings, weekends and holidays." He pointed out further that towns such as Weston, Needham, Newton, Wellesley and Lexington had all tried to keep school libraries open for out-of-hours use, but had given the idea up as uneconomical.

"It is much better for the town to have a single complete library facility available to the entire town," he said in urging approval of the article.

Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planing Board, said they see Winchester at its present 22,000 population with a facility that does not match now what similar communities offer; and Winchester will add another 5,000 to its population, he noted, and even with this addition the town will still have below what communities we comapre ourselves to have.

"I think it's at least 15 years of rough financial years ahead for the town," he said in urging passage of the addition this year. Speaking as an architect he described the trustees' proposals as "modest," and the addition design as "simple, and very well done."

Elizabeth Herberich asked if bids would still be valid if the Town Meeting continued until Thursday night, as was told they wouldn't be but could be made so by an act of the Legislature.

Paul Dunn, former chairman of the Finance Committee, said he remembered when his committee told the library to wait on its addition several years ago, and he "regretted that decision.

"I enjoyed the point Mr. Borggaard made the other evening when he said that education is a continuing thing and should never tstop," Mr. Dunn noted, and added that he felt the library addition was needed as much for the adults of Winchester as for the children.

"I feet the town can afford this library addition," he said, "and I think you should vote for it."

Paul Gilpatrick said he felt there was a penny-wise and pound-foolish undercurrent in the Town Meeting, but he would stand strongly in favor of the addition because of its conjunctive service to the residents' investment in the future — the school children.

Art Johns said Winchester has a heritage of culture, "and how do you spell culture if you don't spell it with a library. It is high time we get this addition done," he urged.

Paul Chase, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the committee advised against the proposal at this time because of what it would add to the tax rate, "and there are many taxpayers against the addition at this time," he said.

He noted that the $23,000 spent on the final plans could be used in the future, and therefore wouldn't be wasted.

"People who would consider living here will look at the tax rate and at the rate's climb," he said, as well as the library facility offered residents. The tax rate used to climb about 3 per cent a year, but is up about 14 per cent now, he emphasized.

Three Students Here Win Nat. Science Awards

Congressman F. Bradford Morse recently announced that three Winchester boys were awarded graduate fellowships by the National Science Foundation.

The National Science Foundation awarded 1,339 two-year fellowships. These were chosen from nearly 8,000 applications and were based on competitive examinations and outstanding academic records. The fellowship will include a $2,-500 education allowance as well as a $2,400 stipend for each Fellow.

"These fellowships are the recognition of outstanding achievement and ability" said Congressman Morse, as he wished each of them good luck in their studies in the years ahead.

Ray C. Fair is a student at Harvard University in Economics and lives at 58 South Border Road. Robert H. Katyl of 37 Spruce Street, is a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and received the award in the field of fluid physics and Stephen C. Root of 14 Winthrop Street, is also a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was recognized for his study in the field of Chemical Engineering.

William Stetson Garcelon, M.D.

Memorial services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the Unitarian Church for Dr. William Stetson Garcelon of 7 Fernway, who died here suddenly on Sunday, March 28.

Dr. Garcelon, who was 38 years of age, was a well known local surgeon and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. His loss will be much felt by his many patients and friends here. He was the husband of Rosemary (Frend) Garcelon and the father of three children Elizabeth, John and James.

Dr. Garcelon was born in Arlington on July 22, 1927, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo H. Garcelon who survives him in that town. He went through the Arlington schools and was graduated from the high school there before going on to Harvard where he was a member of the class of 1948.

He was a 1952 graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University and trained at the Roosevelt Hospital in New York.

Dr. Garcelon was an active staff member at the Winchester Hospital and at the Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn. He also was on the staff of the Tufts Medical School, instructing in surgery at the Boston City Hospital.

He was active in medical groups, being a secretary of the Middlesex East Medical Society, a medical advisor for the American Mutual Insurance Company and a member of both the Massachusetts Medical and the Boston Surgical Societies. He was also a member of the William Parkman Lodge, A.F. and A.M.

Contributions in his memory may be made to the Winchester Hospital.

In Brookline

Mrs. Laura H. (Quigg) Telfer, wife of the late Claude E. Telfer, who passed away in Brookline, Sunday, March 28th, leaves two daughters, Mrs. Pauline T. Flickinger and Mrs. Marie Strout and four grandchildren, all of Winchester.

A CLASSIFIED AD IN THE STAR BRINGS RESULTS

Miss Eugenia Parker

Miss Eugenia Parker of Denmark, Maine died there on March 23 following a brief illness.

Miss Parker was born in Winchester in 1894, the daughter of Harrison and Fanny (Fletcher) Parker and she lived here throughout her early years.

Following her graduation from Abbot Academy in Andover she was very active here and throughout this area in Girl Scouting and in 1930 she founded the Blazing Trail Camp for Girls in Denmark. She was for 25 years director of this camp, which in recent years was bought by, and is still run by, the Young Women's Christian Association of Boston.

Miss Parker was a beloved citizen of Denmark where she made her home and where she was active in all church and civic interests. Her home was always a center of hospitality for her family and her many camp friends and alumnae.

A memorial service was conducted for her on March 26 in the Community Church in Denmark by the Reverend Sidney Lovett of New Haven, Connecticut.

Miss Parker is survived by her two sisters, Mrs. Reeve Chipman of Boston and Mrs. Sidney Lovett of New Haven, also by numerous nieces and nephews and grandnieces and nephews.

Murray G. Day

Murray G. Day, who lived here intermittently in the 1950's, died Friday at his home in Temple, N. H.

Services were held for him on Monday at the Temple Church. He was 89 years old at the time of his death.

Husband of Mrs. Viola (Maclellan) Day formerly of Winchester, he was a retired engineer. Mr. Day was a graduate of Princeton University and was a member of the Downtown Club of Boston, the Princeton Club of New York and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

March 25: Fifth Session

1967 projects 460, 480 and 460, respectively, for a total of 1,400—or 531 beyond the desirable 757 educative capacity of those buildings.

SITE AREAS

A slide graphing underdeveloped areas of over 10 acres in Winchester that could be considered as possible sites numbered 20, and showed: most of the remaining available land in town is on the west side, in Precinct Four mainly, but that where pressure is most urgent for school enrollment relief—in the Lincoln, Noonan and Washington districts — the only real good location was the Tufts Road site, and this is town owned land that wouldn't cost any money to take by eminent domain. Another slide with circumscribing circles for each of those three school districts showed how the Tufts Road site intersected with all three advantageously.

RECOMMENDATION

Mr. Alt said the School Committee recommended building a new elementary school building with space for 560 pupils to be ready in 1967. This would leave an overload of only 800 students on the school system at that time, he noted.

If a new high school is built, Mr. Alt added, this would free the McCall School to provide space to take up another 500 elementary pupils. This would then leave an overload of only 400 students across the system.

"If we don't build a new high school too," Mr. Alt said, "we'll have to build another new elementary school."

DIRECTION

"Where is the school building program going in the long run?" Mr. Alt asked rhetorically.

"Sometime after 1972 we must begin planning the replacement of some of the then-60-year-old elementary schools," he said. "Eventually we must build three new schools of 500 pupil capacity," he added. "This will result in six neighborhood schools larger than the present ones," he said, "preserving both the location areas and educational philosophy of the town."

FURTHER DISCUSSION

After the applause following Mr. Alt's presentation concluded, Mr. Littleton said most of the figures used by Mr. Alt had been discussed at the fall Town Meeting, and since there was no argument on the need at that time the subcommittee had assumed there was no disagreement, and therefore presented only the outline plans for the building at Monday night's session.

After noting that the history of the land (1962 controversy and special Town Meeting to stop the Selectmen from selling it to a developer) suggested to the building committee that the town had a mandate to use the land for town purposes, Mr. Littleton offered to review the building and site plans if the meeting so desired.

There was no call for a review, and the assembly applauded the speaker's presentation.

Mrs. Parsons, president of the Winchester Mothers' Asocaition, noted the League of Women Voters' survey of the school needs made public last year, the Marshall Report that had been printed in the Star because of interest generated in the consultant's view of school building programs, and the several public meetings held on school building and other school issues by the Community Schools Association. "All of these pointed to the need for a new 20-room, 500 pupil elementary school to relieve crowding in these three schools, she said.

"School crowding spreads from school to school; and hinders the educational system by lowering its quality," she said.

"We've had the problem described to us many times," she said, "The need for this school in Winchester is now," she urged, "so please vote no on indefinite postponement and vote yes to appropriate the funds for the plans."

Mrs. Brink told the meeting she had been a substitute teacher in the school system for the past year and knew first hand the overcrowding. "We do have a serious problem," she said, "and I urge you to vote to correct it."

Eugene Rotondi said he had earlier objected to the site, but on seeing it again he thought better of it and thought it would be an excellent elementary school site. He further praised Mr. Alt and Mr. Littleton for doing a good job in presenting the total school building needs picture, saying "I understand it more tonight than I ever did, and I know others feel the same way."

Paul Chase, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the committee was against delaying the article any further.

CRITICISM

Dudley Kimball said he was speaking as a taxpayer that objects to "government by committee." "I object to the School and Building Committees' not presenting the total picture to the community before the Town Meeting began," he said, so the townspeople could have had time to digest and discuss it.

"If good sound plans are presented," he urged, "they can stand the test of publicity."

"I'm certain the School and Building Committees started out with this site pre-decided without telling us anything about it until now," he said. He urged the Town Meeting to vote for indefinite postponement. "One such confrontation will surely get this message (of disapproval of 'strategy' in not having full disclosure of building plans made ahead of time) across to these committees," he said.

SITE QUESTION

George Redding, a member of the Planning Board, asked whether the Tufts Road site had been considered by the secondary school building subcommittee to the Permanent Building Committee as a possible location for a new high school, and if not why not, and if so why had it been dismissed.

Austin Broadhurst, chairman of that subcommittee, said the just released report of the committee went into detail on all the sites considered, including this one. The committee had rejected the Tufts Road site for a high school he said, because there was not sufficient land area properly available, even with building onto Leonard Field, and the town needed Leonard Field as a playground in that area of town, and because there was no major road leading to that site and little possibility of building one without many property takings and much expense to handle the necessary traffic that would normally be expected at a large high school building.

THE VOTE

Henry Gerould asked the chairman of the Board of Selectmen what his opinion on his motion was then, after the presentation and discussion. John Lyman said the Selectmen were satisfied. "We now feel that we've been given the facts and an orderly presentation which we were not afforded earlier," he said.

The meeting voted no on the motion for indefinite postponement, and voted yes to appropriate $52,000 for the preparation of final plans.

SIDELIGHT

Herbert Lord told the meeting he was the man responsible for the fact the town had this land as a site to use, since he had helped stop the Selectmen from selling the area. He proposed an amendment that the meeting reimburse him for $500 in expenses he said he had incurred for legal briefs for the superior and supreme courts in the case.

Moderator Chadwick said the proposed amendment was beyond the scope of the article, to which Mr. Lord retorted he "would be tickled pink to rewrite the article." But the idea was lost.

HISTORY

Otto Schaefer noted that the town meetings had an unfortunate history of appropriating money for plans that often don't get approved and acted upon because of a failure to reach a two-thirds majority vote for bond borrowing authorization, (in apparent direct reference to the previous meeting's voting a library addition down after spending about $30,000 on final plans) and asked if there could be a standing vote of how many representatives would go along with bond borrowing on this building. The entire assembly stood up for the "trial vote."

THE FIRE STATION

Article Thirty Four called for the town to appropriate $57,000 for alterations and improvements to the Central Fire Station, including the replacing of a 1914 fire alarm system with a modern system housed in an enclosed watch room that would require building a bay window room extension onto the westerly side of the building near the entranceway.

Shailer Avery, chairman of the Fire Station building subcommittee of the Permanent Building Committee, said the committee strongly recommended the new alarm system and several building renovations as a matter or urgency for that protective department's efficiency in a building that hasn't basically been improved or modernized since it was built.

To emphasize his points, Mr. Avery showed several slides.

A slide showing a picture of a hand drawn fire wagon of the last century beside the currently used 1914 alarm receiver and repeater unit pointed out, Mr. Avery said, "at the risk of being dramatic, that if the alarm system is not replaced it would be like answering a fire with a hand drawn vehicle."

A slide showing the meter board of the present alarm system was termed an "antique," for which parts are no longer manufactured.

A slide showing the compact new system requested enclosed in a soundproof room was described to show the desired improvement.

Other slides showed interior building renovations requested such as rewiring 50-year-old lighting fixtures, and replacing with fluorescents; taking out radiators for clothes racks on the ground floor, and replacing them with a reworked heating system with blowers; redoing the Chief's office and putting the clerk in another office area to be built next to it on the second floor; rearranging the back bay doors to allow the big engines in for repair work; and renovating the present alarm system equipment room for a training classroom, along with other changes.

Mr. Avery noted that the $57,000 appropriation meant only 70 cents on the tax rate, and in the interest of public safety he urged the Town Meeting to approve the project.

Dr. Stephens described the technical advantages of the new alarm system over the present outmoded model. The new system would be all automatic, as opposed to the present system that involves many manual operations. The new one would have a tape recorder automatically tied into it for transcribing calls which can be played back if a nervous caller is indistinct and hangs up before repeating directions. The new system would also have more circuits available for use, where the present one is already overloaded.

OPPOSITION

Mr. Chase noted the Finance Committee agreed that the old alarm system needed to be replaced eventually; "but we question how urgently it is needed now," he said. "Last year the alarm system brought in only 300 out of 900 calls—the rest were all by telephone," he said. He pointed out that there are eight circuits on the box now, but that more boxes could be added to handle developments in the west side and additions to the mutual aid system. The building can wait a little longer, he added. Mr. Chase stressed that the town's most pressing problems were for school building space, "which we have no choice on," he said. He noted that the tax rate was at about $59.30 at this point which meant that if last year's 9.40 increase was considered an "unhappy" event, "if you add this it will be over $9.40 again—another unhappy increase."

"We don't mean to say we don't have the money," Mr. Chase warned, "for you can just assess the properties more."

"If you don't want to wait on this that is your decision," he said, "but it is our duty to tell you of the tax import."

Fire Chief Frank Amico told the Town Meeting the Fire Department really needed the new alarm system as the system being used now is 51 years old and is seriously overloaded. It is getting increasingly difficult to get parts for it to keep it operating, he noted, and added that the speed of the old machine is slower than would be the case with the new system.

Admiral Buracker, a member of the building committee, noted that the alarm system shouldn't be passed over now because the town would face heavy school building expenses in the next few years which would make this more difficult to do financially then. He also noted that the new system can control traffic lights when such a progressive innovation is decided upon in the future.

Clarence Borggaard said everyone seemed to be agreed that the equipment was necessary, and asked if the Finance Committee had any projected year as to when it would recommend the work be done. The Finance Committee said it should wait until after the school building program is finished and its impact realized on the tax rate.

Selectman Lyman said the money involved is a one shot proposition and "The time is now." He added that "From a protection point of view this is a must," and the Board of Selectmen were in favor of the article.

THE VOTE

The Town Meeting voted to appropriate $57,000 for the new fire alarm system, the small addition for an enclosed watch room, and other renovations at the Fire Station.

ARTICLE THIRTY FIVE

Article Thirty Five asked the town to appropriate $2,500 for the Permanent Building Committee's expenses to carry on its activities. The amount was voted.

LEXINGTON LAND ZONE

Articles Thirty Six and Thirty Seven asked the town to make two parcels of land area formerly belonging to the Town of Lexington and transferred to Winchester last year in exchange for a parcel of Winchester land involving 193,600 and 7,000 square feet of land, into Single Residence (A) District zones. The Town Meeting approved both zone establishments by over the two-thirds vote required upor recommendation by the Planning Board.

LAND ZONED

Article Thirty Eight asked the town to change a 15,750 square foot area of land lying between Summer Street, Boston and Maine Railroad, and Park Department land north of Skillings Field to a General Residence (A) District, the required two-thirds vote passed the measure after the Planning Board recommended the change.

PARKING LOT ZONE

Article Thirty Nine asked the town to extend a present Business District on Washington Street into a General Residence District toward Eaton Street so that a parking lot could be built in the rear of the medical building at 175 Washington Street.

There was much discussion on this article, and a little confusion due to some emotional arguments relative to it, but basically there were three factors involved: Dr. James F. McDonough wished to build a parking lot to the rear of his medical building to provide off-street parking for doctors, secretaries, and patients; some abbuters and nearby residents supported the idea because they wished to see the traffic situation alleviated in that area where parked cars add to congestion; and other abbuters objected strongly to extending the Business District zone nearer their homes, and in some cases were against the building of a parking lot for commercial purposes in back of their residences.

IN FAVOR

Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, said the board favored the article since it would ease the traffic and parking problem on that portion of Washington Street, and noted since there was strong objection on the part of some abutters, that the size of the Business District extension could be reduced to just the parking lot area instead of going all the way to Eaton Street.

Dr. McDonough showed slides illustrating the parking and congestion problem which the parking lot would help alleviate. He noted an estimated 250 patients a day visit the medical building, not including the 14 doctors and as many secretaries that park near the building all day.

Chief Derro said the town does have a serious traffic and parking problem in that area, and recommended support of the article for that reason.

Selectman Henry Van Dyke said he was in favor of the article because it would be an improvement in the area, and help to protect the some 400 school children that attend St. Mary's School across the street.

An orthopedic surgeon located in the medical building said "essentially everyone in the Town Meeting must agree there should be parking around a medical building, and you'll have to decide whether the need and question of safety outweigh the emotional arguments for not changing a zone area."

Mr. Costello said none of the abutters really objected to the parking lot itself. "The Town Meeting will have to take the petitioner's word that there will only be a parking lot put in that area if the zone change is approved," he said in reply to one objector's statement that another addition could then be built onto the medical building if the zone is changed, thereby not alleviating the problem but adding to it. "In the future," he added, "the Planning Board should make changes in the by-laws" that would permit such a special use exception to allow for the construction of parking lots in business areas adjacent to residential areas in certain cases of this type.

OPPONENTS

Vincent Erhard said the proposed article was an encroachment on the rights of the residents of the area. "Envision a parking lot like that behind the Fire Station in back of your house," he said.

Mr. Chase said the Finance Committee felt it would be an imposition on the people of the area, and recommended that the prior zoning take precedence.

J. Joseph Tansey said he was amazed at the action of the Planning Board in recommending this article to the Town Meeting.

A woman got up to say the traffic is bad on Washington Street, but if the petitioner got the parking lot there would be other encroachments to buy more land adjacent to it and petition again for more zoning changes. She noted once the zoning change was made any business construction could be erected there. "The only way this area can stay residential is to vote against this article," she said.

Robert Murphy said he was against the article to change the area into a Business District, but added the basic problem was in the town's limited zoning laws whereby this was the only way a parking lot could be put in the location. He noted there is a device called the Special Exception which is widely used in other towns. A simple amendment to the zoning laws would permit its use in Winchester (the Planning Board tried to get a similar "overlay zone" passed in Winchester a few years ago but the Town Meeting turned it down). In this case, he noted, the Board of Appeal could allow parking facilities in a residential zone as a special exception provided such a parking area adjoins a business zone. He suggested the Planning Board look into the idea of asking the town to adopt a special exception zone.

Arthur Hewis said he doubted the general residence right of way owned by Dr. McDonough could legally be used for business zone purposes.

Mr. Nowell, a retired firefighter, said he strongly objected to having a parking lot in back of his house under any circumstances, and he especially did not want the area changed to a business district.

THE VOTE

Sunday Vespers Join Unitarian Choir, Harpist

The Unitarian Choir, augmented by visiting voices and supplemented by a harpist, Ariel Hall, will present a special vesper concert this Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the chancel of the church. Mary Ranton Witham will conduct.

The public is cordially invited to hear the program of Lenten music and to join afterwards for tea served while John Baldwin plays background organ music.

The Downs Memorial Carillon will introduce the program, and the choir will start with Dubois' "Christ, We Do All Adore Thee and" Ippolitov-Ivanov's "Bless the Lord," sung a capella. It will continue with Vivaldi's "Magnificat." Among other highlights further in the program the choir will sing works of Bortniansky, Kodaly, two numbers from Randall Thompson's "Peaceable Kingdom" and Hohvaness' beautiful "From the Ends of the Earth."

The male choir will present four numbers in the middle of the program; and Ariel Hall will do Noble's "Fierce Was the Wild Billow" and Roberton's "Celtic Hymn" on the harp.

Soloists for the afternoon will be the regular choir quartet of Estelle McNeely, soprano; Barbara Wood, contralto; William Jeffery, tenor; and Sidney Blanchard, baritone.

Gathering In Their Honor

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH R. MacDONALD

Coming from California, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New Hampshire were a group of about 125 relatives and close friends who got together on Saturday to honor Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. MacDonald of 63 Franklin Road on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Lillian Bravacos, a daughter, of Andover, was hostess, assisted by her sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Mello of Melrose, Mrs. Christina Howard of Los Angeles, California and Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner of 571 Washington Street. Many of their sixteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild were there to watch the honored guests open many lovely gifts. The MacDonalds have lived here for 20 years and Mr. MacDonald is still active in the ship chandlery business in Boston.

Lawn Clinic Saturday: Spring Is Really Coming

The proof: Saturday is the annual Lawn Clinic Day at C. H. Symmes Co., 754 Main Street, your local Scott's dealer.

Everyone is invited to lay the snow shovel aside and come to Symmes Saturday to get ready for that warming, growth-pushing sun which will be in Winchester making yards come alive before long, as sure as Scott's is an authority on good lawns.

There will be a gift of a decorative flower and a bud vase for the first 200 women guests, free samples for the men and gifts for the children, as well as morning coffee and doughnuts.

All of the information why, and the accessories to assist with lawns will be available at Symmes this Saturday, April 3, when Austin Bock, O. M. Scott Company's Lawn Counsellor, will be at Symmes to demonstrate and answer questions. Repairing ailing old lawns and building new ones will have equal attention.

Capitol Comment

by Congressman Brad Morse

THE MOLLY BROWN

There was no doubt of the top news story of last week. On Tuesday, Members of Congress, like millions of Americans crowded around radio and television sets to watch the progress of the Gemini space shot.

Pride and admiration were the most common reactions to the successful completion of the space flight. The courage and capability of astronauts Virgil (Gus) Grissom and John Young were honored on Friday by the President in a special White House ceremony, and by the Congress with a luncheon and a reception here on Capitol Hill.

GAS IN VIETNAM

Many Members of Congress wish they could have been as proud of recent United States efforts in Vietnam. On Monday, it was revealed that the United States has provided non-lethal gas for use by South Vietnamese troops. Although the gas is non-lethal and has been used only in a few instances, I was alarmed that the immediate reaction of people all over the world against the practice would do great damage to the United States political position in Southeast Asia.

On Tuesday, I was joined by five of my colleagues here in the House of Representatives in writing to the President to explain our objections to the use of the gas and to urge the immediate halt to the practice.

AMPUTEE VETERANS

Last week, I again introduced my bill to equalize the veterans benefits available to amputees from World War II and the Korean War. Korean War amputees currently receive far greater benefits than those of World War II. My bill would equalize those benefits for 17,500 World War II amputee veterans. The legislation has been referred to the Committee on Armed Services and I will press for its early consideration.

RAYTHEON AWARD

On Monday, I attended a luncheon at the Department of Labor in honor of Charles Francis Adams, President of Raytheon. Mr. Adams received the annual award of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped from Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Of the 28,000 employees of Raytheon, 1500 are handicapped. The Raytheon record demonstrates that the word "handicapped" is relative—these employees are effective, efficient contributors to our economy.

EDUCATION BILL

On Friday, the House stayed in session until 10:30 in the evening to complete action on the aid to education bill. The measure passed by a vote of 263-153. It provides for assistance to school districts with needy children, funds for libraries and textbooks, and for special programs of teacher training and state educational administration.

I supported an amendment that would, in my opinion, have made the formula for distribution of the funds more effective. I voted for the bill on final passage, however, because I believe that there is a need for this kind of assistance to our educational effort.

SCOUTS IN THE SPACE AGE

It was perhaps fitting that a week that began with a major space shot should end with an address on the awakening of Boy Scouts to the space age. On Sunday evening I spoke at the initiation of two Eagle Scouts. I pointed out that while scouting formerly was primarily concerned with such homely skills as pathfinding, blacksmithing and woodcutting, today the scouting movement is leading young American men toward new breakthroughs in science and technology. New merit badges requiring skills in oceanography, metallurgy, electronics and atomic energy demonstrate as much as moon-shots that we are truly in the space age.

The Winchester Star

Established 1880 by Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Editorials:

The Big Maneuver

The trustees, staff and friends of the Winchester Public Library organized a highly successful campaign to win Town Meeting votes for its long fought for, long awaited and long overdue Library addition; and the result was nothing short of amazing. The political maneuver was a victory of sizeable proportion, and a credit to those who have worked to achieve it.

The "stop the Library movement" turned out in full battle force and with prepared speeches ranging from straight opinion to emotional arguments on the high cost of living at the special Town Meeting last week and, quite successfully, won out in stopping the Library's plans through sheer negative numbers (many of the speakers were not Town Meeting Members, but citizens who did not wish to have an addition built onto the Library).

But the regular Town Meeting warrant contained a similar article relating to approving an addition to the Library; and the anti-progressive-government forces, prematurely counting their "victory" even though they saw the regularly scheduled article tabled to be brought up again before the dissolution of the Town Meeting, lost out on their early gain by discontinuing the fight.

Meanwhile, the Library forces, pleased and spurred by the plurality vote they got at the special meeting, reorganized and concentrated their efforts toward a potential two-thirds vote victory they could see as possessable.

In clockwork fashion at the opening of the final session the Library Trustees, the project building committee, and former heads of town boards and committees, as well as well-known community people who are Library advocates ticked off terse commentaries stating and restating the need for the addition. There was little room for negative speakers among the steady stream of Library supporters.

The die was steadily cast and the Town Meeting was literally made to see the need for an addition to the Library on its own merits, and then that need was masterfully cast above the depreciated mercenary details.

Means to the end? Why shouldn't the Library organizers do all in their power to obtain for the town what is an improvement and betterment for the comunity? The stubborn horse can be led to the water trough, and if it doesn't drink, what's the harm in trying effectively to persuade it to drink? The Library group was very effective in getting the town to make a very wise and worthwhile intellectual and cultural investment in the addition.

It was refreshing to see the Library asserted to its proper important place and role in the life of the community. It is a significant aspect of the whole life of this community, for it serves every age level of the local society, the youngsters, the adults, and the older citizens. And, with respect to the latter group, the elders here, it is probably the only public building in Winchester that holds anything for them and they are deserving of some service in the town. We know they welcome the addition as an improvement they can use.

On Other Mistakes

Three weeks ago in an editorial entitled "The Big Mistake" the Star criticized the town government's waiting until the last minute in sending out Town Meeting warrants when they were readily available for early sending.

Whether the practice had become habitual over the years as a result of administrative procrastination until deadline, or whether it was a subtle attempt developed over the years at reducing the amount of opposition to various articles by parallelwise reducing the amount of time the notices were in the hands of the people so there would be ample time for research and work on issues is an unanswered question.

We are sure, however, that that policy has been changed to the benefit of the citizens of the town.

During the Town Meeting a lot of criticism was generated over another, similar, bad aspect of the government's public relations with its citizens, who wish to and have a right to know what is happening in the local government.

Objections were raised to the fact that the elementary school building committee of the Permanent Building Committee had not presented its case for a new elementary school, and at the Tufts Road site, and on what was being planned for the school to the people of the town with sufficient advance publicity to give the townspeople time to think on and discuss the matter.

Indeed, that committee's report did not reach the hands of the Town Meeting Members themselves, who were to vote on the matter and appropriate money for final plans, until the very night that the issue was to voted on. No wonder the Town Meeting was discontent and demanded a full explanation as to the whole school building picture! No wonder the article had rough sledding. It wasn't even acted upon that night, but came near to being indefinitely postponed because the voters were not satisfied they had been sufficiently informed.

One Town Meeting Member hit the nail on the head when he said "If good sound plans are offered they can stand the test of publicity."

We are in full agreement. All too often committees keep their recommendations and plans close to their chest until they are ready to spring them at the Town Meeting. This makes for bad government, for the representatives are not afforded the time to inform themselves on the facts of the issues and neither are they afforded the chance to communicate with their precinct constituents to see what other people are thinking and want.

A corollary criticism of some town committees was leveled by the Town Moderator when he said committees should take it upon themselves to see to it that their work is done sufficiently far in advance so their reports can get to the people early and that the committees won't arrive at Town Meeting with their work incomplete—and then ask the town to incur the expense of a special Town Meeting to handle later what they should have had scheduled to be completed and treated in the regular annual Town Meeting.

These criticisms of committees failing to communicate publicity to the people early on issues is just as serious as the earlier noted government failure to mail the warrants out early, and we would hope that we have seen the end of this type of inefficiency or bad government—whichever it is in specific cases.

A Good Zoning Idea

One controversy at a Town Meeting session pointed up the town's need for some zoning changes. A doctor wished to build a parking lot at the rear of his medical building to provide parking for doctors and patients off Washington Street and thereby also easing the traffic and parking problem there. Opposition was strong because some residents didn't want the Business District extended any further into the General Residence District zone. They feared business encroachment, but did not seem to object as much to the parking lot itself. One representative suggested that the Planning Board should consider drafting a Special Exception zone for the town to take care of special cases such as this one.

In a Special Exception zone, which is widely used by other towns, specific exceptions can be made for unusual purposes in different zones. For instance, in this case a special exception could be made by the Board of Appeal to allow the construction of a parking lot in a residential zone for the use of the adjacent Business District if it so wished.

The idea is a good one, and we hope to hear more on it from the Planning Board.

The Passing Of The Physician

It isn't very often that practising physicians enter the news picture in Winchester unless they are mentioned as treating accident victims, are noted for doing research work, are appointed to hospital staff positions, or, as this week, when a death is recorded. And this week, Winchester was greatly saddened by the news of the death of one of its prominent physicians, Dr. William S. Garcelon.

Dr. Garcelon's talent as a surgeon was very highly esteemed by his professional colleagues. He was respected and loved by his patients and friends, for whom he was more than the very skillful practitioner of his medical craft, he also was "the healer" in the way in which he affected people—for he had a way of bringing out and uplifting the good and the best in those with whom he came in contact.

The fact that this fine gentleman's death has so poignantly affected this whole community—in which he had lived a relatively short eight years—is a monumental tribute to the man.

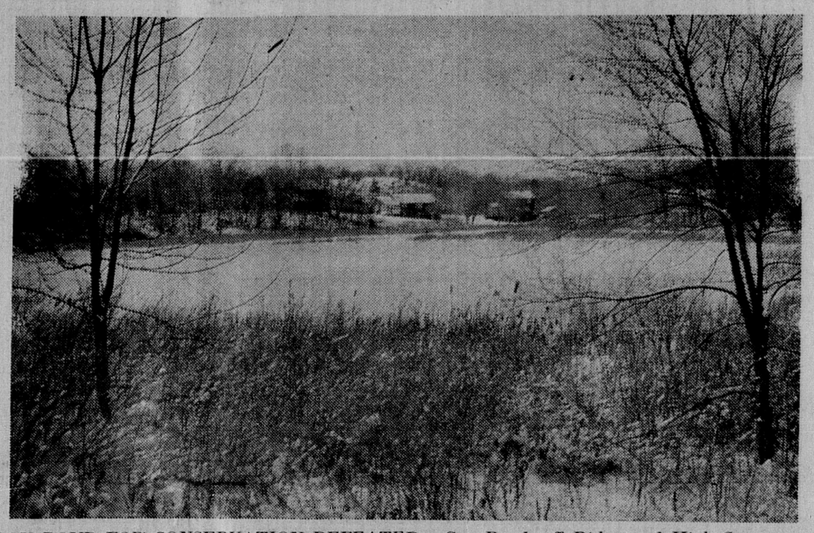
The community's tragedy is greater because it has lost this physician's talents and energies and leadership at the mid-way point in his career—at a time when he had not even reached the pinnacle of his success—at a time when his greatest services to the town had merely started.

The family's loss is therefore the town's loss too. But, the bewildering sadness across the community is not without the relieving recompense that we also were indeed fortunate to have been able to have counted him as one of us, if only for a short time. True ability, character and leadership are not easily forgotten, and the passing of the physician who added to the life of Winchester will remain in memories here for many years.

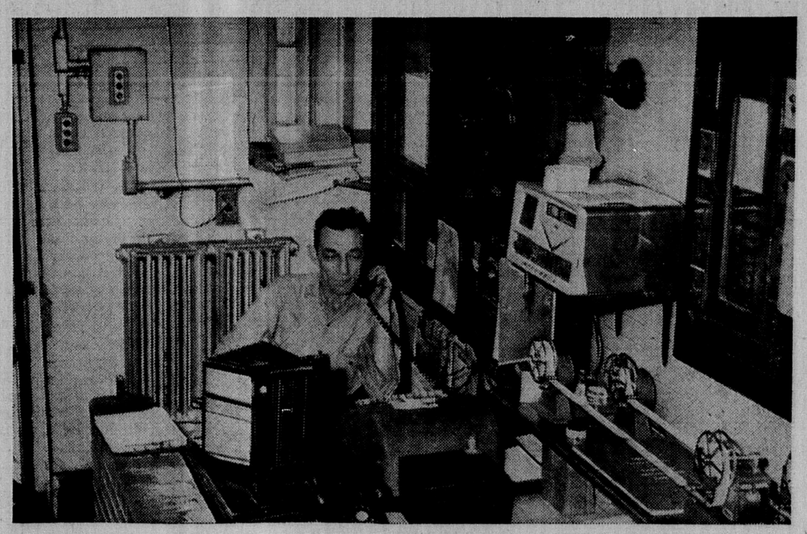
Town Meeting Photo Report

PHOTOGRAPHS BY WILLIAM T. RYERSON

SCHOOL GROUNDS CARE CONTROVERSY. Pictures taken in the late spring of 1964 show some of the unkempt conditions at the public school grounds. Transferred to the care of the Park Department a few years ago, the School Department criticized the lack of attention given the properties and noting their deterioration, asked for the return of the job to the School Department with men and equipment to start a maintenance force. The Town Meeting rejected the proposal, and directed the Park Department to assume the responsibilities with additional funds for more men and supplies.



COX POND FOR CONSERVATION DEFEATED. Cox Pond, off Ridge and High Streets, was not bought at $16,500 as the Conservation Commission requested. A later request for reconsideration was also turned down. The area is used by youngsters for skating in the winter, and is a naturally scenic spot in spring, summer and fall.



FIRE STATION ALARM SYSTEM APPROVED. The Town Meeting voted to appropriate $57,000 for a new fire alarm control system in the Central Fire Station, as well as to reconstruct the watch room, shown here, in a small, enclosed and soundproofed addition. Other Fire Station renovations will include wiring, reheating, making more storage area available, altering the rear doors to make room for the large engines to be worked on, redoing the chief's office and making a training room out of the old fire alarm system room.

NEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL SITE. The Tufts Road site for a proposed new elementary school building to alleviate crowding at Lincoln, Noonan and Washington Schools was the object of some Town Meeting controversy when representatives complained that they had not been presented the full school building program plans, and had not been given enough information proving the need for a new elementary school. $52,000 was appropriated for plans.

REAPERS OF THE DUST: A PRAIRIE CHRONICLE

by Lois Phillips Hudson

At the close of the nineteenth century Hamlin Garland contributed greatly to American history and literature when he published the volume of sketches he called Main Travelled Roads. He had portrayed with care for truth and precision of detail the life he had known on the rolling midwestern prairies of his youth; and his book properly became a classic. Now, in the mid-1960's, what may justly be regarded as a fine sequel to it has appeared.

A young woman writer of increasing reputation is its author. After having achieved considerable success with her first novel, The Bones of Plenty, Lois Phillips Hudson turned to the writing of shorter, semi-autobiographical stories. Several of these she published separately in the New Yorker, Reporter, and Atlantic. All were well received; but Miss Hudson came to view each as only one portion of a more significant collection which would, when complete, make up a modern "prairie chronicle."

As she has explained in the preface to that collection, as we now have it, "The stories of all these people and all these events constitute what I believe to be a true statement about a particular time which ought not to be forgotten."

Her major emphasis in making this "statement" is upon the hard life led by the North Dakota farmers, in particular, during the depression years of the thirties. From firsthand knowledge she describes in two stories, for example, how the natural elements, in the form of ruthless windstorms and weeks of numbing cold, heaped an additional curse upon the already afflicted prairielands. The theme of another two, "Room at the Botttom" and "Children of the Harvest," is the injustice of the social system known by the homesteaders. Her own lingering bitterness at the contemptuous nickname of "Okies" attached indiscriminately to the children of farmers-become-migrant workers, sharpens the edge of the latter.

As was the case with Garland also, however, her frequent appreciative portraits of the droll characters of midwestern America, along with her open nostalgia for the farmlands' disappearing simplicity of manners, give Miss Hudson's stories their most immediate appeal. One, entitled "The Buggy on the Roof," delightfully recalls a halloween prank of her own childhood. In still another, "The Water Witch," she tells of a figure from her childhood who, once met by the reader, will remain long impressed in his memory.

The technical skill displayed in several of the stories is almost alone reason enough for reading them. "When the Fields Are Fresh and Green" is a case in point. Beginning with seemingly disconnected recollections of a favorite doll and the comfort it afforded in days of young innocence, its movement deftly gathers in related memories of long afternoons of childhood. One dramatic prairie Christmastime during a few short hours of which the author as a child came to know the difference between dream and reality is then focused upon, the doll playing an important role in the experience. At the end resolution is achieved by the author's observations upon that earlier time from her present state of adulthood.

Miss Hudson has aimed high, finally, in this collection of stories. Not only has she implicitly sought to place her name along with others, like Garland's, whose writings are prized for the light they shed on the nation's past, even apart from their literary merit. She has also, again in her preface, added this further challenge:

> . . . if I have indeed told the truth about a particular time, I can hope that this truth will be relevant and useful in other times. Our imaginations may range far beyond the boundaries of our human condition, but our understandings can go no farther than the truths we discover in our struggles to comprehend.

She has, in other words, wished that her collection of stories might be elevated into the company of our best and lasting literature. Reapers of the Dust may well deserve such respect.

Recommended for young adults.

Medical Care For Elderly Is Important Issue

Editor of the Star:

Does anyone in our town know what the Kerr-Mills act is, or what Medicare or Eldercare would do for our poor old folks.

As far as I know, the only thing in effect today is the Kerr-Mills act, if you have to go to the hospital and have no money.

No one has put Medicare or Eldercare in good plain English if it ever comes to pass. Why do we have to go into so much talk to get our aged some kind of dignity.

For example, if you are ill and have two grown children who have families and have all they can do to support these and you have no cash you apply for old age. They by law have to go into your private life and ask your relatives for help. This hurts our old folks because in their hearts they would rather suffer on, than ask for help of their own because they know they are doing their best to live themselves. Other countries do not have this as they take care of their elderly. No strings attached.

I know our welfare is doing a good job because I asked for help for a senior citizen last week and got prompt action but why in their last days should they have to worry so. This senior citizen put off for a year what she had done last week.

This isn't a rare case, there are lots of them.

What we really need is a government Insurance plan to take care of all old people. These old folks are lonely people who need small apartments rather than attic rooms and bad living quarters.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Chase

Dog Leash Law Argued Further

Editor of hte Star:

None of the letters about a dog leash law takes into account the true seriousness of the problem. Quite apart from the question of whether children are more to be valued than dogs (most of the time, I prefer children!) there are political and economic problems involved.

The dog-at-large is in fact a symbol of anarchy and family disorganization. I suspect, too, that dogs-at-large are collectively (I use the word advisedly) a part of the communist takeover. They (the dogs) have already taken over the school playgrounds, some of the shopping districts, and certain neighborhoods including mine.

Next thing you know, they'll take over the schools and our economy. Perhaps none dare call it treason, for some of these dogs come out of respectably conservative families, but I'm beginning to wonder just how far we can trust these cunning creatures.

There is also the economic problem. A well-enforced leash law would probably cause hardship for those businesses that thrive on doggy destruction: the sellers of grass seed, topsoil, plants, bushes, and children's mittens to name but a few.

On the other hand, a leash law would cause a spurt in that sector of our economy concerned with collars, chains, ropes, and adult footwear. Perhaps adult appetites, stimulated by all those friendly walks with old Growler, would also benefit the grocery industry.

If a leash law is not possible, perhaps the Selectmen would at lease be willing to legalize a countermeasure I have in mind. The dog-at-large is frequently an unwelcome and destructive trespasser. Dog trapping, with nets or anaesthetic darts or some other humane device, may well be the answer. Each owner could buy his dog back for a standard ransom of, say, $5 with appropriate escalated charges for overtime and Sundays.

Based on recent experience with invading packs, I estimate that I could amortize the cost of nets and poles and show a tidy profit of six or seven thousand dollars the first year alone. Trouble is, I may end up with some non-returnable dogs since apparently some of their owners don't give a hoot about them anyway.

Sincerely yours,
Roebrt H. Anderson

Suggestion For Washington St. Traffic Safety

Editor of the Star:

Everyone who saw the pictures and heard the discussion regarding parking near the Medical Building on Washington Street at Town Meeting Thursday night must realize that there exists both a traffic problem and a safety problem.

The greatest safety hazard, as I see it, is when the big school buses are parked in front of St. Mary's School waiting for the children to come out. Here is a solution for that part of the problem: have the buses park on the Skillings Road. The short walk from the school to Skillings Road would be nothing for children that age, and would involve no street to cross.

My suggestion to solve the parking problem woulld be to install meters with a one hour time limit on both sides of Washington Street in an area near the Medical Building and possibly on one side of Eaton Street. This would prevent the all-day parkers from taking up the necessary space for the doctors and their patients, and would probably result in the all-day parkers leaving their cars in the municipal parking lot opposite the Town Hall.

The short walk from the town parking lot to the Medical Building should not be anything except encouragement to good health for any able bodied person. Doctors, of course, should be exempt from parking regulations as they customarily are.

If these two suggestions are carried out, the good doctor's problem would be largely solved, the greatest safety hazard would be removed, and the lame, the halt, and the pregnant would have a chance to park near their doctors' offices.

Sincerely,
Henry B. Harris

Bravos Listed On Town Affairs

Editor of the Star:

Bravo to you for printing the letters of concerned citizens of Winchester (Winchester Star, Thursday, March 25th).

Bravo to Mr. Maurice T. Freeman. What is Winchester doing even considering an apartment house of Brazilian architecture? This is an attractive New England town, and when one thinks of the millions being spent to restore towns and cities, we should stop and reconsider such plans. Also, Secretary of the Interior Udall is launching just such type of legislation to keep our country beautiful. Let us cooperate April 20th, and go and listen to what this group has to say.

Bravo to Mr. Clarence Borggaard, all forward thinking people go along with his views on Conservation, especially many garden club ladies.

Bravo to Mrs. R. C. Allison. She speaks for many of us, every word of her letter is of serious importance. Dog owners have a decided responsibility to restrain their dogs. Many surrounding towns have such a law.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Dudley Kimball

A Dog Lover Speaks Out: "If I Had a Dog"

Editor of the Star:

If I had a dog, I'd accept the responsibilities of a master over a creature that needs companionship, love and affection. That is, if I had a dog.

I'd spend as much time as possible with him. I'd walk him two or three times a day. Maybe, if he'd been a good dog, I'd put him in the car and take him to one of our beautiful parks or playgrounds and let him run around for awhile. My dog wouldn't be lonely. He wouldn't wander around town by himself, thus having the opportunity to get into mischief. That is, if I had a dog.

I'd have a pen in my back yard with enough room for him to run around. I love dogs but maybe my neighbor doesn't I wouldn't want my dog where he wasn't welcomed! That is, if I had a dog.

I wouldn't want him running around in a pack either. I realize that at times when dogs are running in packs one or two might get ugly and bite some unsuspecting child who is not wise to the ways of nature. It wouldn't be my dog; he wouldn't harm a cat, but he might be there and this would make me feel partly to blame. That is, if I had a dog.

I wouldn't worry about any leash law getting passed in Winchester. It wouldn't affect me. I'd take care of my dog. I'd accept the responsibilities of a dog owner and wouldn't impose my dog on any one else. That is, if I had a dog. I'd realize that something has to be done about the amount of dogs roaming around our town.

Winchester has approximately 2,700 children in our elementary schools. The dog officer reports that 1,550 dog licenses were issued last year, which represents a steady increase of 50 dogs per year. But even with all those dogs only 96 dog bites were reported to the dog officer. It may not be any consolation to a person who was bitten last year, but it does prove that all dogs aren't bad. Still, I wouldn't object to a leash law. It wouldn't affect me. I'd take care of my dog! That is, If I had a dog.

I'd have a clean yard too. I might not have as much grass as my neighbor, or be able to walk barefooted around the yard, but after all I think having the companionship of a dog is more important. That is, if I had a dog.

Gee, on second thought, I guess there's more responsibility than I bargained for. Maybe it would be better for all concerned if I didn't have a dog.

Sincerely,
Richard Tofuri

Dog Leash Law Felt Necessity For Local Control

Editor of the Star:

Without malice but with much forethought this letter is addressed to the people of Winchester. Although national and international crises cause deep concern these days, they do not negate the issues on the local level.

My concern is with the lack of laws controlling dogs in Winchester. This concern was deepened last week in the aftermath of a frightening experience at morning school hour. A pack of dogs on Washington Street set out after my car. The leader, a large black setter-type jumped up on the side of the car forcing me to stop. This was the alternative to veering to avoid the dog and crashing into an oncoming car.

Incidentally, my car was proceeding at about 20 miles per hour or less at the time of this attack. This was the final straw in a long list of unhappy and shaking occurences involving uncontrolled dogs. Having come here nine years ago from a community where the leash law prevailed, I have always been at odds with the lack of control here.

In a town which is considered top level in so many aspects, and rightly so, the complete disregard for the public welfare in this matter is appalling. The packs which roam are a particular menace.

To leash or not to leash is the important question whether the dogs like it or not. This is not a matter to be considered lightly or sentimentally. Dogs make wonderful pets. But is a dog, allowed to roam all over town and in packs, a pet? By definition, a pet is a "domesticated animal."

Anyone who buys or accepts a dog as a gift should realize that this dog is a responsibility and part of the family life. Are these dogs left to wander day after day pets? Do the owners really care for them as cherished pets?

We should have a leash law in town to protect our children, our drivers and ourselves. Industry is busy controlling plant waste products. Soap manufacturers are making bio-degradable detergents. Laws control human behaviour, but dogs go free. Intelligent application of restrictive laws for dogs is humane.

An efficient system could alleviate the problem without too much burden for the owner or the Police Department. 1. Leash the dog when walking. 2. Have a sensible arrangement for the dog's outdoor life at home. There are humane methods such as: portable dog pens; long wire runs; stake with attached wire run and for those who are able, a fenced-in yard. Any dog may get loose at some time and accidents do occur. However, in general, restrictive measures do keep a true pet a happy pet. An untrained, ill-mannered dog is not a pet, but a nuisance.

The pedestrian is harassed by the wandering dog; the driver, who has enough to contend with, has an added burden, and children can be endangered. For our own peace of mind, for the protection of our children, and for the thoughtful, careful driver let us put dogs in their proper place—AT HOME.

Sincerely,
Margaret M. Niewenhous

Letter of Praise For Mrs. Metcalf From Illinois

Editor of the Star:

Once again Evanston Township High School has completed another outstanding and extravagantly costumed production of "My Fair Lady" with the invaluable assistance of Mrs. R.W. Metcalf of Tracy Music Corp., and Winchester, Mass.

We thought it might be of interest to your readers that without the unstinting assistance of Mrs. Metcalf and her personal interest this type of high school production would be absolutely impossible. Rarely will one fihd it possible for a secondary school to give a musical production in which all of the 190 necessary costumes are newly and individually designed; then completed in detail from the designs. It is the type of operation usually found only on Broadway.

Mrs. Metcalf has worked with us for five years now, and each year made the productions more lavish and beautiful through her personal interest and use of nothing but the finest of materials. Her outstanding knowledge and use of color in a coordinated arrangement annually does much to enhance and produce a beautiful show. Her annual flight to the midwest to view the two opening performances also honor us and indicate that she as a professional costumer considers our work outstanding.

Fire Department Protection Noted

Editor of the Star:

In my opinion the Winchester Fire Department is deserving of the highest praise for the excellent job they did for us Monday morning.

My 3 a.m. telephone call brought them in about three minutes, they quickly put out what might have been a disastrous fire and then carefully cleaned up the premises as much as possible. My wife and I are very grateful.

Sincerely,

March 29: Final Session

Herbert Lord said "one sometimes cannot see the forest for the trees," in pointing out that one's education doesn't end with a high school degree. "You also can't have a good public school system without a good library," he added.

"Don't let future plans for school interfere with present plans to better what you already have in the library," Mr. Lord stressed. He noted he felt the schools were taking too much of the tax dollars already. "It shouldn't be over 50% to the school," he said, "and its over that now."

Otto Schaefer said one reason Winchester is the town it is is because it has heeded the good advice of the Finance Committees, but that on this issue he had to disagree with the committee. "The library is crowded," he said, "and how long will it be before the need for space doesn't become urgent?" He added that a retired school teacher had told him a library addition would be the best investment the town could make for its older people. Also, a good library facility will keep teenagers going, he though, rather than hanging around the streets.

Kendall Spencer, chairman of the Conservation Commission, noted that the addition would cost the taxpayer about $10 to $15 this year and less in succeeding years, but if delayed a few years to build the average cost to the taxpayers would rise to between $40 and $45. The cost would be less, he further pointed out, than what the average taxpayer would spend for cigarettes in a year and urged approval of the article.

Arthur Hewis warned the meeting against approving the article, saying that if it OK'd $300,000 and the bids became invalid by the expiration date if the Town Meeting didn't end that night, then it would be "the intent of the Town Meeting to go ahead," and the new addition could cost any amount.

Mrs. Penner said she thought there was "a peculiar inconsistency between the generous allowances made by the town to school needs and an apparent deafness to the library's needs. We parents, teachers and taxpayers have the power to provide a climate for children to have a love for books and learning," she said, and concluded by adding that it seemed to her that "as just good plain Yankees we can't afford to see $23,500 spent without something to show for it."

John Lyman, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the board favored the addition strongly.

Mr. Chase suddenly offered a Finance Committee amendment to the article, but noted it hoped the article and amendment would be defeated.

The amendment proposed the bond borrowing be reduced from $285,000 to $185,000, and be shortened from a 20-yr. repayment period to 10 years, with more appropriated from tax revenues this year. making a rise of $2 instead of the $1 called for in the article.

"If this is the year to do it because there is no school construction," Mr. Chase said, "then do it this year, but we advise doing it this way if you must to save approximately $61,000 in interest money."

Michael Saraco, director of the Board of Health, said he was in favor of the amendment because in looking at this year's interest charges on present town debt alone (about 79,500), the idea of saving future interest charges was a good one—especially when there will be bond borrowing for new school construction that will add substantial interest payment amounts.

"Some of the people saying wait for a Library addition are against it actually but are afraid to call a spade a spade," he said. "The town needs the addition to the Library building, so let's build it and let's build it tonight," he asserted.

Ralph Atkinson said some people cannot afford any more increases in taxes this year, and urged that Town Meeting Members vote not just for themselves, "but as your neighbors and people that elected you would want you to vote."

Robert Winn said he thought the Library trustees, staff and friends had conducted a good heavy pressure campaign to get this article passed. He noted he had received calls from persons outside his precinct to vote in favor of the article, but that in conducting a personal telephone survey, he found that out of 50 families in his precinct 38 were against the addition while only 12 were actually for it.

THE VOTE

The vote on the amendment to rearrange the financing of the project was 95 to 86 in favor. On the vote for the Library addition itself, the Town Meeting voted in heavier numbers for the regular Town Meeting article than it had on the special Town Meeting article, and tallied 127 in favor compared to 57 against—more than the two-thirds majority needed to authorize the bond borrowing for the $396,750 project.

APARTMENT HOUSE DISTRICT

Article Forty asked the town to establish an Apartment House District zone in its by-laws.

Planning Board chairman Joseph Gray said the board, which sponsored the article, recommended indefinite postponement. He noted that the Finance Committee had predicted there would be a special Town Meeting in May, and at that time the Planning Board would return with a new article on the subject.

Mr. Gray had noted at the fifth Town Meeting session on the preceeding Thursday night that the board thought the town needed apartment houses.

Arthur Hewis said he saw "no reason why all the people in all the precincts needed to remain in fear of an apartment house zone every year."

Franklin Lane, Jr., said he was against indefinite postponement because "this issue has been avoided all too long." He said he was sure it would be postponed, especially since the Planning Board said it would return with another article for one, but added the town needed apartments, and it needed a zone that would protect the town against any poor types while at the same time not restricting developers to the point of discouraging them from building here.

The meeting voted to indefinitely postpone the article.

APARTMENT HOUSE AREAS

Articles Forty One and Forty Two asked the town to zone the Beggs site and land by Wedge Pond opposite Wildwood Cemetery into Apartment House Districts if the zone were created under Article Forty. Both articles were moved to indefinite postponement, as was Article Forty Three, asking authorization for the Selectmen to sell the aforesaid land by Wedge Pond for an apartment house.

Kendall Spencer announced to the meeting that the Conservation Commission hopes to acquire the land by Wedge Pond for conservation purposes rather than let it be sold for an apartment house.

PARK LAND SALE

Article Forty Four asked the town to authorize the Selectmen to petition the Legislature for permission to sell Park Department land near the center of town on Shore Road to Dr. Charles Mahoney as a site for a professional building.

Some confusion arose as to the location of the land in question, hindering discussion on it, but a projected map on the stage screen clarified the discussion.

Mr. Lyman said the Selectmen were only "indirectly" interested in the article, but that the Park Department and Planning Board were in favor of it.

Park Commissioner Gordon Peckham said the Park Department had no use for the land and it would better serve the town if it were developed and put on the tax rolls of the town.

Eugene Rotondi opposed the article, saying he hated to see town land go, and that maybe the town would wart to use this as a parking lot area at a later time.

Arthur Pratt asked whether plans were included for off-street parking for the building so parking and traffic problems such as developed at the Washington Street medical building wouldn't occur here.

John Horn said cars already congest that area of Shore Road.

Vincent Carroll proposed indefinite postponement of the article, but that motion was defeated by a vote.

The Town Meeting voted to petition the Legislature for the sale of the Park land. Any sale of the land must come before the Town Meeting again.

SWIMMING POOLS

Article Forty Five asked the town to amend the building laws to provide for the construction of swimming pools.

Mr. Lane of the Building Laws Revision Committee said the purpose of the article was to protect the town, the public, and the owner and builder of any swimming pool from overzealous penny-pinching.

A few minor amendments were offered to the article's technical engineering, and the article was passed by the meeting.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Articles Forty Six, Forty Seven, Forty Nine and Fifty, Fifty One, Fifty Two, Fifty Three, Fifty Four, Fifty Five and Fifty Six all dealt with committee reports and were all either accepted and filed or moved to indefinite postponement.

The Transportation Committee was discharged upon the recommendation of its chairman, Sherman Saltmarsh, Jr., because the creation of the MBTA district (at a cost of 13 cents on the local tax rate this year) fulfilled the committee's main function on studying what courses the town should take if commuter rail and bus service were permanently discontinued.

Richard Freeman, chairman of the Recreation Committee, said the limited recreation program conducted by the committee with its appropriation allowance and facilities available was "an unqualified success." He noted there was a lack of adequate recreational space, personnel and facilities in Winchester. The time is rapidly approaching when Winchester will need more in terms of recreational facilities the committee implied, and noted that there would be a public hearing before the end of the school year to present the committee's recommendations for "a new concept in recreation for Winchester."

After voting to transfer $65,500 from available funds of the Excess and Deficiency Account to reduce the amount needed to be raised from taxation, the annual Town Meeting concluded its business at 10:45 p.m. and dissolved.

IN ABSENTIA

Skid Into A Truck

A BAD ONE. There were many skids in town during Monday's snowstorm. Some had lucky endings; this one did not. Mrs. Frances T. Lawrance of 150 Highland Avenue, with passengers Jonathan, 10, and Wendy, 9, was proceeding north on Washington Street at 4:45 p.m. when her car went out of control, skidded across the road and into an oncoming truck owned by Walpole Trucking Co. Her children were released with minor injuries but Mrs. Lawrance, a well-known soprano and soloist at the Arlington Street Church in Boston, will be in the Winchester Hospital for some time with broken legs, knee caps and a broken arm. She was to have sung here on Sunday at the special musical Lenten vespers in the Unitarian Church.

At five minutes to one o'clock the same day, a second accident was reported at Canal and Main Streets. Police Officer Donald Pigott, John Hennelly and Alfred Poole were sent to the area. On their arrival they were told that a man and his young daughter, age seven, had been taken to the Winchester Hospital by a passing motorist.

The operator of a Ford station wagon from Stoneham was reported going north on Main Street and was stopped in a line of traffic at Canal Street. The vehicle was reported as having been in collision with a Chevrolet station wagon proceeding in the same direction. The local operator and his daughter, who had sustained a cut on the face, were transported to the hospital by Mrs. Angelo of Woburn.

Another accident occurred on Monday at 4:45 p.m., apparently as a result of the very slippery driving conditions due to the heavy storm that day.

Going north on Washington Street and just past the entrance to the Winn Factory was Mrs. Frances Lawrance, wife of Richard Lawrance of 150 Highland Avenue, and two of her three children.

Mrs. Lawrance was driving a 1961 Chevrolet station wagon north when her car went out of control, crossing the street. She was in collision there with a truck owned by the Walpole Trucking Company and operated by Louis A. Santomarso of Walpole.

Mrs. Lawrance's car collided with the gas tank of the truck, behind its cab, with such force that its entire front end was demolished and the windshield broken.

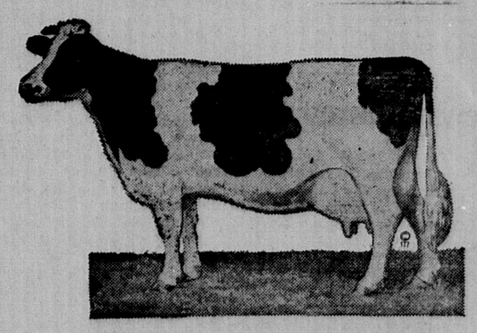
Police Officers Al Poole, Donald Pigott and Bill Nash reported to the scene along with the department ambulance and the rescue truck of the Fire Department.

Mrs. Lawrance, who was pinned inside her vehicle and disabled with injuries, was given first-aid treatment at the scene and transported to the hospital along with her children. Dr. McCarthy treated Wendy, 10, for a cut on the mouth, and Jonathan, 9, for injuries to his left arm and chin and released them.

Mrs. Lawrance was found to have broken her legs, knee caps and arm and will be in the hospital for some time.

She is a well-known soprano soloist and active in concert work throughout the Greater Boston area. Familiar to many here for her frequent appearances with the Unitarian Choir, she is a regular soloist at the Arlington Street Church in Boston.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE IN MILK



Some people believe that just because milk is white and comes from cows, it's all the same. "The state has certain standards of quality, so how could there be a difference?

Here's the catch: The state has only minimum standards of quality. At the present time many dairies sell milk with standards considerably higher than required by law.

Dairy Barn's homogenized milk has more food energy and more vitamin A than milk which just meets state minimum requirements. Also, it gives about 50% more food energy than skimmed milk on non-fat dry milk.

Dairy Barn's standards of purity are many times more rigid than the state law requires. So when you buy cream as well as milk, why not buy the best. Shop from your car and buy Dairy Barn quality.

We Left Out

Last week's issue of the Winchester Star contained a front-page political advertisement entitled "Needed: A Sound Apartment House Policy for Winchester" followed by a list of ten names. Inadvertently omitted from the top of that list was the name of Maurice T. Freeman of 11 Lorena Road, who was one of the prime initiators of a petition signed by about 450 persons asking the Selectmen to call a special Town Meeting relative to specific 40-foot-height or three-habitable-stories limitations for apartment houses being amended to the town's zoning and building by-laws.

The Planning Board will hold a public hearing on the articles on Thursday, April 8, at 8 p.m. in the East Room of the Town Hall.

Epiphany YPF Suggests Clean-up For Paper Drive

The Senior Young People's Fellowship of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church Street, is having a paper and rags collection on Saturday, April 3rd.

The collection truck will be parked in the church driveway and paper and bundles of rags may be brought there or a phone call to Ted Jope (729-2152), Carla Hutzenlaub (729-3297) or David Pratt III (729-0652) will bring pick-up service.

They request that papers be tied in bundles and rags of all kinds must be in bags or bundles. Clear out closets, attics and cellars and assist the Young People's Fellowship too. Just let them know.

Choral Concert At Epiphany

This Sunday, April 4th at 7:30 p.m. the senior choir of the Church of the Epiphany will present a concert of sacred music.

Featured will be Schubert's "Mass in G." In addition, the choir will sing four Lenten motets by Lassus, Gesualdo, Verdi and Brahms. The choir will be augmented by a number of professional singers from the Greater Boston area and Allan Birney will be the organist and director for the concert.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Flowers That Bloom In The Spring

TABLE HOPPING was part of the afternoon for Mrs. John A. Volpe, wife of the Governor, rear right, and Mrs. Don S. Greer, president of the Winchester Women's Republican Club and social secretary to Mrs. Volpe, rear left, on last Wednesday afternoon. The occasion, at which the ladies' hats outbloomed the nursery back-ground, was the spring garden card party held for the club.

Mrs. Volpe Adds Charm to Party

"A Spring Garden" it was as over 200 members of the Winchester Women's Republican Club and their friends gathered together for the colorful and different card party held in the lovely garden atmosphere of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery Greenhouse.

The ladies' hats were in perfect harmony with the profusion of bloom around them. The affair was further enhanced by the appearance of the First Lady of the Commonwealth, Mrs. John A. Volpe, accompanied by her social secretary, Mrs. Don S. Greer, who is also the president of the Winchester Club.

After being presented with a corsage by Mrs. Harry E. Haff, Jr., chairman for the affair, Mrs. Volpe delighted the women present by going to each table and visiting with each one.

The dainty and beautifully decorated dessert was home-baked and individually styled in colorful flowers by Mrs. Herman Erikson, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Donaghey. Tea and coffee were prepared by Mrs. Victor Soucek and served by Mrs. Gardy Yagjian, Mrs. Frederick Cardin, Mrs. Nelson Bell, Mrs. William A. Wilde, Jr., Mrs. Arnold M. Gibson, and Mrs. Harry L. Emmons.

There was a drawing for eight attractive door prizes. (which included a China cup and saucer, a Corningware teapot, a lady's blouse, a fancy waste basket, fancy dish, bridge accessories, cologne and dusting powder). A special prize of a sterling silver picture frame with Governor Volpe's autographed picture, was won by Mrs. Edward A. Bradford. A potted plant was the table prize for each of the 50 tables. The ladies then enjoyed a two-hour session of cards of their choice.

St. Mary's Parish Dance

Mrs. John W. Campbell and Mrs. Edward M. Sandford are co-chairmen of St. Mary's Parish Dinner Dance sponsored by St. Mary's Mothers' Club and Mr. and Mrs. Club. This gala spring social event will be held on Saturday, April 24, at the Hillview Country Club, North Reading. In this gracious atmosphere members and friends will enjoy a social hour at 7 and dinner at 8 with dancing until midnight.

Do you hear a waltz, hully gully, frug, or samba? You will find the melodious answer as you dance to music by The Meltones.

You are cordially invited and tickets are available through April 14. If you have any questions concerning tickets call Mrs. Campbell at 729-3440.

Merit Badges for Personal Fitness, Citizenship in the Community and in the Nation to Scott Jeffery. An entertainment period followed with a movie on Wildlife.

A swim night took place last Friday.

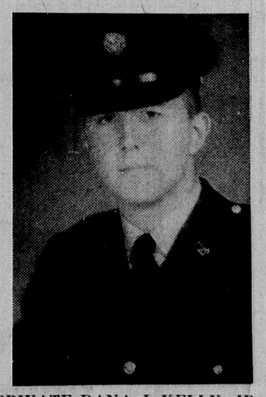
Driveway Repair Racket Warning

Police Chief Joseph Derro has urged the people of Winchester to be wary against solicitors who agree to seal black top driveways.

In many cases, Chief Derro said, when the householder found that inferior material was used, the contractor could not be located.

Recently officers of the Police Department questioned several of these solicitors and found that one of them had moved to Massachusetts only the previous week.

The Chief warned townspeople to contact the desk officer at the Police Station before they sign any contract of this nature for information about the reliability of any contractor.



PRIVATE DANA J. KELLY, JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly of 21 Mystic Avenue, has been assigned to M Company of the 4th Training Regiment in Fort Dix for basic training, the initial part of his six months of duty. Private Kelly is a graduate of WHS and of Dartmouth College.

Denison Singers To Guest Here

Miss Margaret Padelford, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Norman J. Padelford of 6 Ravenscroft Road is one of the Denison Singers giving a concert in Recital Hall of the New England Conservatory of Music, Thursday, April 8 at 8:15 p.m.

Madrigals and other 16th and 17th century music are sung by this mixed group of 14 voices on its annual tour from Denison University, Granville, Ohio. New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston and Rochester are included in the tour.

The Singers will be guests in Winchester on Wednesday and Thursday nights in the homes of parents of Denison students: Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Hood, Jr., 9 Oxford Street; Mr. and Mrs. W. Campbell Ross, 11 Madison Avenue; Dr. and Mrs. Laurence D. Trevett, 7 Woodside Road; Professor and Mrs. Padelford. Other hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Ross, 6 Plymouth Road; Mrs. W. E. Underwood, 9 Ravenscroft Road.

Tickets for the concert will be available at the door and the public is invited. Miss Padelford, a 1961 graduate of the WHS, is with the Singers for the second year and will graduate from Denison in June.

Cost of Service
• TODAY, as any economist will tell you, the greatest factor in the rising cost of living is the "cost of service." Americans have become more demanding and fulfillment of their needs has given birth to whole new industries. But at our funeral home a tradition of excellence in service has always existed. This has prevented any steep increase in our "cost of service."

Borden, Harbaugh Receive Harvard Business Degrees

Neil H. Borden, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil H. Borden of 150 Highland Avenue, and Norman R. Harbaugh of 15 Cardinal Street, have received the degree of doctor in business administration from the Harvard University of Graduate School of Business Administration.

Mr. Borden was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Bates College in 1953 and received his master in business administration from Harvard in 1957. His doctoral thesis was entitled: "The Introduction of New Products to Supermarkets." Mr. Borden is now an assistant professor of business administration at the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Virginia. He and his wife, Beverly, have three daughters and make their home in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Mr. Harbaugh, son of Mrs. B. C. Harbaugh of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, wrote his thesis on "Evaluation of the Impact of an Executive Development Program on United States Military Personnel." He was graduated with a bachelor of science degree from Columbia University in 1950, received the master of arts degree in 1951 from Stanford University, and in 1955 received the master in business administration from the Harvard Business School. At the present time, Mr. Harbaugh is a Commander in the United States Navy stationed at Great Lakes, Illinois, where he is director of Financial Control, Navy Electronics Supply Office. He and his wife, Sally, have a six-year-old son.

Children's Hour Players April 10

Tickets for the live dramatization of Flibberty Gibbet, a story by Charlotte Shorepenny, are now available from Mrs. Henry D. Twitchell, 4 Hawthorne Road.

The play, especially for children from 5 to 12 years of age, will be presented by Allen Savage and his Children's Hour Players in the Lexington High School on Saturday, April 10 at 1:30 p.m., sponsored by the American Association of University Women Fellowships Program.

Flibberty Gibbet is a delightful creature full of magic whose only purpose on earth is to be useful and to be happy. Children will be fascinated with the adventures he has in going about trying to be useful and to make others happy.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Another old theory is in danger. Recent court decisions may force property owners in some states to pay liability claims even when they are NOT "negligent!" This is a revolutionary departure from standard decisions based on "negligence."

A national insurance newspaper reports, for example, this story from California: Late one night, after a country club along the coast had closed down, a couple in their mid-thirties came along and went swimming in the club pool. After a while they noticed a sign that read: "This way to the beach." They climbed out of the pool and ambled down the path. They came to a gate that was locked. It had a sign saying: "Do Not Proceed Further." But they didn't read it. Instead, they climbed the gate—and fell about 20 feet onto the rocks and shrubs below.

Unfortunately, the woman, a professional dancer, suffered tragic injuries — she became a permanent paraplegic. The man's injuries were serious too.

With the country club closed, and a warning sign in evidence, the normal expectation would be that the couple "assumed" any risks from their actions. Instead, the court awarded them SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS in damages.

You obviously NEED liability insurance protection! How about talking it over with us?

Pre-Metropolitan Opera Study Group Meetings

The last two Opera Study Groups of Winchester meetings will be on April 7 and April 14 at 7:45 p.m. Operas being offered in Boston by the Metropolitan Opera Company between April 19-25 will be discussed.

On April 7, the group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seferian, 335 Highland Avenue, for an exchange of information on Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and "Turandot." Mr. and Mrs. Woodford Wilcox, at 29 Calumet Road, will host the final meeting on April 14.

Menotti's "The Last Savage," Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman," and "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens will be discussed. "Rigoletto," "Othello," and "Aida," by Guiseppe Verdi have been covered in a previous meeting.

The growing interest in opera in Winchester is reflected in the increased attendance at the Study Groups where informality encourages the participation of everyone in discussions.

With the cooperation of the Winchester Library and the generosity of individuals who own materials of interest, references available are numerous and varied.

Sponsored jointly by the College Club and the Opera Guild of Winchester, the group welcomes new members and guests who are invited to call the hostesses for more information.

Dubois Excerpts For Unitarians

The Lenten series of pre-service music continues this Sunday, April 4, with music of Theodore Dubois. Mary Ranton Witham will play the Downs Memorial Carillon at 10:30 and will then conduct the choir and soloists in the following music from Dubois' "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Prologue
(Estelle McNeely, soprano)
Third Word
(Sidney C. Blanchrd, Jr., Estelle McNeely, William Jeffery and chorus)
Fourth Word
(Sidney Blanchard, baritone)
Sixth Word (William Jeffery, tenor and chorus)

The morning service will have as its first anthem the final chorale from the Seven Last Words. The second anthem will be the Second Word, sung by Mr. Jeffery, Mr. Blanchard, and the choir. Dubois' "Marche Triomphale" will be the postlude.

American Mutual Elects Jordan

Richard O. Jordan of 47 Jefferson Road was elected an assistant vice president of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., at the annual meeting last week in Wakefield.

Mr. Jordan is manager of the company's statistical division. He has been with American Mutual since 1946 and is a graduate of Bowdoin College with a B. S. degree.

In community affairs he has taken part in United Fund drives, and the Winchester Hospital Building Fund campaign, and he was a worker in Bowdoin College's recent $10,000,000 campaign fund drive.

Noel Day Speaks On Hub Ed'cation; Ford Hall Forum

Focus of discussions at Ford Hall Forum turns this week to the problems of public school education in Boston, with guest speaker Noel A. Day, addressing the Sunday, April 4, gathering at Jordan Hall at 8 p.m. on the topic "Education for All Boston's Children."

A vigorous and articulate fighter in the area of civil and human rights, Noel A. Day, as co-chairman of the Massachusetts Freedom Movement, has been in the forefront of the campaign to upgrade facilities, curriculum and equipment in public schools in Boston's disadvantaged sectors. He is working closely with city officials, representatives of action for Boston Community Development, and leaders of private and public agencies concerned with child welfare to insure equal educational opportunities for the culturally deprived.

Mr. Day, a graduate of Dartmouth College, is at present executive director of St. Mark Social Center in Roxbury. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in the 1964 election, but used his candidacy as a platform to stimulate public interest in vital problems relating to minority-group problems in the core city.

Mr. Day will answer questions from the audience. Doors open at 7:45 p.m. and the public is invited.

Mrs. Michelsen Speaks to Aux. of Medical Soc.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Middlesex East District Medical Society held its March meeting and luncheon last Thursday at the Colonial Country Club in Lynnfield.

Mrs. Charles Rooney, of 111 Highland Avenue president of the Auxiliary, introduced the guest of honor, Mrs. Jost Michelsen of Boston, who is the State Auxiliary president and wife of a former resident. Mrs. Michelsen was warmly received by the large group of doctor's wives attending.

Speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Ever Curtis, a practising physician from Gloucester. Dr. Curtis gave a very enlightening and informative talk on Eldercare.

Following Dr. Curtis' talk, a silent auction was held under the direction of Mrs. John Meskunas. The auction will benefit the American Medical Association Education and Research Foundation which assists medical students and medical schools throughout the country to help meet the problems of the ever rising cost in medical education, which is so necessary to maintain our nation's excellent standards of medicine.

The Auxiliary will hold its annual meeting on May 13 at Gore Place in Waltham.

Return of The Rev. Sedgwick

Next Wednesday evening, April 7th, at popular request, the Reverend Harold Bend Sedgwick of the staff of St. Paul's Cathedral will again give one of his outstanding book reviews, in Hadley Hall, Parish of the Epiphany. All men and women are invited; dessert and coffee will be served at 8 and the program will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The book to be reviewed will be Louis Auchincloss' "The Rector of Justin," a best-seller, a church book, controversial and powerful, about a boys' school (not unlike Groton) and its headmaster.

To any of you who have heard Mr. Sedgwick give a book review, this invitation will be most welcome, he has a delightful personality and we feel especially honored to have him at Epiphany during the Lenten season.

Flowers For Philanthropy At Rocky Ledge

A flowery pre-Easter Plant Sale at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm & Nurseries, Cambridge Street, is planned by EnKa Society for Tuesday, April 13th, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Traditional lilies, daffodils, tulips, geraniums, rose bushes and many other sweet-smelling items will be offered.

A goodly percentage of the price paid on all plants, flowers and even vegetables (in fact, everything sold at Mahoney's that day) will go to EnKa for their many charities around Winchester...this sale is the kick-off event of the 1965 EnKa Street Fair in May. So please circle April 13th on your calendar. Help EnKa help Winchester. Drop by and buy.

Episcopal Women Invite Others To Quiet Day

On Tuesday, April 13th, during Holy Week, the Women of Epiphany will again enjoy the privileges of a Quiet Day at St. Anne's Convent in Arlington Heights.

Cars will leave in front of the church promptly at 9:30 a.m. for the short drive. Communion service and the meditations led by one of the sisters will begin at 10 a.m. Between meditations there will be an opportunity for strolling through the old world gardens, visiting the guest house or remaining in the chapel for prayer and quiet thought.

A noonday meal will be served in the refectory of the school, and a final meditation will conclude at 1:45 p.m. Epiphany women, friends and neighbors are warmly invited. Those who have been before would not miss this appropriate Lenten opportunity; those to whom it is new will come away refreshed and renewed. Please call Mrs. Edmund Wright at 729-2372 if you wish to join the group on April 13th.

Enlist Now; Pick Service

Sgt. Fred T. Nixon of the Medford Army Recruiting Station has received many inquiries from young men who have received their notice to report for pre-induction examinations or induction into the Armed Forces much sooner than they had anticipated. The men wanted to know if they could enlist rather than be inducted.

Sgt. Nixon explains, "If a man has his pre-induction notice, I can help him, but if it is the final induction notice, I can't. This is the hard part of my job.

He went on to say that once a man receives his induction notice, he is no longer eligible to enlist in any branch of military service. A number of men in the past have checked into the Army's Guaranteed Assignment program, but have waited two or three months to enlist and have received their induction notice in the meantime. They are no longer eligible for enlistment and enter the military service without any choice of assignment or future.

Sgt. Nixon pointed out that he has continually encouraged applicants to determine their qualifications, reserve an assignment of their choice, and schedule their enlistment well in advance of their probable induction call.

All young men, especially those between the ages of 19 and 23 are urged to contact Sgt. Nixon at his office located at 49 High Street, Medford or call EX 6-5777, "before it's too late."

What Red Cross Can Mean to You

BLOOD for a family member because you gave a pint through the Massachusetts Regional Blood Program within the past year—

SATISFACTION as a volunteer in working with servicemen or veterans at Chelsea Naval or Bedford V.A. Hospitals—

REASSURANCE acquired in a First Aid course in knowing what to do in an emergency before the doctor comes—

TRANSPORTATION to a hospital or clinic by a friendly Red Cross driver—

RAPID COMMUNICATION to a son or husband in the service through the efforts of a local volunteer working with the Red Cross Field Director at a military installation—

PLEASURE in filling a Friendship box to be sent to a boy or girl in a disaster area — or making holiday favors for the enjoyment of veterans at the Bedford V. A. Hospital—

These are some of the things that Red Cross can mean to you. Why not find out from your local Red Cross how you can help and be helped. Visit your Red Cross Chapter at 84 Washington Street, between the Public Library and the Town Hall.

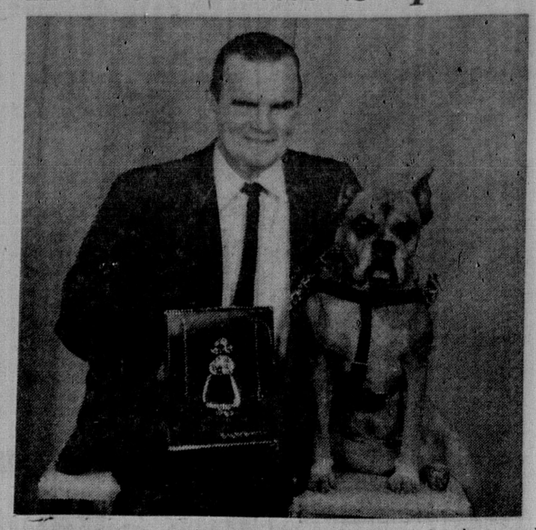
A Worthwhile Stopover



DISPLAYING AN ETCHING which he has drawn by the scratch art method is Merrill Maynard, whose wife again this year will lead the Sale for the Blind at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church next Tuesday, April 6. Guarding Mr. Maynard is Fawn, his seeing-eye boxer dog. (Both of the Maynards are totally blind.) These amazingly lovely etchings alone are worth a stop at the sale next Tuesday, where you will also find items of very practical use.

Circle 3 Group

The Women of Epiphany in Circle 3 - Study Group will have their monthly meeting next Thursday, April 8th at the home of Mrs. Robert Nyere, 19 Arlington Street.

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. followed by a business meeting. Mrs. John Chapman will then review part two of the book "Death of a Myth" by Dr. Kyle Haselden. Discussion will follow.

Members are requested to bring with them a box of good used clothing or household articles for "The Gardiner Thrift Shop" at 383 Shawmut Avenue, Boston. If transportation is needed, please call Mrs. John Chapman (646-8242) or Mrs. Andrew Jenike (729-7020).

Attention Young Women!

As a high school graduate, there are challenging jobs awaiting you in a woman's world of exciting jobs, jobs where your abilities and potential will be challenged, jobs that are interesting and educational, jobs that lift you out of the ordinary! A young woman will find many areas of work from which to choose in the United States Army Women's Army Corps.

What kind of work will you do? Well, that's largely up to you. You may select the type of work you want to do before you enlist, and you'll be guaranteed of getting it.

If you're good enough to get in, a proud future can be yours in one of the Army's specialized fields such as automatic data processing, the medical or dental field, administration, financial, communications, transportation, and many other specialized fields.

A visit to your local Army recruiter, Sgt. Fred T. Nixon, located at 49 High Street, Medford, or call EX 6-5777 will answer the questions you may have about choosing the right job in the Women's Army Corps.

Minority Problems; The Chamber Of Commerce Speaks Out For Business

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce has focused attention on the need to improve educational opportunity for segregated minorities in the city of Boston.

Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., of 6 Everett Avenue, president of H. P. Hood and Sons, Inc. and president of the Greater Boston Chamber, has issued the following statement on the effects of racial imbalance in a community from the view point of businessmen:

"The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce believes substantial racial concentrations in the Boston Public School System presents a serious educational problem and that steps should be taken to correct the present educational situation.

"The Chamber, which has been deeply involved in the promotion of equal employment opportunity, becomes increasingly convinced that culturally and economically disadvantaged minorities are not receiving an education which will enable them to meet the job requirements of an increasingly technological society. Improved educational opportunity is the only way to offer segregated minorities the chance to become productive members of a community which has increasingly little use for unskilled and uneducated labor.

"We have given serious consideration to the array of impressive evidence presented by the final report of the Massachusetts State Advisory Committtee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights on "Racial Imbalance in the Boston Public Schools" and the interim report of the Massachusetts State Board of Education's Advisory Committee on Racial Imbalance and Education. Members of our board of directors have in fact served for many months on the so-called 'Kiernan Committee.' (Ed. note: also served by Dr. Asa Knowles, Thomas Hennessy and Dr. Franklin Patterson here). We believe that the testimony, facts and conclusions of these study groups on the adverse effects of racial imbalance on the provision of sound educational opportunity deserve the close attention of the entire community and particularly responsible school officials.

"We do not mean to imply that the Boston School Committee has ignored completely the problem of minority groups. It has introduced special curricula for disadvantaged children and adopted an open enrollment policy. But, these actions obviously represent only a partial solution to a problem of this dimension.

"It is our understanding that the final report of the "Kiernan Committee" will be presented in the very near future. Their recommendations on the development of plans, programs, policies and procedures to provide racial balancing and greater educational opportunity should be greeted as a constructive effort.

"Boston is truly a multi-racial community and we must begin to deal effectively with problems arising from our social and economic structure. Population reports clearly show that in the 1950-1960 decade Boston's non-white population increased 60.2% (42,744-68,493) while the city's white population decreased 17% (758,700 - 628,704). Present trends indicate that there will be about 100,000 non-whites in Boston by 1970 or approximately 15-20% of the projected city total.

"These population statistics mean quite simply that any short-comings or inequalities that exist today in the education of minorities will be seriously compounded within the next few years unless corrective action is taken.

"Looking at the racial composition of our schools, we note that approximately 21,000 non-whites are enrolled in the public school system which has a total pupil enrollment of 91,800. Of the 21,000 non-white students, some 15,000 are enrolled in elementary schools with the remainder evenly divided into the junior high and high schools. Boston's problems with racial imbalance obviously rest primarily with the elementary schools. Imbalance at these grade levels exists to the point that approximately 50% of all Negro children in the school system are enrolled in districts where 19 out of 20 pupils are Negro.

"We are convinced that the community has an enormous stake in seeing that the harmful effects of racial imbalance are overcome and the total educational environment for culturally and disadvantaged children improve.

"As businessmen, we have looked closely at the high price the community pays for failure to provide greater social, educational and economic opportunity for minority groups. There is definitely no economic sense in allowing the present situation to continue."

Unitarian Players Prepare British Character Play

A potent antidote to mediocre television and movies will be offered on April 9 and 10 by the Unitarian Players in the Church Parish Hall.

Five Finger Exercise, first produced in Great Britain, points up the problems of two very different people in marriage and how their lack of communications and rapport affects their children. Playgoers will see both sides of the story in this sometimes bitter and harsh character portraiture, relieved by the bright, character of the seemingly unaffected daughter.

Duplicate Bridge Benefits Boys

Little Leaguers and Boy Scouts will be the dual recipients of the proceeds of the annual local charity bridge game of the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club to be held next Wednesday, April 7, at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Each year the American Contract Bridge League sanctions a charity bridge game for the American Contract Bridge League Charity Foundation, and consequently the local bridge club also receives a sanction to have a bridge game for a charity of its own choice.

Duplicate Bridge! These two words, coupled with extra master points granted for a charity bridge game, bring to some people a feeling of another challenge to be met. To some duplicate bridge conjures up — who knows what?

The local charity bridge game serves two purposes. Our local groups benefit from the proceeds and people have a chance to be introduced to duplicate bridge. To play is an experience you'll never forget. The gamut of emotions will run from: "I do believe in this charity," "What am I doing here?" "So this is what it's all aobut," "How did they make three no-trump?" including the joy of outfoxing the opposition and making the hand. The bug fortunately doesn't bite all, but those sweet moments of clear reason and clobbering the opposition are forever memorable.

So, if you can't say, "Why, sure, I've played duplicate," Wednesday, April 7, is the night for you to try your hand. There will be door prizes to add more zest to the evening, including an electric can opener and knife sharpener that Al LaPointe, president of Winchester Little League, thought would be nice (magnificent) for a door prize and a warming tray donated by George Whitten, chairman of the committee of our own Troop 503.

The friends you have that play duplicate will assuage all fears, the bridge columns in the newspapers will be as clear as a bell and you will have the promise of an evening of benefiting Winchester boys and really discovering the game.

The committee for the event is as follows: Mrs. Lloyd G. Butterfield, chairman; Mrs. Ralph M. Atkinson, tickets; Mrs. Arthur L. Murray, refreshments, and Mrs. Ray Jackson, publicity. Coffee will be served at 7:30, bridge will start at 7:45.

For tickets or encouragement call Mrs. Lloyd G. Butterfield, 729-3705.

Easter Seal Needs Boost

Charles W. Butler, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company and area treasurer for the 1965 Easter Seal campaign for crippled children and adults, today urged residents in the Winchester area who have not contributed to the appeal to do so now to meet the local goal of $1,200. First returns to the drive were reported at $778.

"There still is time for friends of the physically handicapped to send their gifts," he said, "but it is important that we meet our goal as soon as possible to ensure that Easter Seal rehabilitation services for these people not only are maintained but also expanded."

Catholic Women's Area Conference

The last in a series of seasonal area conferences sponsored by the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic O'Neill is pastor of St. Charles Borromeo Parish Woburn, Saturday, April 3, from 11:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Heading the committee for this Northern Area conference is Mrs. John J. McDonald, president of the Woburn Deanery, and of the host parish. The conference will officially begin at 12 noon, with Mass at the church of St. Charles Borromeo, Main Street, Woburn. Right Reverend Joseph P. Donelan, Archdiocesan moderator will be celebrant. Right Reverend Christopher O'Neill is pastor fo St. Charles Parish church.

The St. Charles Upper Auditorium will be the scene of the general session at 2 p.m. when attention will be focused on acquainting those present with the menace of indecent and obscene literature and how effective organizations are working to combat this evil in their approach of the problem. The subject will be demonstrated in a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Edna McGlynn, historian of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women and will include representative speakers, who are working on this Eradication of Smut.

Conlon At Aviation School

Marine Desmond Andrew Conlon, who came to live in Winchester in 1962 from County Sligo, Ireland, was graduated last month from the Marine Depot, Parris Island, S. C., after completing basic training.

MARINE DESMOND A. CONLON

He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Keaney of 2 Elmwood Avenue, with whom he makes his home, also of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Conlon of Woburn and Mr. and Mrs. John Cassidy of Dorchester.

He left here recently to attend Aviation School in Jacksonville, Florida.

WHEN YOU BUY ON PRICE ALONE . . .
CAN YOU EVER BE SURE ?

- It's unwise to pay too much. . .
- But it's worse to pay too little!
- If you pay too much, all you lose is a little money
- But if you pay too little, you may lose everything because the thing you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do!

The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot. In other words, you never get something for nothing!

If you buy on price alone, it is wise to add something for the risk you run, and if you do that, you have enough to BUY QUALITY!

Keep this in mind when you shop for broadloom or Oriental rugs. Remember,

Wizard of Oz Enchants Here

The children of Winchester were given a special treat Saturday March 27 when the Community School Association brought the Riverview Production musical, The Wizard of Oz, to the High School auditorium. This was a sparkling new edition of the family favorite but the main characters were old friends and easily recognized.

Dorothy was a delight sweeping the children along into the story with her singing and dancing. Her best friend, Toto, was just like a real dog and barked in all the appropriate places. The actions of their three new friends along the "yellow brick road" were most entertaining and their costuming was perfect. The children reacted with glee to the ridiculous floppy dance of the Strawman, the stiff awkward movements of the Tinman, and the lovable Lion who sat down and cried when Toto bit his tail.

One could tell that the witch was an old pro at witching. This was a new witch with an itch to bake. She sang and cavorted with her cohorts in witchery glee concocting casseroles in her kitchen. The wizard, behind his magnificent bravado, was really sincere and did his best to make good his promises in the end.

The production was updated with both musical effects and staging. The songs were brand new, but most reminiscent of our old favorites. "Toadstool Land" was very appealing done by small children for their counterparts in the audience. "Waiting for a Wish" carried us through the play as the theme, and the songs of the Strawman, Tinman, and Lion were clear and convincing. The orchestra with its special sound effects added excitement in all the right places.

The scenery was kept simple but effective from the opening farm yard scene in Topeka, Kansas to the finale where the ruby slippers were alone in the center of the stage. A "real rocket" was Dorothy's mode of transportation to the Land of Oz. The soldiers guarding the rocket at the missile base kept the small boys in the audience at strict attention. The Emerald City gatekeepers were very clever in building up one's expectations for the introduction to the Wizard.

Many thanks to the efforts of the theater committee of the Community School Association for bringing this year's musical to the Winchester stage.

Trip Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop S. Knox was awarded a varsity skiing letter and certificate at the annual winter sports banquet held recently at Kents Hill School.

Two Services At Methodist Church

Passion Sunday will be observed at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church with two worship services.

The early service will be at 8:45 o'clock when the pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, will administer the sacrament of Holy Communion. He will also deliver a brief Lenten Communion meditation. The service will be devotional and conducted in the spirit of meditation.

At the regular morning worship service at 11 o'clock Rev. Mr. Clay will preach on "The Two Basins." Both the chancel and youth choirs will sing at this service under the direction of Mrs. Gloria Maifeld, who will also sing a solo.

Regular sessions of the church school, including the adult class, will be held as usual at 9:30 and 11 o'clock.

The Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 7:00 p.m. in Osborne Hall. The speaker will be the Rev. Gilbert Caldwell, minister of the Union Methodist Church, Boston. On April 20 a group of boys and girls from his church in the South End Methodist Parish will be entertained for the day in Winchester by members of the local MYF with picnics, trips to the zoo, and other events.

MISS JULIE BLAINE PALMER, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Palmer of 21 Park Avenue, has won her wings as an American Airlines stewardess and has been assigned to the airline's Astrojets flying out of Chicago's O'Hare Airport. A graduate of Winchester High School, she was employed by an insurance firm before joining the airline. She earned her wings at American's Stewardess College at Fort Worth, Texas.

John Hancock Honors Two WHS Students

Two Winchester High School students will be among some 226 business education students from 114 public, private and parochial high schools in and around Greater Boston who will be honored for outstanding scholastic achievement on Tuesday, April 6, at the second annual Honors Day sponsored by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

They are Cynthia Ann Ehrgott of 20 Cedar Street and Camille Ann Galuffo of 117 Highland Avenue, both of Winchester.

Abram T. Collier, vice chairman of the board and senior vice president of the John Hancock, will welcome the students and their faculty representatives to the day-long session. The principal speaker will be the Hon. Owen B. Kiernan, commissioner of education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and special awards will be presented to the students by William H. Eastman, John Hancock, second vice president.

Rev. F. X. Kelly To Address Ladies of Austin

Rev. Francis X. Kelly, O.S.A., director of the Augustinian Seminary Guild, will address the Ladies of Austin at their meeting April 1 at Austin Preparatory School.

Father Kelly, who makes his headquarters at Villanova, Penn., will illustrate his remarks with colored slides of a recently-erected building at St. Mary's Seminary on the campus adjoining Villanova University.

Mrs. Henry A. Brodecki of Reading, president of the organization, directed the business portion of the meeting during which a slate of officers for the ensuing year were presented by the nominating committee. A check also was presented the headmaster, Very Rev. George F. Burnell, O.S.A., as a gift from the organization for the purchase of visual aids to be used by the student body.

Mrs. Harold Sipsey of Lawrence was in charge of the program. A coffee hour followed.

Auction At Marycliff

On Saturday, April 3rd, at 10 a.m. the Marycliff Academy Fathers' Club will sponsor its 2nd annual Old Fashioned Auction at the School on High Street, off Route 3. The sale is for the benefit of the School Development Fund.

Parents and friends of the school have accumulated an unusual collection of antiques, Americana, bric-a-brac, appliances, household furnishings, old glass, pewter, china, marble tops, sporting goods, tools, office equipment and other useful items, but not yet in sufficient quantity to meet the demands for this most popular event. Therefore the Committee welcomes any contributions of items suitable for the auction.

Any one of them may be called to collect items for the auction.

Refreshments and snacks will be available at the Snack Bar, which is under the supervision of a local caterer.

Rummage Sale At K. of C. Hall

The Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour, will hold a rummage sale Wednesday, April 7, starting at 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the K. of C. Hall, Mt. Vernon Street. Any articles that members would care to donate will be greatly appreciated. They may be left at the hall anytime after 8 a.m. April 7.

Mrs. Thomas H. Pazolt and Mrs. John J. Glynn are co-chairmen of this popular annual event.

Winchester Lions Make Donation To Eye Research

Through the generosity of the people of Winchester during their light bulb drive last fall, the Winchester Lions were able to make a donation of $300 to the Massachusetts Lions Eye Research Fund at their March 22 meeting held at Simeone's White Spot.

Present to accept the donation was International Councillor Edward P. Scott of Manchester, who is the district research coordinator of eye research activities. The presentation was made by Winchester Lions eye research chairman Sam Bonasera, who pointed out that this donation will help swell the general fund, which is used for research in many areas, including corneal transplant, retina and eye diseases and malfunctions.

Changing World For AUWW

"The American Family in a Changing World" is the topic for a panel discussion at the monthly meeting of the Winchester allied Bedford-Lexington Branch of the American Association of University Women on Wednesday, April 7. The meeting will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Lexington Town Hall. Coffee will be served at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Henry D. Twitchell, Jr. of 4 Hawthorne Road, program chairman and vice-president of the Branch, said that three members will be panelists and that time will be allowed for questions and comments after the discussion.

Women eligible for AAUW membership are cordially invited to attend the meeting. Details of membership requirements may be obtained from Mrs. Twitchell.

Smith Clubs At Science Museum

In the receiving line at the meeting of the Boston Smith College League of Clubs to be held on Monday, April 5 at 8:30 p.m. in the Skyline Room, Museum of Science, Boston, is to be Mrs. Austin Broadhurst of Glen Road, chairman of the League.

In addition, greeting the many Winchester guests expected to attend will be Mrs. David B. Holmes, Winchester Club president.

President Thomas C. Mendenhall and Professor Vernon D. Gotwals Jr. of the music department will share the speaking honors with talks on "The Importance of the Curriculum for the Future of the Liberal Arts College."

Lenten Mornings

Thursday, April 8, ends the series of Lenten Mornings at the First Congregational Church.

After coffee, which is served at 9:30 in the Tucker Room, impressions of Elizabeth Marshall Thomas' "The Harmless People" will be presented by Mrs. Gordon Davis and Mrs. Steven Moore. Mrs. Wesley Mallery will talk on "The Place of the Church in the Emerging Nations," and Miss Helen Hall will lead a worship service. Child care is provided.

Mrs. Albert Dietz wishes to thank Mrs. Norman Padelford who has been chairman of that part of each meeting dealing with the work of the church, Mrs. Rex Crandall who has been chairman of the coffees, and Mrs. Arthur Hughes, who has served as worship chairman. Every woman taking part in a Lenten Morning program has been appreciated by a grateful and responsive audience.

"If You Won't Who Will?"

"If You Won't Who Will!," is the provoking title which Mr. W. Howard Niblock, principal of the Winchester High School, has selected to use at the chapel service of the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church on Sunday, April 4, when he will be guest speaker.

Mr. Niblock has devoted his entire professional life to teenage young people. He was a member of the faculty of Mt. Hermon School for ten years. As Headmaster of Maine Central Institute he proved to be not only a skilled administrator but a warm hearted and understanding friend in his guidance and counselling responsibilities. Young people of Winchester have found these same qualities in their principal and the Forum year would not be complete without a visit from him.

For this service the chaplain will be Jeffrey Wheeler. Assistant chaplain will be Charles Weedon; deacons, Philip Goodwin and Lawrence Lougee and ushers, Graham Chase and William Brunkhorst.

A car wash and bake sale will be held on Saturday, April 3, at 9:30 a.m. The bakesale at Converse Market and the car wash will be in the church parking lot.

Gardenesque

Spring Seed Sowing

In eight or nine short weeks it will again be time to plant the summer flower gardens. If you have the facilities to start seeds early, instead of having to wait until the weather warms, so much the better.

Few people are lucky enough to be able to have all their plants a good size (some ready to bloom) by the end of May. Garden centers come to the rescue.

You will have to decide to what extent you are able to go into the seed starting processes. Everyone is able to start something, but how much and what kinds have to depend on the facilities you have available. The gardener with his own greenhouse is the luckiest of all—he creates his own seasons and can start as many plants for which there is room.

Perhaps the next most fortunate person is the one who has room somewhere for a battery of fluorescent lamps. These artificial suns come to the rescue and make it possible for anyone with from a spare bookshelf to an empty basement to start some seed.

Maybe you have limited space and cannot decide what variety of plants to start, if any. Here is a suggestion: specialize in one variety and buy the rest. Devote full time to three or four dozen choice tuberous begonias or make this year the season for a magnificent display of "started-from-scratch" fancy asters—or whatever.

You will have a lot more fun specializing in one area than if you try to start a few of this and that. All plants do not grow at the same rate, and if you use fluorescent lamps this situation creates a real impasse!

If you have not tried growing plants under fluorescent lamps you are really missing a lot of enjoyment.

For a perfect way to start seeds, the lamps can be in a bookcase for one or two flats or in larger numbers for a mass scale project, hung in the basement. Either the daylight or the new for-growing-plants-only types are satisfactory. When growing mature plants under these lamps a 40 watt tube is suspended 12 inches above the top leaves, lighting an area 20 by 50 inches. When used for seedlings, however, the tubes are brought to within two inches of the tops of the leaves.

Whether you start seeds under fluorescent lamps or in sunlight the sowing process is the same.

Any type of container is satisfactory, but try to keep them all the same dimensions to get the most out of every space. Spagnum moss is a good germinating medium, but garden soil is satisfactory. An advantage to the moss is that it is sterile and nutrient free, thus lessening the chances of disease.

The fact that it is nutrient free does not harm the seedlings in any way—small plants do not need (for that matter, they do not absorb) any food products until the true leaves form.

The depth at which different seeds are placed is determined by the size of the seed. Full directions are given on seed packets.

What temperature is the best for germinating seed? This point is in constant controversy among seedsmen. Some types of seed simply will not sprout unless it is quite warm, so in these cases there is no problem. But, ordinary plants—zinnias, asters, marigolds, etc. are another thing. Some schools of thought say moderate temperature (70 degrees) to discourage rotting, while others say cool (60 to 65 degrees) to prevent spindly growth.

Both arguments have logic behind them. I prefer about 65 degrees to discourage rapid spindly growth. Careful watering will prevent rotting.

Seed flats, require water enough so that the soil is dark and has body. A dripping-wet seed flat is an invitation to rotting.

It is time to transplant the seedlings when two to four leaves have formed.

Seeds started early must be hardened off in cold frames before they are placed into the garden. This means at least a week of same-as-outside daytime conditions and protection from frost and cold temperatures at night.

Introduction To Bonsai At Garden Club

Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini, herself a distinguished landscape architect, was hostess for the meeting of the Winchester Garden Club on Thursday, March 25th. Beautiful pink rosebuds and heather in a charming arrangement aroused great admiration during the dessert and coffee period, at which the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Philip Boone and Mrs. Frank J. Robinson.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick, vice president of the club, conducted the business meeting, after which Mrs. Ghirardini presented Mrs. Ara R. Diderian, whose charming manner and knowledge of her subject, "Introduction To Bonsai," fascinated her audience.

Bonsai, the definition of which is trained tree, is the treatment of trees, shrubs or plants in such a way as to stunt their natural growth, creating well-proportioned miniatures which have been admired since the beginning of the sixteenth century, and an art that continues to interest countless horticulturalists today.

Mrs. Diderian showed many of her own specimens of Bonsai, which included a beautiful red Japanese cut-leaf maple, a green Japanese cut-leaf maple, a twelve-year-old elm, some bamboo, boxwood, ivy, Japanese quince and a gardenia. The plants which produce blooms, she said, would continue to give seasonal bloom in natural size on these tiny plants.

She demonstrated the art of Bonsai with a chamaecyparis, removing the necessary part of the root to stunt the growth and some of the branches in order to create a more artistic design. These remaining branches she wired with copper wire to place them in the proper position until this position was established. The planting was accomplished with a foundation of small pebbles and soil, with a top dressing of moss. She strongly advised her audience not to place orders for the Bonsai listed in catalogues, as they were not properly constructed, but to buy them only from reputable florists.

Spring Warbler identification and Myrtle Warbler study will be the subject of a talk by James Baird at the meeting of the Mass. Audubon club on Monday, April 5th. The place is the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary—the time 7:45 p.m. The public is invited to attend for a small fee.

Fuel for Fire?

For three important tools in the house broom, rake and paint brush, spring clean-up time is workout time.

But be sure you add a fourth one—the trash can.

Trash and rubbish are an open invitation for fire to enter your home, says Fire Chief I. Francis Amico.

"A good, vigorous clean-out job, repeated at regular intervals, is one of the smartest things you can do to keep your home and your family safe from fire."

Maybe you don't have anything you would call "trash" around your place. Call it clutter then. Take another look.

Now then, plan to get rid of it all—this fuel for fire—and you and the house will likely be around much longer to enjoy that new paint job and spruced-up yard you gave it this spring.

"National Fire Protection Association figures show that about one out of every twelve fires starts in rubbish," Chief I. Francis Amico points out. "That's why using the trash can is so important, during spring clean-up and all year round."

GOP Distaff Off To Washington

Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr., of 33 Canterbury Road, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women, is leading the annual pilgrimage to Washington of women from the State which left Boston by bus on Tuesday to be there through the week end.

Mrs. William Barone of 1 School Street and Mrs. Wilbert Underwood of 9 Ravenscroft Road are others who had early registrations for this annual conference, which will feature Governor John Volpe as well as Richard Nixon, Ray Bliss, new party chairman and George Murphy, new senator from California at its "Work to Win" workshops at Sheraton Park Hotel headquarters.

A special briefing on foreign affairs at the State Department, a guided tour of the Capitol with Mrs. Hastings Keith, wife of the Congressman from the 12th District, coffee with Congressman Bradford Morse of Lowell and a tour of the Mellon Art Gallery followed by tea with Senator and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall highlighted yesterday's program planned for Massachusetts Republican women attending the 13th annual spring conference of Republican women from all over the country.

U. of Kentucky Honor to Stewart

Dr. Robert B. Stewart of 35 Foxcroft Road, has been honored by the University of Kentucky as one of its "most distinguished alumni."

DR. ROBERT B. STEWART

Dr. Stewart, former dean of Tuft's Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and at present on a sabbatical trip to Japan and India, received a UK Centennial Medallion and Distinguished Alumni Certificate as tokens of the honor. The awards were presented to 103 other UK alumni at the University's recent Centennial Founders Day Convocation in Lexington, Kentucky, when President Lyndon B. Johnson delivered the main address at the event which opened the University's second century.

Dr. Stewart received his bachelor of arts degree from UK in 1931 and a master of arts degree in 1932. Harvard awarded him a Ph.D. in 1945.

Prior to becoming dean of the Fletcher School, he was a member of the U. S. State Department from 1938 to 1945. He has served as a member to the staff of the U. S. delegation to the International Civil Aviation Conference, and was executive secretary of the San Francisco Conference in 1945.

UK awarded him the honorary doctor of laws degree in 1962.

Company Honors William F. May

William F. May, Jr. of 38 Cabot Street, a member of the branch office of Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, has been named to the company's President's Club for outstanding agents.

WILLIAM F. MAY, JR.

Membership in the President's Club is awarded on the basis of records of excellence in quality of service to policyholders and clients and in sales performance.

Mr. May has just moved here with his wife Ann and four children. Mrs. May is the former Ann McCauley, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. McCauley reside at 21 Glen Green.

Mr. May has been invited to be the company's guest at a meeting of leading agents to be held at the Arizona-Biltmore Hotel in Phoenix later this month.

"Eat Your Cake And . . ."

There is always something new and unexpected in teaching, according to Miss Martha Cunningham, principal of Lincoln School.

The snow was tumbling down last Monday and the no-school whistle was blown to announce the cancellation of the afternoon session. This presented a problem for the Lincoln principal. It seems she had just received the first "appreciation" gift of her career, so labeled by the givers.

She had taught some fifth graders four days a week as an extra project, and they had presented her with an "appreciation cake."

She promised she would cut the cake and, incidentally, of course, share it with the donors Monday afternoon. Since there was no school, she postponed the cake-cutting ceremony to the next day.

This way the youngsters had their cake in the form of a half-holiday Monday and ate it too. Boys don't mind day old cake.

Marycliff Art Exhibit

On the evening of April 6, at 7 p.m., the faculty and student body of Marycliff Academy will present its annual student art exhibit.

The theme of the show, "This Is Our Best," will be highlighted by quotations from students which explain why the art represents their best efforts.

On exhibit at this time will be a variety of media from crayon drawings to papier mache sculptures. The area of the graphic arts will be represented by monotypes, linoleum and wood block prints, brayer prints, glue prints and string prints. Students from kindergarten through grade 12 will have their work on display.

Awards will be given, judged by Joseph Benenate, Woburn, industrial designer and author of "The Lively Arts," a column which appears in the Woburn Times; Sister Joseph Maurice, art consultant for the Sisters of Providence in the Boston archdiocese; and John Dyer, art teacher and artist at St. Patrick's School, Stoneham.

Rangerettes Assist As Judy Sheppard Installed To Head State Rainbow

Nearly 3000 Rainbow Girls from all over Massachusetts, together with their families and friends descended upon Springfield last week end for their 40th annual Grand Assembly, held in Municipal Auditorium.

This was a big week end for the Winchester Rainbow Rangerettes since they were invited by Mother Robinson of Grand Assembly, to act as escort for their own Judy Sheppard of Salisbury Street, past worthy advisor of Winchester Assembly and past grand chaplain, who was installed as grand worthy advisor for all Rainbow in Massachusetts on Saturday. Winchester can well be proud of Judy and of these girls who did a fine job of precision marching for this occasion.

The Rangerettes were organized over a year ago and during their first year participated in thirteen parades and exhibitions all over this area.

Scheduling, outfitting, training, and transporting a corps this size has necessitated forming an advisory board which works directly under the advisory board of the Assembly and was duly recognized and installed recently at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Richard Sheppard, mother advisor to the Assembly.

Members of the board include as director and manager, Donald Hodgson; secretary, Geraldine Tait; treasurer, Malcolm Wheaton; drill instructor, Kenneth Ralphs; drum instructor, John Horne, Jr.; equipment, Colby Little; transportation, Richard Christianson; music director, Shirley Smith; publicity, William McClintock. Also on the board and representing the various sponsoring bodies are Clifford Leavitt, Allen Higgins, Robert Hastings and Herman Erikson.

Mrs. Smith, the music director, has written a marching song for the corps and it has been incorporated into the program. The girls sing it while entering an arena to take up their positions for the first pattern and again as the program closes. During the program they sing a hymn, also composed by Mrs. Smith. Both songs were written expressly for the Rangerettes and are impressive both in content and expression.

Those who saw the Halloween parade in Woburn this past year will remember the lights each girl wore on her shoulders and boots. These were borrowed lights and were so well received that the corps now has its own and used them for the first time Saturday night at Springfield. Each girl is equipped with a gold or red light for each shoulder and boot. For a period during the execution of their drill patterns the house lights are turned down and all that is visible are these tiny sparks of light moving in unison.

When the corps was first organized in October of 1963 eight girls turned out for the first meeting. Today there are 39 girls in uniform. Among them are six color bearers, six rifles, seven drums, a captain, three co-captains and sixteen girls to execute the patterns.

As the Corps has become more experienced the flags have developed an interesting routine which has them marching around the arena in constantly changing patterns. The flags are under the direction of captain Marsha Chamberlain. At the same time the rifles under the direction of of captain Betty Ann Wheaton, are executing a series of intricate maneuvers. The drums are busy all the while supplying the rhythm. The Corps now have three snares, three tenors, and a bass drum. The marching unit has four distinct patterns, the double X, figure eight, diamond, and fullabouts.

The entire program, which it has been using with only slight variations, takes thirty minutes to execute.

McLaughlin Shoes' 85 Consecutive Business Years

"Boots, Shoes, Rubbers," proclaimed a large gold-leafed sign for McLaughlin Shoe Store here in Winchester centre in March of 1880.

"Mr. Snyder, my mother wants me to get some spring school shoes," the trusting six-year-old in pigtails asked the other day in March of 1965.

And in the intervening 85 years have evolved the story of a successful home-grown shoe business, once in the old Lyceum building and for the past 35 years at its present spot, 9 Thompson Street.

"I shall expect you to continue to use the store name as 'McLaughlin's' as I take a great deal of pride in my 50 years of service to my customers in Winchester and surrounding areas. However, If I do not approve of the manner in which you are conducting this business, I reserve the privilege of removing my name."

Thus spoke Mr. McLaughlin to the young man down from Maine who wanted to buy his business in 1930. Needless to say the store has remained "McLaughlin's" and business has stayed good.

Back in the days when you shod your horse even more than shoeing yourself, McLaughlin's opened just for shoe repairs. But it soon added a small stock of children's and women's shoes and shortly thereafter footwear for men.

Novelty footwear may come and go but McLaughlin's continues to specialize in the basic and the best. Bass, Sandler, Kalisteniks and others represent brands Mr. Snyder points to as the "best in the world" and form the nucleus of the store stock.

"Three generations can't be wrong," says Mr. Snyder as he points to the children and children's children that he himself has serviced. But it is really six or seven Winchester generations who have bought their footwear at McLaughlin's. And children are indeed the specialty if there is one at McLaughlin's. Mr. Snyder, "Moe" to his many friends, and brother "Barney" remind one that children are trusted to come down alone to the store unaccompanied by adults to find the shoes appropriate to their needs.

"Like my brother gets," or "something for dancing school" is what the two experienced salesmen often hear and they usually have just the right answer at hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Snyder are parents of five children, all of whom have gone through the Winchester schools. All are married, the nearest living in Lexington and the farthest in Palo Alto, California. The Barney Snyders live in Brookline and are parents of three married daughters.

One Snowflake Of Litter Can Start a Storm

"One little snowflake isn't very big," the teacher said, "but many snowflakes will soon cover the ground."

Her class of 8 year olds looked briefly out the window but they knew that what she meant was not the clean, white snow falling outside but the kind that falls in the winter, summer, spring and fall - the kind we call Litter.

They were discussing a film they had just seen called "The Heritage of Splendor" which showed them how America's beautiful parks and playgrounds recreational areas at beaches, forests and mountains were being spoiled by carelessness or thoughtlessness in the disposal of trash and they knew that what is happening all across the country is also happening in Winchester.

They had seen the candy papers in their schoolyard, the paper cups and tin cans in the streets. One little boy said "I don't like to fish at Wedge Pond the water's too dirty" and another echoed "I can't swim there either." They talked about how they could help but they knew adults were oftentimes messy too and "we'll have to talk to them."

This was Miss Zella Giggie's third grade class at Noonan School last Monday morning. Since then the film, produced in Hollywood and narrated by actor Ronald Reagan, has been made available to other Winchester schools for a half day each and will be shown all this week to as many youngsters as possible.

It was provided by the Winchester Home and Garden Club as part of its contribution to the spring campaign to clean up, fix up and spruce up Winchester, in which other interested organizations, merchants, fire and police departments and private citizens are participating.

Hopefully, they agree the goal of a cleaner, more attractive Winchester will be accomplished by the application of four "E's"—education, enforcement, equipment and example.

That fourth "E" is important. Governor Volpe has proclaimed April 14 to May 14, "Keep Massachusetts Beautiful" month. Winchester is the Governor's home town. It should be a good Example.

S. O. I. News

Our next monthly meeting will be held this coming Monday, April 5th, and will start at 8 p.m. This will be Bob Fiore's last meeting as Venerable and on this thought he has forwarded a message which he wishes to convey to all.

Venerable's Message: "This being my last Venerable's message, may I take a few lines sincerely to thank each of my officers for the full cooperation and backing that I have had during the past two years. To each of you who has worked on my many committees, therefore crediting us with many successful affairs; to the members who have attended meetings and showed their interest in lodge matters, and to our many new brothers who were initiated during my administration without whom our lodge would fail to grow and prosper. I am leaving the chair with a great sense of gratification and I extend my most heartfelt wishes to our new Venerable and his officers for a most successful administration ahead."

The men's Bowling Banquet will be held at the S.O.I. hall on Saturday April 24th. This affair is for bowlers only and their wives or escorts. There will be a social hour before the banquet which will be then followed by dancing.

The installation committee under the chairmanship of Richard Penta are in the progress of working out a program for our joint installation of the officers of the men's and women's lodges which will take place on Sunday evening, May 2.

The golf league is now being formed and any member who wishes to play golf this year is urged to get their names and a five dollar entrance fee in by Thursday evening April 15th. You may give your names, etc. to the golf committee whose names are posted on the club bulletin board.

Secondary School Report Available

"The Report And Recommendations As To Size And Site on the Secondary School Project," a 17-page pamphlet prepared by the Permanent Building Committee to cover all pertinent matters and details relative to the proposed building of a new high school on the west side, is now available for anyone desiring copies, according to Arthur Schmidt, chairman of the PBC. Copies of the report may be obtained at the Public Library, or at the School Department offices in the Lynch School.

Babe Ruth League News

Babe Ruth League candidates are reminded that applications for positions on the teams must be completed and turned in at one of the four application headquarters no later than April 7. The first tryouts will take place on April 10, Saturday, at 9 a.m. at Manchester Field.

This year, as in the past, four Winchester merchants who are interested in the youth of the town, will act as application headquarters. They are:

Chitel's Clothing Store, 6 Mt. Vernon Street

McCormack's Apothecary, 568 Main Street

O' Neil's Pharmacy, 294 Washington Street

Winchester Sport Shop, 43 Church Street

The applications must be returned to one of the four business places when they have been completed. Player agent Herb Wood has asked that a special effort be made to get the completed forms in on time. The player lists have to be made up and be ready for the tryout dates so it is advisable to remember the deadline date of April 7 for completing applications.

In addition of the initial tryout period at 9 a.m., there will be a second tryout session at 1:30 p.m. on the same Saturday, April 10. The following day, Sunday, April 11, the final tryout will be scheduled at 1:30 p.m. These three sessions will give the managers and coaches a chance to look over the prospects for the season. It would be well for candidates to attend all three sessions so that the managers will be able to evaluate their performances as many times as possible.

If rain forces a postponement of the tryout sessions, they will be held on Saturday, April 17 at 9 a.m. Any boy who is already on a Babe Ruth team does not have to attend the tryouts unless requested to do so by his manager. All boys, however, must fill out the application form even if they are on a team. This completed form is used for insurnace purposes and must be among the player agent's records.

Babe Ruth League officials anticipate a successful season this year for the brand of baseball that is played ought to bring out spectators galore. The competition will be keen and the standings ought to be close as the season progresses. To be a part of this banner season as a player the first step is to get that application in on time, so remember the April 7 deadline and return the form to one of the four addresses shown above.

SGAA Elects Jan Collins

Miss Jan Collins, Winchester High School physical education instructor and coach of girls' athletics, was elected president of the State Girls' Athletic Association at the state physical education conference held at the Statler Hotel on March 26 and 27.

Previously, Miss Collins, daughter of Mrs. Dennis Collins of Parker Road, served as president of the Boston Field Hockey Association, and vice chairman of the North East Section.

1965 Sachem Tracksters

John Bates, Rockey Bell, Bob Benshimol, Paul Blanch, Tom Butterfield, Bill Canfield, Joe Cantillion, Wayne Carpenter, John Cheever, Tom Commito, Larry Dalton, John Dolan, Bob Doten, John Doherty, John Doyle, Paul Eaton, Alan Eugley, Tom Erskine, Dick Fahey, Steve Fahey, Roger Fenn, Martin Garnis, Austin Garvey, Pete Grant, Colin Gray, Walter Harwood, Stan Hewis, Ian Jenike, Ted Jope, Laurie Kelly, Tom Kelly, Bob Kuhn, John Kimball, Steve Litchfield, Bob Little.

Phil Doherty, Bob Colclough Spark Knights' 9

Bob Colclough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Colclough of 102 Wendell Street, will be behind the plate this spring for the St. Michael's College baseball team and Phil Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Doherty of 26 Fitzgerald Avenue is expected to hold down center field.

Bob, out last season with a hand injury, played for Matignon High School before going to the Winooski Park College where he is a senior; and Phil, a sophomore, captained the Malden Catholic team in 1963.

Coached by Ed Markey, who just last month was voted the basketball coach of the year by the NCAA and led St. Michael's into the national finals, the St. Michael's nine opens April 25 against the University of Vermont.

Dartmouth Squash Elects Jefferson

Gary, 21, and a junior there, began playing squash as a freshman at Dartmouth but joined the varsity only this last season. High point of his campaign was a five-game victory over Cornell's Peter Gold at the number five position.

Before coming to Dartmouth the six-foot one, 180-pound player completed in cross-country, basketball and baseball at Exeter Academy. He is majoring in history.

Harry McGrath Viewing The Masters

During all the play of the Masters, from 1935 through 1964, there has been only eight holes-in-one scored; four on the 16th, which will vary from 125 to 190 yards; 2 on the 12th, with a minimum distance of 130 and maximum of 155; and 2 on the 6th, with varying distances of 170 to 190 yards.

These aces were scored by Leland Gibson, Billy Joe Patton, Bill Hyndman, III, Ross Somerville, Willie Goggin, Ray Billows, John Dawson and Claude Harmon, none to whom won the Tournament in the year in which they made the hole-in-one.

As a matter of record, only Patton (3rd in 1954), Dawson (tied for 16th in 1949) and Hyndman (tied for 18th in 1949) finished in the first 24 in the year they "aced."

In 1960, the committee established a medal play tournament on the nine hole par 3 course.

During the first year's play, there were 2 holes-in-one, by Ted Kroll on No. 3, and by Doug Sanders on No. 9. However, Sam Snead (that man again) won the Tournament with a 9 hole score of 23. (Who said he couldn't putt?)

There were two other holes-in-one scored in this par 3 Tournament; one by Bob Charles, the lefty from New Zealand, in 1962 and last year, by Gardner Dickinson.

In the five years, this Tournament has never been won by any player who had scored his ace during the Tournament.

Incidentally, the amateurs, have done better in this Tournament than in the main event, Deane Beman having won in 1961 with a score of 22, and Labron Harris, Jr. in 1964 with a 23.

I don't have the record of eagles (Sarazen had the only double-eagle) but I do find that in the 1953 Tournament, there were 13 eagles on No. 13. This par 5 hole, known as Azalea, plays a minimum of 455 yards and a maximum of 475.

Adding up the lowest scores ever made on each hole of all the Masters Tournaments, we arrive at a ringer score of 40 — yes, that's right, forty strokes, 22 for the first nine and 18 for the second nine, which is considered more difficult than the first.

In compiling this low ringer score, eagles have been scored on the Par 4, No. 1; the Par 5, No. 2; the Par 3, No. 6; the Par 5, No. 8; the Par 4, No. 10 and No. 11; the Par 3, No. 12; the Par 5, No. 13; the Par 4, No. 14; the Par 3, No. 16; the Par 4, 18th, and, there was Squire Saraezn's double eagle 2 on the Par 5, No. 15 which can measure from 465 to 520 yards.

The holes that have not had eagles scored are No. 3-Par 4; No. 4-Par 3; No. 5-Par 4; No. 7-Par 4 and No. 17-Par 4.

In 1940, O. B. Keeler, the great golf writer, headed his article on the Masters - "Why don't the experts score better in the Masters' Tournament," and went on to say "the average golfer and the not-so-good player usually scores better than he does at home. One fine old sportsman, age 75, who never could break 110 on his relatively short home course, turned in a 90 and a 91 at Atlanta."

I will try to offer some explanations in the next of this series.

Speaking of fine old sportsmen, Fred McLeod, the 1908 Open Champion, was 81 when he took part in the 1964 Masters, Fred, paired with Jock Hutchinson, are expected this year to again lead off the field on the first day of play.

Fellowship To Carlene Hatchell

At a recent Smith College assembly Carlene Hatchell was one of 11 seniors awarded a fellowship for graduate work. The recipients will use their fellowships at colleges and universities of their choice.

Miss Hatchell was graduated from Winchester High School in 1961 and now is a member of the class of 1965 at Smith College, where she is an economics major.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Carl Hatchell of the Lynch School staff.

State Math Tests Here on Saturday

On Saturday, April 10 Winchester High School plays host for the first time to the competitors in the finals of the examination sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Mathematics Leagues. The test will be administered in the morning. A special luncheon will be served the contestants and guests by the cafeteria staff under the direction of Peter J. Caliandro, supervisor of the school lunch program in Winchester.

Actuaries from the association sponsoring the contest will be present to talk with the student participants.

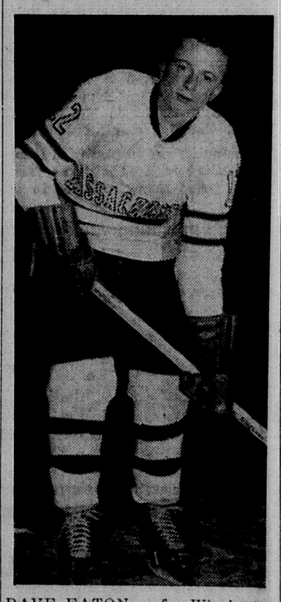
The competition is sponsored by 11 life insurance companies to increase interest in the actuarial field as a career for able young mathematicians.

Wins Letter At U. Of Mass.



DAVE EATON of Winchester was a member of the University of Massachusetts varsity hockey team this winter. Eaton, a sophomore, won his letter as a forward. He scored three goals plus three assists for the Redmen.

Motorboat Registrations

Sports fishermen preparing for the opening of the 1965 fishing season are reminded to have their motorboat registrations in proper order before using their boats in Massachusetts.

Wilton Vaugh, state motorboat director, said that the Massachusetts law requires certificates of registration for boats powered by five or more horsepower.

Motorboat registrations, he said, expire on owners' birthdays and must be renewed annually.

Both state officers and the Coast Guard, he warned, will enforce state and Federal laws against all violations of boating laws.

Numbers and letters must be of block character, not less than three inches in height, spaced as units an average letter apart (MS 1234 ZZ), and of a color that contrasts with the background.

Massachusetts boat registrations, the director said, are good for 90 consecutive days on the tidal waters of all 50 states and on the inland as well as navigable waters of the 45 states already approved by the U. S. Coast Guard.

The Massachusetts registration is recognized on all New England waters except the New Hampshire lakes and ponds.

First Baptist Churst News

On Sunday, April 4th the First Baptist Church, will be host to about 65 Rainbow girls and their advisors and families at the 11 a.m. worship service. The members and advisors of Winchester Assembly No. 50, Order of the Rainbow for Girls will be celebrating their annual Rainbow Sunday.

John Doherty Is 1966 Sachem Hoop Captain

Last week members of the 1965 Sachem basketball team elected John Doherty the captain for next year. John played outstanding ball all year for Coach Jim Phillips' cagers.

John is the only starter from this year's squad who will return next year. Coach Phillips had high praise for this big 6ft. 4in. 220-pound center. John broke into the starting lineup early in the season and Coach Phillips was so impressed with his play he gave him a starting berth in the next game and John played every game thereafter.

WHS Scholarships For Trades School

Winchester High School has been selected by the Massachusetts Trades School, Boston, as one of the New England High Schools qualified to participate in the annual Mass. Trades Scholarship Awards, given annually since 1963, in order to encourage more high school graduates to enter the vocational fields.

This scholarship, in the amount of $900, represents half-tuition, and will be awarded to one outstanding male graduate, class of 1965 of Winchester High School, the winner to be determined by members of the high school's own faculty. This scholarship fund may be used by the appointee toward any program of day vocational training, at Mass. Trades School, in his choice of machinist, machine and tool designer, draftsman, electro-mechanical draftsman or radio-television serviceman.

Star Sports

Al Falvey, Jr.

Last week Sachem track coach Isidore Battino greeted some 70 track candidates. He and his squad will be out gunning for their third-straight Middlesex League championship. This winter Coach Battino's indoor track team missed out by just a few points in its final meet against Belmont, these few points in the final event costing the team the championship of the Middlesex League. This spring the boys are out to get the top spot back, and their coach is confident they can do it.

Track, cross country and gymnastics have always been a top sport at Winchester High. For the most part, however, these sports have had to take a back seat to the major sports, football, basketball, hockey, and baseball. It is about time that we sat up and took notice of the great record these teams have compiled. While the major sport teams in the past few years have floundered, with average seasons, the track, cross country and gymnastic teams have had league championships.

Just the other day in Coach Battino's office I noticed his wall and desk covered with newspaper clippings about the championship teams he has had at Winchester. Just then did I begin to realize what the sport Mr. Battino coaches means to the boys at Winchester High.

This year the track team will again be a solid contender. In all there are 15 events in a track meet, the high hurdles, low hurdles,, the 100, 200, 440 and 880-yard dashes, the mile, two mile, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, javelin, discus, shot put, and relay.

Tibor Saddler, one of the best hurdlers in the state, is back this year. In him Coach Battino has the best hurdler in the league. Dick Fahey, the youngest of the three Fahey brothers, only a sophomore, surprised everyone this year on the cross-country team. He will be tough to beat in the mile and two-mile events. Ian Jenike will also return from last year's team. Ian won the mile and two-mile events last year. Austin Garvey will be back for the 100 and 220. Grant and O'Toole will also return, Harwood and Puffer for the 880, Stafford for the high jump and Saddler for the broad jump. Dave Rowe and John Cussen, Sachem hockey teammates, will be the pole vault leaders. Grant, Litchfield and Fahey will be battling it out for the shot put. John Doherty and Steve Litchfield for the javelin. The relay has a fine nucleus to work with.

Coach Battino informs us there are a great number of promising sophomores and juniors, along with some sleeper seniors that could nail down a berth on this team.

COACH ISIDORE BATTINO

Coach Isidore Battino is a graduate of Springfield College and has been at Winchester for the past ten years. Besides being the head track coach he is also the gymnastics coach and well known in town through his adult education course.

Assistant Coach Roger Rawden is in his third year at Winchester. He is a graduate of Harvard College and has coached the Cross Country team to two straight league championships.

Horse racing fans will find marked improvements designed for their comfort and convenience when Suffolk Downs opens its 66-day thoroughbred meet on April 19.

Most notable projects under way are the installation of a $90,000 escalator in the grandstand section, the widening of roadways leading into the track and increased parking areas closer to the grandstand entrances.

"We've set out on a program that I'm sure will please the fans of New England," President David Haber reported. "The escalator and roadway widenings as well as the new parking area are immediate improvements for the upcoming meet. We're going to do all we can to make our patrons comfortable and we're going to dedicate ourselves to this policy."

Also sure to please the fans will be the influx of higher grade horses scheduled to start arriving on the grounds April 5.

New racing secretary Jim Ross, presently serving in that position at Gulfstream Park in Florida, reports several newcomers will race at Suffolk Downs this season.

"With the improvements, as well as the influx of better horses, we're looking forward to one of Suffolk's finest meets," Haber said.

BOWLING

S. O. I. Women

Tide had a smashing victory over Ajax taking eight points and landing in top place. Ann DiSessa led the team with 279 followed by Kay Lentine 259, Lil Ciarcia 259, Phil Corby 258 and Loretta Frongillo 254. Tide had a three string total of 1309.

The mighty Soapines took five points from first place Duz sending Duz into second place. Duz will roll off for second place against Salvo.

A good luck wish goes to each team in the roll offs. Remember girls! it's not who wins, but how you play the game that counts!

Lulu Brencola who will be showered with rice soon, was covered with mud to the tune of 101. Welcoming her were M. Gangi 112, C. Esposito 107-102, B. Ungaretti 106, A. DiSessa 105, J. Gorrasi 102 and K. Lentine 101.

Honors for the evening went to C. Esposito for high three of 307 and to M. Gangi for high single of 112.

With five weeks left in this second round of bowling, the Clubs have taken the lead again as they did in the first round. The Clubs are in first place by three points they captured from the Spades last Thursday evening.

In spite of efforts made by the second place team, the Spades, all four points, were won by the Clubs with some good bowling by their captain Cappie Airey and Rose Guilli.

The Diamonds upset the Hearts by taking all four points from them also. High bowlers for the Diamonds, includes Marie Macario with a 301 and captain Rose DiTucci. Marie is a new member of the "300 Club."

Duplicate Bridge Club

There were two perfectly balanced 11 table sections on March 25th and once again a "blind date" partnership stole the headlines. This time it was Lena Collins and Jim Byrne with a fine score of 149 on an average of 110.

SECTION A

North - South

Lena Collins and James Byrne	149
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagan	130½
Rae Grove and Fredna Perkins	127
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lorris	125½
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	112½

East - West

Jock Olmsted and Guy Mingolelli	132½
Clarence Woodward and William Wheelock	127
Gerald Barrett and Ted Atkinson	125
Adeline Mingolelli and Howard Wittet	124½

SECTION B

North - South

Donna Bauld and David Marshall	75½
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	74½
Roger Locke and Thomas Wilder	72½
Mr. and Mrs. George Kimball	63

East - West

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson	77
David Littleton and Stephen Root	77
Helen Mahoney and Ann Murray	74½
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sanderson	72
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	65

We are very happy to welcome back Herb and Marian Ross from their three year "vacation" in Lausanne, Switzerland, where we understand they were the scourge of the duplicate bridge tournaments sponsored by the English Speaking Club. When they rejoined the WD BC, that closed our quota of members for the 1965 season.

We put Herb right to work by asking him to author our board-of-the-week! Before turning the column over to him, however, we want to remind everyone of our special open house and Easter party to be held on Saturday evening, April 10th, at the Knights of Columbus Hall. All residents of Winchester are cordially invited to come and sample our hospitality and bridge. One section will be "partnership draw," so you can come with or without a partner and be assured of a chance to play.

This week the hand to be discussed is a solid 7 NT lay-down without a finesse or squeeze play of any kind needed, yet only one of the 11 tables bid and made this contract. Two other tables bid 7 and went down 2, six bid 6 NT with three of the latter making 7 NT, 2 making 6 NT, and one going down one. It sounds pretty simple, but how would you play it?

North - South is vulnerable, with West the dealer, and all bidding is done by North - South. Here is the hand:

North
♥ J 7 6 4
♦ A 9 4 2
♣

West	East
♠ J 8 5 3	♠ 10 4
♥ 10 9 8	♥ Q 3
♦ Q 6	♦ J 8 5 3
♣ 8 7 5 4	♣ 10 9 6 3 2

South
♠ K Q
♦ K 10 7
♣ A K Q J

In most cases the lead by West was the H 10, with some preferring to play a low Spade, but for this hand, the lead was not significant. The combined high card count between North - South is 34, which undoubtedly explains why so many stopped at a bid of 6 NT.

The play emphasizes the importance of establishing the suit first where the odds favor the distribution break, to guarantee the best contract before irrevocably committing yourself. Although the longest suit is spades, and if these set up, all 13 tricks can be taken, they must split 3 - 3 to do this, as the only entry in the hand, the Diamond Ace, must be used to make this try. It is also obvious that the two losing diamonds can be discarded at any time on the solid club suit, so there is no point to leading either of these.

The mathematical chances, therefore, point to hearts with only 5 out as being the best gamble to split 3 - 2, or if 4 - 1, that the QH is in the West hand and thus guarantee at least 6 NT. This is the safest way, rather than try to establish spades first, because if the latter are not evenly split, even six cannot be made without a lucky heart distribution. As it turns out in this case, the Heart Q drops, thereby setting up the Heart J for the 7 NT contract.

Only one trap is evident. When West makes the initial lead of 10 Heart, it must not be covered by the Heart J in the North hand or the declarer will lose both a heart and a spade trick.

The point to remember is that nothing is lost in going for the heart drop first. It is the best mathematical chance to safely establish one trick for 6 NT before going to the tempting spade suit to try for the even split for those venturesome enough to bid the 7 NT contract. Only four out of 11 tables managed to take all tricks, and only one of these bid the maximum contract in this seemingly straightforward hand.

Honors At Marycliff

With the close of the third quarter, Mother Elizabeth Farragher, R.C.E., principal of Marycliff Academy, announced the honor students. Among the girls with first honors for maintaining an average of 90% or above in all major subjects were Cheryl Bezis, sophomore, and Cynthia Ross, a freshman.

For maintaining an average of 85% or above in all major subjects, the girls achieving second honors included, from Winchester, Ursula Keleher, a junior; Jeanne DeConto, a sophomore; and Jane McBain, Mary Sennott and Nancy Keleher, freshmen.

Coach Ron Blaylock's Yankton College baseball team has several prospects that hope to fill the shoes of departed pitching ace Jim Heirigs this season. Among them is freshman righthander John Peckham of Church Street, who has been bothered by a sore arm. He is a smooth working moundsman, however, according to the coach.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Spring or no spring, next Sunday, April 4 is the day that Winchester Little League workers will call on every home in the town in an effort to make the Fund Drive for 1965 a financial success. The "Bucks for Boys" campaign will swing into high gear at about 1 p.m. Sunday afternoon and President Al LaPointe is asking for everybody's support in this year's donation drive.

The first tryouts for Little League teams will take place on Saturday, April 3 when the 9 and 10-year-old boys show their stuff at 9 a.m. The American League entries will attend the sessions at West Side Field while the National League holds its tryouts at Loring Field.

With the first tryout, the Little League season officially begins. This year, as in the past, the aim of the project is to further the cause of Winchester boys in a physical, spiritual and educational program. Over 400 of the town's youngsters participate in the Little League venture. The benefits derived from this participation cannot be measured concretely but the calibre of men who administer the League's progress and handle the boys throughout the season is bound to have its effect somewhere along the line.

A quick rundown shows that the men who give of their time and energy to Little League are as varied in their backgrounds as any group could possibly be. There are merchants, salesmen, engineers, and advertising men. There are investment brokers and interior decorators, hair stylists and judges, postal workers and town workers, auto dealers and office managers. There are bankers and carpenters, insurance men and heating contractors and this list covers only part of the group. You name it and Little League has it.

While the means of livelihood may be as varied as the colors in the rainbow, all of the men who are working for Little League have one thing in common. It is the one driving interest in promoting the welfare of the boys of Winchester. The actual baseball game is only a part of the whole picture. These men talk with the boys and try to understand them in a manner that makes them more than a friend to their charges. The boys in turn look up to the managers and do their best to follow the examples that are set for them.

It is possible that some of the boys are not reached by their team manager's personality but it is also a fact that much of the best of the adult leaders is transferred to the boys. And the boys cannot help but gain something from their personal contact with the men who guide the destinies of Little League.

When observed in this light, then, Little League is more than just a collection of boys playing baseball under adult supervision. It is more than an athletic program for youngsters. It is a vital part of the life of this town and it could well prove to be the fundamental beginning of a boy who might later develop into a national figure.

But, like all non-profit organizations, it requires a certain amount of money to keep the program in high gear. There are expenses that must be met to successfully operate a project such as this one. There are no salaries in the League but there is the cost of insurance, equipment and miscellaneous items that have to be paid.

It is to defray these expenses that Little League makes its one-day Fund Drive each year. This year Little League, through its officers, is asking that every Winchester inhabitant give a donation to keep the program traveling under full sail. The thanks of the entire membership of the League will be yours.

Remember that next Sunday, April 4, a friend of Little League will be at your home for your contribution to the "Bucks for Boys" campaign. Keep in mind the underlying principles of Little League and greet him with a donation and a smile.

EXCLUSIVE NEW LISTING

Brand new to market, a lovely New England Colonial close to the center and on a quiet dead-end street. Easy walking distance to everything.

From the front porch you enter a foyer with open staircase to second floor, which contains four large bedrooms and a full bath. Third floor has a finished bedroom with room for another.

The heating system is new and two months ago all fixtures, wiring and fuse boxes were replaced with modern equipment.

Best of all, a nice roomy home listed in the 20's.

The books which the Office of Economic Opportunity, which is handling the poverty program for the Federal Government, has noted as needed most is school textbooks and other books generally read by schoolchildren. Librarians from the 11-state Appalachia area have compiled the list of 100 book titles which are especially needed, and a supplementary list of another 300 titles which would also be useful in aiding the people of that depressed region.

MYF Paper Drive

Save all your old papers. We know they are a fire hazard and you like to get rid of them, but just leave that to the Senior MYF of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. On April 10, they will have a town-wide paper drive.

The truck will be at the church all day, Saturday and anyone who would like to get rid of some old newspapers and magazines bring them down to the church or get hold of some strong MYF member to carry them down for you.

Remember tie that string around your finger and don't forget about our paper drive. apr1-2t

How the power of God operates in human affairs is explored in this week's Bible Lesson to be read at all Christian Science churches. The Golden Text is from Luke (18:27): "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."
Several dramatic examples will be read from the Bible, illustrating the availability of divine power in overcoming the discordant conditions of material existence. The subject is "Unreality." Citations from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "From beginning to end, the Scriptures are full of accounts of the triumph of Spirit, Mind, over matter . . . When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 139, 180).

Motor Vehicle Inspection Begun

The semi-annual, spring, motor vehicle inspection begins for the two million motor vehicles of Massachusetts, today, Thursday, April 1.

Vehicles passing inspection during the period which will conclude on May 15 will receive a yellow sticker. As in the past few inspections, those vehicles which are adjudged defective will receive the oval, white, rejection sticker with the red band across the middle.

More than 3,300 garages and gasoline stations across the Commonwealth have been licensed to perform inspections during the 45 days.

"By bringing their automobiles in for inspections early," Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin said, "motorists will be able to avoid the long lines expected toward the end of the inspection period."

The Registrar went on to remind motorists that in addition to automobiles, trucks, trailers, motorcycles, and motorbikes must be inspected.

The equipment on automobiles which will be checked includes: brakes, headlights, taillights and stop lights, marker lights on commercial vehicles, the muffler and entire exhaust system, the steering gear ball joints, windshield and windshield wipers, the rear window, and number plates. Regarding tires, it will again be necessary for motorists to have a minimum of 2/32 of an inch of tread in order to pass inspection.

Also included in the inspection for automobiles is the requirement that bumpers, fenders, and external sheet metal not project beyond the contours of the motor vehicle.

To pass inspection, trucks will be checked for the additional requirements of reflectors, chock blocks, and splash guards.

The equipment check for trailers includes brakes—where required, safety chains and lights. For motorcycles and motorscooters, inspection includes brakes, lights, and the exhaust system.

The inspection station, for its services, may charge the motorist a fee up to $1.

Advertise FIRST in your home town paper—THE WINCHESTER STAR. Large circulation, low rates, prompt, courteous service and fast results.

Telephone Tips On Talking Money

Emile P. Conlon, local New England Telephone Company manager, has a tip on how to save talking money:

The lowest rates on calls between states are in effect all day Sunday.

There's no longer any need to wait until Sunday evening to enjoy lowest long distant rates on many calls.

On Sunday you can call anywhere in the continental U.S.—except Alaska—for $1 or less for a three-minute, station-to-station call. Add 10 per cent for the Federal excise tax.

Mr. Conlon says the daytime traffic on Sunday is about half that of a business day. More circuits are available.

In the last 50 years, long distance rates have been reduced 21 times.

During the half century there has been almost a 90 per cent reduction in long distance telephone rates, while the consumer's price index tripled and Bell System wages and related costs went up 3,500 per cent.

In January 1915, when the first transcontinental telephone line was opened, any three-minute call between New York and San Francisco cost $20.70.

The total long distance rate reduction in the last five decades—represents an annual savings to the public of almost $2 billion based on the 1963 calling volume.

Dr. Hecht Opens Waltham Practice

Ophthalmologist Sanford David Hecht, formerly of Newtonville has just returned from practice in California to open his medical offices in Waltham.

Dr. Hecht received his medical degree from Boston University School of Medicine. Prior to his specialty training at Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia, he spent two years in the United States Public Health Service stationed in the Mid-West and in New England. Dr. Hecht is taking over the offices and practice of Robert J. Herm, M.D. at The Medical Arts Building, 42 Weston Street (Route 20), Waltham.

AT BAT ALREADY for the Little League are these members of the Little League Women's Auxiliary, who are announcing a busy spring schedule. In the front row are Mrs. Claude Shannon, Mrs. Frank Brennan, Mrs. John Dolan, president, Mrs. Joseph Julian, Mrs. Thomas Kell. In back are Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Nicholas Dieninger, Mrs. Paul Mulloy, Mrs. Robert Haffner, Mrs. John Bower, Mrs. Richard Murphy, Mrs. Kenneth Wright.

Elks Installation, At A.L. Sunday

This Sunday, April 4, the Winchester Lodg of Elks will install its new officers for the coming year at 2:30 at the Legion Home, Vine Street. Prior to the installation there will be a social hour, and afterwards a collation.

A suite from Billerica Lodge will install the new Winchester officers. Members are urged to attend so that we will not be outnumbered by our visitors from other lodges. A good time is assured those attending.

On Saturday evening, April 10, P.E.R. John Murphy and a suite of officers from Winchester will install Billerica lodge.

There will be a cocktail hour from 5 to 7, a fine dinner from 7 to 8. The installation will then take place. At about 9 dancing will commence, until 12.

This is an open house affair. All Winchester brothers are invited, along with their guests. It is a good occasion to take your wife out for a wonderful time. Billerica lodge is noted for its hospitality.

Fireman At Your Door

The members of the Winchester Fire Department are calling on the residents of the Town with tickets to their annual entertainment to be held May 27.

This is an endeavor undertaken every spring with the proceeds turned over to the Winchester Firemen's Relief Association.

A four minute talk in French holds no terrors for these students Mme. Genicot said. She found that the early training of the ear speeds up the process of understanding the language and of using it.

A significant measure of the students' ability to understand the speech of native born French people was found when the results of the College Board Listening Comprehension Test arrived from the testing center in Princeton, New Jersey. This exam is not required by all colleges. Students take the regular French Achievement Test of the College Board, and some are asked by the schools of their choice to take the listening test.

The Listening Comprehension Test requires concentration and a quick ear to understand the volatile French voices of varied pitch and tone. A question is asked once and not repeated. Several varieties of accent are heard on the tape in rapid conversations. From this must come the answer the student is seeking.

The results were excellent. One student had the top score of 800; other scores were in the 700's and 600's. The average score for the group was 667 out of a possible 800.

Mme. Genicot attributed the accomplishments of the class to the method of teaching, the constant use of spoken French in the classroom by the teachers, and the use of the language laboratory.

The language lab is an excellent aid, but space is a problem here. There are 25 booths to accomodate 750 students taking foreign languages in grades 10, 11, and 12. The use of the lab as a classroom compounds the problem of crowding.

The situation is not so acute in the junior high schools. Both Lynch and McCall have language labs. Both schools have over 300 pupils taking French. Next year, German is being introduced into the junior high curriculum, and hopefully in the future, Spanish.

The new course will be taught using the oral method.

A constant check on revised courses and methods is maintained and keeping abreast of changes is important. Teachers do this by in-service programs and outside courses.

The first in a series of 7 in-service workshops will be held tomorrow for foreign language teachers in Winchester. It is being given by the state department of education. Films taken in the classroom showing the speaking-listening method in action will be presented.

Little League Women Plan

The first meeting of the Little League Women's Auxiliary Board was held Wednesday morning, March 24, at the home of the president, Mrs. John Dolan of Lakeview Terrace.

Coffee was served by acting hostesses Mrs. Frank Brennan and Mrs. James Murphy, after which the officers and committee chairmen for the coming season were introduced by the president.

The officers and chairmen are Mrs. John Dolan, president; Mrs. Frank Brennan, vice president, National League; Mrs. Joseph Julian, vice president, American League; Mrs. Thomas Kell, secretary; Mrs. Claude Shannon, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Mulloy, publicity; Mrs. Robert Haffner, nominating; Mrs. Richard Murphy, dance; Mrs. James Murphy, float; Mrs. John Bower and Mrs. Kenneth Wright, stand, Ginn Field; Mrs. Nicholas Deininger and Mrs. Thomas Raleigh, stand, West Side Field.

Plans for the coming Little League season were discussed and the 1965 activities were announced as follows: April 3, 10, 11, tryouts; April 4, tag day; April 28, 9:30 a.m., team mothers' coffee at the home of the president; April 28, 7:30 p.m., kick-off meeting at the high school auditorium; May 1, opening day for Little League ball games; May 12, managers' wives coffee at the home of the president; May 22, En Ka parade.

The Little League will be represented by a float; May 26, 10:30 a.m., annual meeting of the mothers at Ginn Field. Refreshments will be served to mothers and preschool children; June 6, Ginn Field, mothers ball game; June 12, annual Little League dance at the Town Hall.

The Auxiliary's main objective is to raise money to help pay for the Little League banquet and also the trophy that is awarded to each graduate of the league.

Fence to Protect

In Town Meeting discussion on the elementary school building site off Tufts Road, John Horn raised an interesting question that he brought to the Star's attention after noting that the regular meeting account did not include it. He had questioned whether a fence would be put up along the railroad tracks from the river towards Irving Street to protect children going to the new elementary school, when it is built, from the Cross Street area. The Permanent Building Committee noted that maybe any money left in the contingency fund at the end of the project could be used for such a purpose.

Miss June P. Huff, Union College freshman, has achieved academic recognition at the college for the first semester by attaining a "B" standing for the semester. A graduate of Winchester High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haff.

De Paur Chorus At Stoneham

Opening its twentieth membership campaign week, the Stoneham Community Concert Association will present the world famous DePaur Chorus on Saturday evening, April 3, at Stoneham Town Hall.

DePaur returned to the concert stage with a new chorus last season and enjoyed a 60 city tour which was widely acclaimed. This season he is completing a tour of 80 cities which was sold out before the season began, and which has taken him from coast to coast.

The chorus is composed of twenty-six voices, recruited from his earlier musical successes and the music schools of many colleges in this country.

As earlier announced, the headline programs for next season include the Abbey Singers in joint concert with Eden and Tamir, duo-pianists and "Feiss Eireann" 22 singers and dancers from Ireland.

Mr. Clinton Jonas of South Border Road and Mr. Roland Nault of Washington Street are directors of the Association which serves Stoneham, Winchester, Wakefield, Mrs. Charles Bund, Mr. Louis Covino, Mrs. Roland Davis, Mrs. Clinton Jonas and Mrs. George Pacetti serve on the membership committee.

Newsletter Wins Award for Friends

The Cheery-Cheery Notes, newsletter of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital, was awarded an honorable mention Monday as the 44th annual New England Hospital Assembly opened in Boston.

Mrs. Albert Muggia of Cambridge Street, editor of the newsletter, accepted the award.

The newsletter was chosen from among more than 50 submitted for judging, and exemplifies communication achievement of high standard.

Work On Town Hall Renovation Is Started

Work on the Town Meeting authorized $15,850 Town Hall renovation project for 1965 was begun on Tuesday by the construction firm of Waynrich, Inc., of Natick. The project is part of an already eight year long program of restoring and modernizing the Town Hall—an 85-year-old town government center.

Contracts for the project were signed by the Board of Selectmen on Monday night, and the renovation work is due to be completed in two months.

Included in the project is enlarging and remodelling the Town Engineer's office, remaking the custodian's room into another office room for the Town Comptroller and making an area for the custodian next to the boiler room, all in the basement; and expanding the Town Clerk's area on the first floor a little by extending it into the short corridor leading to the office.

In addition, thermal detection signal alarm units will be installed about the building for fire protection.

The Town Engineer's offices will be extended to the boiler room wall, which is under the first floor stage area. This will double the present engineers' drawing room area and double the vault space for plans. The Town Engineers' office itself will remain about the same area in size, but will be completely remodelled with wall paneling, floor tiling, and sound proof ceiling and fluorescent lighting.

The present custodian's room will be similarly paneled, with a new ceiling and tile flooring installed, for a contemplated new accounting and computer equipment operations room for the Town Comptroller.

The area behind the Sealer of Weights and Measures' office will be cleared out, and a new plaster ceiling, painting, and new lighting will be done for the Town Hall custodian's use.

On the first floor, a new doorway to the Town Clerk's office will be made at the beginning of the existing short entrance corridor. The corridor partition will be removed, thus extending the Town Clerk's office to the Town Treasurer-Collector's office partition, with that second doorway closed off.

There is no other renovation work planned for the first floor of the Town Hall, presumably because this will be totally done over in the next two years and the Selectmen have not decided yet what should be done to the auditorium area.

The contracting firm for the Town Hall renovations previously renovated the Police Chief and clerk's office areas, constructed the Roll of Honor on the Town Hall grounds, and was a subcontractor on Town Hall basement renovation work done four years ago.

* * * *

In other municipal construction projects this week, the Board of Selectmen on Tuesday night signed contracts with Francis G. Falzarano of Reading to begin a $26,900 renovation and small addition job at the Fire Station. Work is scheduled to start on Monday, with a two month contract completion time.

25th Anniversary Mystic Glee Club Concert April 24

Winchester's Mystic Glee Club, for its 25th anniversary concert on Saturday, April 24, will give a cabaret-style concert at the Lynch Junior High School. For this special concert, a great many singers from Winchester and surrounding towns who have been in the club through the past 25 years will return to join the current group. The concert starts at 8:15 p.m.

The program has been selected not only to please the audience but to bring back memories for the singers from previous years. The Mystic Glee Club has extended an invitation to all those who have been members in previous years to attend the concert and, if possible, to join with the club on stage in a special set of songs selected from past concerts.

Any former singers who would like to return and meet their fellow singers on rehearsal nights are welcome to drop by the Masonic Hall on Monday evenings with the exception of the first Monday in April when rehearsal is at the First Baptist Church.

Monsignor Lally Speaker At Men's Club Supper

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis J. Lally will be the honored guest and speaker at the First Congregational Church Men's Club dinner in Chidley Hall at 6:30 on Wednesday evening, April 21.

Monsignor Lally is known far and wide as one of the most interesting and thought-provoking religious leaders of our times. A native son of Massachusetts, he was educated at Boston College and at Laval University, Quebec.

For many years he served as the Editor of "The Pilot" published by the Archdiocese of Boston and has served in many capacities for the betterment of our society. Among his affiliations are The Friend for the Republic, The Boston Redevelopment Authority, The Metropolitan Boston Arts Center, The Civic Education Foundation at Tufts University, The International Friendship League, The Committee on Foreign Relations and The American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Local Professor Receives Award For Chemistry

Dr. Eugene G. Rochow of 37 Squire Road, professor of chemistry at Harvard University, received the 1965 Frederick Stanley Kipping Award in Organosilicon Chemistry on Monday, April 5th, at a meeting of the American Chemical Society in Detroit, Michigan.

The award, which consists of a certificate and a check for $1,000, was established in 1962 to honor Frederick Stanley Kipping, a famous English chemist who first explored the organic chemistry of silicon.

The element silicon is the second most abundant element on the earth's crust, constituting twenty-five per cent of all the mineral matter known. Being so plentiful an element, and with so versatile a chemical behaviour, silicon is rapidly becoming a favorite starting material for the manufacture of polymers and plastics.

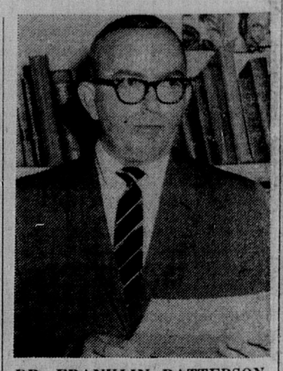
Patterson Urges State Sales Tax To Improve Public Education, People's Support Needed To Spur Legislature

"If state support of public school education is not connected with a sales tax in the present legislature, education may be the loser for a long time to come," warned Willis Commission member, Dr. Franklin Patterson of Winchester, at a Tufts Assembly banquet last week.

"I am convinced from what legislators tell me that a sales tax for the support of education or for anything else will not be passed until and unless the voice of Massachusetts at the grass-roots level is heard from," he continued.



DR. FRANKLIN PATTERSON

The 125 participants in the seventh annual Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government took a break in their two-day deliberations on education and attended a banquet in the Jackson Gymnasium on the Medford campus at which Dr. Patterson delivered the address.

"The Commission has felt that more money for schools is certain to be needed and that inequalities existing among poor and rich school districts should be offset as nearly as possible," said Dr. Patterson, who is director of the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts University, currently on leave of absence as a consultant with Educational Services Incorporated.

He contends that the Willis Commission recommendation for enlarging state aid to local education would tend to give most of its benefit to the school districts in the state least able to pay for good education.

"Districts poor in property and with a large population of children are likely to suffer both from taxes that are too heavy and school support that is too little," asserted Dr. Patterson.

"It appears inescapable to me that we will have a sales tax in Massachusetts before long. We will have to have such a tax, no matter what party platforms have said in the past and say today.

"The really troubling thing is that when a sales tax ultimately is adopted it may not be earmarked for education.

"I urge the present legislature to lay aside party differences in the interests of the children of the Commonwealth and to pass legislation providing for state aid to education based upon a sales tax."

Dr. Patterson defended the Willis Commission against critical attacks in several areas.

"It has been said that the Commission should have paid more attention to the 'great deal of education, formal and informal,' that takes place in factories, stores, military establishments, and youth agencies," he said in rebuttal to a Tufts Assembly background paper by fellow Tufts faculty member, Dr. William C. Kvaraceus.

Answering that charge, Dr. Patterson explained that the Comr ission is more concerned with the regular public schools of the sta e which now handle about one mil lion children, with 300,000 more to come in the next decade.

Dr. Patterson strongly supports the establishment of a state system of public higher education to prevent planless, chaotic, and unnecessarily costly expansion.

He threw out three challenging questions for the Assembly to resolve, one of which dealt with, "Do we wish to continue a situation in which the state Department of Education has neither the resources to give adequate encouragement to local schools in the achievement of optimum standards nor authority to require that at least minimum standards be met?"

Dr. Patterson strongly urges support of House Bill No. 3300 which would establish a new state Board of Public School Education to set minimum standards of education. This new board would have the power to withhold state financial aid from school districts which failed to live up to minimum standards.

Dr. Patterson also delved into the Kiernan Report on Racial Imbalance and Education, stating that it is a moral and educational landmark with significance for schools throughout the nation.

"When it appears next week, you (the citizens of Massachusetts) will see that it states as clearly as presently possible how real equality of educational opportunity for Negro children may be achieved," said Dr. Patterson.

Selectmen Sign Petition For A Legislative OK On Town Meeting

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night signed a petition in the name of and for the town, requesting that Winchester's representatives to the General Court propose a bill to the Legislature for that body to validate the acts of the 1965 annual Winchester Town Meeting.

Winchester's Rep. Harrison Chadwick, and Senator Phillip Pellegrini of Arlington whose district includes this town, have both indicated they would submit and support such a proposal.

A Legislative Act is necessary to validate the actions of the Winchester Town Meeting, including its voting to authorize issuance of municipal bonds, and including its election of town officers, as a result of the town government's failure to deliver all the required town warrants before the Commonwealth's prescribed legal advance notice deadline.

The signing of the petition was the first official act of the Board of Selectmen under its new chairman, Edward E. Hicks. New members sitting on the board, whose elected status theoretically could be jeopardized if the Legislature fails to enact validating legislation—which has never happened, historically, in similar cases, included X. Paul Chase, former chairman of the Finance Committee, and Jerry K. Porter, a former member of the Finance Committee. Returning Selectmen are Robert Armstrong and William Kimball.

Public Hearing On Apartment Height Restriction Issue

"This is one of the most important decisions the town will have to make in the zoning field for some time," commented Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, this week in urging citizens with views on apartment houses to attend tonight's public hearing at 8 o'clock in the East Room of the Town Hall.

The Planning Board hearing is being held on discussion of the merits and deficiencies of a proposal to amend the town's zoning by-laws to prohibit the construction of apartment houses higher than 40 feet or three habitable stories.

While the public hearing is technically limited to arguments on the proposed zoning amendment in the upcoming April 20 special Town Meeting warrant, discussion will undoubtedly encompass the second article in the two-item warrant which calls for an amendment

Secondary School's Report Outlines Size, Site Proposal; Big, Modern, Campus Asked

The Permanent Building Committee has recently made public its report on recommendations to the town as to the number of pupils for whom secondary school facilities should now be provided, how these facilities should be provided and where they should be located.

IN SUMMARY, THE PBC RECOMMENDS:

- That the Town now provide secondary school facilities to house a total of 1,500 pupils in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades and a total of 1,400 pupils in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades;
- That these facilities be provided by constructing a new senior high school to accommodate 1,500 pupils and that the present Senior High School and Lynch Junior High School be utilized as junior high schools; and
- That the new senior high school be constructed in the vacant tract of land located southerly of Johnson Road, westerly of the Catalano development, Girard Road and Parkhurst School, northerly of High Street and easterly of Ridge Street.

ADOPTION OF RECOMMENDATIONS, THE PBC BELIEVES, WILL:

- Provide a senior high school structure which will promote and not hold back the quality of education Winchester makes available to its high school students;
- Provide superior junior high school facilities;
- Make readily possible any expansion which unexpected population increase or program changes may require;
- Avoid disruption of and any material expenditures on present facilities;
- Provide a permanent home in the present Senior High School for the School Department central offices, now temporarily housed at Lynch; and
- Make McCall Junior High School available for use as an elementary school structure, thus contributing to a solution of the elementary school space problem.

TURKEY RIDGE SITE ON WEST SIDE FOR PROPOSED NEW HIGH SCHOOL

At the 1963 annual Town Meeting the town delegated to the Permanent Building Committee "the duty of considering the situation of the secondary schools, study and consider plans for alterations, expansion, rearrangement of present facilities, consider any other locations . . . also to consider additions to any present school buildings or for the construction of any other building or buildings."

The PBC report begins with documentation on its sources of research information as to establishing the need for additional secondary school facilities, noting in conclusion that "present secondary facilities have a capacity of 1,250 pupils in grades 7, 8 and 9 (assuming relocation of School Department central offices which now occupy academic space for 150 pupils in Lynch) and 900 pupils in grades 10, 11 and 12." The report emphasizes, however, "that facilities are required for an additional 150 pupils in the junior high grades, 300 pupils if the central offices are not moved, and for an additional 600 pupils in the senior high grades."

The recommended additional secondary school facilities space provisions are based on a planned 1,500 high school enrollment, and a junior high enrollment of 1,400—saying that these estimates could turn out low, depending on whether Winchester's total population ends up at 27,000 as predicted by various agencies, or whether it rises to 30,000 as projected by others.

After investigating many theoretical ways to provide the needed facilities, the PBC stated it believed there were only five solutions which appeared feasible, namely:

1. Build an addition of necessary size to the senior high school, and build an addition of necessary size to Lynch (or McCall) Junior High School. (This solution referred to as the "Addition Plan")
2. Build an addition of sufficient size to Lynch and remodel the present Lynch structure as required to house 1,500 senior high school pupils, making Lynch the senior high school, and use the present senior high school and McCall's as junior high schools. (The solution referred to as the "Lynch Plan")
3. Build a new junior high school of necessary size on a new site to provide, in conjunction with Lynch, for 1,400 junior high school pupils, and convert the present senior high school, McCall and a new structure of necessary size to be built adjoining McCall, into a "campus" senior high school for 1,500 pupils. (This solution, which is that recommended by Dr. Marshall, referred to as the "Marshall Plan")
4. Build a new senior high school of necessary size on a new site to accommodate 1,500 pupils in grades 10 through 12, keep Lynch as one junior high school, and utilize the present senior high school as a junior high school and as the permanent location for the School Department offices. (This solution referred to as the "New High School Plan")

Elements of these may be combined to form other solutions. One such combination, which merits separate consideration, was

5. Building an addition of sufficient size to the present senior high school, and remodelling the present structure, as required, to house 1,500 senior high school pupils, and constructing a new junior high school of necessary size on a new site to provide, in conjunction with Lynch, for 1,400 junior high school pupils. (This solution referred to as the "Combination Plan")

Strongly basing its recommendations on the Marshall Report and its own studies, the PBC investigated eight basic questions in arriving at its proposed solution.

(A.) As compared with the other possible solutions, to what degree will the structures resulting from a particular solution provide the kinds and sizes of spaces needed for a modern educational program in the best relationship to one another?

The Marshall Plan, the Addition Plan and the Combination Plan contemplate the continued use of the present senior high school as a high school, the Marshall Plan in combination with McCall and a new structure, the Addition and Combination Plans with a substantial addition integrated as well as possible with the existing structure.

Savings Bank Larger In New Modern Decor

Winchester's oldest and largest banking institution, the Winchester Savings Bank, completed its building expansion and renovation program several months ago and, according to president James F. Dwinell, Jr., both the bank's staff and its many customers are very pleased with the results.

The Winchester Savings Bank was founded in August, 1871, when it opened its doors on the ground floor of the old Cutter House on the right side of Main Street just north of the railroad crossing.

The present structure was built in 1872, and an addition was made to the rear of it in 1936 to house a new vault area.

Since that time there were no major additions or renovations until last year. Last July work began on making additions onto the rear and left sides of the building, and renovating and remodelling the interior.

"Many customers have mentioned that they are pleased with the pleasantness of the bank's renovated interior and that they like the cheerful decor," Arnold Gibson, treasurer of the bank, said this week. He also noted that many of Winchester's older citizens, as well as some of its younger people, have commented that they were happy to see that the outside structure was not greatly changed in appearance, although altered somewhat with the addition of the front rampways leading to the stairs, the two front signs, and the side and rear additions.

MODERN CUSTOMER LOBBY AT WINCHESTER SAVINGS

Usually lost and found items are referred to the Police Department or the Winchester Star classified page to find owners! But, as always, there are exceptions to every rule, and now the town's executive board, the Board of Selectmen, is looking for the new owner of a traditional cane.

For many years the Boston Post Cane was presented by the former newspaper of that name to residents of cities and towns served by the paper. In those days the cane was given to a man, but when the newspaper went out of existence and it devolved upon the Selectmen to choose the Winchester holder, the board decided to make women eligible. Five of the last seven holders have been from the distaff side.

Mrs. Harriet M. (Thomas) Smith was the last holder of the Boston Post Cane as Winchester's oldest resident at the age of 102. When she passed away on Wednesday, February 26, 1964, the special symbol traditionally owned by the oldest living resident here was returned to the Selectmen to find it a new owner.

The gold embellished black cane, which shows obvious signs of much usage, is suitably engraved with the following inscription: "Presented by The Boston Post to the Oldest Citizen of Winchester, Mass. (To be Transmitted)"

Preceding Mrs. Smith as oldest resident of Winchester to be honored with the Boston Post Cane was the late Miss Myra H. Smith.

Miss Smith succeeded the late Mrs. Edward H. Stone, who in turn received the emblematic cane from Mrs. Isabella L. Tufts. Before her the holder was Josphua Phippen, and before him the first to hold the cane under the aegis of the Board of Selectmen was Lucius R. Symmes.

The Selectmen are searching to find the identity of the present oldest resident living in Winchester to continue the tradition of passing the cane on to its rightful next owner.

Dinner Guest And Hostess All Eyes

SQUIRREL'S INTRIGUE. It's hard to tell which is more intrigued by the other, the squirrel or young Joy Rotondi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Rotondi and granddaughter of Gov. and Mrs. John A. Volpe and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Rotondi. The squirrel hopped onto the feeder and kept a close eye on Joy while nibbling away at the tidbits — and Joy, equally intrigued, enjoyed watching the little forest creature down his dinner.

En Ka Reports On Gifts To Community

A meeting of the En Ka Society last Tuesday opened with a tribute to Vera McKenzie, an active member since 1939, who recently passed away.

During the course of the business meeting, a finance committee report noted the following gifts:

The traditional provisional tea to honor those invited into provisional membership this month, will be held on April 14 while the annual meeting date has been set for June 8.

In her En Ka exchange report, Ginny Whitten mentioned that 65 members contributed 387 work hours to the Exchange since January. The remainder of the Society meeting was turned over to Renee Spencer who went over in detail every aspect of the En Ka Fair of which she and Pedie Birchall are co-chairmen.

The meeting was held at the home of Ruth Blackwood, preceded by a luncheon served by Debby Broadhurst's committee.

Humphrey Barrett Howe

Funeral services were held at the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Medford for Humphrey B. Howe, who died after a short illness on March 23rd.

Known to many here, Mr. Howe was the brother of Mrs. Clarence A. Roberts of Westland Avenue; and of Weston Howe, formerly of Winchester, now of Medford.

He was the grandson of Humphrey Barrett Howe, appointed postmaster in the Winchester area in 1842, whose brother's widow, Mrs. Nancy Symmes Howe, in 1890 left to the town for use as a public library the site of the present McCall Junior High School.

Mr. Howe is also survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice (Archibald) Howe of Medford; a daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Rimer of Durham, N. C. ; a son, Lt. H. B. Howe, Jr., with the U. S. Army, of Monterey, Calif.; and a second brother, Allyn W. Howe of Medford.

Born in Yonkers, New York, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Horace Joseph Howe. Upon the death of his father in 1911, the family returned to Medford. He attended Medford schools, going on to Springfield, and graduated from Boston University. He received his master's degree from Tufts University.

He was a member of the faculty of the Roberts Junior High School in Medford for 31 years, and previously taught at Auburn and Fryeburg Academy in Maine, at St. Paul's School on Long Island, and in Reading. In addition to teaching history he served as junior high school coach and junior varsity basketball coach. In the summer he was supervisor for the municipal pool at Tufts Park.

He was a past president of the Medford Teachers' Club, a member of the New England Football Officials Assn., secretary-treasurer of the Greater Boston League Basketball Coaches Assn., a member of the Medford Historical Society and of the Mount Hermon Lodge of Masons, and chairman of the board of trustees of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Medford.

Amory Prentiss, Jr.

Private funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. this afternoon at the Grace Episcopal Church, Medford, for Amory Prentiss, Jr., of 34 Jefferson Road, who died suddenly early Tuesday morning at the New England Sanatarium in Stoneham. He was 42 years of age.

Mr. Prentiss, the husband of Frances L. (Marie) Prentiss, had lived here for 18 years and was the son of Mrs. Amory Prentiss of 222 Main Street and the late Mr. Prentiss.

He was born in Medford on May 10, 1922, and went through the Medford schools graduating from the high school in 1941. He subsequently went to aviation flight training school in Indiana and also did further graduate work in aeronautics at Butler's University in that state.

In World War II he was a lieutenant in the United States Air Force and a jet pilot instructor. He had also been a reserve flying officer, being a captain in the National Guard flight unit operating out of Logan Airport.

Subsequent to his war service Mr. Prentiss went into commercial flying and has been for many years a pilot for the American Airlines. He was a member of the Mt. Hermon Lodge of the Masonic Order in Medford.

In addition to his wife and mother Mr. Prentiss leaves three daughters, Virginia Ann, Nancy Jane, and Suzanne Marie; a sister, Mrs. Louise Ross of Danvers and two brothers, Thomas M. of Exeter, N. H. and Richard H. of Fairbanks, Alaska.

Any donations may be made to the New England Sanitarium in Stoneham, but it is requested that flowers be omitted. Interment will be in the family lot in Forest Hills Cemetery in Roxbury.

Harry W. Moulton

An honor guard from a Boy Scout troop of Reading will take part in services to be held this afternoon for Harry W. Moulton, 73, a long time resident here who died on Monday in Bradenton, Florida.

Mr. Moulton, who was the husband of Mildred (Miller) Moulton had lived here at 30 Oxford Street for 30 years, moving subsequently to Reading and then, at the time of his retirement seven years ago, to Florida.

He was the former president of the W. A. Miller Candy Company in Cambridge and for more than 25 years also a district representative of the Curtis Candy Company of Chicago. He was widely known in Baptist circles and was active in that church here, serving it for many years as a deacon. He was a former commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Moulton Neb., Mrs. Barbara Caswell of the Confectionery Salesmen's Club of New England and of the New England Candy Club.

Mr. Moulton leaves four daughters, Mrs. Irene York of Reading, Mrs. Gladys Langille of Bellevue, Neb., Mrs. Barbara Caswell of Melbourne, Fla., Mrs. Miriam Bean of Boston, and three sisters, Mrs. Hazel Buck and Mrs. Claire Thayer, both of Melrose, and Mrs. Clifton Nichols of Wolfeboro, N. H.

Services for him will be at 2 p.m. in the Chapel at the Woodlawn Cemetery in Everett.

Mrs. Evelyn (Kaknes) Hall

Mrs. Evelyn (Kaknes) Hall, 36, of Holly Hill, Marshfield, died on Monday at the Massachusetts General Hospital. She was the wife of Warren C. Hall and the mother of one son, Michael, seven years old. She had lived here until about six years ago.

Mrs. Hall was born in Medford on January 11, 1929, but moved to Winchester in her early years and went through the schools here, graduating from the High School. She was the daughter of Michael and Thelma (Warwick) Kaknes of Chelmsford, residents here for 20 years.

In Marshfield Mrs. Hall was active in the Marshfield Woman's Club and in the Antique Society. She retained her membership in the First Congregational Church here and services were held for her in Ripley Chapel yesterday afternoon with the Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart, officiating. Burial was in West Medford.

Mrs. Hall is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Patricia Cressey of Topsfield and Mrs. Jane Caron of Chelmsford, and by two brothers, Richard M. Kaknes of Lincoln, Nebraska, and Robert M. of Chelmsford.

Mrs. Grote Dies In Cincinnati

Mrs. Mary H. (Maguire) Grote, mother of Mrs. Henry M. (Marian Grote) Gahan of 73 Grove Street, died on March 29 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Grote was born and educated in Cincinnati and was a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She was the widow of the late William D. Grote, Cincinnati industrialist and with him maintained a winter home at Palm Beach for many years. Mrs. Grote is also survived by three sons and four daughters, all of the greater Cincinnati area, and by eleven grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren.

Dale Thompson, Jr.

He leaves also four children, Polly Ann, Betsy, Olcott and Thomas as well as his mother, Mrs. Pauline Thompson, who made her home with him and his family in Swarthmore, Pa.

Mr. Thompson was born in Hollywood, Calif., and was graduated from Swarthmore College in 1950. He was a civil engineer with the Pennsylvania Railroad in Philadelphia and was a member of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Swarthmore, where services for him were held yesterday morning.

In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the American Friends Service Committee or to Swarthmore College.

Glee Club

The Mystic Glee Club was an offspring of the Winton Club show of 25 years ago when a group of men got together to sing a few numbers as part of the show. They were so well received that evening that they continued singing together and formed the Glee Club. From there, the group joined the New England Federation of Glee Clubs and through the years has won every award for excellence which the Federation presents at annual competitions.

There are few men who enjoy singing in Winchester who, at one time or another during the past 25 years, have not joined the Mystic Glee Club to enjoy the concert activity and good times, and many of the club's former singers are expected to return for this special anniversary concert.

Usually the group presents its local concerts at the McCall Junior High School, but this year an informal cabaret-style concert was decided upon for this occasion, with tables set throughout the hall and refreshments served.

A few years ago, eight members of the Glee Club joined into another singing group, calling themselves the "Two By Fours" and have become widely known throughout New England for their own fine singing style and enjoyable concert presentations. They also will be returning for the evening to join the Glee Club in a series of songs along with presenting several numbers of their own.

It is also hoped that conductors of the Mystic Glee Club through the years will return and conductor Wendell Withington has issued special invitations to them.

Winchester has been proud of the many musical accomplishments of its Mystic Glee Club, and the entire town, singers or not, has been invited to join with the club in its anniversary concert.

The Old Worker And Job Opportunity

When Americans reach the middle-years—35 - 45—their "job opportunities diminish, age barriers loom" and a critical employment problem "is born."

That is a major conclusion of the chapter of the recently released 1964 Annual Report of the President's Committee on Aging entitled "Action for Jobs."

"Developing the needed job opportunities — full time and part time — will require a concerted, long-range effort," the report declares.

"The problem," it adds, "will deepen with increasing life expectancy, increasing numbers of young people, and the spread of automation."

On receiving the report, entitled "Action for Older Americans," President Johnson directed the Council on Aging "to continue its study of the implications of aging for our nation's economic and social policy. Specifically, we want to know more about retraining and developing new skills for older workers."

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, a member of the Council, hailed the report as "a powerful testament of the Federal Government's resolve to meet effectively the myriad needs of our older citizens.

"I think the portion of the report dealing with employment is especially significant because it focuses clearly not only on the dimensions of the problem but on action to alleviate the job plight of these older workers."

The report reveals that four out of every 10 men and women in the nation's work force are 45 or over. In 1963, this group numbered 28 million.

While unemployment has dropped since 1961 for all workers, including older employees, an average of 1.1 million persons 45 and over were jobless in 1963.

"For many," the report says, "it was chronic joblessness."

On the average, male workers, between 45 and 64, who lost their jobs in 1963 were unemployed for some 21 weeks, while joblessness for younger men lasted only 14 weeks, it points out.

—He attended high school, but probably dropped out.

—He cannot find a new job for periods ranging from 8 to 21 months, even in favorable labor markets, and his family experiences considerable hardship.

The report emphasizes that the Department of Labor, through its bureaus and the U. S. Employment Services' affiliated state employment service agencies, "has been actively seeking solutions" with a triple-pronged older worke r program.

This program includes direct services (counseling, placement and training), factfinding activities to illuminate the problem and educational and information activities.

In fiscal year 1964, these direct services were rendered:

—1.4 million veterans applied for jobs, and 1.1 million non-farm job placements were made.

—734,000 women age 45 and over applied for jobs and 584,000 non-farm placements were made.

—109,000 job placements were made of handicapped workers age 45 and over, and 47,000 older handicapped applicants received special job counseling.

—Under programs of the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962, more than 9,000 age 45 and over were trained.

—On-the-job training projects have been approved for 16,500 persons.

In 1963-64, a series of fact-finding studies directed by the President produced a number of "interesting findings," the report states.

A study of 26,000 job openings in eight major cities, for example, showed that 42 percent of the personnel requests barred those over 55, 29 percent barred those over 45 and 18 percent those over 35.

These upper-age limitations "were most often specified in the least physically demanding occupations," the study pointed out. Two-thirds of the clerical and sales jobs had upper-age limits.

A study inquiring into why employers impose age limitations showed that the reason most often given was "inability to meet physical requirements of the job."

Paradoxically, most employers also rate their older employees as "equal" or "better than" employees in nine out of ten job-performance characteristics.

A BLS study of older workers' productivity in mail sorting found that the output differences among workers at various age levels "are largely insignificant."

This survey further reveals that older workers performed "at a steadier rate with less variations from week to week than younger age groups."

Copies of the Council on Aging's 1964 annual report may be purchased for 30 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

to the building by-laws as well to prohibit the building of an apartment house in Winchester beyond a 40 foot or three habitable story height.

Mr. Gray inferred that the board expected the hearing's discussions to include points of views on allowing apartment houses in Winchester and on the need or desirability of creating a special Apartment House District category in the town's zoning by-laws—which the board has recommended to the town and expects to present as a proposal at another later special Town Meeting.

The Planning Board had such an Apartment House District article in the annual Town Meeting recently concluded, but asked that the article be deferred until after tonight's public hearing and the April 20th special Town Meeting had passed on the height issue raised.

Tonight's public hearing and the special Town Meeting on the height restriction limit for apartment houses are being held as the result of a Town Meeting Warrant request petition bearing 450 signatures being presented to the Board of Selectmen on Monday, March 22. Warrants calling the meeting were mailed on Friday, April 2.

The petition for a special Town Meeting to be called at this time to restrict the height of any apartment house built in Winchester appears specifically designed to curb the construction of an eight-story apartment house at the old Beggs and Cobb tannery site, where excavation, foundation and grading work has already been in progress for over a month.

More generally, it appears designed to prevent the construction of any apartments in Winchester.

If the special Town Meeting passes the two restrictive zoning and building by-law amendment articles, a legal question might arise as to whether the two articles would or would not apply to the present apartment house project at Beggs and Cobb.

While several town officials declined recently to be quoted on the legal applications of the two articles to the Beggs site project, they were of the singular opinion that it seemed unlikely the town could impose such an ex post facto type laws in this instance; and, secondly, if the town attempted such a course of action, it might become very expensively liable for damages.

Miss Rutter To Wed In June

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Rutter have announced the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Lynn, to Bryan Carl Ellickson of Cambridge. He is the son of Professor and Mrs. Raymond T. Ellickson of Eugene, Oregon.

A June wedding is planned.

MISS PHYLLIS RUTTER

Miss Rutter was graduated from Mount Holyoke College where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She did graduate work in political science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is now a member of the professional staff of Arthur D. Little, Inc. in Cambridge.

Mr. Ellickson received his B.A. summa cum laude from the University of Oregon and is studying for a doctorate in economics at M.I.T. as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Birnie Is Engaged

Mrs. Walter Hart Birnie of 18 Yale Street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Hart Birnie, to Mr. Victor Rene Holan of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, son of Mrs. George Holan of New York City and the late Mr. Holan.

Miss Birnie, daughter also of the late Mr. Walter Hart Birnie, is a graduate of Concord Academy and Skidmore College. She made her debut in 1957 at The Country Ball in Concord. Miss Birnie is the granddaughter of Mrs. Arthur Aldersey Kidder of Winchester.

Mr. Holan attended Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and served with the United States Army. He is currently associated with L. G. Balfour Company.

A May fifteenth wedding is planned.

Miss Reed Engaged To Mr. Seaver

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey T. Reed of Milford, Connecticut announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Jane, to Mr. Donald Vanor Seaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Seaver, 90 Middlesex Street.

MISS LINDA JANE REED

Miss Reed is a graduate of Cornell University, Ithaca, New York where she was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority. She is now a graduate student at the Boston College School of Social Work.

Mr. Seaver was graduated from Boston University and served in the U. S. Army. He is now attending Boston College School of Social Work.

St. Mary's Holy Name Is Sunday

The monthly Holy Name meeting for St. Mary's parish will be held this Sunday, April 11, following the 7:45 a.m. Mass at St. Mary's church in the Knights of Columbus hall on Mount Vernon Street. All members of the parish are cordially invited to attend.

The guest speaker for the meeting is George DeLeo a Winchester resident who will speak on the Cursillo movement. Cursillo is a Spanish word, which literal translation is, "short course in Christianity." Also at this meeting the nominating committee will give a report on the officers for next year.

This year the Holy Name is sponsoring a spring social to be held at the Knights of Columbus hall on Saturday evening, May 15th. Dancing from 8 to 12 by the music of "Two Scotches and a Rye" a well known trio from Medford. This affair will be the last social event for the year and we sincerely hope a great many of the membership will participate. A buffet will be served at 11 o'clock Several door prizes will be given away during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Clark of Lowell announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Ann to David Lawrence Fortiere, son of Daniel S. Fortiere of 40 Lake Street and the late Mrs. Fortiere.

MISS CYNTHIA ANN CLARK

Mr. Fortiere is a graduate of Matignon High School and attended St. Anselm's College.

A May wedding is planned.

League Invites Public to War On Poverty Study

How does the "war on poverty" work? Why is poverty often self-perpetuating? What is being done now to combat poverty by Federal, State and local agencies?

These and other provocative questions will be discussed at the unit meetings of the Winchester League of Women Voters to be held April 13-15. The title of the study item is "The Development of Human Resources"; especially policies and programs within the United States for education and employment.

One of these experimental programs has been launched in the Boston area by the Action for Boston Community Development Committee. The Winchester League invited Harold Haizlip of the ABCD to speak at the Winchester Library on March 24. A capacity audience heard Mr. Haizlip outline the many anti-poverty programs now being developed and coordinated by members of his staff.

Programs for culturally deprived children of pre-school age have been so successful that "Operation Head-start," accommodating 300,000 slum children will be undertaken this summer. The programs of the ABCD are supported financially by grants from the Ford Foundation, the Boston School Department, and the Federal Government.

League committee members have also investigated the role of welfare boards in Winchester, and the local programs which provide help for those in need.

The schedule for the unit meetings, which are open not only to League members, but also to anyone interested, is as follows:

Tuesday evening, 7:45 p.m.: Chairman, Mrs. Alexander L. Pugh, III, PA 9-5347; Hostess, Mrs. David F. Edwards, 7 Fairmount Street.

Wednesday afternoon, 1:00 p.m.: Chairman, Mrs. James E. Kimball, III, PA 9-2347; Hostess, Mrs. O. Guinn Smith, 38 Rangeley Road.

Wednesday evening, 7:45 p.m.: Chairman, Mrs. Charles D. Chipman, PA 9-6260; Hostess, Mrs. Richard W. Freeman, Jr., 14 Franklin Road.

Thursday morning, 9:30 a.m.: Chairman, Mrs. Scott M. Cunningham, PA 9-5309; Hostess, Mrs. Wilbert E. Underwood, 9 Ravenscroft Road.

The McCarter Theatre Company of Princeton, which was recently featured on national television on the Esso Repertory Theatre, will be featured in the North Shore Music Theatre production of "Macbeth" at the annual May Shakespeare program at Beverly. Performances will be held during morning and afternoon hours from May 17 to 28. Further information is available by writing: Shakespare Program, Box 62, Beverly, Mass.

Mental Health Assoc. Presents A New Program

A new case aide program for volunteer work in the Metropolitan State Hospital will be highlighted at the annual meeting of the Winchester Mental Health Association, along with recognition to the Winchester volunteers already at work in the mental health field.

All interested persons are cordially invited to join with the membership at this meeting to be held at Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, on Wednesday, April 21 at 3 p.m., according to Miss Constance Trickett, association president. Refreshments and a chance to exchange information will follow the meeting.

The program to be featured is the new one just starting at Met State under the joint auspices of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association (of which the Winchester MHA is a chapter) and the Central Middlesex Mental Health Association.

Presenting the story of its inception and how it works will be its new director, Mrs. Doris Wright Epstein, M.S.W. of Lexington; and adding to this the story of driect experience of a volunteer in a similar program will be Mrs. I. R. Merriam, a volunteer in the Boston State Hospital Case Aide Program.

Invitations are going out to as many volunteers as the association knows about, including the 25 Winchester High School students who are doing active work at Bedford or the Mass. Mental Health Center, and their families. The association, starting its 10th year of activity in Winchester, will also hold a short business meeting on that afternoon.

The new Case Aide Program is especially good for those interested in taking first steps in volunteer work in this field. It is closely supervised and will take but one-half day a week. From one to one and a half hours a week will be spent with one patient individually and approximately the same amount of time will be taken up with a conference of the volunteer group, working with Mrs. Epstein.

Mrs. Epstein is a graduate of the Western Reserve School of Social Work, where she specialized in psychiatric case work. She spent several years with the Veterans' Administration and Family Agencies, helping the emotionally disturbed, both adults and children. She is enthusiastic about the program as it is developing here and anxious to interest Winchester residents in joining those who have already signed up.

Mrs. Paul Walter of Nassau Drive and Mrs. Richard Alt of Pine Street have been working to carry out the plans for this meeting made together with other members of the local WMHA board.

Armenian Church Kick-Off Dinner

Winchester Armenians were present last week, Sunday, at a kick-off banquet of the St. James Armenian Church Cultural and Youth Center project held at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, Boston.

Mrs. Albert Tatarian of 23 Oneida Road was a planning member of the fund committee and among those who heard Governor John Volpe of 10 Everett Avenue, speak and encourage the more than 500 present to build this most valuable center as soon as possible for the sake of the community.

Archbishop Sion Manoogian, primate of the Armenian Church of the North American Diocese, was a special guest and commended the gathering on their efforts toward their goal.

Mr. Gibson is pleased when he gets an opportunity to show people around the bank's attractively done-over quarters, and invariably the first thing he likes to point out is the more spacious and modern design of the customer lobby and banking teller area.

Formerly there were four teller windows arranged in a line from east to west as one entered the door, with a small area in front and to the sides for customers to make out deposit slips and record other transactions.

Now, however, the lobby area has been more than doubled by arranging the teller positions from south to north (from the front entranceway toward the rear of the building) and near the Fire Station side wall—thus opening the center area and left side from the front to the rear of the old building.

This customer lobby area is brown carpeted to match the new dark walnut panelling on all the walls, and the new walnut desks and chairs and counter area.

Desks for the officers of the bank line the left side of the lobby area where they are more accessible to customers for consultation, and the treasurer's office is in the right corner alcove.

Also on the left side near the middle of the building is a new after-hours teller's window, with two side entranceways, one with stairs and another with a ramp leading to it. Starting this week the after-hours window will provide service to customer's from 2 o'clock to 3:30 p.m. from Mondays through Thursdays. On Fridays, the bank is open from 8 to 2 and from 4:30 to 6:30.

The addition onto the rear of the building, towards the Police Station, was made to provide a bookkeeping office, a trustees conference room, and three privately enclosed coupon booths for customers to use in going over safety deposit box contents. The old bank vault has been made over to provide storage for safety deposit boxes — a new Savings Bank service—and a new record vault has been added.

The storage basement of the Savings Bank was also renovated, and an employees snack and lounge room was made over, a women's room and lounge added, and a basement entrance constructed on the easterly side toward the Fire Station.

Newly installed in the Savings basement were a central air conditioning system, a forced hot water heating system — which automatically controls the heat inside the building by relating it to whatever the temperature is outside the building, and an automatically self-adjusting system that turns the lights playing on the two front signs on and off nightly according to daylight time changes by way of a rotating calendar dial precisely set to Winchester's global latitude and longitude.

The two new nine foot long Winchester Savings Bank signs are located at both ends of the front left and right 22 foot long cement rampways. The rampways have hip-high brownstone walling leading to the few remaining stairs mounting to the new, modern, all glass entrance doors. These two rampways are also electrically heated to keep them free from ice in the winter.

According to Mr. Gibson, all that remains now to do in completing the Savings Bank addition and renovation program is the landscaping around the building.

The total cost of the addition, renovations, and refurnishing of the bank came to approximately $180,000.

The Savings Bank, the oldest and largest bank in Winchester, has present assets totalling $29,250,000.

The Savings Bank, as a saving institution, engages primarily in handling savings accounts, GI and FHA mortgage loans, and small personal and collateral loans. With the completion of its new building program, the Savings Bank has also added some new services, including safety deposit boxes for its customers, small loans on automobiles, and more liberal personal loan policies.

Universities Seek Former Corps Volunteers

Peace Corps Volunteers applying for scholarships from American colleges and universities after two years overseas receive an average of nearly five responses each.

Dr. Robert Calvert, Jr., director of the Peace Corps' Career Information Service, announced 2,800 responses from educational institutions to requests of 600 volunteers for financial assistance in 1965-66.

Over half of the 3,500 volunteers who have returned for two year assignments overseas are enrolled in school, according to Dr. Calvert.

"Because of the unpaid service nature of their Peace Corps commitment, many of these former volunteers need scholarships, fellowships or assistantships to continue their education," he said.

Dr. Calvert attributes the volunteer's interest in graduate studies to a formulation of career goals during Peace Corps service. At the time they joined the Peace Corps, 34.4 per cent of the volunteers were unclear or had no career goal. Now according to questionnaires submitted by 2,300 returned volunteers, only 12.2 per cent are still uncertain — and many of these have general plans toward which they are taking graduate training.

During Peace Corps service, 54 per cent of all volunteers changed their career goals, and are taking further training to meet U. S. requirements. Prior to Peace Corps service, 527 volunteers planned careers in teaching. Now 633 plan to teach, and are working toward certification or advanced degrees.

Almost 33 per cent of all volunteers desire overseas or international careers, a sharp increase over the eight per cent with these goals at the time of entering the Peace Corps.

There is a definite shift away from engineering and technical assignments toward more general managerial roles. At the time they entered the Pace Corps, 107 volunteers wished to work in business in an engineering or technical capacity. Only 42 have this goal now.

Peace Corps service helps volunteers with average undergraduate records to be accepted for graduate study. A volunteer in Colombia received this notice from Stanford University:

"Your academic record of itself would have led to rejection of your application, but your new-found motivation and your record with the Peace Corps seem to make you a good bet."

Peace Corps To Test April 10

An opportunity for Winchester residents to test their aptitudes for Peace Corps service will come at 9 a.m., Saturday, April 10, at the Brighton High School, 25 Warren Street, Brighton.

The opportunity is the Peace Corps Placement Test. It is not passed or failed, but simply indicates where your greatest potential lies. The Peace Corps Questionnaire, which must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted, tells what an applicant has done in the past. But the placement test is aimed at showing what he or she CAN do in the future. Applicants do not have to register for the test ahead of time.

The Peace Corps Questionnaire can be obtained at all post offices. There are two parts to the Peace Corps Placement Test: a general aptitude test and a modern language aptitude test (for knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary). Applicants should plan on about one and one half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

Test results are used, with the character references and questionnaires, to provide the most suitable assignment for volunteers over seas.

Forum to Hear Dr. Cart, See Two Lenten Plays

On Palm Sunday, the Senior Forum will attend the 9:15 a.m. morning worship service at the First Congregational Church. Dr. Cart will preach the sixth in his series of Lenten sermons, based on Christ's Sermon on the Mount, entitled "Appearances are Deceitful."

Theodore Cook will be chaplain and deacons for this service will be Richard Wakefield, Stephen Kajander, Douglas Fox, Charles Weedon, Robert Brunkhorst and William Canfield. The ushers will be Jeffrey Wheeler, David Weaver, William Thompson, Jeffrey Strout, Paul Robinson and Stephen Butterfield.

At 7 o'clock Palm Sunday evening in Ripley Chapel Forum will present a Lenten dramatic service. Two short plays, "A Very Cold Night" and "Two Mothers" will be given in workshop fashion. There will be a social hour following the service in Chidley Hall.

Schools

The PBC notes, however, that "the present high school is an inflexible structure . . . which does not lend itself to rearrangement in keeping with current educational (requirements and) thinking, or to subsequent changes to keep pace with future educational progress." (The committee was referring to the school system's attempt to keep pace with progressive innovations in the modern educational revolution, such as honors courses, team teaching, language labs, curriculum reform "enrichment," independent study, advanced placement, and non-graded classes, as well as room sizes and layouts and other space considerations.)

The PBC added that "nothing short of replacement would overcome the limitations which are inherent in the (high school) building," such as constricted circulation and guidance office spaces, inadequate and inappropriately located toilet and storage spaces, and the windows, wiring and heating arrangements that fit only the present structure and could not be rearranged.

The PBC therefore discounted the Marshall plan as adding the inflexibility of McCall to the inflexibility of the high school; rejected the Addition and Combination Plans as adding another multi-story stop-gap measure that would be unrelated to the whole high school and become inflexible; and objected to the Lynch Plan as converting an excellent junior high into a poor senior high, requiring expansion beyond what the building will lend itself to.

Thet report concludes that "the New High School Plan is by far the best plan for providing the kinds and sizes of spaces needed for a modern educational program for a 1,500-pupil high school and for providing these spaces in the best relationship to one another.

(B.) To what degree will the structures resulting from a particular solution readily permit internal changes of size and uses of spaces to adapt to changing needs?

The PBC concluded that the Marshall and Lynch Plans showed little adaptability to change, the Addition and Combination Plans were only somewhat adaptable, but the New High School Plan would be readily adaptable.

(C.) To what degree will the structures resulting from solutions lend themselves to additions should population outstrip present estimates or other unforseen factors arise to make expansion necessary?

The PBC concluded that the structures resulting from the Marshall and Lynch Plans could not be sufficiently enlarged, and that the Addition and Combination Plans high school would be difficult to add to; whereas the New High School Plan "would readily accommodate any necessary expansion at both senior and junior high levels."

(D.) To what degree will the sites of structures provide adequate facilities, including athletics fields and parking?

The PBC concluded that only the New High School Plan offered better senior and junior high school outdoor facilities than any the town now has, because all the other plans called for taking up playground space for additions.

The PBC concluded that although the plans considered planned continued of all existing structures, the New High School Plan was the best because it would not require any material expenditure on any existing structure. The other plans would require substantial additions that would make poorer use of the buildings.

The PBC concluded that on the basis of the first five criteria the New High School Plan was by far the best solution. The lack of sites of sufficient size for a 1,500-pupil school raised problems of location, however.

The PBC noted that "From the point of view of centrality, of accessibility, of availability of public transportation and of nearness to other facilities such as the library, shops, service establishments, the town's center is the best location for a high school. The volume and noise of traffic on Main Srteet, however, are undesirable, and traffic noise has been an interference with classroom work at the senior high school. Having a high school so near the town's business center is not an unmixed blessing."

The PBC continued, "The location for the New High School Plan . . . is not near either the geographical or population center of the town. To the extent that these are disadvantages, the PBC believes they are insubstantial when contrasted with the major educational advantages of a new high school on an adequate site."

(G.) What is the cost of the solutions?

The PBC estimated the following gross costs: $2,562,000 for the Addition Plan; $2,976,000 for the Lynch Plan; $3,768,000 for the Marshall Plan; $5,120,000 for the New High School Plan; and $5,220,000 for the Combination Plan.

The estimated net costs, after deducting state school building aid where applicable, showed: $2,277,200 for the Addition; $1,825,000 for the Lynch; $2,432,000 for the Marshall; $3,160,000 for the New High School; and $3,266,000 for the Combination.

The PBC noted that the differential between the smallest capital cost in the Lynch Plan and the Committee recommended but more expensive best New High School Plan, was $2,144,000 in gross costs, or in actual net costs only $1,334,000.

The PBC estimated the Addition Plan operating cost at $54,000; the Marshall at $67,000; the Combination at $67,500; the Lynch at $72,000; and the New High School at $103,500.

The committee noted that increases in bus transportation costs would largely be absorbed by the state.

LOCATION

The PBC surveyed the town for available tracts of vacant land sites of 30 acre sizes, after discounting land near the center of town by the present High School, at the Beggs and Cobb site, in the Town Forest and off Tufts Road as all being too little in area, too expensive in land takings, or not completely adequate for the purposes.

A tract of some 80 acres east of Ridge Street between Johnson Road and High Streets, referred to as the Turkey Ridge parcel, was finally selected as the most promising site location by the PBC.

The PBC will propose at a contemplated May special Town Meeting acquiring some 46 acres of the Turkey Ridge parcel, stretching from Johnson Road to High Street and including the swamp area next to Johnson Road, which can be developed for playing fields, and the higher land south and east of the swamp on which the secondary school structure would be placed.

Copies of the PBC's secondary school project report and recommendations are available to the public at the Public Library and at the school department offices at Lynch School.

THE 68TH ANNUAL COMMUNION BREAKFAST for the Winchester Knights of Columbus brought together 280 members who marched from the Council Hall to Saint Mary's for the 8 a.m. Mass and then returned (top) for a catered breakfast. Among the head table guests (below) were Fire Chief Francis Amico, the Reverend Paul E. Shanabrook, Grand Knight Leonard Sortino, the Reverend Gerald Horgan and Police Chief Joseph Derro. Standing are District Deputy Thomas Shanahan, Deputy Grand Knight Albert Lawton and Selectman William Kimball. The Rev. Shanabrook, secretary of the Stewardship Council of the United Church of Christ in New England, presented a talk entitled "As One Protestant Sees It," pointing up the similarities and differences between catholicism and protestantism and reporting the progress of the Ecumenical Council in Rome.

STREET CLEANING BACK IN SEASON. Winchester Highway Department's two street cleaners are back in action after winter's end. The two machines clean 63 paved miles of local roads over an eight-week spring period. One machine continues through the summer, the second rejoins it in the fall. A spray bar in front of the cleaner wets the dirt to prevent dust clouds from rising. The side broom whirls the dirt under the machine, where another broom takes over and raises it into a container.

On Sunday St. Mary's C.Y.O. presented "Winterset" by Maxwell Anderson at Star of the Sea Church in Marblehead.

This drama was in competition with plays from surrounding parishes. Tying for second place with another group, St. Mary's came out on the short end of the stick. The winners of the festival were St. Mary's of Melrose presenting "Mennonite" and Incarnation of Melrose presenting "The Woodshed."

To be congratulated for their hard work and good performances are Robert Lynch and Justin Barrett as two men; Paul Soucek as Trock Estrella; Ron Macdonald as Shadow; Bob Letty as Lucia, Gail Murphy as Piny; Louis Briasco as Garth, Diane Penta as Marianne, and Larry O'Toole as Edras.

Also receiving congratulations for a job well done are Elie Mears, patient director; Jim O'Donnell, stage manager and lights; Jeanne Burton, make-up; Diana Donald, properties and set, and Jane Emerson and Paula Burton, prompters.

Between Friday, April 2, at 5 p.m. and 9:35 yesterday morning the fire department personnel and vehicles went out on calls to cover 19 brush fires.

There were seven on Sunday, five on Saturday, three on Tuesday, and one each on Friday and yesterday.

The calls included one report that a very young child was burning twigs in play and they came from all over town—from Sandy Beach to Lockeland Road to the Woburn line near Holton Street and back into town at Grove Street.

The town fire fighters even discovered one brush fire looking out their own windows and walked next door to the K. of C. Council hall lot to put out one fire on Tuedsay afternoon.

Chief Francis Amico reminds the citizens that there is a higher than average danger just now from brush fires—that due to the very dry ground there is serious trouble with them all over the state. He also reminds that a permit from the department is necessary for outdoor burning.

Investigation Of Break Continues

Mr. and Mrs. Ruggiera had left their home at 8:30 a.m. and returned at 4 p.m. to find that the house had been entered and an assortment of things stolen from it.

Officer Robert Baird investigating on that day reported that some person or persons appeared to have entered the house by forcing a bathroom window.

It is presumed that the intrudent or intrudentss left through the front door, which was found open although it had been locked in the morning.

Editorials:

The Next Darien?

During the past weekend in separate instances two juveniles were found—discovered passed out—drunk on public property.

They were not the only teenagers drinking in Winchester last weekend, as police reports show. And last weekend was not any different from any other weekend in Winchester.

Last week the Star published a story notifying Winchester parents of the Police Chief's concern with the rising incidence of teen drinking in motor vehicles. He quoted laws enacted by the Legislature to protect the public from the threat of drunken minor (anyone 21 and under) drivers. That law goes so far as to say that possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor in a motor vehicle is violating the law, and is automatically subject to loss of his or her license.

The Legislature did not enact that law, the Police Chief did not raise the issue to the attention of local parents, and the Star is not discussing it here, all on the basis that there are only a few bad cases. Why not take confidence in the fact that the Legislature had surveyed the problem across the state, that the Police Chief is getting tired of stocking case after case of alcoholic beverages confiscated from minors in cars driving around town, and that the Star knows how much teen drinking and driving, and parent ignorance or conplacency there is here, and does not look forward to writing obituaries or maiming accident stories such as the "celebrated" Darien story.

Winchester had a chance to see one of its own "celebrated" cases in 1964 when several youths steered a totally out of control vehicle onto the Lynch School lawn—where a few minutes later they might have cut through a line of junior high students going to a gym class.

Of course, things like that never happen here; so we won't think about it . . . maybe, until something really shocking happens.

* * *

The problem of young drinking is a much discussed thing. Parents and teenagers, churches, courts, police, newspapers; all know the problem intimately.

For teenagers drinking is one of three things: an attempt at expressing their maturity (because this is what adults do), an expression of some sort of rebellion, or the lack of anything better to do with their time.

For parents teen drinking is one of several things: something to be prohibited at all costs (and they never know when their children drink so assume they don't), something they can't control so why try so long as junior doesn't get in trouble with the law, or something that just shouldn't be a problem and so isn't to them.

For the churches, courts and police, generally, teenage drinking is considered wrong and should not be allowed—but where allowed, it should only be in the private home under parental responsibility.

Newspapers tend to function as a mirror to society: showing what exists as fact, and then, attempting by extrapolating, drawing parallels, and thinking in terms of positive approaches to problems, to suggest a charted means course toward some beneficial or desirable end.

This newspaper would like to suggest that heavier and more potentially dangerous teenage drinking may be a single manifestation of the growing and developing larger teenage problem in Winchester.

What should first be emphasized is that the majority of the town's younger citizens do the town, their families, and their own names and reputations admirable credit—be it in scholastics, athletics, character or whatever their individual endeavors and traits. This is not, however, conversely to say that there is only a small percentage of the town's youngsters open to indictment within the problem.

This is a large area of community interest to dig into, especially briefly, but let us note a few important things here.

The town will soon consider whether to construct a mammouth new several million dollar high school. Parents and students may look forward to this; but many responsible informed taxpayers may well ask themselves how much the great effort and sacrificial expense will be appreciated. We'll wager it won't take many days before walls are scribbled on, furniture is marked up, and windows are broken. Not just a little bit; a lot. Do you know what the cost to taxpayers was last year in deliberate school vandalisms here? $3,000. Add to school vandalisms deliberate destruction of autos, homes, churches and other private and public properties in Winchester and you would be amazed.

Add to drinking and vandalism teenage violence. Cases of small and large groups of kids picking on either individuals or other groups. This is not to describe occasionally normal gripe fights. This is to say the high school girls sanitary had to be closed as off limits last year because of the number of fights there, and teachers had to be drafted as "patrol officers" to keep the corridors and sanitaries free from fights, open smoking against regulations, extra class affairs, etc. Problems in the junior high schools too: in one an extortion ring was crushed by the administration not too long ago when the collectors of "protection" fees were discovered.

Going deeper into the teenage situation in Winchester one learns that there is an ever growing stratification malignancy. Shades of Vance Packard and David Riesman! In this small tight little island community there is still room for the youngsters at even junior high level to set themselves apart from each other into "Ins" and "Outs." If one doesn't close one's ears to teen talk, it isn't long before the subject of "snobbies" or "cheapies" comes to the fore in bitter and hateful tones and terms.

So much for some of the "problems" in the teenage set; the once innocent age group that in many ways make their peers look the innocents these days. Lets look forward a bit and see if there aren't some positive approaches that can be examined for a better tomorrow.

Teenagers are constantly trying to assert their developing manhood and womanhood in terms of maturity. Along with the increased knowledge and sophisticated awareness of the ways of the world, another, and more important factor is the role of responsibility—to themselves, their families, and their society. Not too many years ago children were reared with teachings in self reliance and the importance of individuality—in responsibility for decisions, actions, achievements, etc. There is still a lot of evidence of that point of view toward, of and by teenagers—but by far the more prevalent theory going today is the group ethic. What the group does cannot be wrong, cannot be questioned without guilt of betrayal, and cannot be escaped or done otherwise. Group leaders are not always the wisest or most mature elements there, but at teen age are occasionally the most popular, the funniest clown, or the one who can get away with the most without being stepped on. We would suggest that teenagers look at individual responsibility in a society of freedom as the key element in "maturity."

This town has many teenagers who quite seriously and vehemently "hate Winchester." Those individuals—from both the have too much and have too little sets—and there are many of them, should concern themselves more with what they can do to make Winchester a better place to live in. Until this time in their lives they have been nothing but an economic burden on the community (schools, etc.), and rather than adding their being a social burden too, they should think in terms of contributing to the more important and better cause of making this a good place to live.

Local teenagers have a lot of free time on their hands after school, weekends and holidays, and on vacations. For many years the adult community here has overlooked the great need for more recreational facilities and a place for the ever growing teen population. By 1970 youngsters under the age of 20 will comprise better than a third of the town's population; it already is over a quarter. Sometime, soon, the town will have to provide more for its younger citizens in terms of a recreational center that might even go so far as to include a skating rink and swimming pool. Such a center could be built to be able to handle the town's adult population too; if it is envisioned with foresight and not done too niggardly.

Finally, teenagers that expect to be treated as mature individuals should be able to set for themselves standards of quality and excellence. And that includes social behavior. We know of more than one town where teenagers, affronted by the actions of some of their contemporaries and the harm done to their general (age) reputations have formed student or youth councils that sit as a court in meting out "justice" to their own. Such groups often command respect for things and ways that are right and just and proper more adequately than adults, police, courts, schools or churches are able because it is "their own" passing judgment—and often more harshly and with greater social embarrassment to offenders than would the other "authorities."

And down in Darien? Those teenagers of recent ill account went and raised money to purchase an old barn that they have converted into a theater and social center for themselves for a place to go and something to do—with requested and given adult supervision to insure it will contime in its good vein.

Of Importance To The Town

Tonight the Planning Board is holding a hearing on a petition for the town to restrict the height of any apartment house built in Winchester to 40 feet or no more than three habitable stories. Undoubtedly, all the negative voices against apartment houses will be there; equally likely, there will be only a few going who favor apartments in Winchester, mostly because they aren't as worked up or organized over the issue.

To taxpayers let us note that apartment buildings are about all that can now be built in Winchester, with the exception of maybe a few more businesses or very small industrial offices, that return more in tax revenues to the town than the town spends in servicing them. Single residence houses cost the town more in services than are returned in tax money—the difference is basically made up by commercial and apartment buildings and auto and truck excises.

To laymen on the issue, let us point out that a three story limit or 40 foot height restriction on apartment construction in Winchester where land is relatively expensive is an uneconomic and unreasonable rule to be passed.

The Planning Board may present an Apartment House District warrant article to a Town Meeting setting forth a more reasonable setback and height formula. The proposed restriction under discussion tonight is aimed more at thwarting the Beggs project, which the town wants and needs, and generally toward making sure apartments won't be built in Winchester because the restriction will be too stringent.

We hope the Planning Board will stick to its guns and continue to recommend what it honestly believes is the best thing for the town—a reasonable Apartment House District in Winchester.

Town Meeting Photo Report

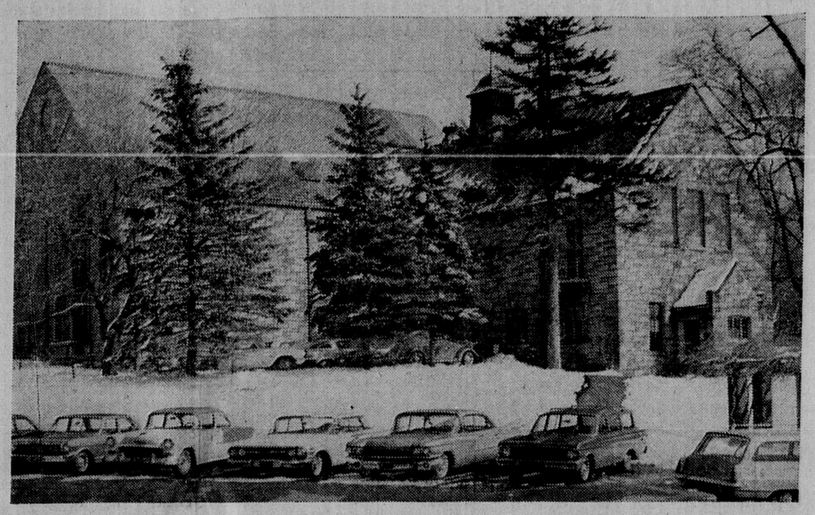
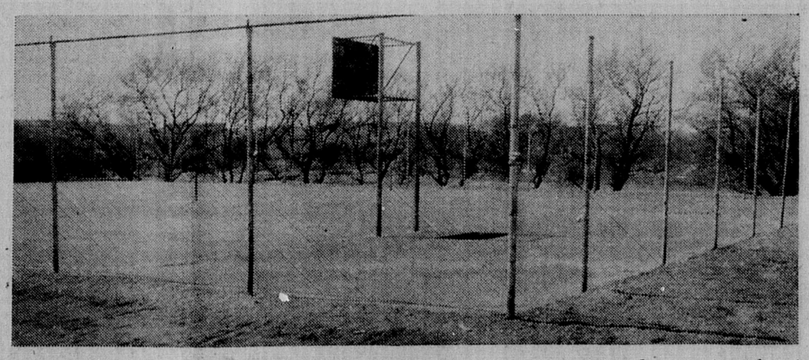
RAZING HOUSE FOR SCHOOL PARKING LOT. The house at 426 Main Street, adjacent to the southerly end of the high school, was authorized by the Town Meeting to be torn down to make way for a parking lot for WHS faculty, administration, and school business visitors. A sum of $3,000 was voted to raze the former School Department office building, grade and hot-top the land.



LIBRARY ADDITION APPROVED. After the special Town Meeting defeated the Library's attempt to get an addition built, the regular annual Town Meeting, before dissolving, reconsidered the library's case after learning the School Department's building program plans and voted to approve the $396,750 addition to provide more space for children's reading, stacks, and general reading purposes. The plan includes some interior remodelling at the library.



LEONARD TENNIS COURTS IMPROVEMENT. A sum of $4,200 was voted to repair and maintain the tennis courts at Leonard Field and construct a practice backboard. The article was petitioned by private citizens; the Park Department, which normally maintains and cares for the town's playgrounds, favored the article.

WATER AND SEWER CONSTRUCTION, MAINTENANCE. Expenditure of $115,000 was authorized by the Town Meeting to install a 2,200-foot, 10-inch water main in Pond Street from Cambridge Street and to clean and line 6,000 feet of 24-inch main from South Reservoir to Main Street. (No funds required as 1963 water construction and existing water surplus funds were available.) Laying of 800 feet of sewer in Pond Street from Cambridge Street and a sewer line in Trinity Road, at a cost of $14,500, was approved by the town. The town delayed continuing the second phase of the Myopia Hill area sewer project until a later date.

BOOK REVIEW

by Latrine C. Laban
Winchester Public Library

THE EDGE OF DAY

by Laurie Lee

The Edge of Day, published in 1960, is a prose poem written by a poet with an exact ear, a comprehensive eye, sophisticated understanding and melting tenderness. It is the tale of a boy, of a place, of a time gone now but vividly present to the author and his fortunate readers.

Laurie Lee, an English poet, was born in the Cotswolds, in the west of England, just before World War I (he thinks), and this is his story. His father had deserted the double family, but his mother cheerfully and hopefully brought up her own children and her stepchildren and in poverty, love, extravagance and exuberance.

Anyone who enjoyed Emlyn Williams' George will welcome this book. Everyone who likes people will like The Edge of Day. The people are country folk, characters but individuals, can be readily identified with people, known or heard of, from one's own past. The isolated village is rife with superstition and legend. "The village, in fact, was like a deep-running cave still linked to its antic past, a cave whose shadows were cluttered by spirits and by laws still vaguely ancestral. This cave that we inhabited looked backwards through chambers that led to our ghostly beginnings; and had not, as yet, been tidied up, or scrubbed clean by electric light or suburbanized by a Victorian church, or papered by cinema screens."

There is Jones' goat: "The first time I actually saw him myself had a salt taste I can still remember . . . Like a stagless herd of hinds and young our heads all went up together. We heard it then, far away down the lane . . . the drag of metal on frosty ground and an intermittent rattle of chains . . .

"Proud in the night the beast passed by, head crowned by royal horns, his milky eyes split by strokes of moonlight, his great frame shaggy with hair. He moved with stiff and stilted strides, swinging his silvered beard, and from the tangled strength of his thighs and shoulders trailed the heavy chains he had broken."

I enjoyed this book so much that after reading it once, I immediately reread it. It cannot be defined, it simply is—a book to be read and reread for its felicity of phrase and its warmth of feeling.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Opposes Apartment Project, Urges Residents Voice Opinions At Planning Board Hearing Tonight

The voters of Winchester are immediately faced with a critical issue affecting the welfare and long-range development of our town. I refer to the proposal of a public-spirited group of our citizens to limit the height of all buildings to 40 feet or three habitable stories as set forth in the Warrant for a Special Town Meeting to be held April 20.

This proposal has been sparked by the application for a permit to construct an 8-story massive concrete 312-unit apartment house on the Beggs & Cobb property. To my knowledge our people have never before been faced with the proposal to construct such a building in our midst; and our Town Government, in its long-range planning, has not seen fit to take the initiative to forestall such a development or to put it before the voters for their determination.

If it is right and good for the Town to give one developer the privilege of building such a towering, massive structure, then it should be right and proper to give the same privilege to others.

It is obvious that the proposed apartment building would be entirely out of character in Winchester although quite proper in the mushrooming congested cities of Brazil for which it was so aptly named. No doubt it would be very profitable to the developer and his financial backers and it would duobtless attract numerous apartment house dwellers from surrounding areas who would like to change their residences from other towns which rim the city of Boston.

This structure would hold little attraction for most Winchester people who would find it difficult to adjust themselves from the quiet residential areas of Town to the beehive activity of 318 families, the overtones of 318 radios and television sets, the noises and smells of 318 automobiles parked around the structure and the fluttering of laundry from the common front entrance passageway balconies which cover the entire front of the building facing the center of Town.

If in the judgment of our good citizens they do not want this sort of thing to happen to Winchester, they are urged to attend the April 8 meeting of the Planning Board and the Special Town Meeting of April 20. They should speak up at these meetings or express themselves unmistakenly to the Town Meeting Members who represent them.

If the proposed amendments to the Building and Zoning By-laws are adopted, there will be a breathing spell in which this whole matter of apartment houses and suitable controls and conditions can be thoughtfully studied and aired without the pressure of emergency action.

All our people should have an opportunity to express themselves on this vital issue. In the meantime, they should hold the line and attend the April 8 and April 20 meetings. What this Town will look like and be like 25 years from now is up to them, here and now.

Sincerely,
Gilman Wallace

Dog Lovers and "Dog Lovers"

Editor of the Star:

There have appeared in the Star recently several letters both from dog lovers and from "dog lovers" two entirely different breeds of people. The dog lover is a person who truly loves his dog and who therefore trains it properly. The "dog lover," on the other hand, is a person who 'loves' his dog the way Linus loves his blanket or the way a thumb sucker loves his thumb; he needs it to satisfy some craving, and when the craving is temporarily satisfied, he forgets all about the blanket or the thumb or the dog.

Naturally it is not his responsibility to train the dog so that it won't roam all over town digging up lawns and leaving its excrements. He feels no pangs of conscience when his dog, alone or in a pack, frightens little children and possibly even bites them and causes permanent injury to them.

And he is not to blame when the dumb untrained beast stupidly darts in front of a moving vehicle and is killed or maimed, not he. And nobody is less to reproach when this same dog causes property damage through rear end collisions or injury or death to drivers who swerve suddenly to avoid hitting his dog. Nothing is his responsibility, but it is his God given right to suck his thumb if he wants to and to have his blanket if he wants to.

This "dog lover" therefore is vigorously opposed to a leash law, for that would compel him to assume some responsibility for the dumb animal he so cruelly neglects and also for the neighbors' rights, and, surely, that is asking too much of a "dog lover."

Sincerely yours,
Kaspar O. Myrvaagnes
10 Orient Street

Dogs on Loose vs. Dogs on Leash

The subject of dogs on the loose vs. dogs on the leash has been raised in recent letters to the editor, and high time it is that this problem be faced. There is some merit to the arguments about property damage and auto accidents caused in part by dogs, but I would prefer to emphasize the major issue as I see it, which is the safety and well-being of people - particularly children. The scene at every one of our schools is the same at the hours when children are coming or going: packs of dogs roaming the streets and school yards, playful for the most part, but certainly menacing in appearance to the children who must fight their way through the packs. And all too frequently the menace is realized in the form of stolen mitten or worse, bites. The number of dog bites in our town which are reported and published in the Star is appalling; how many more "playful nicks" go unreported is impossible to guess.

The point is that we have a clear and present problem. If gangs of boys roamed through our yards and threatened children on their way to school, we wouldn't tolerate it. I see no reason to tolerate it on the part of dogs either. And I for one am willing, even eager, to pay my share of the cost of enforcing an effective leash law.

Sincerely,
Wallace E. Vander Velde
50 High Street

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The total gang of dogs in Winchester, both on the loose and on the leash, is 1,571 registered.)

Little League & Tag Day Drive: Taggers Thanked

With your permission, I would like to take this opportunity publicly to thank, through your newspaper, all of the men and women in Precinct 3 who gave so much of their time, last Sunday to help put over Precinct 3's part of the Little League Tag Day.

It certainly was gratifying to work with Little League families and those who have no personal connection with this activity, those who have no children participating or are neither officials, umpires, manager or coaches. It was amazing how many of the latter willingly covered parts of our town.

The spirit shown by all 37 of my co-workers, "Taggers," shows what can be done in a community spirit for a worthy purpose. Their efforts stand as a shining example of selflessness to many others who, though one of their children will benefit from this "day," were unwilling to give even one hour (19 houses) to help put the drive across.

Again, my congratulations to Precinct 3's team for a magnificent job, and thanks very much.

Sincerely,
James R. Stewart, Jr.
7 Winslow Road
Captain, Precinct 3

Some Additional Questions About Leonard Pool

Editor of the Star:

The recent accusations and statements concerning the efficiency and cooperation of the Park Commission, both in discussions at Town Meetings and in your editorial "The Big Indictment," followed by your rebuttal to Mrs. McDonald's letter, in which you coined the phrase "The Sin of Omission," have created several questions.

My daughter, a senior in nursing at one of our older universities, has worked as a lifeguard at Leonard Pool for the past two summers. During that time, she didn't mention anything of sufficient interest to arouse my suspicions as to the safety, hygiene, or health at the pool.

As a parent, I would be seriously concerned about any detrimental aspect of her employment, particularly in those areas. Her specialized training in the practice of professional nursing has made her acutely aware of all phases of health, including the prevention of illness, and of her community responsibility for the well-being and safety of those under her supervision.

Lifeguard duties require a person to be in the water for many hours each day throughout the season, so her evaluations of conditions are founded on daily exposure to them, and not on casual observations. They should dispell comments such as "I thought Leonard was a dirty and unsafe pool."— or —"...anyone that went down to Leonard could see that there was not enough water under the diving board." The outstanding safety record at this beach and the unquestionable health of the hundreds of people who enjoy this facility openly prove that these criticisms are unfounded.

The "neophyte representative" who "has no love for the Park Board" was also employed summers at Leonard Pool, while he was a college student. Obviously his thoughts as to the conditions present were widely different, as were his duties as Red Cross swimming instructor. During the winter months he is employed on a part-time basis by the Recreational Committee, a group which has been critical of the Park Board for sometime, and whose benefits and facilities are extended to a very few, in comparison to those who avail themselves of Park Board activities. It would be interesting to prorate the expenses of each group to the number of people deriving recreation from each, both supported by town funds.

As to the Red Cross Instructor, it is most surprising that he continued to conduct classes for persons whose safety was under his direct jurisdiction in a pool which he described as being unsafe, especially when two other public beaches are located in town - Wedge Pond and M.D.C. Sandy Beach, neither of which has been criticized in this respect. Incidentally, it might prove of interest to find out how many other towns have three such fresh water beaches available to their residents.

In my opinion, the "Sin of Omission" is the basis of the "Big Indictment" of a Red Cross Instructor who would knowingly conduct classes, sponsored by such an excellent organization, and also give private lessons, as a professional, in a pool which he openly states is unsafe. The Red Cross would never condone such heedlessness and disregard for waterfront safety, since its programs are recognized throughout the world. Possibly it is time for a "Big Evaluation."

Sincerely,
John F. Hoffman

Planning Board Speaks on "A Good Zoning Idea:" Special Uses Zones

Editor of the Star:

We have noted your editorial entitled, "A Good Zoning Idea," which appeared in the April 1 publication of the Star. You begin with the statement that "One controversy at - Town Meeting - pointed up the Town's need for some zoning changes."

You make reference to the proposed parking lot at the rear of the medical building off Washington Street to ease the traffic and parking problem in this locality and state that the objections were not so much against the parking lot itself as to the extension of the Business District zone and possible encroachment of general business uses.

You recall the suggestion of one Town Meeting representative, "that the Planning Board should consider drafting a Special Exception Zone for the town to take care of special cases such as this one." You conclude that the idea is a good one and that you hope to hear more on it from the Planning Board.

If you will refer to the Town Report for 1960, you will discover that the Planning Board tried in vain to enact a similar zoning change at the Annual Town Meeting of that year. See Article 25 of the Warrant which was presented by this Board at the Adjourned Annual Representative Town Meeting on March 28, 1960. See also the Report of the Planning Board at Page 180 of the Winchester Town Report, with particular reference to pages 182 and 183.

At the above-mentioned meeting, the Board proposed the establishment of a new classification of zoning entitled, "Special Parking Districts." This was designed to permit the Town at any future meeting by a two-thirds vote to establish a particular parking district by superimposing the same on a residential district.

Any parking district so established in a residential zone would have been subjected to the restrictions and regulations of such zone except that thereafter the Board of Appeal could permit the land in the Special Parking District to be used for off-street automobile parking lots accessory to lawful uses outside the district, provided that in the case of every such parking lot it would be used only for private passenger vehicles, no fee would be charged for its use, no repair service, and no sale of gasoline and oil or other commercial operation would be permitted, and no signs would be permitted other than those deemed by the Board as necessary for the orderly parking of vehicles.

It was further proposed that in granting such a permit, the Board of Appeal should impose such conditions and limitations of design, construction, and use as in its opinion would protect the neighborhood and the Town, with the minimum requirements that the lot could have a hard and dustless surface, it would be screened from view at normal eye level from adjacent residential uses by walls, fences, or suitable landscaping, and that all lights would be shielded from direct view from streets and adjacent residential uses.

In making these proposals to the Town, it was the expressed thought of the Planning Board that certain residential zones abutting business zones could be used for the alleviation of the parking problem with no harm to the community. We pointed out the dangers of creating business zones for the purpose of providing parking areas. We were and are aware that such a procedure tends to throw land open to a variety of non-residential uses and gives the Town no control over the possible parking area.

We pointed out, also, that an area suitable for parking by virtue of its proximity to a main highway and non-residential uses might, if restricted only to homes, attract construction of an undesirable type of low-value houses. It seemed to us that this would be one way to provide necessary parking facilities for automobiles in certain areas with all the proper safeguards for the protection of the community.

Our proposal was defeated by a vote of 152 to 28.

It is reassuring to read that you believe this to be a good zoning idea and perhaps we can count on your support for such a proposal in the future. You will, no doubt, hear more from the Planning Board.

Sincerely,

Little League Thanks Tag Day Donors

Editor of the Star:

On behalf of Little League of Winchester, we would like to express our sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to Tag Day collection last Sunday. All are welcome to see their money in action, shortly.

Our season starts with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday, May 1, and for two months thereafter, Winchester is invited to see many exciting baseball games in both the major and minor leagues at Ginn Field and West Side Field.

Our sincere thanks go to the Tag Day team of mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters and friends of Little League who put in many hours soliciting support for our 1965 season.

It is certainly gratifying to be part of such a wonderful team of willing workers. Our workers were magnificent in sacrificing a couple of hours on such a beautiful day to help promote our season.

Thanks for a job well done.

Sincerely yours,
Al LaPointe, President

Mississippi Vote Registration Is Behind Student

Editor of the Star:

Our son Larry recently returned from working for voter registration in Mississippi. He has been busy looking for a job, and for a place to live in Cambridge until he resumes school next fall.

Thanks are due the people of Winchester who warmly responded to the needs of the Negroes in that Southern community and gave clothing, food, and money for the expenses of the S.N.C.C. office in Mound Bayou.

The effort toward voter registration goes on with the local staff, I understand, but there is a continuing need for understanding and money.

Sincerely,
Grace H. Archibald

Democratic Town Committee

Those members who are subscribers to our Massachusetts monthly periodical must have been pleased when they received Demo-Facts last week. Its coverage of our "Irish Night" was excellent and we had several phone calls about it.

Some of our members attended the Democratic City Committee meeting in the Medford Council Chamber on Thursday evening of last week. Present was Senator Kevin Harrington who gave a splendid talk on the Willis Report. He is the Legislative representative on this Education Committee.

We are planning a similar "guest" Town Committee meeting in the very near future. In this way the members of the Town Committee will become conversant with the aims and recommendations of this important Committee.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By YOUR CONGRESSMAN BRAD MORSE

SAIGON BOMBING

The whole Free World was shocked last week by the senseless and tragic bombing of the American Embassy in Siagon, South Vietnam. The loss of two American lives, countless casualties and the almost total destruction of the building demonstrated the limits to which the Viet Cong will go in this terrible war.

Fortunately, two Fifth District residents stationed at the Embassy were not harmed. I contacted State Department officials the day after the bombing and learned that Miss Rose Marie Connolly of Woburn and Winston C. Oliver of Reading were not on the casualty lists.

Ambassador Maxwell Taylor, home for briefings with Administration officials on the Vietnam situation, came before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in an early Friday morning session to give his assessment of our position at the present time.

NEW ENGLAND DEVELOPMENT

For some time I have been concerned about the problem of continuing and expanding New England development possibilities. Although studies have been done on specific problem areas, there is no overall development program for New England in such vital fields as water resources, transportation, industrial growth, public health, education and recreation.

To meet this need, I prepared legislation to create a New England Regional Development Commission composed of a representative of each of the six New England states and a federal representative to prepare an accurate inventory of our present needs and resources. Decisions of the Commission would be taken by majority vote of the seven members.

On Thursday, several of my New England colleagues here in the House joined me in introducing this legislation.

This regional approach is increasingly considered the soundest means to achieve balanced development and we are hopeful that New England can begin a thorough study of itself in the near future.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce together with the Chambers from other Massachusetts communities were in Washington for a series of meetings with Administration and Congressional officials. They met with Speaker McCormack, Secretary of Commerce John Connor and with Ambassador Averell Harriman and entertained the Massachusetts Congressional Delegation at a dinner Tuesday evening. The more than 40 Chamber representatives in attendance at the conference said they found it helpful and productive.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICAN WOMEN

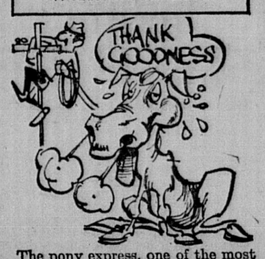
A sizeable delegation of Massachusetts Republican Women was also in Washington last week for the annual Republican Federation of Women meetings. Mrs. Morse and I had coffee with the Massachusetts ladies and other Massachusetts Republican Congressmen Tuesday morning.

RESIDUAL OIL

Every New England Congressman was shocked when the Administration announced that New England residual oil quotas for the coming year would be increased but not eliminated. Just a day before this announcement top Interior Department spokesmen had indicated that the quota for New England would be discontinued.

Together with my colleagues in New England I will continue to seek more favorable treatment for New England. Our hospitals, schools, offices and other public buildings rely heavily on this type of oil, which is imported primarily from Venezuela.

World Book Lore



The pony express, one of the most romantic enterprises in U.S. history, began its service on April 3, 1860. Daring horseback riders carried mail between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif., making the 2,000-mile trip in an average of eight or nine days. The service was discontinued after only a year and a half, when telegraph lines stretched from coast to coast, and the pony express was unnecessary.

Easter Contrasts

Throughout the land the Easter Season is celebrated as a period of Spiritual Exaltation.
Once again it has brought the promise of ★ NEWNESS OF LIFE
But there is another side to this picture. To thousands of helpless animals in the hands of merciless experimenters, the Easter Season means only—
• TERROR • AGONY • DEATH

We plead for mercy: Must it be in vain?

In the experimental laboratories of merciless men and women helpless animals are —

Mutilated, skinned, burned, beaten, frozen, gassed, electrically shocked, inoculated with diseases and otherwise tortured.

Removing heart of dog and substituting "a battery-powered mechanical heart." The animal died nine hours later of pulmonary edema.
Fall River Herald News

Boston Traveler

Cutting hole in side of cow and installing a plastic window.
Springfield Union

2 WHS Students On All-Star Cast

Last Saturday at John Hancock Hall, Boston, the high school presented "Goodbye to the Clown" in the finals of the Massachusetts State Drama Festival.

At the conclusion of the evening an all-state cast was selected. From the 180 performers, 17 were chosen, and Winchester had two recognized for this high honor: Jane Lynch and Sally Worthen. Both were presented certificates and medals.

Although Winchester's play was not selected as one of the two to represent Massachusetts at the New England Festival, the performance was a superior one. A few comments of the judges regarding the play indicate the cast did a fine job.

One judge said, "Done with feeling; I was deeply moved. The girl was remarkable, the clown delightful. Congratulations to all! the audience enjoyed this fine production."

Another judge said, "Mother (Sally Worthen) excellent. One of the few times I've ever seen a young person play a mother well. Peggy (Jane Lynch), you act beautifully your lines; you are Peggy." Comment on the play: "Excellent unity of action."

Others in the cast: Dr. Benson, Louis Briasco; Miss Erwin, Mary Sue Dalton; Clown, David Andresen; Uncle George, Ronald Macdonald.

Elks to Install Billerica Lodge Saturday Night

This Saturday evening, April 10, a suite of officers from Winchester Lodge of Elks headed by John Murphy, P.E.R., will install the officers of Billerica Lodge.

This is an open installation, one of the few in Massachusetts. Local Elks who have attended prior Billerica installations know they are in for a grand time.

Elks ladies take note. Get your husband to take you for a fine evening of enjoyment. There will be a cocktail hour, a fine dinner, dancing and entertainment.

Unattached Elks may of course bring guests.

5-7—Social hour
7-8—Dinner
8-9—Installation
9-midnight—Dancing and entertainment. A combo supplies the music.

The Billerica lodge is located on Webbrook Road in Billerica. For explicit directions, call the local club quarters.

Billerica installed the Winchester officers last Sunday. This reciprocal arrangement has been in effect for the past few years.

Mr. Niles has been manager of the firm's Mutual Fund department. He joined Burgess & Leith in 1960 following associations with Schirmer, Atherton and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co.

Mr. Niles is a 1950 graduate of Tufts College. He recevied the Most Valuable Player Award as a member of the 1950 Tufts baseball team and is a member of the Tufts University Baseball Hall of Fame and is a former member of the Boston Braves Baseball Club.

More recently he has been area chairman of the Tufts University Annual Fund Drive and a director and umpire-in-chief of the Winchester Little League. He is also a director of the Mott Metallurgical Corporation. He resides here with his wife and three children.

Francis W. Donovan of 117 Sylvester Avenue has commenced training in the Evening Division of the Bay State Academy, airline training program.

3 Palm Sunday Services At Methodist Church

Two identical Palm Sunday morning services of worship and a special Palm Sunday night service will mark the observance of the day at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The morning services will be at 9:30 and 11 o'clock with special music and a Palm Sunday sermon by the pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, on the subject: "The Unwanted King." A reception of members will be added to the eleven o'clock service. Both the Youth Choir and the Sanctuary Choir will sing at both services.

The first division of the Church School, which usually meets at 9:30 o'clock, will make a slight adjustment and be in session for 9:45 to 10:45 o'clock on both Palm Sunday and Easter.

The Palm Sunday night service will be at 7:30 o'clock with members of both the Junior High and Senior High Youth Fellowships taking part. The theme of the service will be "The Eight Last Days" and will focus on the events of the first Palm Sunday, Holy Week and Easter.

Miss Wendy Newman, president of the M.Y.F. will preside and give the Call to Worship and the Prayer. The sermonic presentation on "The Eight Last Days" will be "Palm Sunday," by Richard Kadesch, Jr.; "Monday Through Wednesday," by Judith Stafford; "Maundy Thursday," by William Chase and "Good Friday to Easter" by Lynne Scott.

The Rhythmic Choir will give an interpretation of Matthew 21, and the Intermediate Choir will sing an anthem with Mrs. Gloria Maifeld directing and Mrs. Julie Collins at the organ.

Ushers and greeters will be: Jeffrey Armstrong, Allen Fletcher, David Poole, Royal Morse and Jody Stiles. The entire service is under the direction of Mrs. Jo An Adcock with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stiles as advisors.

State DeMolay Ball Saturday

Local DeMolays, as well as members of the Order from all over the state, are making plans to attend the twenty-sixth annual state DeMolay Ball, which will be held in the ballroom of the New Ocean House at Swampscott, this Saturday evening, April 10.

Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the State DeMolay Sweetheart chosen from a large field of entrants from many of the ninety DeMolay chapters from throughout the state.

Athletic trophies will be presented to the Division and State Champion teams of the DeMolay basketball and candlepin bowling leagues which found more than 35 chapters competing over the last three months as well as the state champion and high single champ in the ten-pin bowling tournament held February 25th at Lexington with 12 chapter teams in competition.

Over 1,000 DeMolays and their dates will dance to the music of Ken Reeves and his orchestra with all proceeds of the ball being used for the benefit of the Order of DeMolay in this state.

The Order of DeMolay is a fraternal organization for boys between the ages of 14 and 21 years which has as its purpose the "Building of Better Citizens" through a program that emphasizes Leadership Training and Character Building with leisure time activities that promote physical and moral fitness of youth.

Med. Assistants' Course Directed By Mrs. H. Leary

Mrs. Howard Leary of Westland Avenue arranged and directed a series of eight medical lectures given at the Leary Laboratory on Bay State Road in Boston.

The course was presented for the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Association of Medical Assistants and seventeen members completed it.

The members of the chapter are grateful for the interest and time devoted to the course by Mrs. Leary for the furtherance of the Medical Assistants Educational Program in Massachusetts.

Mr. Hakanson (Star's publisher) and I (author of these ditties) both thank you because you sure do read the small print and you sure do respond. For one solid week my literary vanity was greatly expanded and incidentally my pocket book. It's a toss up which is best. You can't spend ego so hurrah for the cash register. For both the aforementioned reasons I like this little game we play so let's go another round. First in our "Lady Bountiful" Shop . . . 20% off on any dress. As you know we have "Cos Cob" in misses and junior petite sizes. Also, what I think is one of the finest garments made in the ladies' sportswear industry . . . "Sloat." Now in our Men's shop . . . 20% off any sweater. And we have just received from California some terrific alpaca golf sweaters. So hustle on down you "hackers" and scoop them up. Talking about golf . . . if I could reduce my handicap 20% as easy as I reduce merchandise . . . I would have several good golfing buddies talking to themselves . . . dreams, dreams. By the way do you know that we now have a Young Men's shop (unnamed as yet). And every afternoon we look like a High School annex . . . because these teen males have found that we have just the right look for them. So come birthdays etc. don't wear out shoe leather seeking gifts. By the way you know that you have to mention reading this gibberish in the "Star" to avail yourselves of these offers.

Alliance to Hear Alonzo Field

Unitarian - Universalist women from neighboring churches will be guests of the Winchester Women's Alliance to hear the interesting story of the White House and our First Families who have lived there.

Many who have enjoyed Alonzo Field's fascinating book about his experiences in "My 21 Years in the White House" will look forward with special interest to his appearance as guest speaker at the Winchester church on Tuesday, April 13.

The annual meeting and election of officers will be held at 12 noon and luncheon will be served to members and their guests at 1, by Mrs. Robert L. Low and her committee.

MIT Matrons Meet Tuesday

The M.I.T. Matrons Evening Group will meet this month on Tuesday, April 13, at 8 p.m. in the Emma Rogers Room.

Mrs. Frieda Williams, who operates a Charm School in Burlington is the guest speaker assisted by her assistant directors, Mrs. Parachanian. They will discuss poise, personal appearance, wardrobe and many other topics to help the busy mother at home keep in vogue. As this is Guest Month members are invited to take anyone interested. For further details and those needing transportation, call Mrs. Joseph Salani, 729-6386.

Family Rooms
THE COMFORTABLE, secluded family rooms in our funeral home are there because families need their precious privacy—if only for a few hours—in between the times when they must face their difficult social responsibilities in time of bereavement. Ironically, death is not only a disrupter of family life, but also serves to cement family bonds. In the seclusion of the family room the re-creation of family solidarity often takes place.

Little League Thanks Town

Once again, through President Al LaPointe, the officers, managers, coaches and boys of Little League wish to express their thanks to the residents of Winchester for their support of the Fund Drive that was held last Sunday. It was a most successful effort and is well appreciated by the more than 400 boys who participate in the program.

No small thanks is due to the workers who went from door to door to collect the necessary funds for the maintenance of the league. A small army of workers was assembled to do the job and they made every effort to contact as many people as possible. Those who were not at home will find a letter and envelope in their mail boxes which can be mailed to the Winchester National Bank with their donation.

There remains only the task of forming the teams and waiting for spring weather to start the season. In thanking the people of the town for their contributions, President Al LaPointe made a point of inviting all of the Little League friends to attend some of the games. "We are certain that an enjoyable time will be had by anybody who accepts my invitation to see some of the Little League games," he stated.

"All of the games are played at either West Side Field or Ginn Field and we have ten major and 16 minor league outfits doing their stuff. They play as well as their ability allows so that some games are better played than others. But we guarantee that every spectator will get his full measure of enjoyment out of being on the scene. And there is nothing better than a bit of applause from the stands to inspire the boys on the field."

The final two days of tryouts will take place on Saturday, April 10 and Sunday, April 11. All boys are urged to attend the tryout sessions as the rules state that a boy must be at two of the three sessions to be considered for a club. Also, this year, two 12-year-olds will be allowed to play on each minor league team if the manager so desires. These boys may not pitch but they will be eligible to play on any of the other eight positions.

Little League is about ready to step off on the 1965 season thanks to the contributions from the Winchester inhabitants and the work done by all of the people who are interested in the program.

Babe Ruth League

Financial help may come to the Babe Ruth League in a variety of ways and the latest offer of aid is no excepton. Nick Ronzia, who runs a garage at 9 Chapin Court, is offering to give the proceeds of his inspection sticker income to the Babe Ruth League if the motorist specifies that he or she is a "Friend of Babe Ruth Baseball."

Mr. Ronzio is a real friend of the Babe Ruth League program. His garage is located just off Swanton Street, near the Town incinerator, and is an official inspection station. The announcement made by President Neal Doherty was that "any motorist who comes in for an inspection sticker merely has to indicate that he is interested in the Babe Ruth League and Mr. Ronzio will credit the sticker money to our project."

"The league is grateful to Mr. Ronzio," President Doherty continued, "and we hope that many auto owners will take this opportunity to get their sticker and help Babe Ruth baseball at the same time."

For those business houses who are interested in becoming a Babe Ruth league sponsor, there is one sponsorship still open. Mr. Doherty stated that any interested party may call him at PA 9-6731 and he will attend to the details for the transaction. This is a worthwhile endeavor that consists of boys through the 15-year-age group and is operated solely on the contributions received from those who realize the necessity of continuing this program.

Any donations will be appreciated and they can be made by merely sending a check to "Babe Ruth Baseball" in care of Mr. Doherty at 84 Loring Avenue, or to the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Roger Harsch at 10 Nassau Drive.

Cronburg To Sail In Europe For NA Yacht Assn.

Terry Cronburg of Thornberry Road has been named captain of the Inter-Collegiate Yacht Racing Association of North America team to sail in Europe next summer.

The U. S., which currently holds the Sir Thomas Lipton Memorial Trophy and the British-American Universities Trophy, will have to place both prizes on the line sailing in British waters.

Terry began his sailing career at MIT by capturing the New England Freshman Individual Sailing title two years ago. He was elected captain of the MIT varsity sailing team in his sophomore year and led the team to a sweep of the major regattas in the east last spring including the New England Championship and the Eastern Championship Owen Trophy. Tech, which is favored to win the North American Championship this year, finished behind only the University of British Columbia and San Diego State last year.

This past winter Terry was among four students presented with MIT's highest athletic award, the Straight-T, for national and regional athletic achievements. He was also elected vice president of the New England Intercollegiate Sailing Association, and has recently become a member of MIT's Beaver Key junior class honorary society.

MDC Golf Courses Open April 19

The Metropolitan District Commission's 36-hole Ponkapoag Golf Course in Canton and the 18-hole Leo J. Martin Memorial Golf Course at Riverside in Weston, will be opened to golfers, beginning April 19 and continuing through November 30.

Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., said that a new rustic footbridge, spanning the Charles River, has been completed at the Martin Memorial Golf Course which will speed up play by eliminating a long detour from the seventh to the eighth hole.

The first nine holes will now start and end at the clubhouse resulting in several holes being renumbered. The 9th hole is now 12th, 10th has been changed to the 11th, 11th to the 9th and the 12th is now 10th.

There were 45,000 rounds of golf played last season at the Martin course and 110,000 played at Ponkapoag during the 1964 season.

Charles G. Chambers will remain as golf pro at Martin Golf Course and Kenneth Campbell will return this year as pro at Ponkapoag.

Saltmarsh Chairs B. C. Hockey Awards Comm.

The presentation of trophies to outstanding members of the Boston College 1965 varsity hockey team were made last Sunday evening by Winchester's Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr., of 154 Mt. Vernon Street, former B. C. hockey star and chairman of this year's Committee on Awards.

The occasion was the annual banquet of the Pike's Peak Club held in Lyons Hall at the Heights to hear B. C.'s president, Very Reverend Michael P. Walsh, S.J., and others heap praise on "Snooks" Kelley's Eastern Collegiate Champions and MCAA finalists. Among the more than five hundred in attendace was a delegation from Winchester.

Harry McGrath Viewing The Masters

The explanations of the scoring problems as given by the late O. B. Keeler in 1940, in answer to his own question, "why don't the experts score better in the Masters?" apply as well for 1965 as they did twenty-five years ago.

Some of the reasons given by this great golf writer were that:

On practically every green the approach putt is a real problem to get the ball dead, yet the greens are designed to allow a flat space immediately surrounding the hole. No trickery in placing the pins is needed or practiced.

The par 5's invite the long players to get home in two shots, but anything less than two superb shots will be penalized, because of the natural hazards.

Practically every type of golf shot is required at some time during the round, and some of these shots, the experts have found to be seldom required on the "average" course.

Mr. Keeler wound up his suggested list of difficulties in speaking of the tensions that prevail during the Masters, and added "possibly too, they may still be a little nervous about how Bobby is doing," referring to the one and only Bobby Jones.

Today, through each of the four rounds, any one player may be a bit nervous as to how any one of 10 or 12 others are doing.

During Bob Jones' active playing days, he had hoped to some day have a part in building a golf course different from the conventional type.

When the spot was finally selected, it was one that offered the best obtainable in soil, terrain, tall pines, a great variety of beautiful shrubs, flowering plants and an abundance of dogwood and redbud trees.

Dr. Alister MacKenzie, a world famed Scotch architect, was called in and the construction work was started in 1931.

This they succeeded in doing to a remarkable degree.

I am sure that a secret poll of the leading professional and amateur tournament players, would result in the Augusta National Golf Course, being voted the No. 1 spot in popularity.

Contrary to some belief, there was no effort to reproduce famous holes from any other courses.

While some of the holes may bear some resemblance to famous holes elsewhere, the object and result was to develop 18 nearly original holes.

Possible Winners?

Who can say that Sam Snead, fresh from his eighth win in the Greensboro Open, won't have the necessary urge to catch up with Arnold Palmer and win his fourth Masters?

Sam, himself, is quoted as saying the odds "should be 19 to 1, instead of 20 to 1," on his winnings. (A good long shot, I'd say).

Then there is Jack Nicklaus.

It was my privilege to get to know Jack in the five years he played in the U. S. Golf Associations Junior Championship, and I was at Augusta in 1963 for his first Masters win.

At that time, Barbara, the lovely Mrs. Jack, wasn't present because of the anticipated arrival of young Steve Nicklaus, and I doubt if she will be there this year because of another expectancy.

Then there is always Arnie and his army to root him in. There can be no question as to his having every possible type of golf shot available to call on to make his 5th win, an actual historical fact.

I am told that Tony Lema, has several cases of champagne ready for his patented celebration. He gave the Nicklaus fans a lot of anxious moments in 1963, when he was only one stroke out.

What with Bill Casper's dieting; Doug Sanders, the wagon riding beau brummel, enjoying a real hot streak; the now slim Phil Rogers, it isn't really too difficult to come up with several names for a possible winner.

Julius Boros, can still putt, even though as the U. S. Open Champion, he failed to finish in the first 24 last year, he could and will be a threat.

If Ken Venturi could or has overcome the trouble with his hands, he could be right up there as a possible winner.

I am afraid that Paul Harney, who gave up the touring life to come back to New England, hasn't had the time to get his game where it should be.

WHO do I pick?

TV Rolloff Is April 19

A TV Rolloff for 11-12-13 year olds, will be held on April 19 at 3:30 o'clock at the Winchester Bowladrome, 259 Swanton Street.

The tournament is open to all boys and girls old enough, whether they be regular bowlers or newcomers, in fact, newcomers are welcome. It costs very little.

Three boy winners and three girl winners will be picked by the scores that they have in three strings of bowling.

Then on April 24, the final TV Rolloff will take place at the Winchester Bowladrome and boys and girls from various towns will be at the Bowladrome to compete with our six winners for the appearance on TV in May.

A Standout

TWO MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARDS is the record compiled so far this year by Ralph Sexton at Governor Dummer Academy in South Byfield. Captain of the hockey team, he was last week given the school's coveted trophy in that sport. Last fall it was football and he is behind the plate for the Dummer nine this spring and expected to play a strong role there, too. Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton of 14 Rangeley Road.

Cub Pack 506 Simulates Mexico

Cub Pack 506 held its monthly meeting last Friday evening, April 2, at the Unitarian Church amid a Mexican atmosphere. A display of den activities comprising pottery making, ceramic art depicting Mexico, a Mexican scene, and a Mexican-oriented play created the theme.

Dens 2 and 7 shared the best exhibit award, Den 2 for its play "Ferdinand the Bull" and Den 7 for its Mexican scene "South of the Border" complete with musical accompaniment.

Cub Scout David Allen received both a Wolf gold and silver arrow point; Cub Scout David Bower received a Wolf silver arrow point; Cub Scout David Dempsey received a Bear Badge; and Cub Scout Douglas Grout received a Bear Badge with a gold arrow point.

Gov. Dummer Honors Sexton In Hockey, Football

Ralph Sexton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton of 14 Rangeley Road, has been playing a prominent and distinguished role on the Governor Dummer Academy athletic teams this year.

The 5'10", 180-pound senior's value to his teams is best evidenced by the fact that he has walked off with the most valuable player awards in the two sports in which he was competed this year. Trophies were presented to him at an awards banquet held at the school last week.

Sexton captained the Governor Dummer hockey team this past winter and was a standout performer on the defense, playing nearly every minute of every game.

In addition to thwarting opponents rushes, he garnered 10 goals and 3 assists to lead the Governors in scoring. He is all over the ice and going all out every minute he is on the ice and this 100 per cent effort plus his leadership qualities as captain are the reasons behind his selection as the Most Valuable Player in hockey, according to his coaches.

Ralph also received the Most Valuable Player trophy for his efforts on the football field last fall. A two-year veteran who played linebacker on defense and a guard on offense, Ralph gave the same 100 per cent on the gridiron as he did on the ice. Coach Bob Anderson, in making the award last fall, said, "Ralph is the most consistent lineman I have coached, and he never played a bad game during his two years with the varsity." His worth is evidenced by his selection on the Private School League and Boston Globe All Prep teams, as well as a "reserve" selection on the Roston Herald All Prep 11.

"Magoo," as he is known to his teammates, is expected to play a prominent role in whatever success the Governor Dummer baseball team will have this spring, as he will probably be the team's catcher.

New . . . Girls' Ice Hockey

The Merrimack Forum "Zwickerettes," the first Senior Girls Ice Hockey team registered with the A.H.L.A. for their home rink, the Billerica Forum on Rte. 129 in Billerica.

"Zwicker-ettes" were formed by Miss Elaine Zwicker, co-captain, former Arlington High School hockey enthusiast, present resident of Wakefield.

The training of these girls is being assisted by Bill Dutton, a former Arlington High hockey star.

These girls ranging from 16 to 23 years of age played their first game at Walpole on Tuesday night, April 7 against the Walpole Brooms.

Any girls over the age of 18 interested can contact Miss Elaine Zwicker through the Billerica Forum.

Al Falvey, Jr.

Did you ever stop to realize what a good physical education program means to a student in high school today? Our late President John F. Kennedy was a bright and shining example to our American youth in this way. He was a firm believer that, a sound mind and a strong body go hand in hand.

How many times do you see a student walk a mile or two to get to school? Usually they hitch a ride or get some one to drive them there. You would think that there is something wrong with walking a few miles back and forth to school.

What ever happened to the afternoon ball games that the youth of a decade used to have at the playground? They just don't seem to be there any more. Are they getting lazy?

I can't think of a better way to solve this problem than to have a strong physical education program in the high school. Here at Winchester High the physical education programs for the boys and girls rate very high.

Last week at the high school the gym classes were participating in their annual physical fitness tests. These tests have been going on for the past 10 years and they have proven very successful. The test for the boys is grouped into four parts: chin up, standing broad jump, rope climb, and the agility run.

There is a scoring chart for the four tests, grouped by sections: freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior. As the student progresses each year at the high school, his score is compared to his previous year's scores. The senior scores are charted higher than are the freshman because they are three years advanced and naturally the test should be harder for him.

This year they will award a black Winchester shirt to the students who score over 400 points on this test. Below is a list of the record holders in the physical fitness test over the years:

Agility Run; Kevin Kiley, Bob Branley—record 11.2—year 1963
Rope Climb: Rich Hodge, Sam Cady—record 4.2—year 1961
Standing Broad Jump: Joe Bellino, Kevin Kiley—record 10 feet—years 1955, 1964
Dave Pywell—record 512—year 1965

Record Weekend in Store at Rockingham

As each weekend passes by at Rockingham Park records fall by the wayside. Last Saturday night the fans pushed a new mutuel handle through mutuel windows. The mark fell just short of the $700,000 mark.

Highlights of this weekend will be the first running of the $115,000 Atlantic Seaboard Trotting Series. For the past two years just the pacers have been running in this series. This year they have expanded it to include the trotters.

Friday night they had originally scheduled just one race with a purse of 7,500. The response by the horsemen has been so great that they will probably have to split the field into three races. All of these races could carry the full $7,500 purse, making this the biggest weekend to date at Rockingham Park.

BOWLING

A Grand Time Was Had by All!

For the past two Sunday afternoons, there has been three hours of family fun at the Bowladrome. Aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews all participated.

Watching the older group wait for a pin boy to set up their pins, shows just how long it has been since they have bowled. When they do get a strike or a spare, they bow and jump and, in general, everyone has loads of healthy, safe fun.

We have decided to call our family group, the Aunts, Uncles, Nieces and Nephews League and hope it continues to be a source of amusement for young and old alike. So far, the children are showing up their elders!

Taking honors this week:

Parent: John MacIsaac, high triple, 329; high single, 113

Cub Pack 525 Off To Strong Start

Cub Pack 525 chartered in January at the Vinson-Owen School held its second meeting recently and had almost 100% support from the parents.

The boys have almost all earned their uniforms and looked quite impressive and neat as they lined up for inspection. The special competition this month was for homemade neckerchief slides and many of the boys submitted entries.

The winners were selected by a special committee consisting of Ed Wright, Vince Palumbo and Jay Rondeau. The most attractive slide award went to Danny Ladd; the award for the slide that represented the greatest effort went to Rupert Stanley; and the award for the most ingenuity went to Billy McManama.

The theme for the skits last month were famous Americans. Some of the people presented in the skits were: Walter Reed, Paul Revere, Baden-Powell, Ben Franklin, Thomas Edison and Teddy Roosevelt. There will be no skits this month, but there will be a competition among the boys on the stilts they have made.

The boys were very busy this past month and earned the following awards:

Den 1—David Wright, Wolf and David Harsch, Silver Arrow.

Den 2—Eddie Porter, Wolf, Gold Arrow; Dale Wilson, Wolf; Paul Miller, Gold Arrow.

Den 4—Phillip Toomajian, Wolf, Gold Arrow.

Den 5—Chip Vickroy, Wolf; Joe Medwar, Wolf, Gold Arrow; Mike Corf, Wolf and Gil Frey, Wolf, Gold Arrow.

The fathers were also busy this past month and in cooperation with all the Cub Scout parents of Pack 525 raised $297 in the Annual Sustaining Membership Drice for the Minuteman Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Trout Fishing Starts April 17th

Water levels and high temperatures, as attested by ice-free lakes, forecast an early spring," says Dick Cronim, northeast district manager of the Mass. Division of Fisheries and Game. "More than 190,000 six to twelve inch trout will be stocked in the 32 ponds and 154 streams in the district, as well as 500 mammoth brookies, browns and rainbows (discarded brood stock) weighing from one to four pounds."

"Highlight of the opening season will be stocking of the 125 "Centennial" brook trout to be placed in 22 district ponds. Celebrating the Division's 100th anniversary, these fish will bear an identifying yellow plastic "spaghetti" tag, carrying a number and the address of where to return the tag. A suitable certificate will be issued to those lucky anglers who latch onto one of these specially tagged fish."

Tagged trout are scheduled for the following ponds: Ashland Reservoir, Ashland; White's and Walden ponds, Concord; Whitehall and Hopkinton Reservoirs, Hopkinton; Lake Cochituate and Dug Pond, Natick; Baddacook and Knops Ponds, Groton; Massapaug, Dunstable; Houghton's, Milton; Lake Massapaug, Sharon; Lake Pearl, Wrentham; Jamaica Pond, Boston; Upper Mystic, Winchester; Horn Pond, Woburn; Bailey's, Amesbury; Stiles Pond, Boxford; Pentucket, Georgetown; Lake Saltonstall, Haverhill; Sluice Pond, Lynn; Pleasant Pond, Wenham.

All fish are in excellent condition, due to the mild winter, and good growing conditions in the hatcheries. All in all, Massachusetts fishermen can look forward to one of the best fishing years in a decade.

First Teen Dance Held by Legion To Be April 30

On Friday night, April 30, from 9 till 11 p.m. the American Legion Auxiliary will sponsor a dance for the Teenagers in Winchester (9th through 12th grades).

"The Squires," a well-known popular, local band, has been obtained for the dancing pleasure of the young folk. The dance will be fully chaperoned, both by members of the Auxiliary and the Legion Post. This is a first for the Auxiliary Unit, and it is hoped that it is the start of others to follow.

The cost of admission is small, tickets are available at McCormack's Drug Store, or may be purchased at the door. Dress for the dance is semi-formal, (jacket and tie for boys, dress, skirt and blouse for girls). Posters have been circulated around town, publicizing the dance, but anyone wishing additional information may call Mrs. Cause, PA 9-0621, or Jr. Auxiliary, Anne Cause, and they will be happy to fill you in on the details.

The Legion is looking forward to welcoming the young citizens to its hall, and assures attendants a wonderful time awaits them there.

Six WHS Students In State Concert

Six WHS students will represent Winchester High School at the annual all-state concert to be held at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst on April 8, 9, and 10.

Brenda Baker, Gayle Clark, Robert Wilson, Mary Mouradian, John Burrows, and Alan Eugley won this honor by auditioning before outside judges in competition with high school students from all over the state.

Brenda had the problem of trying to be in two places at the same time. Having won the chance to compete in the math contest finals to be held at the high school on Saturday, she might have had a difficult choice to make had there not been another test center at Springfield. She plans to forsake music for mathematics on Saturday morning.

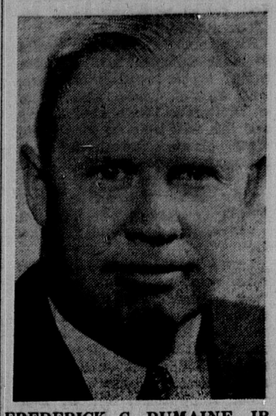
Republican Club To Hear Dumaine Speak at Meeting

Controversial Republican State Committee chairman Frederick C. Dumaine, Jr., will be the featured speaker at the annual luncheon meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester on Wednesday, April 14, at the Lord Wakefield Inn.



FREDERICK C. DUMAINE, JR.

Mr. Dumaine, a resident of Weston, is president and trustee of the Amoskeag Company and special advisor to the Legislative Committee on Transportation. He was formerly president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Local Republican women may obtain ticket and reservation information through Mrs. Ernest Wright at 729-0771.

Refresher for Nurses April 12

Refresher training for registered nurses is scheduled to start on April 12, under the sponsorship of the Massachusetts League for Nursing, Massachusetts Nurses Association, Massachusetts Department of Education and the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security.

It has been found that nurses who have been away from their profession for some time hesitate to return to staff nursing because they lack knowledge of the new equipment, medicines and techniques which are now being used in the hospital.

For this reason and to alleviate the shortage of staff Nurses, these agencies have combined their efforts to provide the necessary training without charge to the nurses under the Manpower Development and Training Act. It is the first time that refresher training of this type has been offered.

The five-week course will consist of intensive theoretical training at Boston College of Nursing and supervised clinical training at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. There will be three more groups similarly trained.

Registered Nurses who are interested in receiving this training must be available to attend classes every day Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for the five weeks of training and must be ready to work full time staff duty when the course is completed.

Application may be made at the Professional Office of the Massachusetts State Employment Service at 750 Park Square Building, 426-2855.

Herbert Moore To Head School In Oklahoma

Herbert B. Moore, a native and a graduate of Winchester High School has just been named to the headmastership of Holland Hall, an independent school for boys in Tulsa, Oklahoma. He has been headmaster of the Tilton School in Tilton, New Hampshire since 1958.

Mr. Moore spent his early years here, living on Penn Road. He is the son of Mrs. Lewis K. Moore and the late Mr. Moore and is married to a Winchester girl the former Martha Marie Fay, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Fay and the late Dr. Fay, former residents of Fells Road. Mrs. Moore is also a WHS graduate and the couple lived here after their marriage.

Mr. Moore earned his bachelor of arts degree from Bowdoin, his master's in history from Boston University and his master of education degree at Harvard. Prior to teaching and taking over the administration at Tilton, he taught history and mathematics at the Berkshire School in Sheffield and at the Belmont Hill School.

He will take over leadership of the Tulsa School on August 1.

Battle Against Smoking: Report Of One Successful Campaign in Area

On March 11 the New England Sanitarium in Stoneham announced the presentation there of the Five-day-Plan-To-Stop-Smoking to commence March 21 at the hospital, free of charge.

On opening night 106 persons were in their seats in the auditorium, 10 of them from Winchester and the others from Melrose, Maldren, Woburn, Wakefield, Reading, Belmont, Chelsea, Somerville and even Boston.

Raymond L. Pelton, hospital administrator, Dr. Edgar L. Latimer, surgeon and the Reverend George Muller, chaplain, who together made up the Stop Smoking Plan team were very pleased.

In January they had offered the course and had 15 takers, 13 of whom were successful. They feel their early spring response (to which they gave more area publicity than previously) proved what they contend: that people really want to give it up and will come a good deal more than half way to reach for some support in helping them do it.

Dr. Luther L. Terry, surgeon general of the United States agrees with this and the American Cancer Society solidly behind every such effort. Paul Dudley White and other comparable notables have given their blessing. Dr. White has visited the Stoneham program.

"I feel less rather than more nervous" was the report of one Winchester course graduate, explaining that once she got the effects of smoking out of her system she seemed to have broken the vicious circle of first the stimulation to have a cigarette, then the excitement of having one, and then the depression of going without, then back to a cigarette.

"It's a kind of group therapy that seems really to work" she said.

She was asked how soon she stopped—the first night or half way through.

"Well, we smoked all the way over to Stoneham as hard and fast as we could but that was it. I have not had one since and what's even better, I have been tempted less and less."

The design of the course is one that has been tried all over the country for the past three years and now is in use throughout the world. There are five one and one-half hour consecutive evening meetings.

At the first meeting the group was more or less interviewed as to the history of their smoking habits. The age group level was roughly one side or another of 40 and most had smoked for 20 to 30 years.

Their motivation for stopping was a sum of the most usual things including that newer post-the-U.S. Health-Report motive: that their children were being educated to the bad effects of smoking and were pressing them to stop.

A half hour movie graphically depicting the history of one lung cancer case concluded the first meeting.

The second meeting started with group discussion of their problems the first 24 hours, a second movie and more questions. Dietary aids and tips on what to do and what not to do made up much of the discussion—the therapy of group sharing of responses and ideas being a consistent factor throughout.

A "buddy system" is part of the design, wherein if you go with a friend you and the friend use each other as support in the hours between meetings and if not, you're assigned another enrollee for the same end.

On the third night withdrawal symptoms, more pronounced by then, were discussed and again feelings shared, gimmicks exchanged as to beating out the urge to return to cigarettes. "Boy am I cross with the kids..." "Well, so am I, but you know I keep saying to myself..."

The fourth and fifth evenings are boosters for what went before. Films, discussions, more sharing.

"By the fifth day 70 per cent or more have lost their craving," said the Reverend Mr. Muller, "and after that success is almost as easy as failure."

The New England Sanitarium was founded and given its start by the Seventh Day Adventist and the Five Day program is an Adventist initiated one. Non-smoking, non-drinking and clean living in general are basic tenets in the Adventist faith so that adherents to this religion are not those who need the program.

However the program and its potential for better health are offered free to the community by this group.

Lenten Quiet Day for Women Of Epiphany

The Lenten Quiet Day for the women of Epiphany Church will take place next Tuesday, April 13 during Holy Week at St. Anne's Convent in Arlington Heights.

This special privilege, enjoyed by many in previous years, is extended to all the women of Epiphany and friends. Cars will leave the Church of the Epiphany promptly at 9:30 a.m. for the short ride to the Old World surroundings of the convent chapel and gardens.

Communion service and meditations led by one of the sisters, begin at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be served in the refectory of the school, and services will conclude at 1:45 p.m.

Local Republican Women Visit Washington Conf.

Mrs. Barone, while atending the conference was presented with the flowers along with an orchid corsage as winner of the "Early Bird" award, which went to the first woman who registered for this year's conference.

Over 2,000 women attended the conference this year, coming from all fifty states. They heard such well-known speakers as: Senators Everett Dirksen, Margaret Chase Smith, Thruston Morton, Peter Dominick, J. Caleb Bogg, John G. Tower, Congressman Gerald Ford, Melvin Laird, Bob Wilson, Catherine May, as well as national chairman Ray C. Bliss, vice chairman, Pat Hutar, former Senator Barry Goldwater, former vice president Richard Nixon and Governor William Scranton.

Other Winchester women attending the conference were Mrs. James Blackham, Jr., Mrs. Rex Crandall, Mrs. Wilbert Underwood, and Miss Mary Prestwood. They were especially proud when Governor John Volpe was announced as speaker for the final meeting on Saturday. Governor Volpe's excellent speech was well received by the women. Mrs. Barone's guest for the Saturday affair was Mrs. Edward W. Brooke, Sr., mother of our Massachusetts Attorney General.

How to adapt standard items of clothing so that handicapped children may dress easily and attractively is a project developed by the Easter Seal Society. Information and copies of an illustrated booklet on self-help clothing may be obtained from the Easter Seal Society, 9 Newbury Street, Boston 16.

Thanks Go To Heart Funders

Richard J. Clark, M.D., of 71 Myopia Road, advance gifts chairman of the 1965 Heart Fund Drive, today expressed thanks to Winchester Heart neighbors and volunteers for their all-out support in the February drive.

"The success of the Winchester drive did much to help the state achieve its goal of 1.2 million dollars to sustain cardiovascular research," Dr. Clark said.

"The dedicated work of Winchester area captains, area chairmen and volunteers made it possible for us to have one of the most successful Heart Fund drives in our history," he said.

"Heart Fund research has made possible lifesaving surgery thought impossible a decade ago. Because of the Heart Fund, the heart-lung machine, cardioverter, artificial heart and high blood pressure drugs are available to fight the country's Number One illness."

Palm Sunday Music at The Unitarian Church

Music of Gounod and Faure will be heard on Palm Sunday, April 11, at the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Mary Ranton Witham will play the Downs Memorial Carillon at 10:30 and will then direct the Unitarian choir in a pre-service concert of the following music: "Gallia" by Gounod; "Pie Jesu" and "Libera Me" from Faure's Requiem, with soloists Estelle McNeely and Sidney C. Blanchard and the choir.

Anthems for the service will be "In Paradisum" and "Sanctus," also from Faure's Requiem "Agnus Dei," by Bizet will be the postlude.

What Red Cross Can Mean to You

BLOOD for a family member because you gave a pint through the Massachusetts Regional Blood Program within the past year—

SATISFACTION as a volunteer in working with servicemen or veterans at Chelsea Naval or Bedford V.A. Hospitals—

REASSURANCE acquired in a First Aid course in knowing what to do in an emergency before the doctor comes—

TRANSPORTATION to a hospital or clinic by a friendly Red Cross driver—

RAPID COMMUNICATION to a son or husband in the service through the efforts of a local volunteer working with the Red Cross Field Director at a military installation—

PLEASURE in filling a Friendship box to be sent to a boy or girl in a disaster area — or making holiday favors for the enjoyment of veterans at the Bedford V. A. Hospital—

Next Wednesday, April 14th, will be the occasion of our Mr. and Mrs. Championship for 1965; so be sure to bring with you your dearly beloved and legally espoused!

The lengthy protracted Knockout Team of Four Tournament has now given rise to a new twist. In a semi-final match last Sunday, the Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward team was leading the Stephen Root and David Littleton team by 6 IMPs at the half-way point. Due to a seating error, however, the second half of the evening was played in such a manner that each team could only knock itself out! This freak resulted when team A played the NS boards in both rooms, while team B played the EW boards in both rooms.

We are fortunate in having a most unusual analysis this week, reprinted with permission of the author from the latest issue of the NEBC Bulletin:

COFFIN'S CORNER

WINCHESTER BRIDGE CLUB FEATURES RARE PLAY

Last Wednesday at the Knights of Columbus Hall was dealt the strange hand below:

North
♠ K 5 4 2
♥ K 9 5 4
♦ 10 2
♣ A 8 6

West	East
♠ J 10 9 6	♠ 8 7
♥ A 10 3	♥ Q 8 7 0
♦ 5 4	♦ 9 8 3
♣ K 7 5 4	♣ J 10 9 8

South
♥ J 2
♣ Q 2

The auction had nothing to recommend it except brevity. My partner in South opened 3 NT. With my ten points opposite his "guaranteed 26," I jumped to 6 NT only to find that instead he had opened the light "gambling no trump" on a long solid minor suit.

Despite the strength shortage, my partner made the slam for a top score, as all other pairs stopped at 3 NT making four or five.

West led the spade jack to ace and South at once led his low heart, West ducked, and the king won. With this trick, South has ten more, three spades, six diamonds and the club ace. He must squeeze out his twelfth trick. So he cashed the queen then king of spades and won four top diamonds, producing the rare progressive squeeze ending disagreement below:

	♠ 5 ♥ 9 5 ♦ — ♣ A 8
♠ 9 ♥ A 10 ♦ — ♣ K 7		♠ — ♥ Q 8 ♦ — ♣ J 10 9
	♠ — ♥ J ♦ 7 6 ♣ Q 2

South led another diamond and West, squeezed in three suits, had to cast his low heart lest he set up a black-suit winner for South. Dummy cast the spade.

Brilliant Defense

Next South led his last diamond. West realized that if he cast his spade, South would next throw him to lead away from, and lose, his club king. To avoid this trap, West defended brilliantly by jettisonning his heart ace, knownig that his partner held the queen advertised by a heart high-low play earlier. But this defense availed West naught, for South cast the low club from dummy then led the heart jack. East could take his side's only trick with the heart queen now or later.

GEORGE W. MORGAN of Lebanon Street was a member of the Good Counsel committee of the Augustinian Seminary Guild which recently made a presentation of the proceeds of its first social function held on Merrimack College campus to the college. Naval ROTC Broadens Plans

Sophomores in good standing at accredited colleges, universities, or junior colleges may now enroll in the Contract Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps at any of the colleges or universities at which NROTC Units are located.

During the period June 10-17 through July 20-31, 1965, candidates will undertake a six week indoctrination in those Naval Science courses normally studied by contract NROTC students in their freshman and sophomore years.

Successful completion of these courses will make the candidate eligible for enrollment at the junior level of the Contract NROTC program if the candidate is attending or is admitted to an NROTC university.

Students in the two year Contract NROTC program will receive $40 per month retainer pay and will make one summer cruise of six to eight weeks' duration.

The deadline for application is May 1, 1965. Information on this and all other Navy Officer Programs may eb obtained at any U.S. Navy Recruiting Station or NROTC Unit.

OUTSIDE WORK

Most of the work that a gardener can do this time of year is limited to chores which confine him indoors. On days when the mercury reaches an inviting 60 or 65 degrees, however, the urge to do something outside is almost overpowering.

There are a few jobs which need to be done in the early spring.

Get your lawn off to a good start this year by; one, raking it as soon as it is no longer soggy, two, rolling it shortly thereafter, and three, by applying some worthwhile chemicals.

A certain amount of sticks and stones always accumulates on the lawn during the winter; raking also improves air circulation—this is important now, when the soil is wet and the grass is not growing, to help prevent rotting. Rolling the lawn is important because turf which has been loosened by frost must be reset before it dries out and is killed. Smoothing out the bumps also lessens scalping if a rotary mower is used.

Some of the chemicals available to the home gardener are very beautiful. Most lawns benefit from lime-stone applications every three years — remember, though, that this chemical burns, so do not apply heavier than 50 pounds to a 20 by 50 foot area.

Pre-germination crabgrass killers are most effective and are appied now. The crabgrass which grew last year produced hundreds of thousands of seeds which lay dormant on top of the ground all winter.

The sun warming the soil is just like a foreman throwing the main switch in a gigantic factory; as soon as the ground is fairly warm—mid May, all those crabgrass seeds will sprout and the backyard weed factory will again be in operation.

If you are planning to reseed any area there is one kind to use; if turf is established, there is another. All pre-emergence crabgrass controls use the same principle—namely that of killing the seed before it germinates.

Products containing either dacthal or zytron will kill any seed; fine if turf is established, but if you have to do any seeding this season you'd be out of luck. A chemical new this year is tupersan—it kills only crabgrass seed, making it possible to reseed the barespots this season.

"Crabgrass" is just about as nondescript a name as you can have. There are two plants which bear the name, one creeping, the other slightly upright. Botanically, they are named digitaria ischaemum and digitaria sanguinatis, respectively.

Lawn fertilizers also improve the greenery around your home in most cases. You can buy the utilitarian lawn food or you can have the soil analyzed and buy only the chemicals that you need—at considerable savings money wise.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Middlesex County Extension Service runs soil tests free of charge. All you have to do is tell them what the dirt is to be used for and they will report what chemicals to apply, if any, to make the soil better for that particular type of plant.

Do not be fooled by the sacks of fertilizer which claim to be good for everything from lawns to evergreens, roses to perennials. These types of fertilizers which are sold at cut rate stores are always made by unknown companies. Different kinds of plants need different types of food—they must, or well known chemical companies would be making "general" fertiliezrs, too.

Another job to be done now is that of applying oil-sprays to scale-prone plants such as azaleas, andromedas, etc. These sprays must be applied before this season's growth begins.

Nuclear Physics At WHS Friday

A demonstration lecture program titled "This Atomic World," will be presented in an assembly program at Winchester Senior High School tomorrow, April 9.

The program, sponsored by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, is presented by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tennessee and the demonstrations and lectures are designed specifically to acquaint high school students with the basic principles and uses of atomic energy and to stimulate their interest in science.

Subjects to be covered include atomic structure, the nucleus and radio-activity, radiation biology and fission and fusion. The uses of radioisotopes are also included. The application of these isotopes in agriculture, industry, and medicine is an important aspect of the non-military use of atomic energy.

Book of Verse By Willma Tofuri

Entitled "From Boston to Cape Breton," the collection is homey and personal in nature. It concerns itself with everything from picking blueberries to visits of friends and includes reactions to such persons as JFK and Joe Bellino.

Much Ado At MIT Open House This Weekend

The laser, a computer that will automate research, and the world's most powerful magnet are a few of the modern research tools that will be shown to the public at the biennial Open House of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on Saturday, April 10, from noon to 5 p.m.

Visitors will see more than 150 demonstrations and exhibits in engineering science, architecture, the humanities and industrial management and will tour major research facilities of one of the world's leading educational institutions.

There will be guided tours of the nuclear reactor, of the largest Van de Graaff electrostratic accelerator, the 30,000,000-volt Cyclotron, and the 17,000,000-volt linear accelerator. In the National Magnet Laboratory members of the staff will explain experiments in solid state physics, plasma physics and low temeprature physics.

A major attraction will be the new Center for Earth Sciences in the 20-story Cecil and Ida Green Building. There, visitors will see modern processes for dating rock specimens in the mass spectroscopy laboratory, research on circulation of the earth's atmosphere and oceans in the rotating fluids laboratory, and the operation of a seismograph for measuring vibrations of the earth.

A model of the Gemini Space Capsule will be exhibited and explained in the Department of Aeronautics and Astronautics. In the biology laboratories, visitors will see an electron microscope and micrographs of protein molecules and viruses, photographed by Dr. Cecil Hall, one of the world's leading experts in electron microscopy.

At the Computation Center, in a demonstration of modern Timesaving computing capabilities, visitors will operate consoles in direct communication with the IBM 7094.

Students will demonstrate the Towing Tank for testing yacht and ship designs in the Department of Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering and the Flutter Wind Tunnel for testing airplane models in the Department of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

In chemical engineering, students will show how to destroy foam in detergents in a demonstration of surface phenomena such as detergency, emulsions, water repellancy and gels.

In addition, there will be a display of student projects in architectural design and visual design, showing innovations in materials and tools.

On hand for the Open House will be the "M.I.T. Science Reporter," John Fitch, who will welcome visitors aboard the WGBH television mobile unit, which will be located on Memorial Drive outside the Library. Television monitors in two nearby classrooms will carry "Science Reporter" shows, including "Looking Back on the Bomb," with Dr. Vannevar Bush, honorary chairman of the M.I.T. Corporation and "The Center of the Universe," with Dr. Harlow Shapley, famed astronomer.

Year-round public attractions on the M.I.T. campus include the Hart Nautical Museum, which has a collection of more than 100 ship models tracing the history of shipbuilding from the tenth to the twentieth centuries, the Music Library, Map Room and Art Gallery of Hayden Memorial Library, and the M.I.T. Chapel and Kresge Auditorium, designed by Eero Saarinen.

Tour routes will begin and information will be available in the lobby of the main building, entered from Massachusetts Avenue.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST, WINCHESTER

114 Church Street

Sunday Service at 11:00 a.m.
Sunday School is held at the same time as the Church Service.
Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock.

Reading Room, 4 Mount Vernon Street. Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays 7 to 9 p.m.

Sunday, April 11
The effect of our thinking on our health will be examined in this Sunday's Bible Lesson to be read at all Christian Science churches. The subject is "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"
The Responsive Reading for the day begins with a verse from Isaiah: "Behold I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind."
Related passages will be presented from the Christian Science textbook, including these lines: "Instead of God sending sickness and death, He destroys them, and brings to light immortality . . . When Christ changes a belief of sin or of sickness into a better belief, then belief melts into spiritual understanding, and sin, disease, and death disappear" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 206, 442).

Sons Of Italy News

This past Monday Bob Fiore conducted his last meeting as Venerable of this lodge and there was a large attendance of members present to give him a fine send off. He thanked his officers, and all the members who had worked with him and also wished the new Venerable, Art Dunbar, and his officers a very successful term.

Initiated at this meeting were seven new members, James Errico, Nicholas Faccioto, Hugo Gioiosa, William Gurrisi, Alfred Mottla, Dominic Uglietto, and Michael Delfino, Jr. We welcome you into our lodge and hope that you will enjoy our clubhouse and its members as much as we enjoy having you with us.

The Grand Lodge will again hold a bowling tournament which will be on May 23rd. It will be held at the Woburn alleys which is located on Montvale Avenue. Our Venerable is making plans for our lodge to enter one or two teams into this contest. Last year our lodge came in third place.

Our Degree Team will install the S.O.I. lodge in Braintree this Saturday night April 10th. Besides installing our own lodge officers on May 2, the team has bookings to install the S.O.I. Woburn, Newton, and East Boston lodges.

The trustees gave their report for this past quarter and they find that all is well with the order. The officers who are doing such a fine job as trustees are: Mel Fiore, Gus Baldacci, Louis Percoco, Frank Antonuccio, and Dom Guarino.

The boy scouts will hold a mass rally on May 8th at Manchester Field. Our own troop 1580 will have a booth there to display their workings, etc., so why not go down to see what these fine boys have been doing. Our scouts will enter the many different contests as there will be prizes awarded in the course of the day. The men who have been working and doing such a grand job with our boys are: Scoutmaster Bob Fiore, Bill Maggio, Phil Ardagno, Mel Fiore, Carl Bertolucci, and Norman Doucett.

A reminder that the golf league will start on April 25th., and your name and entrance fee must be in by April 15th.

We are very glad to hear that our good brother Frank (Hokey) Procopio is out of the hospital, and is home on that happy road to recovery. Our best wishes to you Hokey, and we hope to see you up and around again soon.

Have you ever flipped through the pages of an IDEALS book? You will enjoy it. These books are beautifully bound, hard or soft covers — for the young and adults. Give one for a birthday or as a delightful gift for a shut-in. At the Winchester Star.

Keep Winchester Safe from Fire!

"Clean-up makes good sense for a lot of reasons," says Fire Chief I. Francis Amico. "But most important of all is that it helps make the lives of you and your family safer from fire."

According to the National Fire Protection Association which has been gathering and analyzing fire records since 1896, more than a half million homes in this country were hit by fire last year. About 6550 people died in those fires.

Rubbish is one of the top four causes of building fires, the N. F. P.A. records show.

So what it comes to is this: clean up your homes as well as your places of business and all other buildings and the number of dangerous, killing fires will be cut. So the goal of Spring Clean-Up is just this: to make every home in Winchester safer from fire.

A special course for the Orientation and Indoctrination on new volunteers will be given at the VA Hospital, Bedford on Thursday, April 22, in the Staff Conference Room of Building 78, at 9:45 a.m. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

The course will be made up of lectures as follows: "The Neuropsychiatric Hospital Today," S. P. LaCerva, M.D., hospital director; Joseph Peck, R.N., nursing service for education, will stress hospital ethics. A film will be shown entitled. "The Gift You Bring," that portrays the purpose, duties and place of the volunteer as a member of the hospital team.

Actual work experiences will be described by a volunteer now on the job—Mrs. Ethel Perry, Bedford Chapter American Red Cross. The function of social services and its relationship to volunteer activities will be discussed by William Brinkert, assistant chief, social service and Dr. Bernard Yood, chief of staff, will speak to the group on "Understanding the Psychiatric Patient."

The morning session will adjourn at 12:45. At 1:45, Mr. Hugh Kilmartin, rehabilitation coordinator, PM&RS, will introduce the different aspects of the physical medicine and rehabilitation service. This will be followed by a tour of the services throughout the hospital that utilizes volunteers.

New Picture Lending Series Gets Under Way

The first party in the new series of the "Picture Lending Program" will be held in May, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George E. Marks. On display there will be approximately seventy paintings loaned specifically for this benefit by artists of this locality, names and reputations known by many.

As a result of a meeting of the board of directors of the Winchester Art Association, James Jones, president, announced a decision to continue this program, in view of its previous financial and social successes.

Interested subscribers will have the pleasurable satisfaction of contributing to a very special and worthy cause, in addition to the privilege of selecting a picture to suit ones taste and enjoying a social hour in the company of others having a common interest. In the past, committee members have noted the many favorable comments of the guests, and the genuine interest stimulated in art.

Each guest has the option of purchasing a painting or borrowing one for a period of four months. Often a subscriber lives with the painting of his selection, finds it exactly to his liking and will later purchase it, if it is offered for sale.

Invitations to this Art Association program are being mailed early this month to known subscribers and others who are interested may contact the ticket chairman. One purchased ticket will admit a couple to the three planned parties of this season and the choice of one painting to be borrowed, for the set length of time, on each occasion.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Stockwell has graciously been offered to set the September scene and the office of Townsend, Dabney and Tyson in January of 1966. The Art Association expresses its gratitude at the generosity of those who contribute to this benefit by donating the use of home and office.

Willing committee members who have been appointed to get the new series under way are: Mrs. George Marks, executive chairman; Mrs. Rushton Harwood, social chairman; Mrs. Walworth Williams, ticket chairman; Mrs. Byron Stites, securing and hanging paintings; Mrs. Adin Bailey, registrar; Mrs. Roland Patrick, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. Donald Von Roosen, Mrs. Philip Downes, and Mrs. Clarence Luitweiler.

Boston C. of C. Names Mitchell

William H. Mitchell, Jr., of 7 Gardner Place, president of the West End Chevrolet in Waltham has been appointed to the national affairs committee of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Mitchell was named by Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., of 6 Everett Avenue, president Boston Chamber of Commerce. The committee is responsible for keeping close personal contact with members of the Massachusetts Congressional delegation on federal legislation affecting the state and national economy.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Aranzazu, Mexico. He was educated in England, Mexico, Texas and Massachusetts.

Well known in the automobile business, he is Massachusetts director of the National Automobile Dealers Association; 1964 National chairman, Chevrolet Motor Division dealer committee; member NADA advertising ethics committee and chairman, auto division, Boston Better Business Bureau.

Mr. Mitchell is a member of the Winchester Country Club.

State Historian Informs National Archivist Gov't Owes State Civil War Debt

Tht steam hasn't been lost in the state's drive for obtaining repayment from the Federal Government on a century old unreimbursed Civil War debt allegedly amounting to millions of dollars.

Commenting on recent developments, William C. Cusack, local Americana buff, said:

"It is interesting to point out that the United States Government from time to time attempts to collect from various foreign nations some $40 billion owed us in unpaid debts dating back to World War I."

"But ironically," Mr. Cusack added in a statement to the Star this week, "here Massachusetts has been trying to collect this Civil War debt from the United States Government for over 100 years."

Mr. Cusack, of 2 Lakeview Road in Winchester, set the state's variously concerned departments and officials onto an eager research trail three months ago to ferret out more historical and legal documentation for his speculation that the Commonwealth is the only state in the Union yet to be reimbursed by the Federal Government for the raising and financing of a Macssachusetts army in response to President Lincoln's call for volunteers in the early days of the Civil War.

The most recent development in the continuing news story that is the talk of Winchester, Boston and Washington, is a letter mailed last week from the state archivist to the national archivist.

The letter read:

April 5, 1965

Dr. Wayne C. Grover
Archivist of the United States
National Archives
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Dr. Grover:

I gather from receiving carbon copies of letters from Senator Saltonstall and yourself that some questions raised by Mr. Cusack of Winchester are occupying a certain amount of your time.

Perhaps it would help for me to state that the Honorable Charles P. Howard, former Commissioner of Administration, has more than once told me how he and the Honorable James Michael Curley, then Governor of Massachusetts, made a special trip to Washington to try to induce Franklin D. Roosevelt to ask Congress for one more installment of its Civil War claims of Massachusetts. Except for Mr. Howard's memory and perhaps some travel vouchers there is no record of this trip since Mr. Roosevelt firmly dissuaded Gov. Curley from even asking for money at the then state of affairs in Congress. However, one can rest assured that Mr. Howard would never have allowed Governor Curley to go if he had not honestly felt that Massachusetts had an arguable case for a further installment.

Thank you very much for all the work that has been done on taking up this interesting and curious chapter in the history of Massachusetts in the Civil War.

Yours sincerely,
Richard W. Hale, Jr.
Archivist of the Commonwealth

Mr. Cusack, whose interesting historical discovery first appeared in an exclusive copyrighted story in the Star on January 21, noted this week that the state has attempted to get the debt repaid about ten times——the last successful try resulted in an $886,000 installment payment awarded by a U. S. Court of Claims judgment in 1917.

"However," Mr. Cusack emphasized, "that payment didn't include any interest on that portion of the debt, and didn't allow for the differential between the gold coin put up by Massachusetts in 1861 and the legal paper currency of 1917 (which would be of deflated and depreciated value relative to the gold coin of 1861)."

An interesting remark made by the U. S. Secretary of the Treasury in 1861, and uncovered by Mr. Cusack in his resarches, said: "The United States Treasury is in such bad condition that it may be necessary for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to endorse the bonds of the United States Government."

Mr. Cusack pointed out the Federal Government's moral obligation to pay the remainder of the Civil War debt owed the state first to send troops and first to financially support it, and added that even a few years after the Civil War bonds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts sold at a higher rate in the money markets of the world than the bonds of the United States Government—showing that the strength of the state of Massachusetts was a mainstay in maintaining the Union.

Mr. Cusack first became involved in this interesting historical financial matter while visiting the State House early in January. In walking around the third floor he observed a mural on the wall opposite the House of Representatives depicting Massachusetts as the first state to respond to President Lincoln's call for volunteers.

The first portion of the mural honoring the Sixth Regiment that served in the early days of the Police Active On Investigation Of Housebreakings

A series of housebreaks in Winchester this month has been keeping the police busy with investigations.

At 9:30 on Friday morning, April 9, a fuel company representative notified police that the home of John M. Leonard of 6 Blossom Hill Road had been broken into.

Police officers discovered that a sunporch screen had been ripped open and a porch door pane of glass was smashed to gain entry. Nothing was reported missing by the owner of the property.

Later that afternoon, police received notice of another housebreak at the home of Maurice Klickstein, 7 Oakland Circle.

WHS Students Go To Model U. N. As A Tunisian Unit

With Tunisian flag flying and arm bands, costumes, and resolutions on Tunisian writing paper all in readiness, a delegation of six Winchester High School students left Friday morning, April 9 for a 3-day East Coast Model United Nations at Newburyport High School. Delegates numbering 650 from Maine to Virginia convened.

Robert Armstrong, Douglas Carlson, Kathryn Hessert, Mary Paulson, Nancy Robinson, and Suzanne Ward qualified for the trip on the basis of exams testing their knowledge of the UN in all its details.

At the conference, Winchester, that is, Tunisia, proposed the establishment of an international space laws commission, to settle disputes and prevent accidents. This is a forward-looking group, settling traffic problems in space.

Planning Board Is Against Apartment House Restriction To 40' Limit Now

"In the opinion of the Planning Board these two articles are not a responsible answer to the town's problems of controlling apartment house construction," said Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, last Thursday night in summarizing the board's position at the conclusion of a spirited zoning public hearing in the Town Hall.

The apartment house construction issue was discussed at great length and with some fervor at the hearing on the April 20 special Town Meeting zoning and building articles to restrict the height of apartment houses to 40 feet or three habitable stories. The hearing attracted some 150 interested citizens.

Mr. Gray expanded on the board's position by equating the three story limit to the "outmoded" 2½ story limit the town has had, and added that these low levels are no longer economically practical for apartments with the high cost of land in Winchester.

He noted that the board may recommend to a future Town Meeting that the community adopt two apartment house district zoning categories, one for commercial districts, another for residential or other zoned areas.

Thus, he reasoned, if an apartment goes above three stories and requires an elevator, limit of five or six stories, or 55 feet, might be a more practical restriction on apartments in commercial districts. But when apartments are to be built at an area like the Beggs site, and which will need two elevators, it should be allowed to go higher to a limit of maybe eight or more stories.

Mr. Gray told the group attending the public hearing that the Planning Board would submit letters to the Star presenting the board's opinion on height, set back, off-street parking, and other facets of apartment house construction control that the board believes should be incorporated in apartment house district categories.

He said the board would welcome constructive citizen responses to its communications in the Star, so that when the final zoning article drafts are written they can encompass all areas of citizen concern.

The Planning Board hearing, originally scheduled to be held in the East Room at the Town Hall, was moved to the auditorium because of the large turnout.

Mr. Gray opened the hearing by reading the two-article warrant, and asked that discussion be centered on the subject of the articles, and not become a general argument for or against apartment houses here in general.

Robert Kittredge outlined the petitioners' case for presenting the two articles to a special town meeting, saying the town needed specific rules and regulations governing the construction of apartments, including height restrictions, among others. He noted that no town around has apartment houses of the size being started at the Beggs site. These articles will put a freeze on any more high-rise apartments —a stop gap, he said, to hold the situation until the town can get an answer to provide control over apartment construction.

Land Valuation Adjustment Changes Hit Country Club, Undeveloped Land; Equalization Assessing Brings Tax $

With the cost of operating municipal governments rising rapidly, and with many cities and towns across the nation faced with a beleaguering financial problem that staggers the pocketbooks of property holders, some taxpayers are beginning to look forward to one potentially fruitful and hitherto lightly tapped revenue source for relief—the privately owned country clubs.

The holy of holies where many towns haven't dared look for more property tax revenues for often entrenched and obvious reasons is now being looked at and reviewed in Winchester for the first time in over a quarter century.

With other greater urban communities in the Bay State faced with coming down to their final places of property taxation, Winchester this year has already raised its eyes to the hilly contours and the trap land as a fair way shot in the arm for town treasury tax revenues.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB:
FAIR WAY SHOT IN THE TAX ARM FOR TOWN TREASURY?

At the 1964 annual Winchester Town Meeting the Board of Assessors announced there would be a townwide 50 per cent increase in valuations to bring assessing values "more realistically in line."

Concurrently, the Assessors said all the town's land values would be reviewed, as over the years they had grown "vastly disproportionate to the true picture" in relationships.

Winchester is rapidly nearing the end of its building boom, the Assessors noted at that time. Newer homes, and transferred properties, had been and were being assessed according to more contemporary value figures than were older, and infrequently reassessed properties.

Included in this latter category was the local country club, which hadn't been reassessed since before 1925 according to one Assessor.

With the breaking up of estate land in the Myopia area near the Country Club into houselots selling for as high as $20,000 a tract last year, the Assessors were faced with having to deal immediately with the incongruity that existed on the two sides of Arlington Street.

The privately owned Winchester Country Club was being land taxed something along the order of a little over a penny a square foot, while across the street residential property was costing the taxpayers close to 40 cents a foot.

Land assessment values vary around the town. There is a general range spread in residential properties from a low of 15 cents to a high of 40 cents a square foot assessment. Commercial and industrial properties run from a low of 25 cents to a high of $9 a square foot. So-called "undeveloped" land tracts are assessed on an acreage pattern rather than on a square foot basis, and the per acre assessments range from a low of $300 to a high of $2,000 an acre. (An acre is 43,560 square feet.)

The Country Club is classified as undeveloped land, and therefore is assessed on an acreage basis, while residential properties are assessed on a square foot basis. This partially explains how the assessment differential between residential and so-called undeveloped Country Club land became so unequal.

While 1965 tax figures are not public information yet, the 1964 figures show that the 122.4 acres of Country Club land in Winchester was valued at $81,900. The buildings located in the Winchester portion of the Country Club (most of the Country Club is located in Arlington) were valued at $18,750. The tax on the total $100,650 was $5,394.84.

In 1963, before the townwide valuation increase, a $67,100 total value (land, 54,600; buildings, $12,500) was taxed $4,723.84.

What is an estimated average assessment in Winchester on a homeowners' land value? According to the Assessors it was in the range of between 25 and 35 cents a square foot last year.

One local real estate agent, when asked what the value of the 123 acres of "undeveloped" Country Club land in Winchester might be, commented that if it were sold for houselots, with three houselots to an acre, there would be an area for approximately 400 houses there.

He indicated the price for the land would be in the several millions of dollars, and tax revenues to the town from 400 expensive type homes would be close to a million dollars.

"But," he added, and probably echoing what most residents would say, "I wouldn't want to see the Country Club split up and the town lose the scenic setting."

On the other hand, one taxpayer said he figured out what he was paying for land taxes and what the Country Club was paying in land taxes . . . and said he thought it was "getting away with murder and it's a crime."

Mrs. Dorothy M. (Cutts) Wills

Mrs. Dorothy Madison (Cutts) Wills, wife of John B. Wills of 238 Highland Avenue and an active and well known person here for many years, died on Friday, April 9, at the Winchester Hospital.

Mrs. Wills moved here just after her marriage in Brookline in November, 1919, and had lived here since. She leaves in addition to her husband one son, Richard, of Chatham; a brother, George B. Cutts of Brookline; four grandsons, two nephews and a grandniece.

She was born in Brokline on December 27, 1892, the daughter of Harry Madison and Marion (Belcher) Cutts.

In her 45 years here she was a very devoted worker in all the activities surrounding the life of the First Congregational Church. At the time of her death she was president of its Business and Professional Women's Guild and she had been a charter member of the Parish Players. A former director and a long time loyal supporter of the Red Cross, she was known for her bloodmobile and other volunteer work in many Greater Boston towns as well as Winchester. She was, among other things also a member of the D.A.R., the Fortnightly, the Winchester Garden Club and the Home and Garden Club.

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart and the Reverend Wesley A. Mallery officiated at services for Mrs. Wills held Sunday afternoon at the First Congregational Church and the Reverend Carlyle Smith of the Chatham Congregational Church, in which she was also very active, officiated at the interment service at People's Cemetery, Chatham. Gifts in her memory are being received by the First Congregational Church Building Fund.

Mrs. Katherine V. (Riley) Phinney

Mrs. Katherine V. (Riley) Phinney of Billerica, mother of Vernon Phinney of Sylvester Avenue and sister of Ronald Riley of Swanton Street and Charles J. Riley of Woburn, Editor of the Winchester page of the Woburn Daily Times, died in the Lowell General Hospital on Saturday, after a long illness. She was the wife of Frank L. Phinney and was well known here and throughout the Woburn area.

Mrs. Phinney was born in Woburn 66 years ago the daughter of Patrick Riley and the late Margaret (Hogan) Riley. She was educated in the Woburn schools and lived most of her life in the south end of the city. She moved to Billerica 17 years ago.

A high Mass of requiem was sung for her yesterday morning at the Immaculate Conception Church after a funeral from the Lynch Cahtillon Funeral Home. Interment followed in Calvary Cemetery.

In addition to those mentioned Mrs. Phinney is survived by three other sons, Frank of Somerville, Donald of Woburn and Charles of Billerica; by three daughters, Mrs. Margery Mercier of Woburn, Mrs. Patricia Eldred of Billerica and Mrs. Barbara DiMauro of Malden. Also by her father, Patrick J. Riley, three sisters, Mrs. Eileen Garvey, Mrs. Margaret Collins and Mrs. Gertrude Eaton, by two brothers, Harold and William Riley, all of Woburn; by 14 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Elmer James Vaughan

Associates in the Highway, Water and Park Departments of the Town were honorary pall bearers at services on Tuesday morning for Elmer James Vaughan of 79 Woodside Road who passed away very suddenly on Saturday morning at the age of 59.

Mr. Vaughan had lived here for 30 years and had been with the Highway Department during that time as a mechanical engineer. Prior to this he had been a salesman for the Buffalo-Springfield Roller Company of Cambridge. He was well known both here and in Woburn and the Woburn Lodge of Elks B.P.O.E. 908, of which he had been a member, held services for him at the Lane Funeral Home on Monday evening.

Mr. Vaughan was born in Beverly Farms on June 28, 1905, the son of Calvin W. Vaughan, a native of England and Mary (Gorman) Vaughan, a native of Ireland. Surviving him are his wife, Irene H. (Turner) Vaughan; two daughters, Mrs. Nancy Prekop, and Mrs. Sandra Murphy, both of Woburn but until recently of Winchester, and three grandchildren.

The Rev. Paul E. Curran celebrated the solemn high Mass in the Immaculate Conception Church and officiated at the graveside services at Wildwood Cemetery. The funeral was held from the Lane Funeral Home.

Accidents don't always happen to "the other guy," reminds the Automobile Legal Association.

Harry Guild Nichols

Harry Guild Nichols, a long time resident of Winchester, died Friday, April 9, at the Greenview Manor in Wakefield following a month's illness at the Winchester Hospital.

He leaves his wife, Grace S. (Kezar) Nichols; his son, Kezar Guild, of Winchester; two daughters, Mrs. Carolyn N. King of Plainfield, New Jersey and Mrs. Janet N. Dalrymple of Winchester; a sister, Jennie F. Nichols of Peabody; also eight grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Mr. Nichols was born in Peabody in 1883 and moved to Winchester in 1915. He has lived here at 30 Hillcrest Parkway since that time.

Gifts in his memory may be sent to the Massachusetts Heart Association.

Masonic Night

William Parkman Lodge is holding a Family Night for Masons, their families and friends on Wednesday evening, April 21, in Metcalf Hall of the Unitarian Church at 6:30 p.m.

Following a hot turkey sandwich dinner served by the ladies of the Eastern Star, Paul and Madelyn Planchet, popular entertainers, will present "Tonight You Are the Star."

For information and reservation, call Paul Butterworth, PA 9-1519.

Mrs. Julia F. (Gormley) Thoma

A solemn high pro-burial Mass will be held at the Immaculate Conception Church on Monday at 9 a.m. for Mrs. Julia F. (Gormley) Thoma of 90 Canal Street, who died here Tuesday, after a brief illness.

Tomorrow, April 16, at 8:15, there will be a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and a blessing at the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment will follow in the Mount Benedict Cemetery in West Roxbury at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Thoma was born in England 70 years ago the daughter of William P. and Julia (Tuite) Gormley, both natives of Ireland. She was the widow of the late Percival J. Thoma and had resided for many years in South Boston before moving here nine years ago to make her home with her only surviving brother, James J. Gormley.

David Wayne Cournoyer

Graveside services were conducted in Wildwood Cemetery on Friday afternoon by the Rev. H. Newton Clay of the Methodist Church for David Wayne Cournoyer, the infant son of Gerald and Mary Lou (Dalton) Cournoyer, who passed away at the Naval Hospital in Newport, Rhode Island, on Thursday.

Besides his parents, the baby is survived by four sisters, Linda, Deborah, Wendy and Betty Jane and by two brothers, Richard and Mark. He was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dalton.

Card of Thanks

Mr. John B. Wills and Mr. Richard Wills wish to thank the many friends of their late wife and mother, Mrs. Wills for the many cards, letters, plants and other gestures of friendships received by her during her recent illness at the Winchester Hospital. Mrs. Wills greatly appreciated each thought; and, since her death, her family have equally appreciated the thoughtfulness shown to them.

Police Chief Urges Wariness Of Solicitors

Chief Derro again warns the people of Winchester to be wary against solicitors who agree to seal black top driveways.

In many cases when the householder finds that inferior material was used the contractor cannot be located.

Recently officers of the Police Department questioned several of these solicitors and found that one of them moved to Massachusetts only the previous week. In another case persons doing the work were using a truck that was registered in Georgia.

Officers will be happy to inform anyone about the reliability of any contractor.

Democratic Town Committee

In this month's copy of "The Democrat," which is published by the Democratic National Committee, Washington, D. C., there is a plan by which each town and city committee can join President Johnson in building the Great Society.

Our chairman is very sure that, at our next meeting which will take place soon after Easter, we will enter wholeheartedly into his effort. The details will be discussed at our meeting.

It has been decided that we will again have our cookout this summer as there have been so many requests for it. And, from what we hear, this will be the best one ever. That seems to be the way things turn out with our Town Committee. Certainly our Irish night was such a success, socially and financially, that it will be hard work to even equal it when March rolls around again.

Chairman Elizabeth McDonald and husband William will be guests of the Woburn Democratic City Committee at their variety show which will take place May 9th.

Chairman Lawrence Gilgun of the committee promises us a fine evening and, with his orchestra furnishing music for dancing after the show, we are sure many of our members will be present.

Valuations

Several taxpayers have questioned why the Country Club cannot help to carry more of the tax burden now resting on residential and other business properties. Their reasoning is that even though the Country Club is assessed on an acreage basis, it is a business (officially, the Country Club is registered as a non-profit business trust), and as a business in Winchester it should pay a more proportionate share of the Town's property tax—especially when it occupies such a large area of prime "undeveloped" land, and by the nature of its business pre-empts any development that would return substantially greater tax revenues to the town.

The Board of Assessors, in carrying through with its announced townwide land review during this past year, has carried the lesson learned reviewing the Country Club over to the few other undeveloped tracts of land remaining in Winchester, and has indicated that there will be substantial valuation and assessment adjustments this year.

"There will be a complete change in the base for open land in Winchester on an acreage basis," the Assessors noted recently, "and they will not necessarily have any direct relationship to 1964's townwide assessment valuation increase."

The Assessors qualified the emerging policy by stating used farm land and land-locked tracts would probably be excepted.

In explaining some of the complexities of assessing involved in dealing with undeveloped land areas, Windsor Carpenter, chairman of the Board of Assessors, noted that a ten-acre tract of land would sell at a higher per acre unit cost than would 100 acres of the same type of property across the street on the same per unit acre basis. "This is in terms of the marketing and sales of land," Mr. Carpenter said, "and therefore is also an element of consideration in assessing principles."

In referring specifically to the Country Club land, Assessor Ernest Dade agreed that "as for its highest and best possible use (such as houselots) it is not being assessed its proper amount. But," he hastened to add, "as a country club in a suburban town like Winchester it is now (1965) paying its fair share."

The Assessors unanimously agreed, however, that if they had been asked to reassess the Country Club last year they couldn't have said it was "paying its fair share."

The Assessors indicated that Winchester's valuations and assessments on the Country Club here were similar to rates set in almost all the neighboring towns, and even Greater Boston and statewide.

However, when the Winchester Board of Assessors moved in this "new direction," it didn't take long for another town to quickly follow suit.

Neighboring Arlington, where a sizeable portion of the Winchester Country Club is located, has, according to the Assessors, also gone ahead and reviewed and adjusted its valuations and assessments on the Country Club for 1965.

While politicians on Beacon Hill argue over the sales tax proposal to obtain more state revenues, local Board of Assessors in many cities and towns may follow Winchester's lead in looking toward undeveloped lands—such as at privately owned country clubs, other similar types of clubs and unused land—for more property tax revenues to relieve homeowners and commercial businesses.

The chairman of the Tunisian delegation, Nancy Robinson, working with the Committee on Human Rights, proposed that the United Nations aid the Kurdish people in setting up a state to be known as Kurdistan which shall be ruled as an independent and sovereign state.

In the discussion of the proposal in committee, the members asked why a Kurd was not present to speak on the resolution, whereupon a Kurd appeared before the group, although she looked suspiciously like Miss Carol A Cannon, WHS social studies teacher, dressed in a contrived Kurdish costume. She pleaded the cause of the Kurds not without a bit of subtle humor.

All the Tunisian delegates from WHS were enthusiastic about the General Assembly with its bombast, speech making and general excitment over the possibility of admitting Red China to the UN.

Kathy Hessert was impressed with the keen interest and the complete identification of the delegates with the countries they represented. Her committee passed Tunisia's resolution on the abolition of barbarism. She also voiced her pleasure at the friendliness of the host city and enjoyed the guided tour of Newburyport.

Bob Armstrong and Mary Paulson told how a 40-minute discussion waxed hot in the General Assembly and held up the proceedings when the delegates argued whether the American Flag, found in all school auditoriums, should be flying in a UN assembly. Should one flag or all flags be flown was the altercation.

It was finally ruled that this particular flag was a physical part of the building, therefore could remain.

On Sunday morning, the 650 delegates assembled; and before debate on admission of Red China began, Nancy Robinson, spokesman for Tunisia, delivered the following resolution and received a standing ovation:

"Whereas: Newburyport and the surrounding communities have warmly received the delegates to ECMUNC; and

Whereas: the students and faculty of Newburyport High School have worked long and hard to make this conference a success; be it therefore Resolved: that the advisors and delegates to the Eighth Annual East Coast Model United Nations hereby give an overwhelming vote of thanks to Newburyport High School and its community. Respectfully submitted, The Republic of Tunisia."

She was ruled out of order but the point was made.

Red China? With 54 voting in the affirmative, 44 in the negative, and 11 abstaining, the resolution for admission was lost, a two-thirds vote being necessary for passage.

The students and Miss Cannon, a bit tired from their strenuous efforts on behalf of Tunisia, are still enthusiastic and are already looking forward to another UN meeting. A UN conference at Boston College a month ago and another at Harvard at the end of this month show the interest among social studies students. Because of this prevailing interest, plans are underway at the high school by Miss May Milliken, head of the social studies department, for the formation of an International Relations or UN club.

Editorials:

The Higher Cost Of Education: Scholarship Shares — A Best Buy

The best investment you can make - that in future citizens of your country - is made available right now and right here by the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

It is a best buy in blue ribbon stock - that of Winchester's younger citizens who are ready and willing to prepare themselves through higher education better to do their future jobs.

Unlike many a community effort in this field, Winchester's is well established—it is 19 years old - and throughly organized. It has been turned to as a pattern of organization by other communities as its structure has proved its worth through years of testing.

And it boasts continually the untiring efforts of a long list of busy, efficient, dedicated persons who work as a team in the many faceted jobs of collecting and investing monies, assessing candidates and administering the gifts.

Right now there is a compelling need of the support of every householder who can afford one or more shares at five dollars a share over and above the support of businesses and organizations.

The need is dramatic. At the same time that the post World War II babies multiply the numbers of well prepared and worthy candidates for college on the local level, so at the college level the demands of more faculty and building to keep up with numbers add to the demands of modernized and broadened curricula that raise educational costs and result in higher tuition.

This means that 1965 will see more Winchester students applying for scholarships and needing larger scholarships to be able properly to plan for the financing of their future years of study.

Colleges report that one of the strongest reasons for dropouts is lack of money and constantly advise parents not to let their dreams for their youngsters over-reach the reality of their finances.

Now is a time that every Winchester citizen who can should come through with the support which will allow these dreams to materialize. By so doing they will invest in their own futures as they help along the supply of nurses, engineers, teachers and well-informed businessmen for the future.

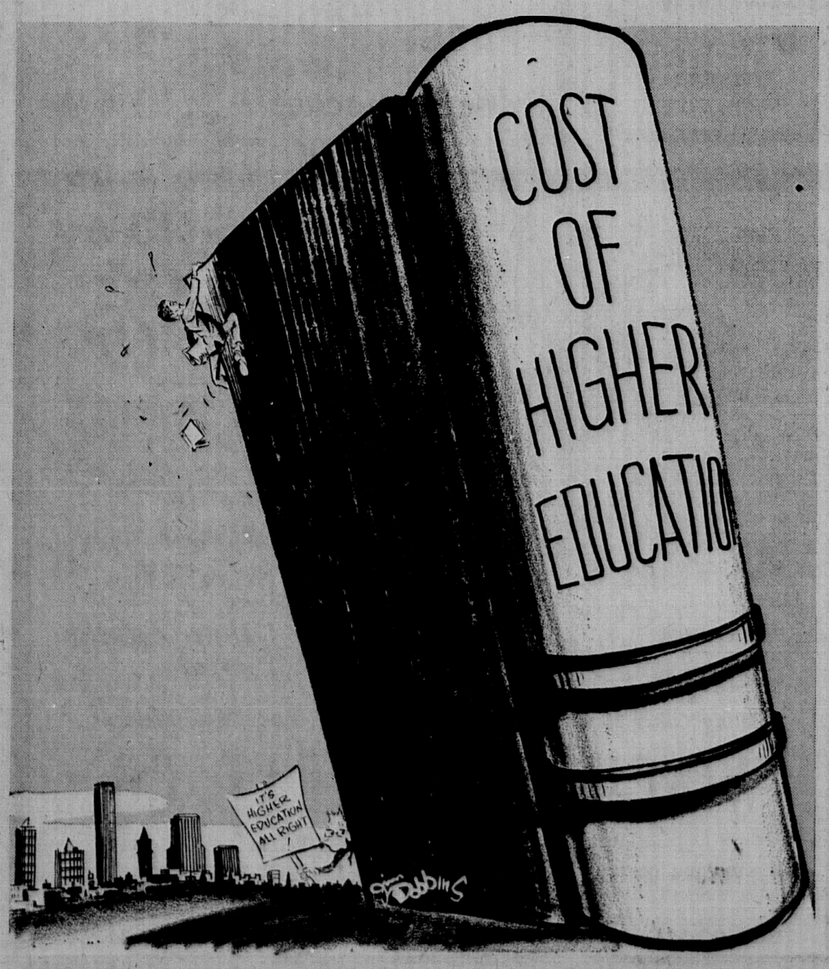
Hats Off To The Workers!

Many of the familiar faces seen around the Town Hall last year will be seen there less frequently from now on. These men, the chairmen and members of town boards and committees, who have finished their terms in office and given up their places to other leaders, have done their share to make Winchester the good town it is.

As it is in every type of free government, there are those who volunteer to take up the reins of leadership to benefit the place they call home and the neighbors they call friends. These retiring town board and committee officials have put in many many hours of volunteered and unrecompensed time to continue the tradition of good government in Winchester.

Hats off to these outstanding representatives from and of the people. They are the workers who operated the machinery of government so efficiently and commendably here this past year, and the town and its people appreciated the quality service rendered.

The new incoming chairmen and members of town boards and committees will do well, we are confident, in continuing this fine tradition of good government in Winchester.



Planning Board

William Speers told the hearing he was the counsel for Beggs site apartment house developer Edward Berndt, and that his client had acted in good faith in buying the land and seeking to develop it after the 1964 Town Meeting changed it from an industrial zone to a business district zone with the full understanding that a high-rise apartment house was planned for the area.

Atty. Speers recounted how his client had bought the property, razed the delapidated structures remaining, had an architect design building plans, and started excavation work—all at great expense to himself. He said he though it would be morally wrong for the town to try and stop the project at this point. Mr. Speers said he also thought the town could not legally stop the project now since the excavation building permit was issued before public notice was given of a special Town Meeting calling for height restrictions on apartment houses.

But, he added, the developer stood to lose more than $250,000 already put in his investment if the town were to impose a 40-foot restriction—which would virtually kill the project. He noted the developer would be forced to try and recover his losses in court, where, he said, he thought any court would rule in his favor. Mr. Speers said he did not see any reason why both the developer and the town should be put to unnecessary and expensive litigation.

Gilman Wallace, a former chairman of the Board of Appeal, said the problem should be approached from the point of view of what is best for the town—a town of 20,000 persons. The apartment restriction should be considered on its own merits, he said, and not under the cloud of Mr. Berndt's risks.

Mr. Wallace said he was against high-rise apartments in Winchester like the Beggs project, which he didn't like, and said he thought Mr. Speers' position was "inconsistent." He charged that Mr. Speers was placing his professional interests above the interests of the town.

Mr. Speers jumped to his feet and said he considered the previous speaker's remark as a personal insult. He said he had told the hearing he represented his client in speaking on the issue so no one could mistake his interest in his client's case. But, he added, it was also his personal opinion that Winchester needs more apartment housing, and that he thought this project would be in the best interest of the town.

George Barbaro said Mr. Wallace had been just as sure another issue wouldn't be in the best interests of the town a few years ago, and lost the case in the state Supreme Court.

Mr. Gray regained the floor and said he did not want to see the hearing get to be a matter of personalities, and asked the speakers to confine their remarks to the issue of apartment house restrictions.

One gentleman said the petitioners had a chance to speak up against the Beggs project last year but were silent. "Why wait until now when the man has spent a lot of money and plans and work?" he asked.

Richard Murphy said the town had a chance to say if it wanted to do so at last year's annual Town Meeting. "To change the rules of the game when the game is over is sour," he said emphatically.

Lane McGovern, chairman of the Board of Appeal, said it was interesting to him to hear people say you can't build low-rise apartments as a matter of economic practicality now, for he had checked with the building departments in 20 nearby towns and found: in the last ten years almost all had built some apartments; most were three stories or under, but some were four stories tall; few, if any, were over four stories. He listed the towns and gave height statistics.

"From this list you may be able to draw some conclusions," he said. "We're only 15 minutes from Boston," he added, and noted that "Perhaps we should do something right now about writing something careful on apartment houses."

One hearing attendant said for his own part he was willing to share the higher cost of living in Winchester without any more apartments, but he did not feel it was fair to pull the rug out from under Mr. Berndt's project when he had gone along with the town in good faith.

Henry T. Gerould said the whole hearing and special Town Meeting was unnecessary. "Last year," he said, "the Town Meeting approved a high-rise apartment at the Beggs site, and if it were going to be red brick colonial with a revolutionary name instead of a concrete structure named Rio Brazilian or rio banana, or whatever, we wouldn't be here now." He noted that he thought the town did need to create a good apartment house district category, or possibly two, that would provide the town with necessary safeguards; and added it was up to the Planning Board to make such an article.

Since January Mr. Cusack has been in communication with Governor Volpe, Senators Saltonstall and Kennedy, Congressman Morse and other state and national figures on the subject.

Congressman Morse petitioned Treasurer Secretary Dillon in February to be sure and ". . . give this matter (your) prompt attention."

Breaks

Upon investigation, police found that the intruders had broken a glass window on the rear door to gain entry. Once inside the burglars ransacked two upstairs bedroom bureau drawers and the contents of two drawers in the study were dumped on the floor. Reported missing was about $45 in cash, several watches, and a Polaroid camera.

In further investigating the break police found jimmy marks made by a screwdriver on the cellar door, and a neighbor reported seeing a car with two young men in it drive through the area twice in a matter of a short period of time at about 3 o'clock that afternoon. A litle later, the same neighbor saw the two men walking through some backyards in the area near the Klickstein's home.

On Wednesday afternoon, April 7, a housebreak was reported at the home of John P. Gonnella of 76 Arlington Street. Officers Robert Baird and Donald Pigott investigated the break and found that entry had been made by breaking a glass in the front door.

Further investigation gave evidence that the intruders had ransacked the entire second fioor of the home. Three television sets were reported missing. In the previous week, on Friday, April 2, police were informed of a housebreak at the home of Joseph Ruggiero at 344 South Border Road.

Police investigation gave evidence that the home had been entered through a forced bathroom window on the south side of the house. The house appeared to have been completely ransacked, and a quantity of items were reported as missing, including a fur coat, four appliances, a china set, jewelry, a check book, and 18 articles of clothing.

In other police news this week, a 33-year-old Roxbury man was apprehended in Reading on Thursday, April 8, after allegedly trying to obtain narcotic drugs with falsified prescription forms. Winchester Police were waiting for the man to return to a local drugstore here, as he had passed allegedly forged prescriptions in this town twice in the previous month. The man is being held in East Cambridge jail in $10,000 bail pending Grand Jury deliberation. Winchester Police will enter two counts of uttering a false or forged prescription to obtain narcotic drugs in the indictment sought.

To the Editor:

NEEDED

A SOUND APARTMENT HOUSE POLICY

FOR WINCHESTER

Today in Winchester we have no basic Town policy on apartment houses—how many we should have—the type—the location—the size—the height—the appearance.

We have no zoning restrictions on apartment houses comparable to the restrictions of similar towns . . .

Winchester should have such a policy if the future of all areas of the Town is to be protected—if we are to avoid haphazard, unplanned developments which ultimately will pull the Town downhill in character, in property values, and as an enjoyable place in which to live . . .

A group is organizing to help crystallize a definitive and sound apartment house policy in Winchester. As a first step, nearly 450 citizens petitioned the selectmen for a special Town Meeting to consider the question of apartment-house height . . .

We have three constructive objectives for this meeting:

1. To serve as a focal point for developing public interest in and discussion of the subject of apartment-house policy and to help the appropriate Town Boards to formulate a sound policy at an early date.

2. To stop future consideration of 8-story or 80-foot-high apartment houses in Winchester.

3. To give the people of the Town and the Planning Board a breathing spell in which to express their opinions and to consider the Town's rights in regard to what type and size of apartment house should be built on the Beggs and Cobb property.

To accomplish these objectives . . . we need help and interest from all sections of the town . . .

* * *

As we have constantly emphasized, the number one, principal issue at the Special Town Meeting continues to be the present inadequate state of our apartment house zoning provisions and how to correct them constructively for the future.

Planning Board On Apartment Height Hearing

Editor of the Star:

On April 8, the Planning Board held a public hearing, as required by law, on the zoning article appearing in the Warrant for the Special Town Meeting to be held April 20th.

This article, sponsored by a group of interested citizens, seeks to change the zoning by-laws so as to limit the height of apartment houses to forty feet or three habitable stories. Approximately one hundred fifty (150) citizens attended this informative hearing.

It is apparent that there are sincere differences of opinion about apartment houses in Winchester. It is unfortunate, however, that the sponsors of this article have called for such a hurried vote of the Town on the limited aspect of the height of apartment houses.

There are other aspects which demand careful consideration.

It is particularly unfortunate because the proposed change at this time could have a serious effect on the apartment house under construction on the "Beggs and Cobb" site.

At the annual meeting of the Town one year ago, it was voted to change the zoning of this site from a Light Industrial District to a Business District for the expressed and specific purpose of enabling the construction of a so-called high-rise apartment house.

Relying on the vote of the Town, a man engaged in the business of constructing apartment houses purchased the site and has developed plans at considerable expense.

Whether or not his plans meet with our approval, it would be unconscionable for the Town to change the rules as they affect the site at this time.

At the hearing, the Planning Board opposed the article on these grounds, and in announcing its opposition restated its intention to bring an apartment house district before the Town at its earliest opportunity.

In preparing to draft our proposal we would like to present one recommendation and raise two questions that we will have to consider before writing a final article for a future Town Meeting, to give ourselves the benefit of a wide public debate.

We recommend that apartment houses be eliminated from our present Business and Industrial Districts.

If this is done, the establishment of an apartment house district will be an enabling act only, and any apartment project, wherever proposed, would have to come before the Town for a change in the zoning map. The Town would have complete control over the location and number of apartment houses.

The questions on which we invite debate are those relating to the controls to be established in the District, particularly at this time those governing height and setbacks from the street and lot lines.

Other elements of control that should appear in the District would cover parking, lot size and frontage, lot area per apartment and percent of lot coverage.

As to height, we believe that the restrictions as set forth in the proposed article are not in the best interests of the Town.

If we consider the problems of the elderly, to say nothing of the economics of building on expensive land, we must think in terms of elevators and therefore must allow for a height at which elevators are financially feasible.

Perhaps we need different regulations for different districts according to adjacent zoning. This would allow reasonable heights to be established with regard to the properties abutting the apartment district.

The question of set backs is also complicated. A set back that would seem excessive in our present Business District could be inadequate in other areas. Again, two districts may be the answer.

As for parking and the other controls that should appear in the District, we propose in future weeks to present statements on these elements in draft form and invite further comment. In this way only can we reach a conclusion that is based on a considered and dispassionate approach to the entire problem.

Sincerely yours,
Joseph C. Gray, chairman
Winchester Planning Board

Would Charles Francis Adams Like Winchester?

Editor of the Star:

Would Charles Francis Adams give an unqualified recommendation of Winchester today? It seems to me that we are not displaying the foresight of those town fathers who built the reservoirs and Manchester Field. It also appears that insufficient time is allowed for a proper assessment of many major matters.

Most of us are not aware of the full implication of some change until it is accomplished. What is the policy of the Planning Board on the future shape of Winchester?

It is not too late to formulate a policy which may yet leave Winchester with some small pieces of common land and parks. There appears to be some belief that the tax rate can only be lowered by more building, but must we make the population density so high that it is impossible to find room for schools, for car parks, and for a grass-covered place to stroll?

It seems to me that once a town reaches a size at which excellent services can be provided economically, it has then to decide its future policy between the selfish interests of the residents and their unselfish regard for the problems set by the exploding population.

It is not sufficient to tackle this problem on an ad hoc basis, nor is it axiomatic that plans for the future must be based upon an extrapolation of the past rate of growth. I, for one, am disturbed by the fact that I do not have any knowledge of future plans.

There appear to be some who think of Winchester as a paved city — (shall we eventually put children on a leash?)—from or in which it is necessary to take a car to reach a "recreation center."

Is the present town center large enough for a population of 30,000 or more without sacrificing its present beauty, which should rather be enhanced. What happened to the Aberjona Park of 1936 shown in "History of Winchester?" (facing p. 274)

I do not intend to discredit the members of our Planning Board but only to draw attention to the fact that Town Planning should be of extreme interest to all of the planned.

I read some time ago of a town which decided to make parks instead of buildings and reversed the acceleration in taxes. In 1950 Winchester had a total debt of $12,000 and a tax rate of $36.

Are our increases in town costs consistent with the average increase in living costs since then? There must be valid reasons for our soaring costs but it seems to me that we, the inhabitants, should be able to determine the direction we are to go in the development of the town and not ignore so many big issues until an emergency exists and a warrant is issued.

Mr. Adams is reported to have said:

> The people of that town take an intelligent interest in the management of its affairs and in its continual improvement and beautification.

Is this statement true in 1965?

Yours,
Norman Houlding

Leash Law Is Called a Favor To the Dogs

Editor of the Star:

I have been reading the letters to the Star on dogs with much interest, as I am a dog-owner myself. I am not opposed to the "Leash Law." We secured our dog last summer, and may I comment what a joy and rewarding experience it is to own a properly trained animal.

People who truly love their dogs will see that they are properly fed, trained and kept clean. Owning a dog is a big responsibility, and it's a shame that before people decide to purchase a pet they don't really think what it will involve. We have had our dog for 8 months, and he is walked daily on a leash, and never allowed to roam the streets. He is given sufficient exercise in our own back yard, by a rigged cable line which allows him to run half the length of the yard, and I've yet to see a more healthy and content dog.

I know a lot of dog-owners that do not feel a dog should be tied up, but be left to run free. This is true if the dog's home is in the country, and even then, the dog must be trained.

My children also attend school and I have seen dogs in groups fighting and interfering with children on the way to school and frightening them so badly they would have to be walked to and from school. May I add, at the same time that I have seen boys throwing rocks and teasing a dog that is leashed up in a yard. So, as long as we have boys that tease dogs and dogs that are left to roam the streets, only to be maimed by automobiles, travel in dog packs, with a leash law everyone would be protected. "A dog's life" they say, is wonderful, but unfortunately with many dogs, it just isn't so.

I especially enjoyed Mr. Myrvaagnes's comments. I hope they pass the leash law. They would be doing a lot of dogs a favor! And at the same time we would be protecting our children.

Sincereiy,
Mrs. Yoma G. Belida

Sale for Blind Success Noted

Editor of the Star:

Mrs. Merrill Maynard and Mrs. Rosalie T. Perry of the Massachusetts Division of the Blind, announced that the annual Sale for the Blind, held April 6, at the Crawford Methodist Church, was a most successful event.

Miss Eleanor Banks, 12 Myopia Hill Road, received the beautifully dressed doll, a feature of the sale.

We wish to sincerely thank the members of the committee, and especially the members of the numerous sponsoring organizations—churches, schools, civic, service and social—for their contributions to the success of the day.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Rolland V. Robison

Dog Barks Back!

Editor of the Star:

Just a friendly dog, no pedigree, no papers,

But I love my folks and they enjoy my capers.

Their home is humble, lots of kiddies, little dough

But all the household, they love me so!

If a leash law comes, I'll have to go.

There's no room and no time to keep me tied.

Reading your letters, I've almost died.

Bad dogs and packs are pretty rare

But MY name is legion, you know it's true,

So please give ME a thought, I beg of you.

Sincerely,
Kay Cardin

Bryant—Bruner

In the Memorial Chapel at Harvard on Saturday afternoon, Miss Lucinda Lynne Bruner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Boyle of Greenfield, Indiana became the bride of Peter Graham Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood S. Bryant of Cambridge, formerly of Lawson Road.

The Reverend Dr. Robert A. Storer of the Unitarian Church officiated at the service, which was followed by a reception at the Sheraton Commander Hotel in Cambridge.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Boyle, was gowned in an empire sheath of organza over taffeta, fashioned with a backswept bodice of re-embroidered Chantilly lace. Her skirt was banded in lace to match. A shoulder length veil was attached to a Dior bow of the same material, decorated in matching lace medallions and she carried a bouquet of small white cymbidium orchids surrounded with stephanotis.

Miss Joan E. Morison of Lexington, was maid of honor and Mrs. Richard G. Wilson of Newport, Rhode Island and Miss Susan Pickett Bryant, a sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in floor length aqua linen made with a wide band of white embroidered flowers around a slightly belled skirt and with a white velvet sash and bow at the waist. They wore white velvet Dior bow headpieces and carried bouquets of white daisies and pale yellow miniature carnations.

The bridegroom's father served as best man and ushering were Mr. Philip H. Dreyer of Evanston, Illinois and Mr. Sabin R. Head of Cambridge.

The bride is a graduate of Pembroke College, Brown University and the bridegroom of Phillips Academy, the Technische Hochschule in Munich, Germany, and of Harvard College.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Gurney, formerly of Winchester, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith, to Ensign David Lawrence Duffy, U.S.N.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard T. Duffy of Cambridge.

Judith is a graduate of the Arlington High School and of Colby Junior College, class of 1963. Her fiance attended the Cambridge Schools, New Preparatory School and is a graduate of Boston College, class of 1964. Judith is the daughter of the former Kathryn Sullivan, granddaughter of Mrs. Davenport F. Davis (Kathryn Sullivan Davis) of Burlington, and also granddaughter of Mr. Walter F. Gurney of this town.

Miss Cullen Chairs Meeting

Miss Mary Cullen of the Lewis Parkhurst School and vice president of the Massachusetts Association for Childhood Education, was chairman of registration at the annual conference of MACE which was held at the George Sherman Union of Boston University on Saturday, April 3.

The theme of the conference was: The Willis Report, A Critical Analysis and Implication for All People Concerned With Children. Miss Abigail Eliot was the moderator of the Panel.

Mrs. Rheable Edwards, program specialist for A.B.C.D. was the luncheon speaker. Her topic was: The Poverty Program in Massachusetts, Effects on Education.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Evarts C. Erickson (Janet Doub) of 41 Washington Square, Salem, announce the birth of a fifth child and third son, Philip Martialis at the Salem Hospital on March 30. Mrs. Henry Grimes of 21 Stone Avenue is a great aunt.

Born to Richard and Jennifer (Meigs) Sanderson of Wakefield, a fourth child and first daughter, Emily Anna, on April 5. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meigs of Winchester and Mrs. Albert E. Sanderson of Wayland. Mrs. Edna Gryeo Frye of Newton and Mrs. Josie Meigs of Winchester are great-grandmothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Joslin (Martha Lee Wood) of 2 Wildwood Terrace, anounce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Barbara Lee, born April 8th at Richardson House, Boston. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Wood and Mrs. James M. Joslin, all of Winchester. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Pilkington of Bradenton, Florida, formerly of Winchester, and Mrs. William B. Wood of Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. MacArthur, formerly of 60 Canal Street, announce the birth of a daughter, Peggy Lynn, on April 7, at Frankfort Hospital in Germany. Sharing grandparent honors are Mrs. Kenneth MacArthur of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scatis of Roswell, New Mexico.

Last Call For Easter Seals

An all-out effort so that the Winchester area will reach its $1,200 goal in the Easter Seal appeal for crippled children and adults was urged today by Charles W. Butler, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company and local campaign treasurer. Returns to date, he reported, are $1,014.

"If persons who have not sent their contributions will do so now," Mr. Butler said, "I am confident that the Easter Seal Society can meet its modest goal."

Crittenton To Hear Flower Lecture April 22

An interesting and productive winter for the Senior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League will come to a close next Thursday, April 22nd, when the members will meet at the home of Mrs. Shepard Pond on Salisbury Street.

There will be reports of the Book Review project and of the Fashion Show Brunch, both benefits that helped the work of Crittenton-Hastings House.

After the reports at this annual meeting, the group will be fortunate to hear R. Eric Erickson, and to watch him create interesting flower arrangements. Mr. Erickson, who demonstrates as he talks, believes in simplicity in using flowers, plus the utilization of clever containers and unusual accessories. He brings the art of flower arranging down to earth, so that those who hear him feel they can really go home and do it themselves.

Mr. Erickson has many anecdotes about famous people he has worked for which add a great deal of color and entertainment to his lecture. This final meeting should prove a worthwhile one and end the year's work with a happy omen for more and better help for our agency next fall.

AAA Poster Urges Bike Safety

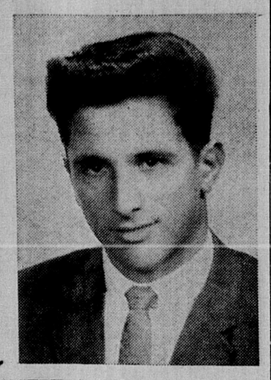
About ten Massachusetts bicycle riders are killed and 1,500 are injured each year in traffic accidents, the American Automobile Association warned today, in urging young cyclists to obey the rules of the road.

"The greatest number of these accidents occur in the 5-14 age group," said Richard W. Hoover, safety director for AAA's Massachusetts Division. "Parents should make sure their children are old enough to be responsible in today's heavy traffic stream and that they have had instruction in the safe use of a bike.

"While a bicycle is regarded by many as a toy, it is used on the nation's streets and, therefore, is subject to traffic rules," continued the AAA safety expert. "This means that bicycle riders must ride with the traffic flow, obey traffic control devices and signal all turns."

A safety poster on the theme, "Ride One On a Bike," is now being used in elementary and junior high schools throughout Massachusetts as part of AAA's monthly safety educational program.

The poster, a first-place winner in the AAA National Traffic Safety Poster Contest was designed by Pam Liposky, 16, Shrine High School, Royal Oak, Michigan.



JOSEPH A. DeLUCA of 6 Bates Road, a 1964 graduate of WHS, has just entered the Northeast Institute of Industrial Technology in Boston where he will major in technical drafting and design.

Family Rooms

THE COMFORTABLE, secluded family rooms in our funeral home are there because families need their precious privacy—if only for a few hours—in between the times when they must face their difficult social responsibilities in time of bereavement. Ironically, death is not only a disrupter of family life, but also serves to cement family bonds. In the seclusion of the family room the re-creation of family solidarity often takes place.

A. L. Auxiliary Rummage Sale Is April 28th, 29th

The Winchester Unit 97 of the American Legion Auxiliary are planning to hold a second rummage sale at the American Legion Post Home, 34 Vine Street, on Wednesday, April 28th from 6:30 till 9 p.m., and again on Thursday, April 29th, from 10:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Many excellent, clean and useful items have already been donated for this sale, but if you are doing your spring cleaning now, and are discarding garments or other items, you'd like to donate, call for pick-up, Sally Cause PA 9-0621, or our post commander, Ed Quill, PA 9-5532.

It will be interesting to note that due to the success of our fall rummage sale, we are able this year to sponsor a girl to "Girls State College," in Bridgewater, for a week in June, besides continuing our ward parties at the Bedford Veterans' Hospital.

It has been five years since the unit has been able to sponsor a girl to Girls State, and we are hoping that we will be able to continue the program in future years, and perhaps if our treasury allows, to send two girls next year.

Duplicate Bridge Club

The Club's special Easter party on Saturday evening, April 10th, featured bounteous delicacies supplied by Peggy Cade, Eleanor Mansfield and other ladies on the entertainment committee. The punch bowl made a noble stand but finally succumbed to relentless pressure from Herb Wood's committee of special tasters.

The bridge part of the evening was divided into a take-your-chances individual movement (Section A) and a stick-with-your-favorite-partner group (Section B).

Section A was conducted as a seven table "Rainbow" with an average score of 63. The Sittingers, just back from Florida, showed that they are rounding into top form for the Mr. and Mrs. Championship.

Irene Sittinger	76½
Richard Smith	76½
Carl Sittinger	75½
Fredna Perkins	72½
Edward Mansfield	72
George Kimball	71½
Gerald Barrett	71½
Also above average were:
Gloria Butterfield	68
Herbert Wood	65½
James Byrne	65½
Lolly Smith	64
Lena Collins	63½

In Section B, director Paul Sanderson invented, revised, and finally discarded a new movement which defies description, and we are able to report the results only after probing the depths of higher mathematics.

North - South
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	.605
David Littleton and Paul Sanderson	.563
Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mingolelli	.510
East - West
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	.688
Ann Galpin and Madeline Walworth	.637
Gerry Lawrence and Betty Yeomans	.489

In the semi-finals of the Knockout Team of Four Tournament, the Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward team defeated the Stephen Root and David Littleton team by 17 IMP's, and are due to tackle the Sanderson-Bracken team for the championship - providing Mrs. Bracken does not receive a higher priority summons from the stork in the meantime.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

The last hand played in a recent semi-final team-of-four match had the odd result of 3 spades going down 2 at one table and down 1 at the other. Odd because it was played East-West table 1 and North-South at table 2—in other words, one team elected to play the same contract at both tables! As with most hands where the strength is roughly divided, 18 points for for North-South and 22 points for East-West with East and North both having opening bids—bidding was competitive and there are important choices available in playing strategy.

First to the bidding as vaguely remembered by the weary combatants:

Both vulnerable - East Dealer

♣ J 10 6 3 2

East
♠ K 7 5 3

West
♠ 6 4 2
♥ Q 4 3 2
♦ K J 9 5 2
♣ 8

South

♦ 6 4
♣ A K 7 5 4

Table 1

East	South	West	North
1C	Dbl.	1D	P
1S	2C	2S	3C
3S	P	P	P

Lead KC—off 2 N-S plus 200

Table 2

1D	Dbl.	3D	3S

Off 1 N-S minus 100

Since 2 or 3 hearts can be made by East-West depending on the handling of the trump suit, the bidding fault at Table 1 lay in the failure of East to reveal his heart suit at least on the third round of bidding. North-South were even more guilty at Table 2 in their neglect of clubs—four can be made easily. Moreover, North was conservative at Table 1 in not doubling at the three level when his partner's double showed a hand with opening bid strength. Such action would have boosted his team's margin to 12 IMP's instead of the 7 resulting from the additive results of 200 and 100.

On the other hand three hearts bid and made by East-West at Table 1 and four clubs by their North-South teammates at Table 2 would have given 7 IMP's to their team which, in fact, lost the match by precisely this 14 IMP swing.

The play of the hand offers interesting possibilities since each side has a 5 card minor to run if it can shorten the opponents four card trump holding by forcing a ruff. North-South somehow managed to take 8 tricks at Table 2 requiring bad defense and 6 tricks (in defense) at Table 1. Actually, a low trump lead by East could limit North-South to only five tricks on either offense or defense.

During the intermissions, the "Special Mice" will be saluting the spring season in poem and song. In the group are Robie Forte, Marilyn Grifoni, Thomas Storer, James Quinn, Pamela Murphy, Jane Cafarella, Pamela Haffner, Barbara Jones, Carol Piantedosi, Deborah LeVine, Lisa Heiser, Bruce Black, Michael Reeves, Michael Murphy, Michael MacDonnell, Douglas O'Connor, Teddy Bigelow, Steven Williams, Michael Turner, Michael Jeannette, Charles Frizell, Mark Caputo, Kenny Donaghey, Duncan Gurley, Mark Dello Russo.

LWV to Tour Water Resources

The problem of conservation of water becomes more critical each year. Water resources have been one of the items of continuing concern to the League of Women Voters, not only locally but also on a nation-wide scale.

On April 28, the League is sponsoring an all-day bus tour to show the growing problems in the Charles River basin relating to our water resources. Water pollution, erosion, disposal of sewage and the shrinking green belt are major factors in water usage and control.

Representatives of the Massachusetts Department of Water Resources will act as guides, pointing out areas of primary interest and answering questions from members of the group.

The public, as well as League members, may make reservations by calling Mrs. Charles Miller at PA 9-7695, by April 19.

Tickets for the tour include lunch.

Charity Bridge Tournament Results

On Wednesday, April 7th, the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club sponsored a duplicate bridge tournament for the joint benefit of the Winchester Little League and the Boy Scouts of America, Minuteman Council. Three large sections of players filled the K. of C. Hall.

The Winchester Sports Shop Challenge Bowl was placed in competition again as is the custom at the club's local charity game. And after an evening of spirited play, the winning partnership was a regular and formidable one, new grandfather Herb Wood and Jock Olmsted, who pulled ahead of last year's winners, Clarence Woodward and Darrell Root, who defended valiantly.

Mrs. Lloyd G. Butterfield, chairman of the benefit, officiated at the drawing of the door prizes. Mr. Lewis Ward won the automatic toaster donated by Mr. George Whitten, chairman of the troop committee of Boy Scout Troop 503. Lew received a few chuckles and whistles because of his phenomenal luck in the club's prize drawings.

The electric can opener given by Mr. Al LaPointe, head of the Winchester Little League, was won by Mr. Joseph Scarpaci, one of our club members.

Mr. Philip Cade was the lucky winner of some scatter rugs, wool and braided, donated by Koko Boodakian and Sons. Mr. Boodakian is the chairman of the troop committee of Boy Scout Troop 507.

The final drawing for three sets of wall panels given by Myron Berlow, was won by Mr. William McNeil, an assistant scoutmaster himself.

Mrs. Butterfield wishes to extend her appreciation to her committee, to the generous donors of the door prizes, and to all those who helped make the evening a happy and successful one.

The scoring results follow. In Section A eleven tables played 22 boards with an average score of 110. Those players above average were:

Herb Wood and Jock Olmsted	144½
Clarence Woodward and Darrell Root	131½
Margaret Jackson and Barbara Shea	129½
Lawrence Hayes and Norman Houlding	127½
Lolly Smith and Jim Byrne	126½
Irene and Carl Sittinger	116½
Martha Walker and Ellen Schofield	115
Eleanor and Ed Mansfield	114
Anne Murray and Helen Mahoney	114
Betty Slade and Bob Haskell	112½
Steve Root and Dave Littleton	112½

Miggs Root and Dick Smith	130½
Andrew McCosh and Thomas Worthington	128½
Don Rossetti and Gerry Hutchison	127
John Nicholson and John Nikula	124
Paul Ranaghan and Bob Prevoir	121
Joe Scarpaci and Al Johnson	120½
Ida Finlay and Mary Campbell	114
Ed Sullivan and Dick Herlihy	114
Peggy and Paul Sanderson	113½
Marian and Chester Davis	112½
Florence Lockhart and Gay Schreiber	112
Muffy Scarpaci and Ruth Johnson	110½

Section C's nine and one-half tables played 21 boards with an adjusted average of 63. It is good to see some of the new-to-duplicate bride players placing in the above average list below.

Muriel Fields and Dorothy Van Sickles	78½
Lee Mitchell and John Reardon	73½
Everett Young and Leo Gonsalves	72½
Rosemary Layzer and Terry Ward	72
Evelyn and Bob Blackler	72
Jim Stewart and Don Wyman	71
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Irwin	70½
Alice and George Kimball	70½
Rose Hickey and Mary Cussen	67½
William McNeil and Don Blanchard	66
Gerry Lawrence and Betty Ann Yeomans	65
Florence and Malcolm Wilkinson	64

Winchester bridge players are always welcome at our regular Wednesday night games at the K. of C. Hall. Come down between 7 and 7:30; all play begins by 7:30 and is usually over by 10:45.

MAJOR MIRACLES

There are creatures which can and have been doing for thousands of years what man has just recently learned to do—make light without making heat.

These living miracle workers are fireflies. Rarely found outside of the Americas, fireflies are one of the many mysteries confronting scientists. They turn their lights on and off at will. The insects are not flies at all, but really beetles, and their light is the means by which they attract mates on dark nights.

Fireflies are seen only on the warmer, humid summer nights, preferably moonless. The phenomenon by which they produce light, called bioluminescence, is not unique to them—many other animals also possess it, from lowly bacteria up the evolutionary ladder to some kinds of fish.

The female firefly has light producing organs on one segment of her abdomen; the male has them on two segments. The female almost never flies (although she has wings) so if an airborn light is seen flashing it is that of a male. As mentioned before, the light is the means by which fireflies find mates.

The male will fly around flashing his light, a female will see it, flash back, and that is that.

Adult fireflies have a life expectancy of about one week, because of this fact, they eat absolutely no food. As with other insects, fireflies go through the egg, larvae and adult stages; the immature larvae stage lasts as long as two years.

It is just within the past five years that science has mastered electroluminescence, the equal of the fireflies cold light magic.

The firefly's light is controlled by means of adrenalin; if a firefly is frightened—caught in a spider web, for example, the light will glow continually for up to a half an hour.

This insect is really one of nature's marvels. Here is a species of living creatures which must, as others, perpetuate itself, but the adult lives for only one week or less. This short life is compensated for by the creature having a built-in signal lamp.

Another natural marvel, this time of a different kind, is the life story of the monarch butterfly. Monarchs are the beautiful orange and black ones common to this area and others in the spring and summer. We will start the life story in the early summer with the egg hatching.

The egg hatches and the insect goes through its many stages; finally the adult monarch emerges. It feeds on milkweed during the summer, come fall it flies to Florida to winter. (Monarchs found west of the Rockies go to southern California). In the spring the butterfly will fly back up north to lay eggs and the species is perpetuated.

The marvel is this: the life of a monarch is at absolute most nine months—it is impossible for one to go to either Florida or California more than once.

What is the means by which these butterflies know where they are to go? There is a certain spot in a California town where they appear in myriads each and every year since records have been kept. The monarchs never fly in flocks and some travel close to 2000 miles to reach their winter homes.

Tour of Colonial Boston Planned For Jr. High Age

What was it like to live in Colonial Boston, when Paul Revere and Ben Franklin were boys? Young people in grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 will have a chance to find out on a special "Know Your Boston" bus tour planned for Saturday, April 24, by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Accompanied by guides, the busses will leave the Museum at 10, 10:30 and 11 a.m., on a two and one-half hour trip into Boston's colorful past with stops including such places as Dock Square, Paul Revere's House, Copp's Burial Ground and many more.

Advance reservations are required, and must be made before Tuesday, April 20, through the Museum's membership office. Tickets are very reasonable and information about them may be had from the Museum's membership office at 267-9300.

Unitarian Players Do Solid Job With English Drama

The Unitarian Players probed the communications barrier between husband and wife, parents and children Friday and Saturday nights in performances of "Five Finger Exercise."

British playwright Peter Shaffer didn't leaven his play with any real laughs, which disappointed some; but appreciators of serious drama were rewarded with a moving interpretation of the tragedy when family members lose rapport.

The five fingers are the five equally important characters, Stanley and Louise Harrington, their teen-age children Clive and Pam, and Pam's young German tutor, Walter. The exercise is life, and the struggle for communication. Excellent casting by director Jay Sibley resulted in a perfect balance.

Any father who can't seem to reach his teen-age son could feel strong empathy for Stanley Harrington as played by Steve Brown. Mr. Brown stepped as adroitly into the shoes of the self-made British furniture manufacturer as he did into the part of Henry Drummond in the Players' production of "Inherit the Wind" last spring. He avoids histrionics with the skill of a seasoned actor. His background includes community theaters in Georgia and Indiana and Army Special Service shows.

As Stanley, he was a man's man who enjoyed hunting and drinking. Short on culture and education, he resented them in his pretty, pretentious wife and effeminate mother-dominated son Clive.

Renee Miller played Louise, his ostentatiously cultured and stylish wife. Though she looked too young for the part, she portrayed a woman with delusions of grandeur convincingly. A newcomer to Unitarian Players, she has had lead parts with the St. Andrews Players in New York and spent five years in water ballet, with appearances for Ed Sullivan and Arthur Godfrey.

Though the wife ridicules her husband's poor taste, she lacks a sense of appropriateness herself. Costume chairman Norma Garvey interpreted this well by dressing her in clothes too chic for the country cottage in England where the play is set. The decor by Shirley Lyman and Shelby Saylor also effectively reflected the incongruity.

The plaguing indecision of the college-age Clive was projected dramatically by Peter Alterio. His interpretation lent credibility to a character too far out to seem real in less-talented hands. This is Alterio's debut with the Players. He has been a member of Arlington Friends of the Drama for three years.

Lynne Monroe as Pam is irrepressible and vital. She became 14-year-old Pam so completely that it was hard to believe she's actually college age—a student at the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The make-up by Fran Vaccaro and Betty Vallee was particularly effective in showing Pam's healthy, scrubbed glow.

Tony Carrigan, well known to Unitarian Players for his versatility and acting skill, adeptly covered his English accent with German inflections as the tutor. Walter, longing for the security of a home, had abandoned German citizenship and his Nazi parents and sought new roots with the Harringtons. His presence gradually forced the family crisis into the open and helped each person come to grips with himself.

His attempt at suicide when dismissed as tutor dramatically drew the family together. At this climax, Ted Knowlton's sound effects hit their zenith. The symphony on Walter's phonograph offstage swelled in a stirring crescendo, and the needle stuck. The instant the family burst into the gas-filled room, the music realistically sounded louder.

The scene never changed in the play, yet the imaginative set designed by Cecil Prest and constructed by Will Garvey and Rod Hoag was never static because action moved between several rooms on varying levels. Effective lighting by Steve Funk and Gordon Davis shifted emphasis from room to room, and gave a mellow autumn glow to the view from the window.

Ellie Hoag, production chairman, had able help in her staff of Ann Carrigan and Elizabeth Davis, properties; Glad West, stage manager; Betty Ann Pritchard, prompter; Fran Ve Planck, tickets; and Ted Read, program.

Local Principals Meet On Teaching Organization

The Winchester school principals and administrative staff have completed a series of discussions on instructional organization. Each principal spoke and was questioned by the others.

The main purpose of the first meeting was to let every one be aware of what is going on in the other schools, of what some of the goals are in other schools, and to share in solving problems in organizational development work.

At the second meeting supervision for change was the subject during a two-day conference held April 8-9. Dr. Stuart Marshall, professor of education at Boston University, was present as a consultant. (He is not the Dr. Marshall of the Marshall report.)

Participants in the program were Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, assistant superintendents Richard E. Desjarlais and Walter P. Gleason, Henry B. Perry, director personnel, and all the school principals.

At this seminar procedures for establishing the most effective possible supervision of instruction for the Winchester public schools were discussed. Some of the topics: purposes, vocabulary, methods, new ideas, and criteria. The result was that Dr. Marshall is going to work closely with the administrative staff in carrying on long range development of supervisory skills. The program includes immediate plans for working with the teaching staff to develop goals and criteria for effective supervision. Additional steps would include further training for the persons in supervisory capacity.

The necessity to evaluate new techniques, new organizational patterns, and new materials which are coming into the educational system in increasing numbers makes such conferences important.

The workshop was organized by Walter P. Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction.

Birders Welcome

Northward bound birds have been slow in coming but they are on their way.

The "watchers" who start from Mrs. Kendall Spencer's, 7 Inverness Road, every Monday morning at 8:30 a.m. have been pleased to observe Great Blue Heron, the striking Baldpate, Readhead, Ringneck and Scaup ducks. Swallows, Nuthatches and several Sparrow visitors are here.

Join the group to welcome new migrants. Soon Warblers will be gracing our area on their way north.

Channel 2 Sales Tax Discussion Is Next Week

The pros and cons of the proposed state sales tax are to be debated on Channel 2's "Inside Massachusetts" Wednesday, April 21, at 8 p.m.

To discuss the financial crisis in the Bay State and the wisdom of assessing "three cents on the dollar" to alleviate it, are six key Massachusetts citizens.

Favoring Governor Volpe's sales tax propósal are Thaddeus Beal, president of the Harvard Trust Company; Attorney John Dane, tax advisor to the Massachusetts Governor; and Francis J. McGrath, director pro tem of the Massachusetts Citizens for Taxes Committee, and city manager of Worcester.

Speaking against the bill are Mildred Myerson, chairman of the tax committee of the Massachusetts' Americans for Democratic Action; Sumner Rosen, assistant professor of economics at Simmons College; and Robert H. Segal, labor union attorney.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

A nationally known figure was being interviewed on a radio program. He mentioned that his wife's hobby was ceramics—she made and painted different art objects.

The interviewer then asked, "What do you do about your household insurance as you keep adding to the values of your wife's collection?"

He took the question in stride. "I increase my household contents insurance by 10% on every renewal," he replied.

I couldn't help thinking that while this might leave him short, it is better than most homeowners do!

The value of household contents—including furniture, appliances, clothing, books, pictures, sports equipment and other hobby items — continues to climb. Inflation alone probably accounts for 10% every three years.

The amount of your household insurance must be based not on what you paid for it, but what it would cost to replace. That's why the amount of your insurance should be checked, and perhaps revalued, at least at every renewal.

Come in and we will discuss this matter in more detail. Our goal is to see that you are truly "protected."

25th Anniversary For Local P.E.O.

Chapter J. Winchester, of the P.E.O. Sisterhood recently celebrated its 25th anniversary with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lewis G. Curtis. Members of other Massachusetts chapters were guests.

The P.E.O. Sisterhood is a charitable and educational organization interested principally in bringing to women greatly increased opportunities for higher education. This is accomplished through three educational philanthropies with which the entire membership of over 145,000 women living in the United States and Canada is concerned: P.E.O. Educational Fund, Cottey College for Women, and the P.E.O. International Peace Scholarship Fund.

The educational fund, which now totals over one million dollars was established 58 years ago and has given financial aid and encouragement to over 14,000 women.

Cottey College for Women, located in Nevada, Missouri, has an enrollment of 350 girls and is owned and supported by the Sisterhood. Known as "the college of world friendship" with students from many countries, it is a fully accredited liberal arts college, whose educational program is designed as one of preparation for transfer to a four-year college.

Voluntary contributions of the membership to the International Peace Scholarships are providing scholarships for over eighty selected women from other countries for graduate study in the United States and Canada. The friendships formed between students and P.E.O. members can do much to create better understanding among nations as these students return to serve their people.

Winchester members of the P. E. O. Chapter J include Mrs. P. E. Nason, president, Mrs. E. G. Barker, Mrs. L. G. Curtis, Mrs. H. L. Doughty, Mrs. H. M. Easton, Mrs. K. L. Klippel, Mrs C. A. Stevens, Mrs. G. R. Stone, and Mrs. G. B. Tallman.

In addition there are seven Winchester women who hold membership in other chapters of the P. E. O.

Chicks, Ducklings Bad Easter Gifts For Children

Easter chicks or ducklings do not make ideal gifts or pets. Dr. Carlton E. Buttrick, president of the Animal Rescue League of Boston, says that most people do not have the facilities to care for them properly, and because of their tender age they should not be handled by children. This in itself precludes their desirability as pets.

The Animal Rescue League of Boston and many other animal welfare societies across the country have for many years attempted to eliminate the practice of selling baby chicks as Easter presents for children. The cruelties incident to this use of baby chicks, ducklings, and rabbits should be of concern to everyone. Experience has shown repeatedly that baby fowl and rabbits sold in the city for playthings and decorative purposes seldom survive the mishandling and unnatural conditions to which they are subjected. Without proper care and food, baby chicks die within a short time.

Country Store Will Benefit Cancer Fund

On Friday evening, April 23, at 8 p.m. the Ladies' Auxiliary to the V.F.W. Aberjona Post No. 3719, will hold its annual "Country Store" for the benefit of the Cancer Fund at the Post Home, 15 White Street.

Chairlady Nellie Bolivar, who has been in charge of this affair for the past several years, has planned an enjoyable evening for one and all.

There will be a wide assortment of valuable prizes for the lucky winners and delicious refreshments will be served as always. All Auxiliary members, friends and general public are cordially invited.

Easter Breakfast Methodist Church

Following the Community Sunrise Service of Easter Sunday morning the Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship, assisted by Norman Stafford, "Chief Chef," and other adults, will serve an Easter breakfast in Gifford Hall from 7 to 9 o'clock. The menu will offer choices and will include juice, cereal, sausage, pan cakes, eggs, coffee and rolls.

Tickets may be secured in advance from members or from Mrs. Jo An Adcock, director of Christian Education.

No one will be served after 9 o'clock as the meal must be completed by 9:30, the hour of the first Easter worship service in the sanctuary.

Cub Pack 506 Scouts at Star

Seven scouts from Cub Pack 506, Den 3, enjoyed an afternoon guided tour of the Star offices and plant on Wednesday, April 7.

Accompanying Mrs. John McPhail, Den Mother of Den 3, were Scott Atkinson, Charles Hill, Brian McPhail, Keith McPhail, Joey Murphy, Scott Reading, Mark Simmons and Stephen Twombly.

The scouts from Unitarian Church Pack 506 were shown the editor's and publisher's office, the proofreader's and advertising manager's office, and the composing and press rooms. They were shown how a newspaper is organized and assembled, and how the press produces the final newspaper product.

Scientists Acclaimed At Saint Mary's

"Seek to know" the theme of Saint Mary's annual Science Fair, was experienced by the students, their parents and friends, last Thursday, April 8.

Twenty-four excellent projects were exhibited and explained to Mrs. Boylan, Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. McKenna whose task was to judge the fair and after much deliberation prizes were awarded to the students before an enthusiastic audience eagerly awaiting the outcome.

First prize was awarded to Norman Doucette for his enlightening and interesting display on Transistors. Charles Savant and Gerald Hicks were chosen second prize winners. Their exhibit, The Miracle of Birth, the embryology of the chicken, attracted many both young and old.

Nature's Revenge, the project of Charles Polcari and Gerald Aiello received third prize. They demonstrated the activities and results of a volcano, which was most intriguing.

Honorable mention was given to William Kennedy, Marilyn Rooney, Claire Lyon, Kenneth Sullivan, Frank Grabiec and Douglas Dalton.

The cooperation and team work of all the students participating in this fair was most evident and was acclaimed by all.

What Red Cross Can Mean to You

BLOOD for a family member because you gave a pint through the Massachusetts Regional Blood Program within the past year—

SATISFACTION as a volunteer in working with servicemen or veterans at Chelsea Naval or Bedford V.A. Hospitals—

REASSURANCE acquired in a First Aid course in knowing what to do in an emergency before the doctor comes—

ABILITY to handle the first newborn through taking an Expectant Parents' course—

SECURITY in the water by learning to swim under the experienced guidance of a Red Cross Water Safety instructor—

TRANSPORTATION to a hospital or clinic by a friendly Red Cross driver—

RAPID COMMUNICATION to a son or husband in the service through the efforts of a local volunteer working with the Red Cross Field Director at a military installation—

PLEASURE in filling a Friendship box to be sent to a boy or girl in a disaster area — or making holiday favors for the enjoyment of veterans at the Bedford V. A. Hospital—

These are some of the things that Red Cross can mean to you. Why not find out from your local Red Cross how you can help and be helped. Visit your Red Cross Chapter at 84 Washington Street, between the Public Library and the Town Hall.

Report To Massachusetts

By Sen. Leverett Saltonstall

What About Our New England Transportation?

Nowadays we read many news articles about our transportation problems, especially in the East in New England. These problems involve rail, sea, and air transportation.

The New Haven Railroad has just announced a much larger operating deficit for this February than for a year ago. It is seeking discontinuance of its commuter trains into New York City from Connecticut and down the Hudson. That would leave several million people without adequate transportation. The Pennsylvania-New York Central merger has been recomended to the full Interstate Commerce Commission specifically excluding the New Haven passenger service. And our old friend to the North—the Boston & Maine—has eliminated all of its passenger service except for its commuter trains now run with a temporary subsidy from a State agency.

President Johnson has recommended that our maritime subsidy program be reviewed with the hope that it may be cut back. At present we have a Federal ship construction subsidy of 50% and a 50% operating subsidy for merchant ships over certain routes where they compete with foreign carriers. These subsidies are needed if our shipbuilding industry and merchant fleet is to remain competitive with the carriers and shipbuilding industries of other countries where costs are considerably lower.

We know of the efforts of our Massachusetts Port Authority to stimulate more business in the port. Commerce through the Port of Boston is closely tied to the problems of freight rates on the railroads which transport the goods inland. A merchant ship only earns money when it is operating. It loses money if it is tied up too long in port or is kept waiting to dock.

Today Boston has good air shuttle passenger service to New York City and Washington by several airlines. The air service to other New England cities is not good and is nonexistent in some areas. Our major New England based airline —Northeast—has been denied a permanent certificate to continue operating its long-haul Florida run, on which it contends it makes money.

The Civil Aeronautics Board insists that Northeast Airlines is losing money heavily and can remain solvent, even with a possible increased subsidy, only on a local, short-haul operation serving just New England. The Commission wants to leave the Florida run to Eastern and National Airlines. New England would then be dependent on them for interstate service, and on smaller planes and a subsidized Northeast for local service.

New England is situated in the far northeast corner of the United States. We are densely populated. We are primarily an industrial area. We depend upon transportation to bring to us the raw materials from which we manufacture the finished article or develop the new product—be it textiles, shoes, electrical equipment from huge transformers to electric light bulbs, ships, or refined machine tools. We are dependent on retaining highly skilled people who are involved in the many different research efforts which benefit our nation's security and advance our science and industry.

And last, but by no means least, is the part transportation plays in the development of our recreational resources, which are diverse and plentiful. Tourism is big business for all of New England today, but it is seasonal. When I mention recreation, I think of my own summer home in Maine where I have gone for many years.

Thirty-five years ago there were two daily trains from Boston to Bangor and one night sleeper. There was also a passenger boat which left Boston at 6:00 p.m.

Today, there are no trains, no passenger boat, and only two DC-3 planes carrying about twenty people a trip. Although the roads are much improved, we are left with only an automobile to reach our destination. What a change! Is it for the better?

We are proud of our highways and thruways. Perhaps our secondary roads are the best in the country today. But we want more than trucks for our deliveries. We want more than passenger cars for moving around. We are intensely interested in these railroad, air, and maritime problems.

We can well ask ourselves, are we coming to the point where, to keep passenger service operating, the government must own the railroads? If so, what government shall own them and how shall they be operated? Will our railroads offer adequate passenger service if we increase their speed? We see that the new Japanese trains travel 120 miles an hour, comfortably and safely. What of the new proposal for an experimental high-speed railroad run between Boston and Washington? What of Senator Claiborne Pell's monorail vision?

Already many recommendations have been made in the State legislatures and several proposals have been submitted to Congress. Certainly we cannot expect the Federal Government to assume the entire financial burden, particularly for commuter service which is essentially local by nature. Last year Massachusetts established the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority which is attempting to continue and improve commuter service in the metropolitan area. In addition, the MBTA is encouraging local communities outside that area to participate in this program by financial contribution to commuter services, both rail and bus. This is an important type of local effort to solve an essentially local problem.

But if we want to travel to New York by rail as well as by air, how are we going to continue and improve that service?

It is possible for states to enter into regional agreements on matters affecting interstate commerce. To get to New York from Boston by rail one has to travel through Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New York.

A regional agreement between these states is feasible, but will only become practical when the financial details are worked out to determine how much responsibility each state will assume. But if the states are not willing to carry out their share of the problem, Washington can certainly refuse to carry the whole burden.

But is that all we want, and is that wise for the future growth of our industry, especially in New England, and for our ability to move about our great country? Will people who want to use the roads on some occasions also be willing to share the cost of transportation for other occasions?

So our transportation comes close to home for all of us, whether we are rolling along the Massachusetts Turnpike, whether we are looking out of the window of the five o'clock express to New York City, or whether we are looking down from the air as we take off from Logan Airport.

But our personal needs are just a small part of the problem. The employment of our citizens in New England, the modernization of our factories, the laboratories for our scientists, and the continued development of areas like New Boston with its Prudential Center and the new Government Center, all depend in one form or another, upon transportation for their growth and occupancy.

Then there is transportation by road. Here we must evaluate the competition between the trucking industry, the railroads, and the airlines, as well as our everyday use of roads. We are constantly constructing new thruways and toll roads. It is possible now to go from Washington to Boston on toll roads at 60 miles an hour.

I am constantly asked, "What can 'Washington' do to help us?" As I see it, what it can do depends upon what we at home are willing to do, what we want, how much we are willing to pay, or if we aren't willing to pay for better service, what service will we put up with? In short, how much and what kind of service do we demand?

I ask you, what are your thoughts, what are your wants, and what are you willing to do to keep Massachusetts and New England a better place in which to live, to do business, and to raise our future generations?

DAR Honors Mrs. Wills

On Monday morning, April 12, the Committee of Safety Chapter of N.S.D.A.R. held its regular monthly board meeting at the home of the Regent, Mrs. William C. Cusack.

Mrs. Cusack opened the meeting speaking of the death of Mrs. John B. Wills, an admired and greatly respected member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, a tireless worker and devoted citizen. Mrs. Herbert L. Darling, chaplain, selected a beautifully written piece of prose to read in her memory, at the conclusion of which the board stood and recited the Lord's Prayer.

After the reading of the officers' reports, recommendations and instructions were given to the two Chapter delegates, Mrs. Michael MacDonald, Jr., and Mrs. Russell P. Pearl who are leaving for Washington to attend the N.S.D.A.R. Continental Congress. Upon their return from this important national event they will make their reports at the Chapter's annual meeting to be held this year at Hanscom Field in Bedford on April 26th.

An interesting and educational day has been planned, and through the courtesies of this governmental base, luncheon, an illuminating explanation of the intricacies of some of the electronic equipment, and a guided tour of the base has been arranged by the commanding officers. Any member wishing transportation may contact Mrs. Malcolm D. Bennett, Mrs. Michael MacDonald, Jr., or Mrs. William C. Cusack, from whose home at 2 Lakeview Road the chapter members plan to leave at 11:30 a.m. on the morning of April 26th.

Will all committee chairmen please be sure to bring with them their annual report for this meeting, and would all chapter members recall that payment of their annual dues at this time will be greatly appreciated by the treasurer, Mrs. Harold M. Twombly.

Staff and Key Spring Program Is Next Friday

"Staff and Key," Winchester's Gilbert & Sullivan Society which was reborn to a vital existence this fall with three very successful presentations of "Pirates of Penzance," is planning an informal spring program next week.

At 8 p.m. on the evening of Friday, April 23 at Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany they will present a short program to their members, friends and the general public. The chorus, highly complimented in last December's "Pirate's" reviews, will give favorite excerpts from this show and will also give the public a look toward "The Mikado," planned for next fall.

To accent the program Jay Sibley, Winchester's popular monologist will be on stage; the Two-by-Fours will appear with some of their best numbers; Eleanor Banks is scheduled for a solo and Jack Gilbert, will do something of his own choosing on the piano.

Coffee and dessert will open the evening at 8 and tickets may be had from members of the group or at the door.

Art Group President

PRESIDENT OF THE CAMBRIDGE ART ASSOCIATION is Mrs. Carla-Maria Casagrande of 24 Arlington Street, one of more than ten Winchester artists who belong to and exhibit with this group. She is shown here with C. Fayette Taylor of Brookline, chairman of the annual members' show which opened Sunday and runs through Friday, April 30, at the association galleries, 18 Eliot Street, and also at the Loeb Drama Center. Mrs. Casagrande is the wife of Professor Christian E. Casagrande of Harvard and the mother of five children.

VFW To Aid Cystic Fibrosis

Commander John T. Collins of the Aberjona Post No. 3719 has named Post Commander Gordo H. Horn, Jr., as chairman of the committee to assist the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation to raise funds to fight Cystic Fibrosis.

Cystic Fibrosis is a disease which affects approximately one in every 600 children born each year. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is an organization which is entirely voluntary, there are no paid employees, but consists of a group of parents and friends who have banded together to raise money for research.

To play their part, the local V.F.W. Post and members of its Ladies' Auxiliary will conduct a "Country Store" at the Post Home on White Street, Friday evening, May 7th.

The fund raising project is open to the public and your support to this most worthy cause would be appreciated.

Parish Players Are Preparing The "Fantasticks"

"The Fantasticks," a delightful musical comedy, will be given by the Parish Players of the First Congregational Church, on April 29, 30, and May 1.

This show which has just finished playing its 2050th performance off-Broadway, has been hailed as a smash hit and its performances in Winchester will be a highlight of the spring season.

Under the musical direction of Roger Golde and the stage direction of Arthur Waldstein, the following cast is in rehearsal: Suzanne Goldman as the girl; Robert Mathews, the boy; Harry Hallenbeck, Bellamy; Fred DellaPaolera, Hucklebee; Michael Leven, El Gallo; Peter Jones, the Mute; Woodford Wilcox, Henry; and Lawrence Smith, Mortimer.

Based on a play by Edmund Rostand, the comedy has been given a romantic treatment with words by Tom Jones and music by Harvey L. Schmidt.

The orchestra for the performances will consist of Frances Cabot, piano; Mary Jane Anderson, harp; James Willoughby, bass; and Philip O'Shea, drums.

Ticket reservations may be made with Miss Ruth Albee at 729-5844.

Easter Sunrise Service

The annual Easter Sunrise Service, sponsored by the Interchurch Youth Council, will be held at 6 a.m. on Easter Sunday morning at the Winchester Country Club. Young people from the First Baptist Church, Douglas Carlson, Walter Harwood and Janet Butterworth, will conduct the service. Richard Farnsworth will direct the singing. And the sermon will be delivered by the Reverend H. Newton Clay, minister of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Jack Burrows of the First Congregational Church is organizing a brass ensemble for musical accompaniment. Other responsibilities are being shared by the youth groups of the various other churches. The young people of the Winchester Unitarian Church are repsonsible for the order of service, Church of the Epiphany for ushering, and the Second Congregational Church for publicity. This is a united service of the Protestant young people of Winchester. Adults and young people are cordially invited to participate.

LAURENCE A. McCAIG, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCaig of 8 Taft Drive, has enlisted in the United States Air Force. He left for basic training at Lockland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, last week and will subsequently go on to Kessler Air Base for electronics study. He is expected home for his June WHS graduation.

Toastmistresses In Speech Contest

The Winchester Toastmistress Club was well represented at the annual Speech Contest and Conference of Council Five, International Toastmistress Clubs at the Holiday Inn, Framingham on Saturday.

Evelyn Sostek was among the ten contestants competing for the honor of representing Council Five at the regional speech contest in Philadelphia in May. All were winners of local club contests throughout New England and Eastern Canada.

Mrs. Mary Washburn, Lexington, a member of the Critique Club of Bedford, won first place with her speech entitled "The Invisible Man." Second place winner was Jean McFarland of the Boston "Telebelles" whose subject was "The Right To Speak."

The contestants were given three topics 48 hours in advance of the contest from which they selected one and prepared an original five to seven minute speech. They were evaluated by six affiliate and non-affiliate judges.

All clubs in Council Five participated in the day-long program which began with a business meeting under the direction of Eleanor Fulton, council chairman of Andover.

The agenda included the election of new officers for the coming term as follows: as chairman, Mrs. Irene Stark, Needham; as vice chairman, Mary McCrudden, Warwick, R. I.; as secretary, Mrs. Stella Sandrowski, Hyde Park and as treasurer, Frances Dineen, Medford, president of Winchester Club.

The morning program concluded with a workshop on protocol and the annual club president's report explained by Mrs. Pamela Papadinis, Education chairman for council and immediate past council chairman.

Membership is open to all women over twenty-one interested in communicating effectively. Their motto too will be "to love the English language and to use it with grace and facility."

For further information contact Miss Hilda Hope, 37 Glen Green, Winchester (tel. 729-1317).

"Living With Spring Flowers"

"Living with Spring Flowers in the Home," a demonstration-lecture by Mrs. Hollis L. Gray, will be presented to the Winchester Home and Garden Club April 21 at the Methodist Church Hall.

Mrs. Gray is one of the foremost flower arrangers in this area and has exhibited at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the De Cordova Museum in Lincoln, and appeared on many major TV programs. For 12 years she has served on the board of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and this year was staging chairman of the New England Flower Show.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club is honoring its past presidents at this meeting.

Animal Rescue League Has Open House April 20

Mass. Federation of Humane Societies' invitation to its free open house on Tuesday, April 20, from 1 to 4, at the Animal Rescue League Auditorium, corner of Arlington and Tremont Streets, Boston. Exhibitions, displays, police dogs, snack bar, novelties.

Mrs. Richard Osgood of Emerson Road was hostess at a recent morning coffee for the committee planning the Tuesday, April 20, open house of the Massachusetts Federation of Humane Societies to be held at the Animal Rescue League's Auditorium, corner of Arlington and Tremont Street, Boston.

A fitting prelude to the annual Be Kind to Animals Week in May, this open house, which is free to the public, will feature displays from Massachusetts animal welfare groups all the way from Fall River to Northampton to Rockport.

A demonstration of police dogs at work, tours of the Animal Rescue League, a snack bar, a cookie corner and several tables of novelties available nowhere else plus various exhibitions add up to an unusual and stimulating afternoon. Mark April 20 on your calendar. Learn what is being done for animals and what can be. The hours are 1 to 4 p.m.

Winchesterites on the committee, which is headed by Mrs. Crosby Kelley, include Mrs. William Beggs, Mrs. Robert Barlow, Mrs. Don Greer, Mrs. Holbrook Dodge, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Richard Chase, Mrs. George Connor, Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham, Mrs. James Gustin, Mrs. Fred Cardin, Mrs. Byron Jackson, Mrs. James Russo, Mrs. John Akeson and Mrs. Robert Buckley.

Sons Of Italy News

Chairman Art Dunbar of the golf league has informed us that the members who wish to play golf this year must have their names and their entrance fees in by tonight, April 15. You must give your names to the committee who are Chick Vespucci, Al Fiorilli, Moose Bellino, or to Al Gravalese. If you can not get hold of any of these fellows you may leave your name etc. with the steward on duty at the club house.

The jont installation of officers of the men's and women's lodges will take place Sunday evening, May 2nd.

The degree team will install the officers this year, and if you have not yet seen this team in action this should be a must affair for you to attend. This is always a grand affair in our S.O.I. calendar and with the degree team doing the installing, it makes it a double thrill.

The committee under the chairmanship of Richard Penta have been sending out formal invitations etc., working out a program, and just doing everything possible to make this as grand an affair as those in the past have been.

After the formal part of the program, and the refreshments which will be served, there will be dancing to the music of our good brother John Gambino and his Blue Chips.

If you did not have a chance to give blood at our recent Blood Day here at the club it is urged that you do so at the next visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile here in Winchester. The date of the next visit will be announced and posted and where it will be located.

Be sure that you sign your blood over to our own S.O.I. Blood Bank when you give, unless, of course, that you are giving in the name of a certain person etc.

— Thank You —

This month we celebrate our third anniversary as a member of the Winchester community. It is most gratifying to look back over these past few years and realize how many friends we have made in this short time. While the name Cradock is well known and highly respected in the field of pharmacy, having been located in Medford Square for a quarter of a century, we are deeply appreciative of the way you have accepted us here in Winchester. We shall be be forever grateful for the splendid cooperation we have received from the medical profession and shall continue to merit your support. Why not pay us a visit soon and see the completeness of our operation—or take advantage of our fast, free delivery service. Again may we say thank you for your patronage over the past three years. We look forward to being of service to you for many more to come.

Miss Kadesch In The Run for JC's Miss America

Kathryn Ann Kadesch, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Kadesch of 15 Mayflower Road, a freshman at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio, competed in the pre-talent competition at the Belfry Club in Lexington on Sunday, April 11, and was chosen as one of the fourteen contestants for the Miss Lexington contest to be held at Lexington High School on April 24th at 8 p.m.

KATHRYN ANN KADESCH

This is the first step in the Miss America Contest culminating in the beauty pageant in Atlantic City, N. J. in September.

Kay, the Girl Scout with the most merit badges in the country, has recently added a new achievement to her list by starting the first Girl's Crew in the Midwest. The Boston Globe will carry a story on this soon in its Sunday supplement.

For her talent competition Kay wore a red satin artist's smock with a large black bow tie and displayed three of her paintings done as giant flats, one foot by six feet high. She is studying to be an art teacher for elementary school.

As the second part of her talent, music, she plays piano, and guitar, and recently took part in a hootenanny at college and later broadcasted as a solo performer over the school radio station.

The contestants wlil rehearse on the Friday night before the contest at the high school and there will be a luncheon for them on the Saturday of the performance. The show is being sponsored by the Jaycees of Lexington and tickets are available at the high school the 24th.

Forum At 8 A.M. Service

Forum will assist in the 8 a.m. church service on Easter Sunday at the First Congregational Church. The Forum Choir will sing.

Mr. Mallery's sermon will be entitled "Easter, the Heart of Our Faith." Sally Worthen will be chaplain for this service; deacons serving will be Craig Heindel, William Canfield, David Weaver and Jeffrey Strout, and ushers Hugh Fisher, Peter Harvey, Scott Cunningham and Stephen Carpenter.

The Service Committee under the direction of Mary Mouradian and Peter Harvey have made tray favors which will be taken to Long Island Hospital for Easter.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Margaret Grace, formerly of Brookside Avenue and now of La Puente, California, wishes to thank her friends for their best wishes, for her speedy recovery from her recent illness.

Spiritual, bouquets, cards and flowers from P. P. Girls, C. D. of A. and Emmanuel Guild and many others were a great morale builder.

W.V.N.A. Orients New Members

Friday, April 9th, was the annual Orientation Day for the new members of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association. This year the meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Robert Nyere, at 19 Arlington Street.

Following a short business meeting, Miss Rita Plummer, nursing director, introduced her new staff nurse, Miss Maxine Ratte and a student nurse, Miss Claire LeFrancois from Boston University, who will serve with W.V.N.A. for a period of eight weeks to gain experience in public health nursing.

Mrs. Thornton Stearns, chairman of the Education Committee, introduced the members of a panel which included Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham, president; Mrs. Charles Sweetser, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Nyere, chairman of the Nominating Committee, Mrs. Howard Bates, chairman of the Personnel Committee, Mrs. Loring Thompson, co-chairman of the Publicity Committee and Miss Rita Plummer.

Playing the role of a new member in the W.V.N.A., Mrs. Stearns directed questions to all participants on the panel, to learn how, as a new member, she might become an effective, useful member of the organization. In questioning the committee chairmen, she learned of the specific work of each committee.

Miss Plummer explained how the W.V.N.A. functions as a three-pronged health and nursing service to the community. Through its home visiting service; through its work in the schools, sponsored by the School Committee; and through its clinics and other special assignments for the Board of Health, Winchester receives a family centered health service from the W.V.N.A.

Cub Pack 524

Cub Scout Pack No. 524, sponsored by the Parkhurst School PTA, has recently reorganized under a new charter. Thanks to the hard work and guiding hands of Al Tatarian, executive chairman, and Bill Wilde, cub master, a complete committee has been set up with six full dens.

On Tuesday April 6, "South of the Border" was the theme of a monthly Pack meeting where each den had a table on display showing the achievements of ther meetings. Following the Flag ceremony and personal inspection, several achievement awards were presented including a Silver Arrow, One Year Star and and assistant denner award to Paul Cincotta, son of the Pack's outing chairman, Joe Cincotta. Charles Patti was awarded his Bear award and several boys also received their Wolf award.

The Father-Son Bowling Tournament Trophies were awarded to Jim and Ron Conyea for high father and son average and to Paul Cincotta for high Cub average of 176.

All six Dens then displayed their talents by putting on their prepared skits, all with a "South of the Border" theme. These included a Mexican Hat Dance, Ferdinand and the Bull and the traditional Mexican game, "Pinata."

The next Pack meeting is scheduled for May 4th at the Parkhurst School. Parents desiring their boy (age 8-10) to join this Pack should call Bill Wilde 729-1062 or Al Tatarian 729-1303 for information.

Sen. Saltonstall To Visit Area

United States Senator Leverett Saltonstall will visit Belmont next week to report on recent developments regarding Civil Rights, U. S. foreign policy and his position on Viet Nam, Medicare, Federal Aid to Education and other current issues.

He will be the guest speaker at an open meeting of the Belmont Young Republican Club. Following his comments, there will be a question and answer period with the audience.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 20th at 7:30 p.m. in the Winn Brook School auditorium, corner of Cross Street and Waterhouse Road, Belmont. The meeting must begin promptly at 7:30 as the Senator will return to Washington that evening.

All interested persons in Winchester and surrounding towns are cordially invited to attend and hear this report from Senator Saltonstall.

Will Red Sox Play? Check Hancock Tower!

Will the Red Sox open their first home stand of the season on Saturday? A quick look at the tower of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company will give you the answer.

As in past years, the John Hancock tower will service Red Sox fans during the 1965 baseball season starting Saturday when the Bosox play host to the Baltimore Orioles.

The flashing red, which indicates snow in winter months, will once again be the traditional "no game" signal whenever home games are postponed due to inclement weather. The signal responds to information relayed directly from Fenway Park as soon as a game is cancelled and continues to flash red until 15 minutes after the scheduled game time.

The usual weather signals will continue to operate from the John Hancock home office and on seven outdoor billboards which flash forecasts simultaneously. The flashing red, however, will be reserved for exclusive summertime use by the home office weather tower on Berkeley Street. Predicting local conditions every hour on the hour, three hours before such conditions take effect, the Hancock's steady blue indicates fair weather; flashing blue, cloudy; and steady red, rain.

3-Yr. Enlistments Still Available

The shortest enlistments offered by any service, with a guarantee of the assignment chosen by the enlistee, are still available in the Army according to Recruiting Sergeant Fred T. Nixon, at the Army Recruiting Station at 49 High Street, Medford.

Sgt. Nixon said that the Army is the only service which offers guaranteed training or overseas choice prior to enlistment. He said that he is still authorized to accept three-year enlistments and that he can provdie written guarantees before enlistment that the volunteer, will receive the assignment for which he qualifies.

Practicality of this three-year enlistment has been proven to the satisfaction of the Army and to the millions of young men who have benefited from it in the past.

The term of enlistment allows attendance at any of the Army's 107 technical schools, including even those electronic schools lasting a full year; however, it also allows the Army to utilize the skills thus acquired by the soldier.

Anyone interested in this three-year enlistment with the assignment guarantee, may get the details by visiting Sgt. Nixon's High Street office or by calling him at EX 6-5777.

He Picked The Winner

Harry McGrath Viewing The Masters

Another great Masters Tournament has been completed — and what a finish!

Jack Nicklaus, in winning his second Masters in three years, equaled or broke several records.

Before pointing out some of these records, and some of the highlights of the play, I would like to offer some comments regarding the winner, Jack Nicklaus.

Surely, the millions that saw him on the wonderful television coverage, must have been impressed with that boyish smile and the manner in which he conducts himself on the golf course.

He played five successive U.S. G.A. Junior Championships, and it was generally accepted that he was the best golfer in the field for each of his last three appearances.

That tournament is at match play, and Jack seemed to run into some lad with a hot streak and the desire to beat the favorite.

I remember back n 1956, at the Taconic Golf Club in Williamstown, Mass., seeing him lose in the semi-finals to Jack Rule on the 18th role and they each had a medal score of 71 on one of the toughest courses in New England.

That year, it seemed that each afternoon, we ran into a violent thunderstorm, and in spite of the warnings, we couldn't keep the boys from looking for shelter under the trees and in the woods.

Result, many a case of poison ivy and poison oak among the contestants and young Jack, perhaps because he was a big boy even then, came down with the worst case.

His dad, who has been a wonderful influence for the young man ever since his early playing days, is a pharmacist, and I can recall his visiting every pharmacy in Williamstown to get the special preparation his experience had taught him would help those boys.

Jack started that day of the semi-finals, painted white, but there was never a whimper, nor any hint or suggestion that the itching or suffering hurt his game.

The next year, his last eligible, he again ran into a hot streak by one of the young men, and lost in the quarter finals, but still never an alibi or complaint.

I have always felt that his learning to lose so graciously, has now helped him win even more graciously. I know he has every shot in the bag, but his disposition and mental approach to the game help him execute these shots when most needed.

At the presentation by Bob Jones which we were all privileged to witness on T.V., I thought his response to Bob Jones compliments when he referred to Jack's record 271 as "the greatest tournament performance in all golf history," very typical of the young man when he said he was "so happy to be at the greatest golf course in the world and playing in the greatest tournament in the world."

He added that if he "ever got down off the cloud he was on, he might be able to explain some of his golf," and this from a young man of 25, who had just beaten a record, that of Ben Hogan's 274, in 1953, that had been generally accepted as unbeatable.

We can use more boys like that in this country of ours.

Incidentally, you can be sure that grinning caddy of his is at least $1,500 the richer for having caddied for him.

Now, as to the records tied and broken.

While the pressure is always great at the Masters, Lloyd Mangrums 64 was in the first round, and Jack Nicklaus 64 came in the 3rd round, as he went out tied with Palmer and Player, under probably the greatest of pressure.

In scoring this 64, he also equalled the front nine record of 31 by Cary Middlecoff in 1955. That was the year Middlecoff led the field by 7 strokes and Nicklaus broke that record, leading the field by 9 strokes.

The only other players to have had four sub-par rounds for any one year, were Jimmy Demaret in 1947, Claude Harmon in 1948, Ben Hogan in 1953 and Arnold Palmer in 1964.

When we realize that the 280's that gave Palmer and Player a tie for second place, would have won or tied all but 7 of the prior 28 Masters tournaments, it is really fantastic that he led them by 9 shots.

Comparisons are always difficult to make, but let's remember that these scores were all made in the same year, under the same playing conditions for all contestants.

I am sure that O. B. Keeler, never dreamed there would ever be a Jack Nicklaus, an Arnold Palmer or a Gary Player, when he asked "why don't they score better in the Masters?"

I forgot to call your attention to the 69 Nicklaus scored Sunday, very fitting for the leader and champion, as he was the only player in the field to break 70.

Incidentally, the $20,000 winners share increases Jack's winnings in the Masters to $51,260, for four starts as a professional, which amounts to $12,815 for each start, $178 per hold and $45 per stroke.

Some of Sundays lasting impressions:

Bob Jones, as alawys, the perfect host, Palmer and Player as gracious losers and Jack Nicklaus' wonderful victory.

Something to look forward to beside more low scores is Cliff Roberts promise of viewing the 1966 Masters in color, and such coior.

I hope your viewing the Masters with me has made it more pleasurable for you.

Bigger Purses At Suffolk This Year

How many times have you ever vacationed at Florida and New York and gone to see the races? If you have ever been there you have probably marveled at the great horses and jockeys that are there. When you got home you wondered why you could not see that kind of class right here in New England.

Well you can stop wondering because it will come this way next Monday afternoon, April 19, when Suffolk Downs opens its 66 day thoroughbred meeting.

Nick Del Ninno, publicity director, has informed us that in order to get the top notch horses there they raised the daily purses. This is a step in the right direction naturally because the best horses go where the best purses are. Suffolk Downs wants to make the best possible conditions for the horsemen.

Coach Bill Colella's baseball team got a much-needed break in the weather last week. The team was able to fit in three practice games and some necessary practice. It was certainly a sure sign of spring hearing the sound of the bat cracking and echoing across Manchester Field.

This year's edition of Sachem baseball is young, with a lot of new faces. According to Coach Colella, this team may surprise, and thinks it will be better defensively than last year's. He was worried about his pitching staff, but after three practice games against Malden and Malden Catholic, he was impressed by the fact that the pitching staff gave up just a little over three runs per game. Hitting seems to be the main problem.

There will be at least three more practice games this week before the team opens the season at Belmont April 21. The real test will come this Saturday afternoon, when the Sachems play host to Concord, N. H., in the last of the practice games. If you have a chance and the weather is good, this will be a good chance to see the Sachems in action before the season officially opens.

It's nice to hear from readers, especially those who have moved out of Winchester but still keep in touch by reading the Star. One of these is Joe Quigley, retired police officer, who moved to Green Valley, Arizona with his wife. Joe wrote this week about this column and how he enjoyed reading the Star and keeping in touch with his home town.

Joe was at the Red Sox-Cleveland Indians game two weeks ago at Nogales, Mexico, and saw the Sox bang out ten homers in the game. They were all legitimate, because this ball park is 330 feet to the left and right-field foul lines and 410 feet to center. Joe liked the way Lennie Green looked and the moves of Mike Ryan, the young Sox catcher from Haverhill.

Nice to hear from you, Joe. Let's hope the Red Sox keep up the home-run hitting when they open the regular season this week.

Sports Briefs

George Neville will be chasing fly balls in center this season for Harvard. He is already one of the rare two-sport lettermen at Harvard; he also plays on the varsity basketball team.

Last season the Crimson was banking on another ex-Sachem, Paul Del Rossi, for their pitching duties. He has graduated and is now New York Yankee property and will report to a farm team. Maybe some day it will be Del Rossi pitching to Tony C. at Fenway Park. Let's hope so.

Tibor Saddler, the fleet-footed Sachem hurdler, has built a white racing bike. According to him, it took eight months to build, because the parts came from overseas, and he sets the value at $250. The Tufts track coach will be a lucky man next year when Tibor enters the university.

Assistant track and cross-country coach Roger Rawden keeps his runners in shape running along side them during practice . . . Harry McGrath, who writes a column in the Star entitled "Viewing the Masters" must have a big smile; he picked Jack Nicklaus to win the Masters. What a win, a tremendous 17-under-par 271 for the tourney record . . . Richie Riga has a 115 average at the Winchester and Woburn Bowladromes. Guess the alleys don't make any difference to Richie. He bowled a 403 at the Winchester Lanes. . . . Walking by the Winchester Sport Shop last week I noticed Charlie had put all his winter equipment away and was dusting off some fishing tackle, a reminder that the fishing season opens Saturday morning. Now's a good time to pick up that fishing license . . . It should be just about time for Whit Gray to get the old tennis racket out and start the ball rolling on another season at the Lake Street courts . . . Bob Crotty and Davis Blanchard have been elected co-captains of this spring's baseball team. . . . Two weeks ago the Middlesex League officials met and elected a league all-star basketball team as follows:

BOWLING

Uncle's, Aunt's, Niece's, And Nephew's League

As the third week of bowling comes to a close, we find that the spares and strikes were still plentiful, though the nieces and nephews outbowled their aunts and uncles. Niece Kathryn Tranfaglia got a strike and won for her team, the Clubs, their third game. Uncle John MacIsaac consistently bowls his 100 games, but nephew Jackie MacIsaac is closely following in his father's footsteps, getting spares on top of spares.

Taking honors this week:

The North Enders did some terrific bowling last night. They literally clobbered the Bowladrome team. They had a high three string total of 1725, behind the strong bowling of Eddie Hughes, Bill Ring and Richie Riga. Eddie had the high single 144 and also high triple 377. Bobby Merenda of the Oilers was second with a 371. Bill Ring was third with a 369.

S. O. I. Women

The first week of the roll-offs found first place Tide and second place Salvo very confident and their confidence paid off. Both teams went into the second week with six points making first place Soapines and second place Duz the underdogs. Patience and determination were the key words the last night of the roll-offs.

The mighty Soapines forged ahead of the Tides winning the first string by 54 pins, the second by 66 pins, the third by 13 pins and total pinfall by 123 pins. Joan Gorrasi led the Soapines with a 288 followed by Rose Fiore 269, Terry Dattilo 265, Emma Provinzano 249 and Sue Barbaro 243.

The second place Duz won a hard fought victory over Salvo, Duz took the first string by 30 pins, the second by 15, split the third string and took pinfall by 49 pins. Millie Gangi led the Duz with a 263 followed by Terry Nappa 262, Pat Brencola 243, and Terry Walsh 243.

My congratulations to the champs, Soapines and to second place winners, Duz. My admiration to the Tides and Salvos for their fine display of sportsmanship.

Three cheers to Ginger Maggio and Ted Peluso, co-captains of the cheering section, they outdid themselves leading the cheers for the teams.

The past 29 weeks went much too fast. It's been a joy and pleasure being your reporter. My thanks to chairlady Rose DeTeso, secretary Kay Lentine, Ralph Scott, Strike Lanes, the Winchester Star and to Rose Fiore who unknowingly has been a great help to me. See you all at the banquet which will be held Saturday, May 8, at 6:30 p.m. at Sons of Italy Home.

New Hues For Mooring Buoys

New colorful hues will dot Massachusetts boating areas this season as boaters begin "fixing up and painting" their marker buoys in accordance with new state and Federal regulations.

Blue, orange, and white will predominate mooring and other scenes, points out the State Division of Motorboats, which notes that for the second year a Uniform State Waterway Marker System will be under close surveillance by boating officials.

Principal emphasis of the boating regulation is the requirement that all mooring buoys be painted white and have a blue stripe placed above the waterline.

Wilton Vaugh, State Director of Motorboats, said that the system was adopted widely across the country in the interests of safe boating and marking uniformity.

The approving authority, he said, comprised the U.S. Coast Guard, the Advisory Panel on Marine Safety, the National Conference of Boating Administrators, and the Council on State Governments.

The size of the mooring buoy and its shape are left to the individual who will be guided in most cases by the size of his boat. However, white must be the over-all color and a blue stripe above the waterline must encircle the buoy.

"Unless fluorescent paint is used," Vaugh said, "it is also advisable in the interests of visibility to place a narrow reflective tape above the stripe so that moorings may be spotted at night and not become entangled in propeller shafts."

The Director said that blue was chosen because most other suitable colors already have been taken for use by the Coast Guard and its affiliated authorities.

Red and black, for example, have been used for years for channel buoys, and green lights have been standard for marking black buoys at night and for running lights on vessels.

The uniform marker system also calls for the use of international orange painted on white buoys and shore signs which are used as off-limit or informational markers.

Among the approved designs are:

Orange diamond with orange cross in center warns boaters, in black lettering, to keep away because of a SWIM AREA, or DAM, or WATERFALL, or other similar hazard.

Orange diamond without the cross will warn, in black lettering, rocks, or CABLE, or wrecks or similar obstructions.

Orange circle with message in black such as "5 MPH" will indicate speed limit. Circles also will be used for other self-explanatory messages such as no wake, no fishing, no skiing, no scuba, or ski only, fishing only, scuba only.

Orange quadrangles with black lettering will provide names, distances, availability of marina, gas, oil, food, and similar information.

A red flag with the white diagonal on a float will indicate that a skin diver is below the surface and that boats must slow down and stay clear by 150 feet.

White buoys with red stripes indicate that boats should not pass between the buoy and the nearest shore because of an obstruction.

Where Federal buoys no longer mark entrances to bays and rivers, local harbormasters will continue to use red buoys or markers with even numbers indicating the right side of the channel returning to port, and black buoys with odd numbers indicating the left side of the channel.

On lakes and ponds with islands and curving passages, and no well-defined channels, a cardinal system will be used. Navigation will be to the South or West of red-topped buoys, and to the North or East of black-topped buoys.

State permits must be obtained from the State Division of Motorboats, Vaugh said, to install uniform markers. He said that penalties may be drawn by violators who maintain dark, water-logged and submerged buoys, which have caused fatalities across the country in the past.

Boat Inspections For Life-Saving, Fire Protection

Fire extinguishers and life saving devices will be heavily in the limelight this season in all boating inspections made by the State Division of Motorboats and the U.S. Coast Guard.

Wilton Vaugh, State Director of Motorboats, has announced that June 1 is the deadline for compliance with new Coast Guard directives that approved fire extinguishers must be used aboard boats.

Violations may bring fines or penalties and time-consuming appearances in court, he said.

Fire extinguishers must be equipped with pressure gauges showing full charge, or with a tag indicating the unit has been inspected and tested within the past six months.

Life saving devices, he said, must bear labels or stencils showing Coast Guard approval numbers, and if the filling is of kapok or fibrous glass, such filling must be encased in sealed plastic-insert bags. Deadline was January 1 for replacing outlawed units.

State law requires that all motoboats carry fire extinguishers, including those under 16 feet if they have inboard motors or are open boats in which inflammable gases accumulate.

Trout Waters Available

A list of waters stocked with trout for the 1965 fishing season by the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Game may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Information and Education Section, Division of Fisheries and Game Field Headquarters, Westboro, Mass., 01581.

The season opens Saturday, April 17.

Five Boys Here On Belmont Hill Tennis Team

Several Winchester boys are seeing action on Belmont Hill tennis teams this season.

In the opening matches last Saturday against Tabor Academy, played at Marion, Belmont Hill won both the varsity and J-V contests.

Playing number one on the varsity is Bill Price of Ravine Road, and Peter Campbell of Salisbury Street is number three.

On the junior varsity team, Jack Reed of Emerson Road and Dave Wingate of Pond Street played the two top positions, and Chris Alt of Pine Street saw action in the doubles. Captain of this year's varsity is Ted Counihan of Cambridge.

Newsy Paragraphs

David Lundin of 4 Kenwin Road, a senior pre-medical student at Tufts University has received notice of his acceptance to Tufts Medical School to classes beginning in September 1965.

Steven Cochran of 192 Mystic Valley Parkway, has been named to the dean's activities honor list at Stevens Institute of Technology. Steve, a 1960 graduate of Winchester High School, is a senior at the science-engineering college.

Miss Andrea Mattisen was one of six students who took part in a panel discussion at the Alumnae Council meeting at Lasell Junior College, Auburndale, recently. Miss Mattisen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Mattisen of 6 Ginn Road, represented Lasell's General Academic Course on the panel, each member of which was from a different curriculum.

Richard M. Osgood, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Osgood of Lockeland Road, has just been awarded his varsity letter in indoor track at West Point. He is a distance runner for the military academy.

Patricia Tofuri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Tofuri of 23 Garfield Avenue was elected recently at the University of Maine to serve as the service projects chairman for the Alpha Kappa Chapter of the Delta Delta sorority.

Red Sox Start With a Bang

The 1965 season opener for the Boston Red Sox at Washington proved to be quite an experience for President Johnson. The Sox pounded out five homers and looked every bit a penant contender to the President.

Winchesterites will get their first look at the new Red Sox this Saturday afternoon when they open their home season against the Baltimore Orioles. The American League is vastly improved this year and the Red Sox look like a different team. They should be an exciting team to watch with some great stars. Tony Conigliaro, Dick Radatz, Carl Yastrzemski, Bill Monbouquette, Felix Mantilla and Lee Thomas rate with the best in the American League. With all this talent they should finish better than the eighth place showing they had last year.

THE BIGGEST for sale sign of all is the LITTLE classified ad you run in the Winchester Star.

Chairlady Rose Fiore and her committee gave venerable Lorraine Maggio and her chairladies for the different functions an evening to remember.

Lorraine conducted her last meeting and expressed her thanks and appreciation to all members for their work, support and cooperation during the past two years.

She then turned the meeting over to special chairlady Rose Fiore who introduced guest speaker Dr. Rocco DeAngelo, lecturer from the University of Italy. Dr. DeAngelo gave a most inspiring and enjoyable lecture.

Rose then told all that the production company "Nine Girls and a Man" were presenting the "Baccala Players" in their interpretation of the various functions. The audience, with tears of laughter rolling down their faces, were delighted with the "Baccala Players" and their movie.

Chairlady Rose Fiore did a double take when Ginger Maggio, Bobbie Ungaretti and Peg Fiore presented the "Baccala Players" in the "Trials and Tribulations of Rosie."

The highlight of the evening came at the end. With Bob Fiore rolling the drums, Rose asked the "Baccala Players" to step forward. It was "Baccala Oscar" time! Ginger presented the players with a beautiful Baccala (fish) Oscar. The evening ended with everyone enpoying a collation provided by the committee.

Rose Fiore is to be congratulated for performing the duties of mistress of ceremonies with such profession. The "Baccala Players" should be in Hollywood for their acting was a work of art. They were: Pat Brencola, Roberta Ungaretti, Sue Barbaro, Peg Fiore, Andrea DiDonato, Kay Pizzo, Terry Dattilo, Ginger and Bill Maggio.

Holy Name Society Social

President Robert Costello and his hard-working committee of the St. Mary's Holy Name Society have completed plans for a social which is to be held at the K. of C. Hall on Saturday evening, May 15th.

This will be the final function for this year and it is anticipated that a large number will be in attendace. One does not have to be a Holy Name member to attend, so get in touch with your friends and neighbors now to arrange for your participation.

There will be dancing from 8 to 12, to the music of the popular trio of "Two Scotches and a Rye" and if you have not seen or heard the trio in action, you won't want to miss it. They will have you jumping out of your seats wtih their action.

At approximately 11 o'clock, a buffet will be served and during the course of the evening, many prizes will be given.

President Costello has all tickets at this writing and it is urged that you contact him by calling 729-2288.

What do Jesus' sufferings and triumphs mean to us today? This is the underlying question to be taken up at all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Doctrine of Atonement."
The Bible Lesson to be read will include this verse from II Corinthians: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." The theme will be carried through in related readings from the Christian Science textbook: "He to whom 'the arm of the Lord' is reavealed will believe our report, and rise into newness of life with regeneration. This is having part in the atonement; this is the understanding, in which Jesus suffered and triumphed" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 24).

INVITATION FOR BIDS WATER
WINCHESTER,
MASSACHUSETTS
CLEANING AND LINING
24-in. WATER MAIN

Sealed bids for cleaning and lining approximately 5,100 lin. ft. of 24-in. cast-iron water main will be received by the Water and Sewer Board of the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts, at the office of the Consulting Engineers, Camp, Dresser & McKee, 18 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts, until 2:00 P.M., EDT, Thursday, May 6, 1965, and at that time and place publicly opened and read aloud.

The work to be done includes cleaning in place and lining with cement mortar the interior surface of approximately 5,100 lin. ft. of 24-in. cast-iron water main in the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts.

Plans and specifications may be secured at the office of the Consulting Engineers, Camp, Dresser & McKee, 18 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts, upon the deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00), which will be refunded to bidders.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of $1,400.00 payable to the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts. All checks, except those of the three lowest, responsible and eligible bidders will be returned within five days, Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays excluded, after the opening of proposals. All bid deposits will be returned on the execution of the contract, or if no award is made, within thirty days after the opening of bids.

A bond in the full amount of the contract with a surety company satisfactory to the Town of Winchester as surety, will be required for the faithful performance of the contract and the payment of all labor and material to be used in the work.

The minimum wage rates to be paid by the Contractor on this work shall be as determined by the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries. A copy of the schedule of wage rates is included in the contract documents.

World Book Lore

The original "blarney" is a castle near Cork, Ireland. According to legend, the owner of the castle used promises and flattery to save the castle from its attackers. The name "Blarney" later entered the language as a synonym for sweet talk. The Blarney Stone is embedded in the inner tower of the castle.

Citizen Amazed Group Fighting Apartment Here

Editor of the Star:

I have been somewhat surprised that a small group of very articulate citizens could cause a special Town Meeting on the apartment house situation which most of us thought was resolved for the best interests of the town.

It would seem to me that this group preferred the tall chimney and stench of the old tannery, or even as of today, the vast wasteland of low taxed undeveloped property, instead of progressing toward a much needed high rise multiple dwelling unit which is becoming an integral part of modern communities in 1965.

It also seems to me to be too idealistic to think that the Town of Winchester, only eight miles from the "New Boston" and grown in population to well in excess of 20,000 people can maintain completely a community of single family houses. This would disregard the needs and desires of many older residents, who for many reasons want to be relieved of some of the burdens of the care and expense of a single family house.

It would certainly be questionable ethics to change the laws after the developer had made a capital investment, but if the Town Meeting did change the laws in this regard these problems would still remain unsolved.

First, with building costs at the high point of today, there would be great hesitation to invest in an apartment building limited to 40 feet in height, and three habitable stories.

Second, if it were not practical to build on land now zoned for apartment house construction, this land would remain in a "status quo" and thus deprive the town of taxable property needed to help relieve the ever increasing tax rate.

Third, the very apparent need for modern apartments would not be filled. I have talked with too many fine citizens of Winchester who in later life have had to move out of the town to find what they required in living accommodations. These people left very reluctantly their long established ties with church, clubs or other social affiliations.

Your correspondent in the April 8th issue of the Star, in his objections to the apartment as planned on the Beggs & Cobb land, mentioned the noise from over 300 radios and television sets all going at once, but I doubt very much in these days of modern construction if they could be heard even in the apartment house parking lot.

Certainly, we who have been residents of Winchester for a long time, want to keep this town as the fine community it has always been. But in this desire, we should not bury our heads in the sand and ignore the modern world around us. I fail to see where one or several modern apartment houses would become a detriment to the citizens of this town.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel F. Barnard

Asks More Funds For Fair Housing Law State Agency

Editor of the Star:

Citizens of Massachusetts may take pride that our state pioneered civil rights legislation in the field of housing. The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination is the state agency which polices our fair housing law.

For the coming fiscal year, this agency has requested the legislature to increase its budget by $38,000. The case load has increased from 379 in 1963 to 504 in 1964. Already in 1965, it is 125 per cent over 1964. The Commission is requesting this additional funding for an investigating agent for Springfield and an additional one for the Boston area.

The Commission must have adequate personnel to process complaints quickly in order to effectively serve those subject to discrimination in housing or employment.

I urge all concerned Winchester citizens to write Governor Volpe, Representative Chadwick, and Senator Pellegrini to express our belief that this vitally needed agency must be given adequate funds.

Sincerely yours,
Emmons S. Ellis

Hits Red Cross Swim Program As Family Affair

Editor of the Star:

I wish to second the statements made by Mr. Hoffman in his excellent letter to the Star last week. The Winchester Red Cross swimming program certainly appears to me long overdue for a change in its personnel management policies.

This fine organization and its swimming program deserves the best in representation—both at leadership and sub-leadership levels. But, in its current state of affairs, it seems to have deteriorated through an overability of its leaders to recognize family liaisons—and an inability to recognize certified talent!

I believe Red Cross swimming appointments should be made by an impartial board, and not by individual directors who might be placed in a position of having to pass judgments on the qualities of their own offspring. I do not feel the latter situation is entirely proper, and I fail to see where it could be in the best community interest.

Was it right, I wonder, for the present chairman to appoint his daughter, who had very limited experience, to be assistant swimming instructor, when there were other worthy applicants—including one who was a full-fledged Red Cross Swimming instructor that won the Red Cross Trophy in two successive years, and the McGowan Trophy for three succesive years? And for two years this boy volunteered as assistant instructor to Joseph Burns—for which the Red Cross Chapter saw fit to give him a monogrammed traveling bag in appreciation for his services.

It is my understanding that complete records pertaining to the swimming programs of previous summers are not obtainable at the local Red Cross Chapter. The thousand dollar question is: why not?

To secure the best available swimming instructors, advertisements should appear in the Winchester Star, similar to those printed by the Park Department, thus separating those who desire to instruct from those who have the proven experience to instruct. As for the present Red Cross swimming instructor, his relationship with the Park Board has caused such dissension that cooperation is extremely difficult. He took it upon himself to utilize too much of the beach area making the lifeguards' work more confusing, whereupon the Park Department Board instructed him to confine the area within reason in order to eliminate hazards to other bathers. Heretofore, harmony always prevailed.

Four principals control the swimming program: namely a father and son and a father and daughter—a two family deal. Three of these are also in the recreational program. One father is on the committee and his son is a paid employee. The second father is also a paid employee. These four principals have a monopoly which bars fair competition for such positions.

I do not think that such a situation is in the best interest of the Town of Winchester, and I think that the handling of the Red Cross swimming program in a family rather than a town way is the best example of why it is not.

Sincerely,
Vincent G. Carroll

Town Government Leadership Is Praised for Action

Editor of the Star:

It is difficult to feel any pride in being a citizen of Massachusetts during these days of continued disclosure of misdeeds among our politicians. For myself, one ray of hope for the future of local government was the Board of Selectmen's response to the appeal for school traffic protection at the dangerous Cross Street and Loring Avenue intersection.

To those of us seeking immediate action, the questioning and investigation of the problem was, of course, time consuming and irritating. But, I think such deliberate and positive action should be brought to the attention of all citizens of Winchester as a demonstration of this board's interpretation of its responsibility to the taxpayer. It is an honorable demonstration!

Let us all hope that the appearance of the lady traffic director will end the threat of speeding vehicles to our school children.

I think I can speak for all the parents involved in this appeal in extending to the Selectmen (and to Chief Derro for his aid) a very sincere thank you.

Respectfully,
John B. McBride

Dog Owners Unite–and Write

Editor of the Star:

The so-called "dog-lovers" who have written letters to the Editor in favor of the Leash Law seem to have one thing in common. They do NOT own dogs! It seems doubtful if they ever have owned a dog. Instead of dog-lovers as they claim to be, they sound very much like dog-fearers and dog-dis-lik-ers from beginning to end. One wrote "If he had a dog he would accept the responsibility of that dog." Why doesn't he acquire a dog and assume the responsibility that any dog owner accepts without ever putting it in words even without a leash law. I list a very few.

First there is the food. Cases and cases of dog food that must be bought, trucked home and fed to one's pooch once or twice a day. A bowl of clean water must be available at all times. There are distemper shots, rabies shots and several other shots that must be coped with once a year. If one's dog is sick or incapacitated in any way, any owner knows how many hours one must wait in the veterinarian's office and when one's turn finally comes, how expensive all the modern wonder drugs and antibiotics are that he must buy to cure his four-footed friend.

As to the dog packs that "menace our school yards." Most boys and girls really do love dogs and dogs seem to know this and reciprocate wholeheartedly by being where children are. The few who are frightened or bothered by dogs, are usually the ones who either have no dogs at home or have parents who have conditioned them to fear dogs from babyhood by either conscious or unconscious repeated warnings of dogs. A child who has taken part of the responsibility of the care of a dog is seldom afraid of another dog. He understands dogs. Why not ask the children of the various lower schools in town if they are desperately afraid of these "vicious dog packs" that invade their schoolyards? This is a democracy. The majority should rule.

The damage caused by dogs. The hole-digging is one bad trait I cannot refute. However, in most cases it seems to be the young dogs who do the most damage. As they grow up into mature dogs, this bad habit seems to disappear along with a lot of other foolish puppy mischief. This is not saying that there is not damage to be reckoned with but it is saying that a real dog lover knows that young dogs are sometimes problems and accepts things with as much grace as he can. He knows that eventually the pup will grow up.

The excrement problem: No leash law is going to be the complete answer. I have witnessed, not once or twice, but on many occasions, gentlemen? with their dogs on leashes, looking at the sky while their doggies did their "business" on a near neighbor's front lawn or even his walk . . . and many friends have seen this same episode over and over again.

The car-chasing and into-street-dodging is a very bad habit which I'm sure owners regret a great deal more than non-owners. I'm sure all owners do all they can to teach their canine charges better manners on this score. Most are reasonably successful.

Now as to the dogs' point of view. How does a dog understand a beloved master suddenly making him a virtual prisoner? Forevermore he is to be caged up, tied to a post or at best tied to a slow moving two-legged creature on a short walk around the block. Many dogs have been brought up to this sort of life—if you can call it a life. But the dogs who have always run where their doggy business took them, checking into all sorts of things that are of great interest to him and bother no one, would become quite baffled to say the least, on being cooped up inside four walls. In fact, it could quite likely break both their hearts and their spirits.

My own dog and the dog next door, both good sized animals, are friends with every child for streets around. Each day as the children come home from school, they call to these canine friends of theirs. The dogs gambol out to meet them and accompany each one to his door. How could it be explained to the dogs that some so-called "dog-lovers" had made a rule that he must never do this awful thing again. He must never accompany any of his friends or his family on a romp down the street or into the Fells—unless he's hitched by a leather strap, to a human. He must never ask to go out (which dogs do about 40 times a day) unless a member of the family is free to accompany him with his leash in hand. I don't think he'd love the "dog-lover"—much less understand why he's being so cruelly punished.

The Star tells us that there are 1571 dogs registered in Winchester. A very few may be poorly trained and consequently have become individual problems. Must all of them suffer the fate of being prisoners for life on account of the few bad actors?

We do no believe our 2000 teenagers should suffer or be kept off the streets because of a very few juvenile delinquents we have read about in the Star.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Richard Chase
32 Pierrepont Road

A Man's Best Friend Is His Dog

Editor of the Star:

Isn't it true that a man's best friend is his dog? Well, I think so.

I have a dog named Pepper. He is 3 years old, and the neighborhood loves him. He has never bitten anyone or frightened any child. In fact, the children play with him all day.

I really think it would be awful for him to be in chains or in the house daily. Kids would throw things and tease him and he would not be able to defend himself.

If you ask me, I think this Leash Law is awful. Some of the dogs need it, but some dogs will be chained up for something they didn't do! I will never even go near that ballot box.

There are some dogs in my neighborhood that need to be put in chains, and for good. All they do is bite people and get into mischief. But, their owners do nothing about it. The Leash Law should go to those pesty dogs, not our lovable ones.

All that think the same as I do, should send letters to the paper, too!

(P.S. I'm eleven years old.)

Yours truly,
Thomas Lambardo

Governor Volpe Escapes Uninjured In Helicopter Crash Over Northampton

Governor John A. Volpe of Winchester, two other passengers, and the pilot of a helicopter escaped injury Tuesday night when their craft plunged 40 feet and crashed at La Fleur Airport shortly after taking off for a flight to Boston.

As he climbed out of the copter Gov. Volpe was asked if he was all right. "I guess so," he replied.

The helicopter had just taken off and had risen to about 40 feet above the airport when a drive shaft coupling broke, according to pilot David Graham. The coupling controlled the helicopter's tail rotor, which stabilizes the craft.

The Governor's State Police executive aide, Capt. George Luciano, described the downward spinning of the craft as "like a whirlwind."

Pilot Graham managed to maneuver the craft as it plunged to land the vehicle flat and avoided an overturn. It crashed about 75 feet from the point of take-off.

Northampton Police, standing in the vicinity after escorting the Governor to the airport, jumped into their cruisers and sped to the crash spot to assist.

There was no fire, although one entire side of the copter was sprung by the impact of the crash.

The Governor and other occupants of the vehicle, all had had their safety belts fastened tightly.

After leaving the helicopter, Gov. Volpe thanked and commended the pilot, saying, "Dave, you did a wonderful job getting us down." The Governor was then taken to the Schine Northampton Inn in a police cruiser, where he spent the night. He returned to Boston by plane Wednesday morning.

Gov. Volpe had spoken at a meeting of the Hatfield County Republican Club in Hatfield earlier that evening before a group of 300 on his proposed sales tax.

Ironically, the Governor's parting words to the group he was addressing Tuesday night were:

Town Borrows $400,000

The Town made its first borrowing in anticipation of revenue last week when the Selectmen gave their approval on six month notes totalling $400,000.

Town Treasurer Marguerite Troop awarded a $200,000 bid to the Winchester Trust Company at 2% plus $2, and a second $200,000 to the New England Merchants National Bank at 2.07%.

The notes were dated April 16, to mature November 3. The two bids awarded were lowest among eight competing banks, with rates ranging from 2 to 2.12%.

Last year the Town borrowed a total of $1,100,000, with a $400,000 borrowing in March, a $500,000 loan in June, and a $200,000 borrowing in July.

Annual Rotary Auction Is This Saturday At Town Hall

The Town Hall will be buzzing with bargain hunting buyers and auction enthusiasts this Saturday as the auditorium becomes the scene of Winchester's annual country style Rotary Auction.

This the sixteenth country type auction sponsored in Winchester by the local Rotary Club, complete with a professional auctioneer, shows signs of being one of the biggest and most interesting auction events of all.

Since the day last year's Auction closed members of the Rotary Club have been canvassing the town for donations for this year's Auction with a great deal of success, according to Ralph Jury, auction chairman.

Mr. Jury said that many items to be auctioned off have been handmade by Club members—everything from antique style furniture to handy household items.

"The Rotary Barn is literally chock-full of interesting things to be auctioned on Saturday," Mr. Jury said in urging people to go to the Town Hall early Saturday morning to look over the exhibited wares from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

Auctioneer Shirley Dennis will begin his exhortations promptly at 10 a.m., and the Auction will continue uninterrupted right through to 5 o'clock.

The Rotary-Anns with their coffee and cook pots will make snacks for hungry auction fans, available throughout the day and with lunches at noon and of course, the traditional end-of-day, old fashioned bean supper starting at 5 o'clock. There will also be a baked-goods sale table.

Bee Sting Fatal To Revere Youth Saturday, Rescue Effort Fruitless

Frantic efforts on the part of friends, police and Winchester Hospital doctors failed to revive an 18-year-old Revere youth who collapsed suddenly, the apparent victim of a bee sting, Saturday afternoon while working at a home on Plato Terrace.

The victim, Ronald Lenci of 116 Keayne Street in Revere, was found lying on the ground next to a parked car by a co-worker. A nearby Johnson Road resident was contacted to notify the police of the accident.

When Officers Donald Pigott and Albert Duffy arrived they found two workmen trying to assist the youth lying on the ground. The officers immediately placed the youth in the ambulance and alerted the hospital they had an emergency case.

The youth's father, who was working with the youth at the new house construction, accompanied his son to the hospital.

Enroute to the hospital Officer Duffy tried to administer oxygen, but to no avail. He also attempted other first-aid measures, including the aspirator and external heart massage.

On arriving at the hospital, Dr. Donald McLean examined the victim in the emergency room. Drs. Henry Hunter and Albert Muggia arrived to assist him.

The youth had small marks on his right arm and knuckles, but there was no way to determine how he got them or if they were the cause of his ailment.

Parishioners Of Baptist Church Honor O'Donnells

Over two hundred and fifty members and friends of the First Baptist Church greeted the Reverend Joseph E. O'Donnell and his family in the Social Hall of the church on Sunday afternoon, April 11th. The occasion was a reception in their honor in appreciation for the O'Donnell's service in the church and community and the best wishes of friends for their continued success and happiness in their new work in the future.

The Rev. O'Donnell, "Joe" to his many friends in Winchester, had tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist Church to become associated with Andover-Newton Theological Seminary in Newton, where he will be working closely with young men who are planning or studying to become ministers. Hazel is well known to Winchester people, for her beautiful voice has enhanced many public affairs as well as the choir of the church.

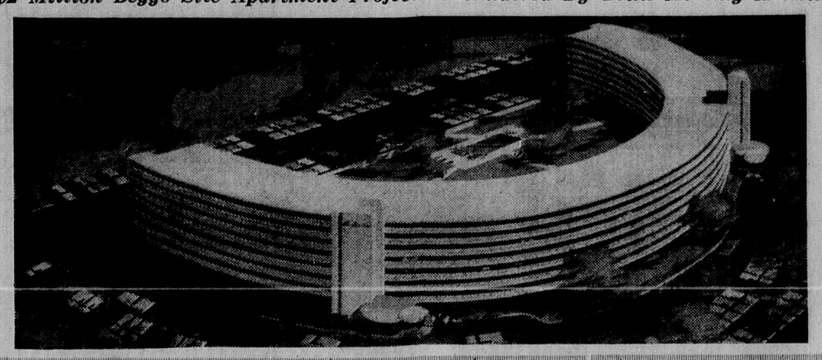
Town Puts 40' Height Limit Over Any Future Apartments; Beggs Project Is Unaffected

The Town Building By-Laws were amended Tuesday night by action of a special Town Meeting that put a restrictive 40-foot, or three habitable stories, height limit on the construction of any future apartment buildings locally.

The Town Meeting specifically voted to exclude imposing the new height regulation on the current $2 million Beggs site apartment project, however, by making the new by-law effective only on building permits dated after April 20. The Beggs development permit was issued April 5.

The Town further voted to authorize the Planning Board to study, formulate and spell out regulations it would recommend for apartment construction and zones here.

$2 Million Beggs Site Apartment Project: Unhindered By Town Meeting Action



Following an opening prayer by the Rev. H. Newton Clay of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, Town Moderator Harrison Chadwick began the special two-article Town Meeting with the statement that he was "glad to see the town devote a full meeting to a subject that is of great and long range significance to the town."

Articles One and Two, respectively calling for a 40 foot, or three habitable story height restriction on apartment houses amended to the zoning and building by-laws of the town, were moved considered together, and so voted.

A second motion was made to make amendments to the zoning and building by-laws enacted effective only on building permits issued after April 20, 1965, thereby excluding the already started Beggs project.

Maurice Freeman, initiator of the petition for the special meeting and proponent for the 40 foot ceiling limit, gave a chronological history of his interest in watching the Beggs property develop and seeing what he called "the town's need for a definite policy on zoning and building for apartment houses." He added he did not think the Beggs or other high rise apartments would be good for the town.

"We wanted to make people of the town aware of the lack of adequate apartment house standards here," he said.

"We chose the height restriction (as an instrument of control) because this is an effective limitation, and could be imposed on the Beggs project if the town wanted to do so."

He discounted any town risk of legality in imposing such a restriction over the Beggs permit already issued by saying an opinion by a Boston law firm informed him the town had every right to pass such restrictions with immunity.

Mr. Freeman also discounted the "fairness and moral issue claimed here." He said the town should be more fair to its residents, whose $60 million residential values are at stake, than with a single developer whose building might adversely affect property values.

He charged there were two basic issues at hand: (1) the gross inadequacies of town-by-law provisions for zoning and building here; and (2) was the Beggs project in the public interest, what was the town's legal right to impose restrictions there, and what is the relation of fairness to the issue?

"Despite statements to the contrary," Mr. Freeman said, "I want to see Winchester have apartments; but good apartments."

He indicated that the Winchester Citizens Committee's position on the motion to exempt the Beggs project from the restrictions "is that this apartment is not in the best interest of the town, but we will not oppose it."

He added that if the town allowed the high rise Beggs apartment to be built, "This building must stand as a monument of how not to do things."

Profesor Albert Deitz, a Tufts housing and construction expert, proceeded to review the construction details of the new apartment, showing where he thought it would not provide good living conditions for tenants.

Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board jumped to a point of order, saying the speaker was not sticking to discussion of the motion.

Moderator Chadwick asked the speaker to relate his comments more directly to the height restriction issue.

Two more times in quick succesion Mr. Gray rose to the same point of order, and a third time he stated that Mr. Freeman had said his group would not oppose the motion to exclude the Beggs project but that this speaker was going into construction details not related to the height issue. "We are being plagued with irrelevancies," he charged.

Mr. Chadwick took the position that height, specifically, was not a part of the motion to exclude the Beggs project from any by-law changes, and allowed Prof. Deitz to finish his evaluation on why he didn't think the Beggs apartment would be good housing for the town or tenants occupying it.

Admiral William Buracker gave a report compiled by a Boston real estate firm, which pointed out what he felt was undesirable elements at the Beggs project, including the opinions that outside corridor balconies would be exposed to weather and long walk inconveniences to tenants, that bedroom windows were only six feet above the front balconies and thereby endangered privacy, and that since there were no dressing rooms provided near the swimming pool people in various states of attire would be using the elevators.

Adm. Buracker concluded by saying that in his opinion "This is not the type of building the residents of Winchester would like to have here for its residents."

Mr. Gray speaking for the motion, read a Planning Board report on its public hearing on the articles. "The Planning Board believes the articles are unsound in their intent and substance," he said. He added that they were mainly maneuvers to limit the present project, and further stated the board's belief that three story walkup apartments should be avoided in Winchester...that it would be better to have elevator apartments... which would make higher buildings more practical.

William Speers, attorney for Beggs developer Edward Berndt, reviewed the history of the 1964 Town Meeting that changed the area from industrial to a business zone with the full case for an 80 foot apartment house project presented at that time and approved by the meeting. He also reviewed the financial involvements from the beginning to the present over the project.

Mr. Speers said the developer moved ahead rapidly with the project and had spent a lot of money on it all in good faith based on the results of the '64 Town Meeting vote. He said Mr. Berndt might lose as much as $250,000 in investment beyond the $250,000 land cost if the town "changed the rules of the game now."

Mr. Speers noted the developer would be forced to try and regain his losses legally if the town changed the by-law rules, and imposed them at Beggs and stated it was his opinion he would win.

Incidence Of Cancer Is Up In Local Area

With the designation of April as "Cancer Control Month," special interest centers on the incidence of the disease in Winchester.

A new report by the Government, just issued, reveals the number of cases in the local area as compared with the number in other communities.

It presents figures, compiled by the Vital Statistics Division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, for every section of the country. All forms of cancer, including lung cancer, are covered.

Among residents of Winchester, the report shows, there were 47 deaths due to various types of cancer in the year ending January 1, 1964. This total applies to residents only. Excluded are cases involving non-residents.

Lung cancer, which has been under discussion more than any other type in recent years, was responsible for 7 of these, or 14.9 percent of the total.

Throughout the United States as a whole, lung cancer accounts for 16.5 percent of all cancer deaths and, in the State of Massachusetts, for 15.1 percent.

The findings are that lung cancer cases have become much more numerous in the last ten years and now constitute a serious problem.

As to the cancer picture as a whole in Winchester, the official figures show that the latest mortality count locally, 47 deaths, compares with a toll of 32 four years before.

The importance of the war that is being waged on cancer is indicated by the fact that the disease claims the lives of 285,000 Americans a year and keeps another 830,000 under treatment.

According to the President's Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke, the annual cost of cancer in the United States, counting the diagnosis, care and treatment of patients as well as the loss in wages and productivity, comes to about $8 billion.

Progress is being made, however, slowly but definitely, in combatting several forms of the disease.

195 Local Veterans Sought By VA For New Ex-GI Benefits

Some 195 ex-servicemen living in Winchester have become the object of a search that is being conducted by the Veterans Administration.

They are the veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict who have service-connected disabilities that have been adjudged too slight to merit monthly compensation payments.

Because they are not on the books to receive such payments, the VA has not maintained contact with them and, as a result, doesn't have their current addresses.

However, it wants to reach them now because they stand to benefit from legislation, recently passed by Congress, that will make them eligible for low-cost life insurance, beginning May 1st.

"Social Studies Make Sense With Contact," Says WHS Teacher

"Social studies makes sense to students when they come into contact with what they are talking about," stated Miss May E. Milliken, head of the social studies department at Winchester High School.

Because of this belief, WHS students and teachers have traveled far and wide this term, acting as hosts and guests in several programs and conferences.

This week, student Gayle Materne is in Appalachia. She is one of 12 New England students selected for a nine-day travel-study seminar sponsored by the American Friend Service Committee.

It will be a week of concentrated study for Gayle and an experience of seeing at firsthand the problems of unemployment, education, and racial discrimination in that area. Students will visit mining areas, schools and colleges, TVA project, and Highlander Center.

Within the past two months, the social studies department has sent student volunteers to a seminar on China, a week-end mental health study project at the Boston State Hospital, a work project in Dorchester helping in painting and cleaning in and around a church active in social work. All projects were sponsored by the American Friend Service Committee.

Recently WHS representatives went to Newburyport High School as part of an exchange program sponsored by the State Department of Education. Earlier Newburyport had journeyed to Winchester to observe the workings of a town in the throes of solving some of its problems. The Newburyporters attended the March 25 Town Meeting.

Mystic Glee Club 25th Anniversary Cabaret Concert Saturday At Lynch

The special 25th anniversary concert of the famed Mystic Glee Club of Winchester this Saturday at Lynch School promises to be a fun-packed entertainment evening with former singers rejoining the group to provide reminiscent songs for the audience.

The cabaret-style concert will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. in the Lynch auditorium, with tickets available at the door or from local Glee Club members. Tables will be set up around the floor for groups and couples attending, and refreshments will be served.

The 25th anniversary concert program has been especially selected this year not only to present audience favorites, but also to include songs that bring back memories of the past 25 years for the local men's singing group.

The well established and respected community singing organization has invited members of previous years to return and join with the club on stage in singing a special set of songs selected from concerts of past years.

Usually the group presents its local concerts at the McCall Junior High School, but this year an informal cabaret-style concert was decided upon for this special occasion.

Many dinner parties have been formed before the concert and it should be a high spot in Winchester's musical social season.

There are few men who enjoy singing in Winchester who, at one time or another during the past 25 years, have not joined the Mystic Glee Club to enjoy the concert activity and good times, and many of the club's former singers are expected to return for this special anniversary concert.

Bomb Scare At WHS Yesterday

Subsequent to an anonymous telephone call received at the High School switchboard at 11 a.m. yesterday stating that a bomb would go off in the building at any moment, fire, police and school officials checked out the building and found no evidence to indicate it was anything but a hoax.

The telephoning voice was described as a deep, modulated adult male voice. The students were out of school for more than half an hour.

Local Bills In House

On Tuesday, April 27, at 11 a.m. in Room 433 at the State House, the House Committee on Towns will consider two bills affecting Winchester: House Bill 3760, which asks the Legislature to validate the 1965 Winchester Town Meeting due to a late mailing of warrants, and House Bill 3761, which asks the General Court to authorize the Selectmen to sell a piece of Park Land adjacent to Shore Road.

"When I go to my helicopter, ever since the accident in Boston to another helicopter recently, I always say to my pilot: 'How are the blades tonight.' " The witticism drew laughter at the time.

The crash was the second for the State's only helicopter. In April of 1961 it plunged to the ground during a demonstration flight at Hanscom Field. It was entirely rebuilt over a period of eight months and at a cost of $36,973. It had been purchased in May, 1960, at a price of $74,388.

VFW Poppy Drive Set for May

Veterans of Foreign Wars, Aberjona Post No. 3719 Winchester, has announced that it will conduct its annual sale of Buddy Poppys on Friday and Saturday May 21st and 22nd. Commander John T. Collins, Jr., has named Senior Vice Commander Nick Luongo chairman of the local sale. The Ladies Auxiliary to the V.F.W. will also aid in the sale of the Poppys.

Proceeds from the drive are used in the aid of local disabled veterans, widows, and orphans and the maintaining of the V.F.W. National Home for Orphans at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

Get Thee to The Church on Time– This Sunday!

Daylight Savings comes in officially this Sunday at 12:01 a.m. and planners for Sunday services had better get to their clocks (and maybe their alarm clocks) on Saturday to set them ahead. It will be with us until 2 a.m. on October 31st.

Jurisdiction for this important factor in our lives lies with the State Legislature which decided in Chapter 180 of the acts of 1954 that it would commence the last Sunday in April and end the last Sunday in October.

Medical Record Card: Do You Have Yours?

"One of the most important documents which state residents should carry in their wallets and handbags is an immunization and medical record card," said Alfred L. Frechette, M.D., commissioner, Massachusetts Department of Public Health, "however, three-fourths of our citizens are unaware of the existence of this card."

Available from physicians and boards of health, these folding wallet-size documents can be a life saver to you and an aid to your doctor should you have an accident and be rushed to the hospital.

"Your immunization against tetanus—commonly called lockjaw—is of little value, for example, if this information is filed in the office of your private physican or local board of health and your are taken to the hospital unconscious or after office hours," said Dr. Frechette.

This record card provides such data as whom to notify in case of emergency; name and address of your own physician; dates and amounts of vaccine received for protection against tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough, smallpox, polio, measles and other immunizations; pertinent medical data such as sensitivities, diabetes, tuberculin test.

Junior Class Rings At Marycliff

Ursula Keleher, Mary McDonough and Cynthia Scarpaci were among 22 juniors at Marycliff who received class rings on Wednesday morning, April 14, at the traditional ring ceremony at the school.

After Father Francis McFarland, school chaplain, blessed the school rings, Reverend Mother Mcguire gave a ring to a senior sponsor, who presented it to the individual juniors. The Class of '66 then read a pledge of loyalty to Marycliff Academy. The ceremony closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament by Father McFarland.

Dr. J. Churchill Hindes Dies In 90th Year

Dr. J. Churchill Hindes, D.M.D., Winchester's "grand old man" and a practicing dentist in Winchester since 1905, died early Friday morning, April 16, at the Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington after an illness that commenced last Christmas time. On his birthday, April 27, he would have been ninety years old.

Dr. Hindes was the son of J. G., and Lucy (Cutting) Hindes. He was born April 27, 1875, in Vergennes, Vermont, was graduated from Vermont Academy in 1895 and from Harvard Dental School in 1898. He practiced several years in Vergennes before coming to Winchester in 1905, at which time he lived on Sheffield Road. Later he lived for many years on Crescent Road, and in recent years, in Stetson Hall.

His wife, the former Patience Stockbridge Chase of Concord, New Hampsphire, whom he married June 3, 1907, died February 27, 1955, while she and Dr. Hindes were living in Stetson Hall, and following her death, Dr. Hindes lived alone until he became ill last Christmas.

Dr. Hindes played football for Vermont Academy in the days of the old "guards back" and "flying wedge" plays. He was an ardent follower of the game and was for many years one of the group, under the auspices of Arthur Huguley, who went regularly to the Harvard-Yale game in New Haven in a special railroad car.

In Winchester he followed the high school games regularly, both in and out of town, and in recent years, after his retirement, was a regular attendant at practice sessions, being well-known, by both the coaches and players. So well known did he become and so universally popular that a group of friends established in his name the "Doc" Hindes Trophy, given yearly to the player adjudged by the coaches to be the most valuable on the squad.

Dr. Hindes took a prominent part in the social life of the community. Possessing a beautifully trained bass voice, he sang in a quartet at the First Congregational, and other churches, and he regularly played leading roles in the old musical shows staged by the former Calumet Club, of which two, "The Isle of Bamboo" and "The Rose of India" are still remembered.

Dr. Hindes' first office was in the Hevey Block, but when the new Star Building was opened in 1914 he moved into offices on the second floor of the building. There he remained on a "hand-shaking" arrangement with the owner, the late T. Price Wilson, until his retirement because of an eye affliction in 1951.

Dr. Hindes was a charter member of the Winchester Rotary and active in the various club undertakings. He took a personal interest in the cabin that the club built for the Winchester Girl Scout Council and spent much time there. He was also active at club auctions in the spring and was song leader of the club, for many years the members singing lustily when "Church" led "Alouette" or some other favorite.

He was a charter member of the Mystic Glee Club, Winchester's male singing group, and also of William Parkman Lodge of Masons, which he joined in 1905. He was made a life member of the lodge in 1955, and was awarded the lodge's 50-year medal in 1958. In 1963 he was made a life member of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts. He was also a 50-year member of the Massachusetts Dental Society and a member since 1898 of the Harvard Dental Alumni.

A great walker, he was a familiar figure to many Winchester residents as he walked about town, clad in his short coat of Dartmouth green and his light-colored western style hat. In 1960 he flew to visit his son who was on military duty with the United States Army in Germany. Well liked by everyone, he was genuinely beloved by those who knew him well.

He is survived by his son, J. Gordon Hindes, a teacher in Highgate Center High School in Highgate, Vermont; also by four grandchildren, Sybil Hindes, J. Churchill Hindes, II, G. Hindes, and Teresa Hindes, all of Swanton, Vermont.

Services were conducted Monday at 10 o'clock in the Norris Chapel by the Rev. Dr. Dwight L. Cart, minister of the First Congregational Church. Burial was in the family lot in Prospect Cemetery, Vergennes, Vermont.

Mrs. Helen Darling Cary

Mrs. Helen Darling Cary of Waterville, Maine, widow of the late Frederick W. Cary, of Norwich, Connecticut died on Sunday, April 18 in Waterville. She was 88 years of age and had lived here on Grove Street for many years.

Mrs. Cary was born in Brooklyn, New York, the daughter of Robert Darling and Janet (Brown) Darling. She attended Pratt Institute in Brooklyn.

In Winchester she was a member of the First Congregational Church and in Norwich she was active in the Park Congregational Church, being president of its Federation. She was also recording secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus Hospital there and on the board of the Building Committee of the new Sheltering Arms.

Services for her were at the Park Congregational Church yesterday afternoon and interment was in the Yantic Cemetery in Norwich.

Mrs. Cary is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edmund W. (Mildred Cary) Hill of Belgrade Lakes, Maine, the former Mrs. Carl L. Eaton of Winchester; also by one granddaughter, Mrs. John A. Maynard and two great granddaughters, Cary Eaton Maynard and Becky Ayer Maynard, all of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Mrs. Mary E. (Coleman) Twombly

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Coleman) Twombly, 78, died on Tuesday, April 13, in Newton Centre after a long illness.

Mrs. Twombly had many early associations here. She was the widow of the late William A. Twombly who died three years ago. He was a native who grew up on Wildwood Street, was a member of a family which had owned land here in the early years of the town.

Mrs. Twombly leaves two daughters, Miss Catherine Twombly of Newton Centre and Mrs. Chester H. Graves of Weston; one son George B. Twombly of Sudbury; and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Ellen R. (Roos) Nyquist

Mrs. Ellen R. (Roos) Nyquist, a resident here for more than 20 years, died on Friday, April 16, in the Winchester Hospital after a long illness. She had entered the hospital on March 18, the eve of her eightieth birthday.

Mrs. Nyquist was the wife of Peter A. Nyquist of 29 Grayson Road. She also leaves here a daughter, Elcy D. Nyquist, and she leaves two sons, Clarence R. of Newtown, Connecticut and Richard P. of Concord and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Nyquist was a Gold Star mother, having lost her son Robert C., who died in World War II as a German prisoner of war. She was also the mother of the late Mrs. Helen N. Mayo.

She was born in Sweden and grew up and was educated there in the town of Smollen. She came to this country at the age of 16 and had lived since that time in the Boston area, moving here with her family from Medford.

The Reverend James R. Scroggs officiated at services for her held on Monday afternoon at the Second Congregational Church and burial was in the Oak Grove Cemetery in Medford.

Home for Aged, Rescue League For Troop 520

Before a delighted audience at the Home for the Aged, members of the Wyman School Brownie Troop 520 presented three play readings on Thursday, April 15th.

Introducing the plays were Troop leader Mrs. Edward S. Reed, Jr., and assistant leaders Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge and Mrs. Thomas Raleigh. The cast of the "Glass Slipper" included Nancy Lombardo, Nancy de Natalie, Cynthia White, Beth Kennedy, Elizabeth Thompson, Nancy Raleigh, Wendy von Rosenvinge, and Becky Cohill.

The "Sunbeam Story" was performed by Susan Broadhurst, Marsie Abbott, Jane Colony and Ruth Dutting. The "Brownie Story" was presented by Priscilla Read, Cathy Karp, Anne Walters, Susan Broadhurst, Eva Orman, and Patricia Sylvester.

And afterwards, members of the troop surprised the ladies by giving each of them a hand-made sachet.

On Friday, April 16th, the Brownies visited the Animal Rescue League in Boston where they were treated to a movie on the care of pets and were given a tour of the building to see nearly 100 homeless dogs and cats. In appreciation of the visit the Brownies presented the staff with 10 pounds of home-made fudge and a box of blankets for the animals.

Lobster Picnic For Tandem Club

A flavor-tempting lobster picnic will be the final offering of the Tandem Club of Epiphany Church as it rings up another successful year at Hadley Hall on April 28 at 7 p.m. Following the lobster picnic will be a short business meeting, including election of officers, and entertainment by a special young people's group.

En Ka Welcomes 6 New Members

The traditional Provisional Tea of the En Ka Society was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ruth Freeman. Six new members were welcomed into provisional membership by approximately one hundred active members of the society.

The new members are:
Mrs. J. P. Barger
Mrs. Richard B. Cannon
Mrs. Kenneth P. Chase
Mrs. Henry T. Gerould
Mrs. Earl J. Materne
Mrs. Richard R. Pettingell

Executive board members gathered first to brief the newcomers about the activities of the society. Following this period, all other En Ka women gathered to meet and greet the six honor guests. Mrs. Bradford Bentley, president of En Ka, was on hand to introduce old and new members as they arrived.

The next En Ka activity will be the Country Fair on May 21 and 22.

Cradock's Is Happy Here On Third Birthday

Starting their fourth year up at the southwest corner of the Common, at Church and Waterfield, is the Cradock Apothecary. And they are glad they came to Winchester.

A branch store of Cradock's at 44 High Street, Medford, they are really not as young as they pretend; for the original Cradocks has been serving its customers for more than 25 years and its experience, skill and know-how are all at the beck and call of the local store.

Hy Purcell of Arlington, has managed Cradocks through its first three years here and is pleased to be doing business in Winchester. The store opened with a staff of two and a delivery boy. It now employs six or seven and its delivery car is radio equipped.

Founded in Medford Square by the late George Surabian, the Cradock's business is now in the hands of his sons, George, Jr., and Robert. They are proud of the full line of surgical supplies which supplement their full and very modern pharmaceutical line.

Mr. Purcell is thanking his customers for the success of the first three years here. He looks forward to many more.

Noreen Johnson Connell to Teach Modern Jazz

Mrs. Noreen Johnson Connell has been asked to join the faculty at the Boston Conservatory of Music dance department for the summer school where she is already a faculty member during the regular school year.

She will be teaching Modern Jazz, and will participate in classes of other techniques. She is presently also an active member of the Dance Teacher's Club of Boston, teacher in the Adult Education Course of Women's Physical Fitness at WHS, teaches her own classes in Winchester and recently she and her husband Jim directed the variety show at St. Mary's Church and also performed in our local Winton Club Cabaret in January.

Not only is she known for her teaching in the art of dance, but also was the head water safety director for the Red Cross for five years.

Mrs. Connell makes her home at 321 Highland Avenue and is the mother of two daughters, Noreen Elizabeth and Cara Jane.

New Term For Art Assoc. Class

Because of the interest and enthusiasm of students, a six-week-term beginning on Monday, April 26, will be offered by the Winchester Art Association.

Mr. Coffin will continue as the teacher, and the course will concentrate on aspects of design. The class will meet in the Art classrooms at the Winchester High School at 7:30. To enroll, or for further information, telephone Mrs. Herman Sweet, education chairman, at EX 5-6062. Registration is limited to 20 students.

Jaycee-ettes Make Scholarship Gift

On Wednesday evening, April 14, the Winchester Jaycee-ettes held their meeting at the home of Mrs. John Kavanagh.

Mrs. John Williams presented a final report on the National Foundation Mothers' March in Winchester. The exact figures have not been received by the foundation's auditor, but to date the figures exceed last year's by $1000 with an increase of 25%. A letter was read from Jay Reardon, executive director, commending the Jaycee-ettes for their excellent job.

Mrs. Robert McNamara, president, announced that the collection of ads for the Jaycee-ette cookbook was quite successful. Recipes were received from members and will be sorted for duplication. It is hoped that the cookbooks will be on sale by mid-June.

It was voted to make use of the profits from the Rex Trailer Show by donating $100 to the Scholarship Foundation. We also hope to establish an award plaque to a senior girl with young leadership qualifications.

The annual state convention will be held May 21-23 at the Jug End in South Egrement. The Winchester Jaycee-ettes voted to reimburse $25 up to three members who plan to attend. Awards and elections will occur at this convention.

The next Jaycee-ette meeting, which is the annual meeting and installation of new officers for 1965-1966, will be held at the Winchester Country Club May 12. This will be a dinner meeting and will be attended by Mrs. Richard Press, present state president, Mrs. Charles Welsh, candidate for state president, and all Winchester Jaycee-ette members.

College Club Closes Evening Study Groups

The Evening Study Group Program of the Winchester College Club will come to a close with a meeting to be held on April 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Chairman of each study group will give reports on material covered in their group and of the years achievements.

Program for the evening will be given by the play reading group who will present, in the round, some of the interesting scenes and portions of plays read this year in their group.

Further information on this meeting may be obtained from Mary and Jim Wright at 729-5867. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Claude Smith at 729-4192.

All members of the College Club are welcome at the meeting. Nonmembers interested are also invited and may make their reservations by calling the above number.

Lively Student Fare Scheduled For PFA Meeting

High school parents will have an opportunity to hear about exciting extra curricular activities from the students themselves next Monday evening, April 26, at the annual meeting of the Parent-Faculty Association. The meeting, to be held in the high school cafeteria at 7:45 p.m., will parallel last year's student participation which brought such enthusiastic response from parents that a similar program is being given by popular demand.

Under the direction of Joseph S. Aversa, students active in the school radio station, WHSR, will explain and demonstrate their work in daily broadcasting from the high school.

Harold A. Murphy, who opened his home to a foreign student this year, will speak briefly on the value of the student exchange program, and will describe his experience of having a South American boy become a temporary part of his family. A most worthwhile venture, according to Mr. Murphy, it also has its amusing side.

Two of five girls in the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health Careers Program will describe their work at the Massachusetts Mental Health Hospital where they work each week with disturbed patients. A total of 30 girls applied for this work of whom only five were chosen. Beth Gilpatric and Alice Palubinskas will represent the group under the direction of Miss Constance Trickett.

Giving their services every week, another group of students go to the Bedford Hospital to play cards, talk, paint and brighten the lives of disturbed patients there. Larry Lougee and Betsy Callaham will tell of their work as members of the Bedford Volunteers.

The ever-popular singing group, The Troubadors, will sing their gay French songs under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Thistlethwaite and Patrick Moreno. The Troubadors have filled many engagements this past year including one at Maitre Jacques, a French restaurant in Boston.

After the students have concluded their program, Mrs. John Hutzenlaub, president of the Parent-Faculty Association, will announce the new slate of officers for the coming year. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Boston Action Group Names Edward Drohan

Edward W. Drohan of 6 Fenwick Road has been named public information director of Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., with offices at 18 Tremont Street.

Mr. Drohan has been prominent in Boston newspaper circles for more than three decades, serving many years on the old Boston Post as a staff reporter, editorial writer and night city editor. During his career on the Post he covered or directed the coverage of nearly every major news story breaking in the New England area.

Since the close of the Post in 1956 he has operated his own public relations business.

Murphy—Senouillet

Mlle. Jaqueline Jeanne Senouillet, daughter of M. and Mme. Charles G. Senouillet of Paris, France, and Mr. Peter Kevin Murphy, were married on March 6 at the Church of Notre Dame de Grace de Passy in Paris.

MRS. PETER K. MURPHY

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Murphy of 26 Lloyd Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white brocade and a pearl tiara head piece held her elbow length veil of Alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John A. McCoy of Paris was matron of honor and Henri Senouillet, brother of the bride, was best man. After the nuptial Mass, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride attended the University of Texas in addition to schools in Paris. Mr. Murphy is an alumnus of the College of Arts and Sciences of Boston College.

After a honeymoon in France and Portugal, the couple will live in Cordoba, Argentina. Mr. Murphy is a member of the Foreign Service of the United States and is assigned to the American Consulate in Cordoba, Argentina, as Vice Consul.

Republican Town Committee To Hear Neighbors

Two popular Republicans from nearby towns will be guests at the April Republican Town Committee meeting next Thursday, April 29, at 7:45 p.m. in the East Room of the Town Hall.

Marion Hunt, wife of a Lexington physician, member of the Lexington Republican Town Committee and State Committeewoman from the 7th Middlesex Senatorial District, will be one of the guests. As vice chairman of the Middlesex County Council, she will outline the principal aims of the county councils, which are new Republican organizational units in our state. Created by Republican State Committee chairman Dumaine, there are eight such councils in Massachusetts which have been formed to improve communications between the state and town committees and between the individual members of the State Committee in their specific area.

Allard Valentine, Young Republican Town Committee chairman from Wellesley and past finance chairman, will be the second speaker of the evening. Mr. Valentine is manager of the Wellesley Hills Branch of the Wellesley National Bank. A top-notch fund raiser, he is a member of the Wellesley Chamber of Commerce and is currently chairman of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Fund Drive. The Wellesley Town Committee has the reputation of being one of the most outstanding committees in the state.

The meeting will be conducted by the chairman, Harrison Chadwick.

Repub. Women Hear Dumaine

On Wednesday, April 14, the Women's Republican Club of Winchester held its annual luncheon at the Lord Wakefield Motor Hotel in Wakefield, where they heard Frederick C. Dumaine, Jr., who spoke on the overall survey and future of the Republican Party.

Other guests were Mrs. Howard Chidley, first national committeewoman, Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr., and Harrison Chadwick. Also seated at the head table were Mrs. William D. Barone and Mrs. Arthur Rand.

Officers for the Republican Club of Winchester for the year 1965-1966 are to be: Mrs. Don S. Liz Phinney in NYC

Liz Phinney of 216 Highland Avenue, popular soprano, who won top spot in the recent Metropolitan regional tryouts, will appear next month with the Lexington choral society when they do Honegger's "King David." In the New York finals for the Met where she was one of 21 young singers from this country and around the world, Liz did not take one of the 12 top places, but she had an exciting visit and a good reception and her family thrilled to hear her voice coming out over the Met footlights.

The Met in Boston

As of Tuesday afternoon a very few seats were still available for the five remaining performances of the Met's 1965 Boston visit. Winchester opera lovers have already been in to the new War Memorial auditorium for the opening there, but many, too, were disappointed at the scarcity of tickets.

Matignon High School's upcoming Glee Club concert, "Songs For All Seasons," will be on Sunday, April 25, and Monday, April 26, at 8 p.m. in the Matignon High School auditorium.

May 2 Ends Year For Music Club

The Winchester Music Club will have its final program and meeting on Sunday, May 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Knopf on Main Street.

Music lessons and practicing, though necessary, are not all there is to a musical education. Listening to music is important and so is playing for others. Through listening one develops an intelligent critical faculty. By performing for others one develops poise and ability to concentrate on the music and forget oneself.

The Music Club furnishes opportunity for both listening and performing. In its trial year it has been received so enthusiastically by music students in our town that five programs for next year are planned. The plotting and planning for them was done recently by teachers and interested mothers. Mrs. James H. Russo and Mrs. W. Knopf will be in charge of hospitality; Mrs. Edward S. Reynolds and Mrs. W. J. L. Kennedy will take care of business and finances.

Revolution Sons Attend April 19 Concord Dinner

The following Winchester residents attended the annual dinner of the Sons of the American Revolution on April 19 at the Colonial Inn, Concord:

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Goodhue, Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Stoneman, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Symmes, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Vanner and son Charles.

Mrs. Goodhue, Mrs. Vanner, and Mrs. Symmes are past regents of the Winchester chapter Committee of Safety of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

During the ceremonies Mr. Symmes was presented a medal for his services in the general headquarters of the United States Army in France during World War I.

Fair Housing To Hear Hartman

On May 5th at 8 p.m. the Winchester Fair Housing Association will hold its annual spring meeting at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The association feels very fortunate in having as its speaker Chester Hartman. Mr. Hartman will speak on "A New Approach to Low Cost Housing." He is especially well qualified to talk on this subject as he serves as the director of the Special Commission for Low Income Housing for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The public is cordially invited to be present to hear this pertinent and timely subject discussed.

Running Board Days Relived

Bonnell's Counts Forty Years Behind, Looks Ahead

"It was just like selling identical dresses to two next-door neighbors. They were both white with Palomino trim."

Ralph Bonnell, Jr., president of Bonnell Motors Company, was talking about two new Mustangs he sold on the same day last week to two Winchester families who lived next door to each other.

"They ended up keeping them because one was about to move across and down the street a little; but I felt I definitely had to tell the second customer about the first.

"And the first years we were in business they were all black and this never would have come up," added Edward G. MacDonald of 8 Parker Road, who has been with, and made large contributions to, the company since Ralph Bonnell, Sr., started it forty years ago.

Bonnell Motors, Ford Motor Company sales and automotive service at 666 Main Street, is celebrating 40 years of community business, and the emphasis is definitely on the community. A heavy percentage of new car sales are to local buyers, some to the third generation of Bonnell customers.

In addition to its long history of sales it boasts two big community firsts. The driver education program at the high school and its car rental service, the Ford Authorized Leasing System, first in the Greater Boston area and probably in New England were both innovated in 1951.

"You can't say too much for what Bonnells did for the driver program," according to Bill Branley of WHS, program director. "They gave us our first car and since 1960 have given us two each year—no strings attached—just a gift to the community."

Bonnells runs a rental service through which 150 to 200 cars a year are rented rather than sold; and this is a pretty much self-sustaining service with no advertising to speak of.

The story of the growth and development of the business has evolved between 1925 when Mr. Bonnell senior and his staff sold fewer than 75 cars in one year and today, when last Saturday, for instance, they sold 10 in one day.

Three generations of Bonnells have already played large parts in the company's history and there are more to come. Lt. Bruce Bonnell, son of Ralph senior and Mrs. Bonnell, is serving with the U. S. Army in Wurtzburg, Germany, but looks homeward to the business when he is through. And there are two young male members of the fourth generation up at the Ralph Bonnell Jr.'s, 88 Arlington Street home who already eye their trikes and bikes with a much more critical eye than even the average boy these days.

Ralph Bonnell senior started the business in 1925 after earlier experience in association with Braintree Motors, Ford dealers, and also selling Overlands in Boston proper. Joining with him right from the start were John T. Stokes, his present associate at Bonnell-Stokes, Inc., Lincoln-Mercury agency in Arlington, and Mr. MacDonald and Gleason W. Ryerson of 23 New Meadows Road, both with him in a big way and all the way in Winchester.

The first office was located on Main Street in a building long since torn down at the site of the present Shell station, and the service station was over in the basement under where Purity Market now stands. But in 1927 they needed more space and moved to Sylvester building at 742 Main Street and in 1932 to the old Mystic Garage headquarters. The present site, comprising 24,000 square feet under cover and 12,000 under the sky, became Bonnell headquarters in 1934 and has had two additions in the last 30 years.

Over the years the total staff at Bonnells has grown from an original five to the present 28 who take care of management, sales, service, parts, body repair and all others.

And over the years the men at Bonnells have watched the evolution of the Ford from the original one model T touring car and sedan through the model A, Lincoln Zephyr, Mercury, Thunderbird, Falcon, Fairlane up to the presently very popular Mustang.

The first cars were delivered from as nearby as the Cottage Farm Bridge plant in Boston and then from Somerville. But for the past 10 years or so, the long delivery wagons come in several times a week from Detroit, Ohio and other distant assembly plants.

Despite, however, the glamour and comfort of today's snappy models, they by no means completely displace the special spot held in the hearts of all the old timers at Bonnells for some of the early models.

Ralph senior reminisces about the excitement he and Mr. MacDonald had when the model A first came out. Ford had been out of production for 11 months during its change from model T to A and the public was busting to see the cars. Driving their first purchase north from New Jersey the two went through Times Square, New York, and were literally mobbed by the curious, who surrounded them in the middle of the street, coming from all sides.

And Mr. MacDonald remembers with a good deal of nostalgia mixed in with the shivers the early days of driving windowless cars in 10 below zero weather. He and Mr. Bonnell would take turns driving, one mile each, so that one could thaw while the other steered.

The company's founder is well known throughout the town and known throughout the nation. Here in Winchester he has been an active leader of the Unitarian Church, Rotary, the Winning Farm Board, the Country Club, and a director of the National Bank. He has served School Building Committees, the Finance Committee and the Selectmen and Planning Board, being chairman of the two latter boards. A dedicated Republican he has been a member of the local committee, the State Committee and in 1952 was elected to the National Committee which he served for 10 years.

But as much as he has given to Winchester, he feels that Winchester has given him more, expressing how happy and content he has been to have lived here with his family and done business in the town.

The company's present president grew up in Winchester and went to the High School and on to Tufts College. He then served in the army during the Korean conflict. He lives here with his wife (Patricia Court) and four children and is also active in the Country Club.

The birthday observance up at Bonnells is a quiet affair, a family affair and they hope a community affair looking to many years to come.

After they had greeted their many friends, H. Stanley Kinsley, chairman of the Diaconate, presented personal gifts to both Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell, in addition to a purse.

Refreshments and a beautifully decorated cake, the artistic work of Mrs. John Blakely, bearing the good wishes of all to "Joe and Hazel," which was cut by the two guests of honor, were served to the assembly.

The Diaconate, under whose auspices the reception was held, is particularly indebted to Mrs. William Sorenson and her committee who provided such delectable refreshments, to Mrs. J. Irving Rawding for the exquisite decorations, and to Arthur Barker who served as master of ceremonies for the occasion.

Jr. Crittentons Dance May 7

Spring is in the air and dinner parties are being planned by members and friends of the Junior Crittenton for their annual dance to be held on Friday, May 7, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Winchester Town Hall. The fabulous "Six Pages of Dixie" will provide the music.

The hall is being completely transformed for the colorful "military Ball" by Mrs. John Sutherland and Mrs. Edgar Hammond, co-chairmen, with their committees Mrs. Richard V. Murphy, decorations; Mrs. James R. Hulm, seating; Mrs. Joseph Saylor, flowers; Mrs. Robert Costello, clean-up; Mrs. Edward W. Higgins, reservations; Mrs. Edgar Hammond, bar; and Mrs. Amos Miner, in charge of services.

If you haven't made your reservations, do so quickly, because times a-wastin'. The league is most grateful to Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm for their donation of flowers and to the armed services for their loan of military equipment.

Estates Gardens

On April 12 at the Vinson-Owen School, the Winchester Estates Garden Club was host to Herbert C. Fordham, extension (University of Mass.) horticulturist of the Waltham Field Station. In the past he has been horticultural chairman of the State Garden Federation and landscaping consultant for the Adams Nurseries in Westfield.

In his topic of "Landscaping Design" Mr. Fordham stressed the importance of a physical plan to help avoid common errors and reduce the maintenance problems. This was clearly shown by the use of scaled models of homes, trees, and shrubs. These visual aids showed the necessity of contrasting size, textures, scales of plants, and the need for focal points.

Mrs. James Beck served as hostess for the evening, setting her table effectively with an "April Showers" theme complete with an attractive ribboned umbrella and spring flowers. Mrs. Duane Belden served as co-hostess.

Heart Fund Gifts Honor 15 Here

Fifteen late residents of Winchester have been honored by memorial gifts made to the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association, the Chapter's president announced recently.

The chief of cardiology of Veterans' Hospital and chapter president, Dr. David Littmann said, "The increase in memorial gifts in Winchester is inspiring evidence of community concern. They will work to keep alive vital projects of research necessary to shed light on cardiovascular disease."

Kindergarten Registration

The registration of children who will enter the kindergarten classes of the Winchester Public Schools next September will be conducted during the period from April 26 through May 5, from 9:00 to 11:45 a.m., as outlined below.

In order to be eligible for admission to kindergarten, children must be five years old by December 31, 1965. Parents are advised to take their children's birth certificates with them when they register. Vaccination certificates must be provided by next September. The school medical officer will be in attendance during the regisration periods in the event parents wish to have their children examined.

Schedule

"Young Democrats Day" Announced

A "Young Democrats Day" will be sponsored by The Young Democratic Clubs of Massachusetts at the Holiday Inn in Lawrence on Saturday, May 22.

Workshop sessions will be held during the day. Former Governor Endicott Peabody, former Lieutenant Governor Francis Bellotti, former Attorney General Edward McCormack and Democratic State Committee Chairman Gerard Doherty will be among the participants in the workshop—"The Aims of the Democratic Party in 1966."

Focal point of the day will be a banquet to be held at the Lawrence Central Catholic Memorial High School Auditorium.

Lynn District Spring Meeting

The Lynn District Annual Spring Meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service reminds its Winchester members that on Wednesday, April 28, 10:30 a.m. at the Wesley Methodist Church, Salem, it will hold its annual business meeting plus a pledge service and installation of officers.

Miss Mildred Christenson, secretary of Missionary Personnel, New England Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service will be the afternoon speaker and luncheon reservations should be sent not later than April 24 to Mrs. Horace Briggs, 22 Dollof Avenue, Beverly. Tel. 922-9311.

Children's Spring Tea at Epiphany

Friday, May 7, is the date set for the Children's Spring Tea to be held from 3 to 5 in Hadley Hall at the Church of the Epiphany.

This annual event, planned for both the children and the grown-ups, is planned by a committee working under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Morgan. Receipts from the afternoon will be used to supplement the children's Mite Boxes and will go to support the mission work of the church.

Cancer

The commission finds that "the future is bright with the promise of new scientific discoveries and their development to future useful applications."

Currently, one out of three victims is being saved, compared with one out of four just a few years back.

George S. Hebb Jr., of 3 Stowell Road, house-to-house chairman of the Winchester Cancer Crusade, announced that Winchester is well prepared for the coming door to door solicitation on Tuesday evening April 27th.

"Volunteers have responded with enthusiasm, eager to establish a new record and I am confident they will. All know the success of their assignment will help save lives from cancer through research, education and service."

Mr. Hebb listed the primary objectives of the Crusade as: making sure that all the people in Winchester know and understand the life-saving facts about cancer, how essential early detection and prompt treatment are in dealing with cancer, the value of an annual physical checkup as an instrument of early detection, and the importance of more research in solving the cancer problem.

The 1,300,000 Americans now alive, saved from cancer, emphasize the effectiveness of educational, research and service programs. Education leading to early detection and prompt treatment alone could save half of those who develop concer. Only one out of three is now saved. More research, for which greater funds are needed, is the only hope for complete control of cancer.

"Knowing the needs, "Mr. Hebb said, I am confident the people will respond. It is not only a duty but a privilege. There is no greater privilege than helping to save lives."

Auction

The annual Rotary Auction is more than just an event of community interest and fun each year, it is also the Rotary Club's main source for charitable funds. Each year the Rotary Club has taken the revenue from the annual Auction and distributed it among worthwhile community activities, organizations, and benefits.

According to Seymour Russell, Rotary president, the money earned at the Rotary Club Auction in recent years has gone in substantial donations to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, the Winchester Hospital, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Little League, Winchester High School activities such as the band and radio station, and their support of community and school developmental reading courses, and their initiation of beautification of the Town Common—to name a few.

If your curiosity won't wait 'til Saturday to see what you can buy at the Auction, take a look at the partial list in the Auction advertisement in today's Star.

Chairman Ralph Jury promises a convivial, fun-packed and exciting auction on Saturday, one that auction fans will long remember.

Social Studies

met the moderator, Harrison Chadwick, and members of the Board of Selectmen. WHS social studies teachers and students had a busy day chauffeuring guests and arranging schedules.

On that same day, Mrs. Judith Miller took a delegation of sophomores to attend an all day conference on "France Today" at Dracut High School, sponsored by the Boston World Affairs Council.

When the Winchester students visited Newburyport, they discovered the problems that city faces: the pollution of the Merrimack River, the loss to the economy in the closing of the Portsmouth Naval Base, and the coastline problems. On the lighter side, the students and teachers Roger G. Rawden and William A. Colella met the city council and had dinner with the mayor.

On April 10, Mr. Rawden accompanied 20 students to Norfolk State Prison where they watched inmates participating in a program with a group of Harvard Medical School students.

Other students went on this same day to Newburyport with Miss Milliken to observe the model UN conference in action and to give support to their fellow Tunisians. (WHS represented Tunisia at the conference.)

Next week a group will head for Harvard and another UN meeting. And so the students and teachers keep learning, in school and out.

The Mystic Glee Club was an offspring of the Winton Club show of 25 years ago when a group of men got together to sing a few numbers as part of the show. They were so well received that evening that they continued singing together and formed the Glee Club. From there, the group joined the New England Federation of Glee Clubs and through the years has won every award for excellence which the Federation presents at annual competitions.

A few years ago, eight members of the Glee Club joined into another singing group, calling themselves the "Two By Fours" and have become widely known throughout New England for their own fine singing style and enjoyable concert presentations. They also will be returning for the evening to join the Glee Club in a series of songs along with presenting several numbers of their own.

It is also hoped that conductors of the Mystic Glee Club through the years will return and conductor Wendell Withington has issued special invitations to them.

Winchester has been proud of the many musical accomplishments of its Mystic Glee Club, and the entire town, singers or not, has been invited to join with the club in its anniversary concert.

Special Town Meeting Discussion

In the special Town Meeting this week on proposed 40 foot high restrictions for apartment houses in both the building and zoning by-laws of the town, the Town Meeting acted wisely and in the best interest of the community to create the three story limit in the building laws but not in the zoning laws.

This action will prevent the construction of any more high rise apartments in Winchester until the town has had time to study and formulate a sound apartment house building and zoning policy that will serve and protect the town. By not amending the zoning laws too, the town wisely avoided the chance of arbitrarily imposing an inflexible limit that would be more difficult to remove. (Building law changes require only a majority Town Meeting vote, while zoning changes require a two-thirds majority—sometimes hard to raise, even when it might be for the public good, such as when railroad overpass took ten years to pass.)

The Winchester Citizens Committee is to be commended for bringing the inadequacies of the town building and zoning by-laws in this area both to light and to a head. Their work and achievement in doing this as ordinary but interested citizens is an example of public service to the public interest in the very best of ways.

It would be naive even to think that their primary motive wasn't other than to shoot down the Beggs project. Here we, and the majority of the town and the Town Meeting, disagreed with them. But, while attempting to get at their first motive via what was to them their second realm of proposition, they managed to maneuver significantly in the best interest of the town.

We are happy to see that the final obstacle in the way of the $2 million Beggs apartment building has been overcome, and that the town can look forward to seeing the completion of this much needed addition and renewal project.

Through discussion on this project, and on the light shed on the town's building and zoning by-laws as a result of its being in the limelight, the town stands ready to receive some progress in its planning for the future uses of the remaining land in Winchester.

That wonderful end prospective is, however, contingent upon a slight improvement in the relations between the Planning Board and the Board of Appeal.

The attempt at the Town Meeting to wrest this apartment building planning problem away from the strict control of the Planning Board appeared a wise maneuver, for the Planning Board never did meet with or counsel the Board of Appeal last year as it said it would in preparing an apartment house district zone to bring to the 1965 annual Town Meeting. The attempt failed by a slim vote, but the justified criticism levelled against the Planning Board relative to its inadequate handling of the inadequacies of the town's zoning regulations relative to apartment houses may have done some good.

Stung by criticism and the threat of having some of its control over zoning regulations taken from it, the Planning Board promised anew it would really study the problem and bring a "final solution" before the town. Their slim vote of confidence to continue should prove adequate warning to the Planning Board that their work is not above requiring the services of the Appeal Board and any other board or citizen group that can make recommendations useful to its prime function — that being to serve and lead the town in planning.

On Valuations And Assessing

The present Board of Assessors is to be commended in moving ahead rapidly and with foresight in its townwide valuation and assessment review program. This "equalization" project is long overdue in Winchester, as they will be the first to admit, and with all the town's taxpayers heavily burdened it is necessary that the levy load be distributed as proportionately and relatively proper as it is possible to make it.

It can be fairly stated that this is one Board of Assessors that hasn't been sitting idle watching the problem mount. They have been working industriously on contemporizing their records and equalizing their valuation and assessment relationships, and the town benefits as they progress forward in their work.

However, it would be misleading to say other than that there is a lot of work to be done in the area of assessing in Winchester. The Assessors say their office staff is overwhelmed with work, and as part-time assessors they are putting in long hours and much effort in establishing equitable valuation and assessing relations around town. The Star can attest to the veracity of their claim, but this does not alter the fact that some changes are long overdue.

New, progressive thinking reins with the Assessors now, and this is good and healthy for Winchester. At their instigation swimming pools have come under assessment in town this year. They increased valuations and lowered the tax rate last year, and promised a complete property review which would equalize and benefit the town.

The signs are all good that Winchester is being better than well served by its Assessors. But there is still more than can be done, namely in gradually pushing valuations closer to the so-called 100% valuation mark with attendant lowering of the tax rate assessment, and in a totally fresh approach toward values in certain areas or categories—such as with the large tract of lowly taxed prime land at the Country Club (Star, April 15), with the unusual situation prevailing among some of the other clubs in town (the Boat Club building and waterfront property with swimming pool was valued in 1964 at a pittance $10,724, and only paid a tax of $575!), and with a positive effort toward either removing some of the more than 160 properties listed as tax exempt or suggesting ways toward volunteered donations from some of those able to contribute.

Of Community Benefit

This Saturday there are two events of community interest that are worth noting and taking in for more than just their superficial fun values. On the surface the country-style Rotary Auction and the Mystic Glee Club concert are annual events that are entertainment of the first order for both the participants and those who go to see them. But the events are more than just fun alone; they are also significant aspects of the community life here.

The Rotary Club turns the money it makes at the lively annual auction back to the community through donations to worthwhile town organizations and activities that often need the financial aid that helps support them. While auction fans enjoy the good old-fashioned Rotary Auction each year, they also contribute through the medium of the local Rotary Club to other worthwhile civic groups.

The annual Mystic Glee Club concert is an enjoyable cultural event of community interest, pride and origin. This singing group has earned for itself a respected name in singing circles, and carries the good reputation of Winchester in beneficial ways across the Commonwealth. Once a year the well-knwon group gives a concert for the town—and this is its 25th anniversary concert.

Poison Prevention Care

Recently the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical Association and its member community drugstore pharmacists inaugurated a public service prevention program to acquaint people with the magnitude and dangers of accidental poisoning. A Star survey of six local drugstores showed that all but one had experienced between two and six emergency calls for poison antidotes in the past several months.

Nationally, each year, some 500,000 children alone are poisoned—100,000 by aspirin, with over 144 dying from aspirin poisoning annually. And accidental poisoning of all types takes the lives of more than a thousand children each year.

The local druggists and their association are attempting to remind the public that poisoning does occur, and more importantly, remind people that poison prevention actions are the best remedy. Pharmacists participating in this valuable community service have special folders on display in their stores which tell how and why most poison accidents happen, and how they can be prevented and treated. In addition, they have samples of a drug that induces vomiting—a recommended immediate first aid measure in most household type cases where medical or hospital aid is being sought.

Residents of the community, and especially parents, are urged to avail themselves of this public service offering by local pharmacists, which are to be commended for focusing preventive attention to the problem here.

The March On Boston

In August of 1963 a group of citizens marched on Washington, 200,000 strong, demanding freedom and justice for all our citizens. Last month Americans marched from Selma to Montgomery demanding that Alabama free its Negro citizens from the bondage in which they are held. Dr. Martin Luther King was at the front of both of these marches.

On Friday, Dr. King will come to Boston and speak on the Boston Common at 1 p.m. He is calling upon the citizens of Massachusetts and New England to join with him in placing before the political and economic leaders of this state the need for immediate action in the fields of education, housing, and jobs. The Negroes of Massachusetts have had to accept bad schools, slum housing, and inadequate job opportunities for all too long.

The Massachusetts unit of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference is calling a Work Day for Freedom, a day when the people of this state and New England will lay aside their normal tasks to join together in working for freedom. They are asking you and your church, synagogue, school, and labor or fraternal organizations to join with them in a massive March on Boston, starting tomorrow at 9:30 from the Center Playground on Columbus Avenue in Roxbury.

The coming months are critical for the whole non-violent movement in this country. Dr. King will lead the March on Boston as the leader of the non-violent movement. His leadership will be a witness to America of the meaning and value of non-violence in the North as well as the South. How many will join in leading New England to a New America where freedom can truly ring for all its citizens?

Special Town Meeting

"I think the name Rio Brazilian is being played into the ground," he said. He said the name would be changed.

He pointed to the benefits he saw in the project, including some $90,000 in tax revenues, no increase in town services cost there, no children to add to the school problem, and the general improvement of the Beggs property that would upgrade the whole area.

"I do not believe the town can morally and conscionably change the rules of the game when this developer has played the game in good faith according to the rules set by this Town Meeting by over a two-thirds vote last year," Mr. Speers concluded.

George Barbaro said he thought the Beggs site was the worst junk yard in the state, and was glad to see the apartment project remove the blight there. He added most of the opponents to the plan were not of Precinct Six, where the building will be located and where he had not heard any objections to it.

Paul Garrity said he thought it would be a monumental eyesore, and added he didn't think the town would break even if Swanton Street and the bridge had to be widened, police added to the force, and if more school children are brought to town.

Joseph Tansey said the Beggs tannery was "nothing but a stinking hole and we were delighted when it burned down." Now, he said, "the situation is ridiculous that the town would even consider saying no to this developer" who has put his money into developing a $2 million project there.

Edward Hicks, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the board had counselled all department heads concerned, and the Police and Fire Chiefs, the Town Engineer and Building Commissioner had all said there were no problems to the town involved in the Beggs apartment plans. He added that the town has long considered widening Swanton Srteet and the bridge, and that it was merely waiting to see what would be built at the Beggs site to determine the best way to do it.

Mr. Hicks said the Selectmen unanimously recommended that the height restrictions not be imposed on the Beggs site, "The town's honor and fair play far outweigh the conscionable act of stopping it now," he said, "and we belive the project is in the best interest of the town."

Mrs. Gibbs said the apartment would upgrade the entire North End area of town, and that the town should begin thinking in terms of rehabilitating and developing the potential that exists all along the banks of the Aberjona.

Charles Doucette, chairman of the Finance Committee, thanked the Citizens Committee for bringing the town's zoning and building by-law problems to light and to a head, but recommended unfavorable action on trying to restrict and virtually kill the Beggs project, as it would have a direct impact on town finances.

William Cusack, chairman of the town's Industrial Commission that tried to sell the Beggs property for five years to industry, said the citizens group had done a lot of work that can be of use to the town, but that it should not be used to stymie the project at Beggs—which the town has been trying to "sell" for so long.

Herbert Lord said the town is often too parsimonious. "You're going to build an elementary school, but who's going to pay for it?" he asked. "You still haven't paid me for it yet," he said in reminding the meeting he hadn't been recompensed for his legal services in keeping the Tufts Road site for the town. "This apartment building will give more tax money than light industry would on that site, and that would help pay for new school building," he said. "Why let the opportunity go by for added tax revenue," he questioned.

Before the vote on the motion was taken, Town Counsel Vincent Clarke responded to a question on the legal status of such a motion by saying it was the same as a sense of the meeting vote and was legal and proper as an expression of the town's will.

The motion was carried almost unanimously, with only a few dissents, thereby precluding any chance of the height restrictions, if passed, being imposed on the Beggs project.

HEIGHT RESTRICTIONS

A motion was made to consider the 40 foot height restriction amendment to the building by-laws first, and the zoning amendment second. It was passed.

Robert Kittredge, attorney for the citizens group favoring the 40 foot height restrictions, said the motion would prevent any haphazard building of high rise apartments in Winchester until the town could study and formulate a complete building and zoning policy.

He said his group would favor an indefinite postponement of the zoning amendment if the building amendment were passed, since the former required only a majority vote to be changed while the latter required a two-thirds majority to both make and remove a 40 foot restriction.

He noted the town has a two-and-a-half story restriction in residential districts now, so the article would only affect business and industrial zones—where, he said, the town is wide open to 80 foot high buildings any time a builder wants to put one in a business or industrial district.

"There will be increasing pressure for more apartments in Winchester as time goes on," he said, "And the town must be prepared with a sound apartment house policy," that would include restrictions and even potential sites—not just a floating type policy that could allow almost anything almost anywhere, he added.

He listed what some of the communities surrounding Winchester have for height restrictions, most of which were in the 40 foot, three story limit area. He also noted that Lexington and Concord exert almost complete arbitrary control over apartment construction—even to approval of style plans.

Mr. Gray admitted there was a great deal of work to be done in the area of apartment zoning and construction regulations in Winchester. "You already have a study committee in this area in your Planning Board," he said, "and we are prepared to do it." He recommended unfavorable action on the height restriction.

Otto Schaefer said the town voted down the Planning Board apartment house zone last year, but "I for one would like to see us take this initial step for town control and put a 40 foot height restriction in the by-laws."

Richard Murphy said the problem needed more study, and the town shouldn't arbitrarily set a height limit.

Lane McGovern, chairman of the Board of Appeal, said he was in favor of passing the motion because "We in fact now have an incomplete and inadequate apartment house zone. It's the Business District."

Mr. McGovern compared Winchester's lack of regulations with specific regulations spelled out in several communities, and listed the quantity of new apartment buildings in nearby towns.

It's a developing "wave of the future," he said, and noted he knew of at least two inquiries at the Town Building Department on apartment house rules in Winchester recently.

He said it isn't uneconomical to build three story apartment houses, that's what is going up in many towns, and he added he thought they were more in keeping with the residential character of Winchester.

"This is a stop-gap measure for a very effective control where control is needed now," he said.

Mr. Hicks agreed with Mr. McGovern, and added the Selectmen didn't want to see anything too inflexible, "but feel the town should be protected now."

The motion was carried by a majority vote to establish a 40 foot or three story height limit on any apartment building permit issued in Winchester after April 20.

The article relating to amending the same restrictions in the zoning by-laws was moved to indefinite postponement and immediately so voted.

A motion to create a five-man study committee with one member from the Planning Board, Board of Appeal, Selectmen, and two at-large chosen by the Moderator to study and recommend zoning and building by-law amendments immediately embroiled the meeting in argument.

Mr. Kittredge said the town really needed such a study committee. Mr. Hicks and Mr. Doucette agreed, but Mr. Gray said the Planning Board was against the motion.

Several motions were offered. Mr. Gray said the Planning Board members said they would not serve on such a committee, saying they felt "the town should not take a problem away from the already constituted body under whose jurisdiction it falls," and moved the Planning Board member be struck and another at-large member added. Mr. Murphy moved to strike the whole motion and have the Planning Board do the study.

Mr. Freeman said that apartment building and zoning by-laws should be studied and done right—and that meant that leadership in the study was important to the town.

"To get the job done adequately we need the cooperation of all the town boards—and not done as in the past year when the Planning Board didn't consult with the Board of Appeal as it said it would in bringing the apartment district article to the annual Town Meetin."

"The man who has done the most research on the subject (referring to Mr. McGovern) and who spoke on it last year at the Town Meeting was not even consulted by the Planning Board," Mr. Freeman charged.

Mr. Barbaro suggested that if the Town Meeting didn't have confidence in the Planning Board vote them out in the next election, but he said; "I think we should keep the problem with them as they have done a lot of work already on it," and it is an area under their jurisdiction.

On the motion, the Town Meeting voted to keep such a study in the hands of the Planning Board by a slim majority of 74 to 67, and on the subsequent vote to have the study done the meeting voting unanimously for it.

Veterans

National Service Life Insurance policies, in amounts up to $10,000, are to be made available to them.

The 195 ex-GI's in Winchester with these low-rated disabilities comprise approximately 1 out of 11 of the 2,160 veterans of the two wars living in the local area.

Throughout the country, there are more than 1,500,000 veterans, similarly classified, who will benefit under the new legislation. The job is to find them, says the VA. It is enlisting the aid of service organizations and others in the search.

As to the cost of this insurance, it depends on the age of the applicant and on the type of policy he selects. He has a choice of four types.

If he is 30 years old, for example, the monthly premiums per $1,000 worth of coverage are 69 cents for Modified Life, 95 cents for Ordinary Life, $1.45 for 20-Payment Life and $2.99 for 20-Year Endowment.

If he is 45 years of age, he will be charged $1.32 for Modified Life, $1.89 for Ordinary Life, $2.44 for 20-Payment Life and $3.36 for 20-Year Endowment.

The rates are typical for those who meet the VA's "good health" standards. They will be somewhat higher for others.

For Winchester veterans who are under age 50, no medical examination will be required unless their health is such that they would not be able to obtain life insurance on the open market.

The offer will be open for one year, beginning May 1st.

Fatal

It first appeared that the youth had been the victim of some rare attack or seizure. Medical Examiner Dr. DiRago was notified and arrived at the hospital to examine the youth and agreed on the symptoms, with the possibility of a sting by a bee or other insect.

It was later confirmed that the youth was the victim of an accidental death caused by asphyxiation secondary to an allergic reaction of a bee sting.

The youth was given the last rites of the Catholic Church by the Rev. John O'Donnell of St. Mary's Church.

Will Skerry At Forum

Will B. Skerry of Woodside Road, beloved retired teacher from the Winchester High School, will be the guest speaker at the Forum Chapel Service at 9:15 a.m. this Sunday at the First Congregational Church. Mr. Skerry is well known by many young people who have known him in school and church.

He has been a Nonagon discussion leader as well as being active in many departments of the church including being a deacon. "The Necessity of a Belief in God," is his topic. The chaplain will be Stephen Burnham and the assistant chaplain Tom Niblock. Edwin Cushman and Whitney Gay will serve as ushers.

Week from Today Rummage Sale At Methodist Church

A Rummage Sale will be held at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, corner of Church and Dix Streets on Thursday, April 29, in the evening from 7 to 9 and continuing on Friday morning at ten o'clock.

Church members having donations of used clothing, household articles, etc., to be picked up, may call PA 9-5429 or PA 9-5815 or articles may be left at the church.

Mrs. Alfred Poole is the chairman and will be assisted by members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the church.

On Afghans

On Monday, April 12th, the Winchester Auxiliary of the MSPCA met at the home of its president, Mrs. Fred Cardin, to hear a talk given by Mrs. Steven Edgell of Sheffield West.

Her talk, which included a detailed description of the activities of the American branch of the Afghan Hound Club, was illustrated by many interesting color slides taken at shows and contests in which her own Afghan hound had participated.

A pleasant social hour followed during which delicious refreshments were provided by Mrs. Dean Carleton's committee with Mrs. Robert Durfee and Mrs. William Beggs pouring.

BOOK REVIEW

by Ann Anderson
Winchester Public Library

The Nineteenth Of April, 1775

by Harold Murdock

This is the time of year when New Englanders consider their heritage. The anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord is celebrated with parades, speeches and appropriate ceremonies. We think proudly of the small band of brave men lined up on the Lexington Green ready to repel with their lives the British invader. We pay tribute to the "embattled farmers" at Concord. Lord Percy, who reinforced the British on their retreat we still regard as a plunderer and a murderer of women and children and old men.

These are not quite the facts, however, according to a well-documented little book by Harold Murdock with this resounding title, The Nineteenth of April, 1775, Exhibiting a Fair and Impartial Account of the Engagement Fought on that Day Chiefly in the Towns of Lexington, Concord, Menotomy, Chiefly between a Detachment of his Britannick Majesty's Regular Troops and the Militia of the Province of Massachusetts Bay; with Candid Remarks on Certain Relations of That Sanguinary Event Set forth by other Hands . . .

Mr. Murdock, whose book came out more than forty years ago, while not detracting at all from the glory of the colonial citizen-soldier, has put the British in a less villanous light than that assigned to them by legend. He points out that they were here on His Majesty's official business in His Majesty's province, and considering their treatment at the hands of His Majesty's rebellious subjects, they acted with admirable restraint.

We still do not know who fired the first shot at Lexington. What today is merely a matter of interesting historical speculation was in 1775 a question of serious political importance. Depositions and affidavits of witnesses were hastily gathered, and Mr. Murdock has studied them all. There is no conclusive proof either way.

In any event the provincials were ordered to lay down their arms and disperse, and Captain Parker uttered his immortal words, "Stand your ground. Don't fire unless fired upon; but if they mean to have a war, let it begin here." At least I hope he did. Mr. Murdock feels that as a prudent and experienced soldier, heavily outnumbered by the British he would merely have ordered his men to disperse.

The encounters took place at Lexington and at Concord, and the British began their retreat to Charlestown under continuous fire by hidden American minutemen. To their great relief their ranks were reinforced near Lexington by the troops of Earl Percy, about whom many legends of brutality and vandalism have grown up.

Mr. Murdock has carefully considered these legends. The stories of looting and plundering, of attacks on women and children and unarmed civilians have been studied and in many cases entirely refuted by logic or by checking ancient documents and reports. Not in every case, however. We do not feel in reading this book that the author is out to do a whitewash job on the British Army. His contention is that Americans have a tendency to think of these ancestors as saintly patriots, brave to the point of foolhardiness, and of the British soldiers as hirelings of a vengeful king out to shed innocent blood.

There is little reason to question his estimate of the situation. No one doubts the courage, patriotism and selflessness of the men of Massachusetts on that historic day. Lord Percy himself was quoted as saying that he never had seen anything to equal the intrepidity of the New England minutemen. This from the enemy is high praise.

Plea for More Objective Thought On Dog Freedom

Editor of the Star:

From some of the recent letters in the Star one would gather that being against roaming dogs is akin to being down on motherhood and patriotism. Some of the emotional appeals to allow dogs unlimited freedom have overlooked the fact that several of the letters (mine included) have come from dog owners who are truly concerned for their pets' welfare. What we need is some objective thinking on the subject.

When a community reaches the density of population that Winchester has, no one can expect to do as he pleases without regard for his neighbor.

If there are more people, more buildings, more cars and more streets, then there must be less open area for dogs to keep out of harm's way.

Authorities on dogs, those who raise them and veterinarians, are unanimously agreed that dogs should never be unrestrained in urban areas, as much for the dog's own safety as for the public's welfare. Perhaps some parts of Winchester which are relatively thinly populated can allow dogs freedom to roam but in the more crowded sections the number of dogs has apparently reached the saturation point.

Last week a 3-year-old Woburn boy was attacked and horribly mauled by an uncontrolled dog. The child may lose the sight of one eye. Granted that this is a rare accident, is it not a statistical fact that the more dogs there are on the loose, the greater the chance of this tragedy happening here? Is the unrestrained freedom of 1,571 dogs worth one child's eyesight?

What it boils down to is the "rights" of dogs versus the rights of humans. When it comes to that choice, I'm with the humans.

Sincerely,
Mildred Allison

Dog Situation Is Analyzed And Discussed

Editor of the Star:

In the "dog lovers vs. dogs leashed" controversy I note that the extremes of agitated feelings are exaggerated equally by those in favor of a leash law and those who are sentimentally for the unleashed.

I would agree that the physical safety of both children and adults should be the crux of the matter. If children are actually fighting their way through dog packs to attend school and being viciously molested by savage dogs, no reasonable dog lover should oppose the complete restraint or extermination of such animals.

There are laws already on the books to protect people in this situation and my experience with the law enforcement agencies of Winchester would lead me to believe that the laws are effective when the authorities are called into action.

The number of registered dogs in Winchester, vs. the percentage of "gangster" and unlicensed dogs—the latter being the ones causing the trouble, I suspect—justifies an effort to weed out and eliminate the offenders as the law permits.

Is the condition as dangerously critical as the "dog haters" claim it is? There are unquestionably ugly dogs in Winchester. They are likely to be the victims of ugly and indifferent owners.

Is it not possible to identify and rid the town of these few marauders rather than condemn the entire dog population and the concerned owners of the cared-for pets?

It is, in my opnion, as impossible to make sure that all children will leave strange dogs alone as it is to train dogs to run only in certain areas and never on any property beyond home limits. Unfortunately, some children are actually taught to fear and dislike animals of all kinds and these children often resort to stoning or chasing dogs threateningly with sticks, with or without cause.

By and large it has been my observation that dogs are much more interested in other dogs than in approaching strange children to play or to bite, without provocation.

For several years I have had occasion to frequently pass two Winchester schools, one an elementary school. I have seen children being accompanied to school by their own pets, and other dogs playing or running together at a comfortable distance from any humans. Even in the mating season I have never observed a "dog pack" molesting the children.

I know, too, from children's conversation, that it is great sport to let a dog who likes to carry things grab a mitten or paper or anything portable and run off with it in his mouth.

For many families one of the desirable aspects of suburban living is being able to have a dog and allow the animal some of the natural freedom and outdoor activity enjoyed by the whole family. When animals become a nuisance, or a danger to the community, it is within the power of the citizenry to correct this situation but I personally question whether the time has come for Winchester to invoke a leash law to protect its citizens from the so-called dog packs.

If people whose dogs are dangerous will not accept responsibility for restraining or destroying them, the authorities will act upon properly filed complaint and evidence. At such a point in neighborhood relationships, the person who gripes and agitates for a dog leash law must have the courage to come forward and take his stand, possibly risking his neighbor's wrath, and substantiate his demand for the restraint or destruction of the offending animal.

Sincerely,
Marion Q. Chase

Dogs Used to Be Freer Here, Says Concerned Reader

Editor of the Star:

Being a great lover of all God's helpless creatures, I would like to express my sentiments on the newest "wrinkle" in town, the dog leash law for Winchester.

I have resided in Winchester for fifty years, and knew the "Old Winchester," and I am trying to get to know the new.

Winchester has seen a rapid growth in population in the past years and with this influx, a great many "Johnny Come Lately's" and "Do Gooders" who not only want to reorganize our departments, schools and theatre programs, but now to have a leash law to sentence our freedom loving dogs, that is the last straw!

Obviously those in favor do not own a dog, and therefore can never know the warm bond of love and understanding which grows between a free dog and his or her master, and especially a dog who has had the freedom of a romp down the street, or a hike in the woods untied.

People seem most concerned over a "ten cent trifle," such as the disturbance of a few blades of grass. As for nipping at their innocent dears, probably before they had been nipped they had poked a thumb into the helpless animals eyes or ears, stepped on his tail, or even struck him with a stick. Naturally, a dog will nip to protect itself, when hurt.

Dogs by nature love children and treated kindly seldom nip or bite. Watch a group of youngsters at play, and invariably a dog is in their midst, and so happy to be included.

We have a ten-year-old dog and to try and leash him after ten years of freedom, would be like a jail sentence upon an innocent human being.

We also have a dog who came to visit us from across the street six years ago, and is still with us. She still visits her "own folks" now and then. We love them all, the short and the fat and the tall.

Our house is a stop over for any tired, cold or hungry dog. Consider the animals feelings too, a great deal of satisfaction and goodness is gained when you give the dumb animals a little thought and consideration. Try it!

I have heard it said that there are "too many dogs in town." The truth of the matter in all probability is—too many people—Winchester has outgrown itself.

There are many problems in towns, cities and in the world in general today that should be of greater concern to us than dogs!

Why not forget the dogs and the dug up lawn. Some day we will all be resting in an eternal sleep beneath one, and dogs will race and dig, and prance merrily overhead and strange as it may seem to us now, we will be helpless to do a thing about it.

Life is short for all of us, so why not let the dogs enjoy their stay here too.

It's later than we think!

Sincerely,
Mrs. R. Elliott

Land Assessments Tax Story Lauded; Questions Raised On Crux of Issue

Editor of the Star:

Your story on land assessment problems in Winchester with particular emphasis on the Country Club was not only an outstanding service to the town and a revelation to the taxpayers of the town, but it also brought up more questions than it answered.

The Board of Assessors is to be congratulated for now taking a searching look at all undeveloped land with an eye to "bringing such assessing values into line."

But the main unanswered question which comes to mind, and to the minds of many people people in Winchester, is where the Finance Committee and the Town Meeting Members have been for the last 30 years to allow a situation, such as you describe in the land valuation at the Country Club, to exist. Their responsibility is not only to see that our tax money is well spent, but to make sure that no segment of our people and/or business concerns does not receive an undue advantage in the payment of such taxes.

How they could allow one business to operate for the good of the general public and to pay taxes on the basis of $9 per square foot while allowing another to operate for the good of a few on 1½c per foot basis is beyond comprehension.

For surely the Country Club is as much of a business as the corner drug store, a pet store or a restaurant. They are all in business to make a profit. But the Country Club, by calling itself "non-profit" returns its profit to members by additional benefits. The drug store or the home owner has no such advantage.

Some may say that the Country Club, by presenting a pleasant appearance of Winchester as a stranger drives along Route 3, is an asset to the town and as such should enjoy a real estate tax advantage. This might be true if the entire town could enjoy its facilities instead of a few.

The real assets in Winchester are the beautiful homes and lawns scattered through all parts of the town and for which the owners are paying an average of 25c per square foot assessment.

I am sure that the taxpayers of Winchester find no fault with the Country Club and certainly not with the fine people who enjoy country club life. But I am also sure that the taxpayers do not want to support it year after year.

While it is true that there are not house lots all over those valuable 123 acres it is equally true that to class those carefully manicured, fertilized and watered 123 acres as "undeveloped" is indeed unfair.

If not "undeveloped," what then? Why not classify the Country Club, for assessing purposes, for just what it is . . . a private business operated for the benefit of a few and using all of the town's facilities with the exception of the schools. On this basis the Country Club should be assessed at say, 12½c per square foot, if the town average is 25c.

With Winchester spending money as if it was going out of style the town can no longer afford the luxury of giving tax relief to a private business using such a large portion of prime land.

Sincerely,
Philip C. Wallwork

Teen Delinquent? No, Says Writer

Editor of the Star:

Nowadays anyone who mentions the word Teenagers thinks of Juvenile Delinquents. This is because they don't trust them. People think that if they give them any rights they would abuse them and become more delinquent.

Take Winchester for example. Most people are against establishing a Boys' Club or a Y.M.C.A. Why? I think it is because it would cost money and they would rather put up apartments to increase Winchester's income. The reason is primarily that Winchester is a selfish town. In a way you might call it a rich, greedy town not willing to spend much money for recreation.

The town and most parents don't seem to care about their kids, not until a crime is committed and public property is defaced. The result is that they have to spend more money to repair the damage. The parents react by saying "Something should be done," or "I never did that in my day."

If people would provide for recreation most kids would stay off the streets and not be trouble makers. Parents are mostly to blame for this problem by not providing an organized recreation club. Instead they are irresponsible. They fail to give the kids a good home life, because they won't spend the time and would rather give them money to get them out of their hair. If this could be stopped and an organization be set up there would be less of a problem.

Of course, parents often say: "I never had that in my day," and "All teenagers were kept home where they belonged." Well, times are different. When parents were kids the family was kept more together to do things. Now kids go out with their friends to do things.

Teenagers are normal people like all others, and like other people they like to gather and talk. Now parents get mad when kids get together downtown. This goes right back to what I said: we need clubs. I think the town ought to establish some.

Sincerely,
Charles Knight

Staff & Key Note of Interest

Editor of the Star:

"Staff and Key," the Winchester Gilbert & Sullivan Society, has lately received a letter from the New England director of project HOPE, thanking the members for $250 presented to them as a result of the production of "The Pirates of Penzance" last December and it is felt that these thanks should be shared with the Winchester Rotary Club and all those who contributed by their presence at the performances.

The Society will present its spring concert in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 23, and hopes that as many friends will come to hear echoes of "The Pirates" and some of the favorite tunes from the next production, "The Mikado."

Yours very truly,

Letter from Local Red Cross

Editor of the Star:

Commenting on recent letters to the Editor on the subject of the Red Cross Swimming Program, I would like to say that the Winchester Chapter of The American Red Cross is proud of its summer swimming program which has been so capably handled over these last seven years by Bill Shinney. Although Bill is an unpaid volunteer, he has been in complete charge of this program, putting in untold hours with his staff of instructors helping the children of Winchester learn to swim.

We are aware, although perhaps our fellow townsmen are not, that in nearly all other towns in this area, although the Red Cross trains instructors, their wages are paid by the town. In fact the Greater Boston Red Cross Chapter has suggested that we explore ways of persuading the town to take over the financing of our summer program here in Winchester since this type of operation is really not a Red Cross function. The Directors of our Winchester Chapter, however, believe that we are providing a worthwhile service to the town; and have voted to keep on underwriting this program to the tune of $1500 a year. We believe that although we are not helping the tax rate much, we are providing valuable instruction for the young of the town and that this reflects credit on the Red Cross.

We do not wish to be autocratic about the way we run this program, but would point out that since we are footing the bills, we think we have the right to operate as we think best, hiring what we consider to be competent personnel; and having them teach those courses which we think are most needed by the children of the town. Everyone on our staff has been to the Red Cross Aquatic School held annually at South Hanson; is a certified Red Cross instructor; and we feel, does a wonderful job with the children in our classes.

The interest and attendance over recent years proves the popularity of the program. We had over 500 boys and girls receiving instructions during each of the last two summers. In 1963 we made 130 swimming awards, including 16 Junior Life Saving, and 12 Senior Life Saving certificates. In 1964 there were 106 awards made including 10 Junior Life Saving, and 6 Senior Life Saving certificates.

At the end of each season the En Ka Society has sponsored, and Bill Shinney has ogranized, an extremely popular award banquet, attended by participants in our program and their parents. Prizes have been donated by the Park Department, the Rotary, and by ourselves to be given at the banquet to the boys and girls who have been outstanding during our summer sessions.

In all of this we are in partnership with the Park Department as they are the people who maintain the Town's beaches, and operate Leonard Pool. We really appreciate the work they do for without it there would be no program. As in any partnership there may be from time to time minor differences of opinion, but basically I feel that we are working together nicely. For instance, in the matter of the quality of the water at Leonard, we feel that it is perfectly safe for our instructing purposes or we would not use it. Nevertheless, we will fight for improvements to this pool and its surroundings; and to Palmer Street Beach and its surroundings; and who wouldn't. On the matter of water depth under the Leonard Pool diving board; although the board could be and was used, we feel that the Park Department was well advised to dredge this area deeper in view of the height of the board above the water and the obvious problems that can occur late in any season when the water level goes down.

In closing this overly long epistle, I would acknowledge that there is and probably always will be criticism of this or any other like program from some quarters; and although we will not guarantee to hire whoever you suggest, or do exactly what you might like us to do; we do invite and will carefully consider all constructive criticisms and suggestions that any interested townsfolk may care to offer because we want to keep this popular and worthwhile program as valuable and helpful to the town as is humanly possible.

Sincerely yours,
John F. Sexton
Chapter Chairman

Leash Law, No; Control, Yes, Urges Reader

Editor of the Star:

I have followed with great interest the pros and cons of the so-called Leash Law. There has been much talk but no constructive alternative to this unfair and inhumane idea. Do we incarcerate all adults who break the law? Do we ostracize all teen agers who are non-conformists? Certainly not!

To the best of my knowledge, the Town of Winchester has a dog officer. Let him become an active participant in canine affairs. First of all, a good salary must be paid to the dog officer commensurate with his new duties. Surely, all the residents of Winchester who truly love dogs and are sincerely interested in their welfare would be in accord with this idea.

As a starting plan, the dog officer would visit trouble spots, namely schools and the environs of Winchester Center. All dogs found in packs or committing a real legal nuisance would be temporarily restrained. Naturally all of these dogs should be wearing a proper license. If not, their owners would not be entitled to consideration.

The owners of dogs found roaming in packs would be notified and asked to restrain their animals. If the ruling were not immediately complied with, then a fine would be imposed upon the owner.

Finally, after three notifications, the dog would be taken away. This would not apply to the dog who was simply out for his daily constitutional or romping gaily with his playmate, dog or child.

Dogs and children have an affinity for each other. It is my belief, through many years of working with children and animals, that the child who is taught respect and kindness for animals will naturally reciprocate in his feelings and actions toward his fellow humans and thereby start the ball rolling in a small way toward a greater peace in the world.

However, it is not possible for any child to learn to respect and be kind to an animal that is a virtual prisoner due to the false thinking of a few people who really dislike animals and have no love for them.

Children are born without fear of animals. Unfortunately, it generally is brought on by an apprehensive parent who is afraid because he has never experienced or had the opportunity to be the recipient of this unwavering and unquestioning love that only an animal will bestow.

I do not minimize the fact that something must be done about undesirable dogs, just as something must be done about undesirable humans. Let us not penalize the majority for the sins of the few.

Please remember:
He liveth best who loveth best
All things both great and small,
For the dear God who loveth us
He made and loveth all.

Sincerely,

Dow Owner Speaks for Dog

Editor of the Star:

HELP! Boy am I and my doggy friends being treated unfair. Everyone seems to be chasing us away for some reason or another. We know that we're a menace once in a while, but guess who's to blame? You Masters!! That's who's to blame.

In fact, only one out of every ten dogs in Winchester have something nice to say about their masters. It's usually "My master is a picklepuss" or "My good for nothing master has smelly feet!" (It can get very personal you know) Most of us have NEVER been taught any manners, and are very unruly.

Something else that surprises me is that most of my friends are fed pure rubbish and are left out to roam the streets like hobos. They are put out at night and forgotten about. It really is pitiful!

I happen to be one of the lucky ones. I have my own personal doghouse to live in. It's much better than roaming the streets. As for getting fed pure rubbish, I just can't believe it. With one or two exceptions every single one of my friends are given the most outrageous things. Such as: old smelly spaghetti, spoiled eggs, even chicken bones which could splinter and kill us.

Now they want to put us on leashes and keep us confined—caged up when it's not really even our fault.

It sure is, ruff-ff!

So come on masters, get with it—HELP!

Thank you,
Daysee

Art Study Group Heads to B.M.F.A.

On Thursday morning, April 29, the Art Study Group will make its final gallery visit of the year.

The special exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts at this time is "7000 Years of Iranian Art." To quote the M. F. A. Calendar,—"The timeless beauty of line and form, the inherent monumentality of exquisite small objects and the compelling concern with nature are three salient aspects which characterize this exhibition. The resplendent collection unfolds an intriguing story beginning as far back as 4000 B.C."

The museum opens at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock, Mrs. Jackson W. Wright, Jr. will give a lecture on "7000 Years of Iranian Art," in the lecture hall. A suggested plan would be to visit the exhibition at ten and attend the lecture at eleven. The museum cafeteria is open from 11:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Lynch Students Create New Book Covers for Old

Maybe you can't tell a book by its cover, but you can "sell" a book with an attractive jacket, and Lynch Junior High eighth graders have done it.

Many a fine story was hiding beneath a drab exterior in the school library. Miss Lorraine Stigbert, eighth grade English teacher, decided to do something about it, with the cooperation of Mrs. Helena Hatchell, art teacher, and Mrs. Constance Duncan, Lynch Junior High School librarian.

The project was designed to stimulate reading, and it did. Each of 51 students in two English classes read a book, designed a cover, and wrote a critique for the back of the book jacket as well as a synopsis of the story and a biographical sketch of the author for the inside flaps. The results were artistic triumphs, colorful and exciting.

A huge black shadow of a hunchback serves as a backdrop for a cathedral on the bold black and white jacket of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Handsome Old English lettering and an appealing girl grace the cover of "Lorna Doone." "The Black Arrow," "Adam Bede," "Pride and Prejudice," "Silas Mariner," and "Wuthering Heights" are a few other old books with new looks.

The collection is so attractive that Mrs. Duncan has had a difficult time keeping the books in the window display in the library. She wanted to show two visitors some favorite covers only to find the books already being read by interested pupils.

Miss Judy Attardo of South Gateway flew to Europe last week for a vacation. Judy plans to tour France, Italy, and Spain, while she is abroad.

Rotary Conference In Swampscott

More than 1200 Rotarians and members of their families are expected to visit Swampscott, April 27th and 28th to attend the annual conference of this Rotary district, it was announced today by David W. Drislane, district Rotary governor.

The Rotary district of this area includes 36 Rotary Clubs and covers the greater North Shore area.

The conference program will feature an address by Honorable Luther Hodges, representing the president of Rotary International.

The conference will be held in the New Ocean House and will include plenary sessions, group discussions of Rotary topics, and some entertainment features. The purpose of the meeting is to further the program of Rotary through fellowship and the discussion of activities relating to the district and to Rotary worldwide.

This year, under the leadership of Rotary's world president, Charles W. Pettengill, of Greenwich, Connecticut more than 550,500 Rotarians in 11,800 communities in 126 countries are intensifying their efforts to "live Rotary" in their personal and business relationships and in their contacts with people of other countries.

At the conference, a Rotarian of the district will be nominated to serve as governor of this Rotary district for 1965-1966. He will be formally elected at Rotary's 1965 convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, U.S.A., and will take office on July 1, 1965.

Garrett Nagle Opens Investment Banking Firm

Garrett J. Nagle, Jr., of 200 High Street, announces the formation of a new corporate entity, Breck, McNeish and Nagle, Inc. Mr. Nagle, who will serve as executive vice president and director of the new corporation, said operations will begin formally May 3 with the opening of offices at 19 Congress Street, Boston. Other officers will be John H. Breck, Jr., board chairman, and David D. McNeish, president.

GARRETT J. NAGLE, JR.

The new investment firm will provide individual clients with the complete spectrum of investment services while also offering specialized research for institutions. It plans to make application for membership on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. Nagle was graduated from Boston College High, attended Boston College and received a degree in finance from Babson Institute in 1955. He joined Schirmer, Atherton & Company as security analyst in 1955. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1955-57. Upon completion of his tour of duty, he returned to Schirmer, Atherton & Company as a registered representative.

He joined Burgess & Leith as a registered representative in 1961 and was made a general partner in 1964 specializing in Institutional Sales and Research. Mr. Nagle is a member of the New York Society of Security Analysts, Boston Security Analysts Society, Boston Investment Club, Winchester Country Club and is a member of the corporation of Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

He is married to the former Priscilla Myers of Boston and they have lived here for some years.

Mr. Breck, vice president and director of John H. Breck, Inc., well known for their leadership in the shampoo and hair preparation field, will resign effective May 1 to devote full time to the new investment firm and David D. McNeish of Wellesley served also as a general partner in the investment firm of Burgess & Leith before associating with the new firm as company president.

Miss Carlisle Chairs Meeting For Therapists

Miss Katherine Carlisle of 4 Crescent Road, chairman of the physical therapy department at Northeastern University's Boston-Bouve College, directed a recent Clinical Faculty Institute sponsored by Northeastern and aided by a grant from the U. S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration.

Forty-five physical therapy supervisors from the Northeast further updated their knowledge at the seminar held at Northeastern University's Henderson House Conference Center in Weston. Many were from clinics and hospitals in the Boston area.

The all-day meeting formulated criteria for the evaluation of students in clinical practice.

These supervisors play a very important role in the clinical education of the students, explained Miss Carlisle, who is a graduate of both WHS and Wheaton College. She has been associated with Boston-Bouve as both instructor and administrator since 1945.

Rail, Camera Fans Plan Spring Foliage Trip

Winchester members of the Railroad Enthusiasts Club will go along when the group sponsors a public trip on the New Haven Railroad covering the Dorchester, Marlboro, Fitchburg, and Lowell branches which have not had a passenger service for some years.

This trip is being sponsored by the New England Division of the Enthusiasts, Inc., a club with headquarters in Boston and it will leave the South Station, Boston on Saturday morning, May 15th, making stops at Back Bay and Framingham for local passengers and return to Boston the same evening.

Easter Seal Short of Goal

If Massachusetts' crippled children and adults are to continue to receive the multiple rehabilitation services they need to overcome their disabilities and be independent people, a generous public must be counted upon to help the Easter Seal Society meet its $335,000 statewide campaign goal.

"The Society does not want to say 'no' to a child who has lost an arm or leg in an accident and can be taught to use an artificial limb, or refuse help to a father who has suffered a stroke and can be restored to physical independence," according to Robert Jenney, appeal chairman.

"In this week following Easter, I urge everyone who is concerned about the future of crippled children and adults and has not contributed to the Easter Seal appeal to do so. In the Winchester area, contributions to date were reported at $1,077 of the local $1,200 goal by Charles W. Butler, treasurer, Winchester Trust Company and area treasurer for the appeal."

Courtesy Tags Being Issued By Motorboat Div.

Wilton Vaugh, state director, said that Division enforcement agents presently are visiting marinas and boat yards to check registration numbers.

"The courtesy tag is not a summons or an official violation notice," Vaugh said. "It merely notes errors on a boat's registration and reminds the owner to make corrections before putting his vessel overboard."

Deficiencies may include improperly placed numbers, missing numbers or letters, poor color contrast between number and background, improper size or spacing, and numbers not of block character.

Vaugh said that owners who launch their boats without painting or affixing numbers on both bows will be stopped by Federal, state, district, and local enforcement officials and given violation slips.

"These can result in penalties of $50 each from the Coast Guard and the Division of Motorboats," he said.

Federal and state laws both require that the number must be at least three inches high, of block character, contrast with the color of the hull or background plate, and be spaced as units an average character apart (MS 9449 AA).

Massachusetts law requires that all vessels powered with five or more horsepower must be registered.

EARLY BIRDS Lee Gaudet of Canal Street and Doug Goodale of Middlesex Street opened the season Saturday at Horn Pond, and by 6:30 a.m. each had the limit of six beautiful trout and holiday suppers were on hand for their respective homes. Both are juniors at high school. They report they were among very few who seemed to be doing well on the cold April 17th opener.

Three Local Boys In Kennedy Mem. Hockey Tourney

Three Winchester boys will participate in the first annual John F. Kennedy international hockey tournament to be held at the Merrimac Valley Forum in Billerica.

Laurie Kelly, Stan Cruwys, and Dave Williams, all of Winchester, are members of the Suburban All Star hockey team, recent winners of the N. E. Midget Hockey A.H.A. tournament which will play a team from Toronto, Canada.

This team is managed by Mike Buccerio of Revere and coached by Bill Cruwys of Winchester and is one of the best they have had in years, which should give the Canadian boys a tough time.

There will be two games played to decide the champion at the Forum in Billerica. One on Saturday, April 24, at 7:30 p.m. and the other on Sunday, April 25th at 3 p.m.

As an extra added attraction, the Arlington Zwicker-ettes will play the Walpole Brooms between the periods. These teams are composed of sneior girls, registered with the A.H.A. and playing a man's game with men's rules. These girls have some pretty good players with some former and present speed-skating champions on the team. Don't Miss This!

The Merrimac Valley Forum in Billerica is at the junction of route 3 and 129.

Tickets may be obtained at McCormack's Apothecary or from Bill Cruwys, PA 9-1327 or at the door.

All monies obtained from this venture will be turned over to the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library Fund.

Fish Derby Is Coming

The Winchester Kiwanis is happy to announce that there will be a town Fish Derby for boys and girls this year.

Scheduled for Saturday, June 5, at Wedge Pond, rain or shine, the event will make it seem as though spring is really here. Details of registration, time, etc., will be announced soon.

G. S. Troop 508 Hostess to 698

Thursday, April 8, the Junior Girl Scouts of Troop 508, George Washington School, and leaders Mrs. Lawrence Lunt and assistant Mrs. Lewis O'Donnell were happy to have as their guests Brownies of Troop 698, with leaders Mrs. Robert T. Grainger and assistant Mrs. Edward E. Hicks.

The Brownies who attended were Corrinne Basso, Susan Boodakian, Carolyn Coffelt, Susan Ciampa, Elizabeth Deroo, Carolyn Downing, Roberta Grainger, Ruth Korwatch, Elenie Ungaretti, Audrey Walz and Sally Watson.

The program was announced by Girl Scout Debby Wark, which opened with the Flag Ceremony with Ellen O'Donnell in charge; Marilyn Church, color bearer; and color guards Anita Augello, Rebecca Linson and Corinne Weber. The Flag Ceremony was followed by the recitation of the Girl Scout Promise.

Mrs. Lawrence Lunt presented badges to the following Girl Scouts who had fulfilled all requirements in order to earn the cooking badge: Anita Augello, Marilyn Church, Ellen Paulson, Maurier Vallas, Carolyn Carlson, Corinne Weber, Rebecca Linson, Susan Cronin and Ellen O'Donnell. To Mary Beth Belliveau was awarded sign of arrow, sign of star, and badges for foot dawdler, gypsy, water fun, books, drawing and painting, home, health and safety and housekeeping. Kathy Burke completed sign of the star, backyard fun, community safety, drawing and painting, home, health and safety, my home, personal health, story teller, gypsy, and water fun badges.

May Draft Call Doubles March

The Massachusetts call for 199 men for induction into the Army during the month of May was levied on local boards this week according to John C. Carr, Jr., the State director of Selective Service.

Mr. Carr mentioned that the national May draft call is for 15,100 men compared with a call for 13,700 men in April and 7,900 during March. The larger calls can be attributed to a decrease in the number of men enlisting in the armed forces.

Based upon latest available reports, Mr. Carr said the May induction call will be filled with men who are at least 21 years of age. Men who are 20 years of age will be called for examination in May in addition to 18-year-old men. The State director emphasized that 18-year-olders are being examined not to prepare them for induction but so that they will find out at this time if they meet the physical, mental and moral standards for military service. Being informed of their acceptability or non-acceptability, the young men are in a bettter position to make their future plans.

K. of C. Dance

On Friday, April 23, the Winchester Council, K. of C. 210, will hold its monthly social.

Ken Thorp and orchestra will provide the music. This is the last dance social of the year. A good crowd is expected, and a collation will be served.

Medford Jaycees Invites Beauties

The Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce announces the "Miss Medford Scholarship Pageant," an official preliminary of the Miss America Pageant held yearly in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Any lady residing in Winchester is eligible to enter providing the entrant is a high school graduate by September 1, 1965, and has reached the age of 18 but is not more than 28. All entrants will be judged on poise, personality, intelligence and must possess and display her talent in a three-minute routine, or the entrant may give a three-minute talk on the career she wishes to pursue.

All young ladies who enter the "Miss Medford Pageant" must be continuing their education next fall. Along with a scholarship the winner of the "Miss Medford Pageant" will be eligible to enter the Miss Massachusetts Pageant in June, 1965, in which the winner will then represent Massachusetts at Atlantic City.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Mr. D. C. Hurley, Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce, Post Office Box 83, Medford Massachusetts 02155. Application for entries may also be obtained by writing to the same address. The pageant will be held in the Medford High School Auditorium on Saturday evening, May 22, and all applications must be received by Wednesday evening, May 5, 1965.

Pre-View For Scout Round-up

Girl Scouts who will represent the Mistick Side Council at the 1965 Girl Scout Roundup at Farragut Wild Life Area, Idaho, July 17-26 were in Worcester Saturday, March 29, for Regional Conference held at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, with the Montachusett Girl Scout Council as host.

Sessions were held for leaders and assistant leaders of patrols, made up of eight girls per patrol, transportation managers, Girl Scout radio commentators and adults carrying out the training and preparatory work for Council participation.

Mrs. MacLean Williamson, Woodstock, Vermont, a National Board member on the Regional camping committee, was conference chairman and local participants included Ann Rozelle and Judith Wells of Winchester.

Bad drivers are not the only ones who have accidents, observes the Automobile Legal Association. Some drivers get so good they become overconfident and indulge in careless practices—ones which eventually cause accidents.

Spring Is For Ice Hockey; Well, For Some It Is

The intercollegiate hockey champions are out playing baseball, the Schoolboy Tournament is over and the Bruins are out playing golf; but for some this is still skating time and will be for May.

"It costs 25 to 30 dollars to rent a rink long enough for a game, and we raise the money ourselves—half by us, half by our opponents," said the spokesman for 11 St. Mary's 7th and 8th graders who initiate their own competition and keep on playing up through May.

They were in the Star to report a big 15 to 1 victory over St. Agnes of Arlington, which they pulled off last Thursday morning (they got the rink from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m.) at the Boston Skating Club.

Competition for the area rinks lets up a little this time of year, and these boys play whenever they can get the competition and the money. They do their own organizing and managing each time, working under a player-manager, usually the boy who got the game together.

Last week it was Mark Stabile, who was also top scorer in the game, notching seven goals and three assists. Teammates who tallied were Doug Dalton with four, Mark Collins with three, and Steve Yanulis with one (rating three, one and three assists respectively).

Others who helped give the two lines their big win were John O'Grady, Barry MacDonough, Danny Oliver, Phil Donohoe and Mark Des Mueles.

The only other game played by the group so far was during the last vacation when they played two games against Charlestown at McHugh Forum, this time divided by grades. The seventh won 6-3, the eighth lost 4-5 in this early game which was school arranged.

LACROSSE PROVING POPULAR AT WHS

The Winchester Lacrosse Club is in its second year of operation at the high school. This highly popular sport is supervised by Sachem Wrestling Coach Gene Bouley. Last year the club had an impressive 3-3-1 record against private school competition.

But this sport needs financial support for it to operate correctly. Right now the team plays all its games away from home. Coach Bouley volunteers his time each day to help the club. It cannot be called a team because lacrosse is not an official sport at the high school. Last year the club had to borrow football helmets to protect the players. It would be nice if it received the financial support next year that it needs.

Lacrosse is a fast-growing sport and rates a place on the Sachem sport schedule. Most of the WHS boys playing it will enter prep school or college. Placing it on the school schedule would give these boys a chance to play in competition during high school. The club holds daily practice sessions at Leonard Field. If you have a chance, drop in some afternoon to watch this fast-paced game.

The Sachem baseball team opens its 1965 Middlesex League season this week at Belmont. After a fine slate of six practice games, in which the Sachems won four, Coach Colella looks forward to a good season. This young team is a sleeper in the Middlesex League race. Last year it finished with an 8-6 record in league play. Concord, which won the league title, also faces a rebuilding year.

Last Friday and Saturday nights at Rockingham Park two of the best pacers in the nation made trips to the winner's circle. Cape Horn breezed to an impressive victory Friday night. The driver was Billy Houghton, one of the world's finest. Immediately afterwards Billy took off for Chicago for a $35,000 race. He left Cape Horn at Rockingham to prep for the upcoming Atlantic Seaboard Paces, to be held April 30 and May 7. It was Smokey Mountain's turn on Saturday night, when he breezed to an impressive four-length victory. Handling him was New England driving champion Al Winger. The two New York horses showed their class at the Rock last weekend.

The turnout for the opening of the Suffolk Downs meet Monday afternoon was a big one. Over 35,000 fans were on hand and were treated to several changes in the East Boston track.

Sport Briefs—The 1965 fishing season opened with a bang Saturday morning as most of the anglers took an active part at Horn Pond in Woburn. More than 170 fishing licenses were issued by the town since the new year started.

The golf-driving range Celtic trainer Buddy Leroux opened late last year is getting a lot of use, now that spring is here. It is located on Cambridge Road, right behind the shopping center at the Woburn-Winchester line. A lot of the Celtics take time out from their basketball schedule to hit a few. Bill Russell was up there last week and got off some pretty fair drives.

Looking at the rest of the Sachem spring sport schedule—the tennis team will open its season with Belmont here April 29. The golf team will play host to Melrose April 26. The girls' tennis and softball teams open their seasons May 4, when Stoneham will visit them.

A few weeks ago there was a feature story in the New York Times about Paul Del Rossi and his future with the New York Yankees. There was also a picture of Paul with Yankee pitching great Whitey Ford. According to Yankee officials, they have big things planned for Paul.

When the Sachems play the Tanners in baseball this season it will mark the first time in many years that Bart McDonough will not be at the Tanners' helm. Bart stepped down last year to accept the principal's job at one of the junior highs in the city. Last year's Assistant Coach Doc Sweeney replaced him.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

A successful defense of their Mr. and Mrs. Championship title by Miggs and Darrell Root was the big news on April 14th, as 21 other couples challenged their right to hold the Sittinger Trophy for another year. With an average of 110 for 22 boards, the point-winners were:

Miggs and Darrell Root	146
Ann and Peter Bracken	137
Grace and James Ryan	130½
Peggy and Paul Sanderson	128
Marion and Chester Davis	126
Bettina and Paul Lorris	124

Also finishing above average were:

Lolly and Dick Smith	123
Greta and Blair Hawley	121½
Peggy and Phil Cade	118½
Ruth and Al Johnson	116

Spouseless Section 5 was a nine table Mitchell which completed 24 boards for an average score of 84.

North - South

Ellen Schofield and Martha Walker	95
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagan	95
Rae Grove and Fredna Perkins	94
Ted Atkinson and Gerald Barrett	88½
Jock Olmsted and Clarence Woodward	87

East - West

Betty Slade and David Littleton	102
Robert Prevoir and Paul Ranaghan	101
Ann Galpin and Madeleine Walworth	99
Evelyn Crowley and Dorothy Tangusso	87½
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	87½

Our next big event will be a "double-header" on Wednesday, May 5th, when we will hold our Men's Pairs Championship and Women's Pairs Championships simultaneously. The Chitel's Challenge Bowl and the Andersons Challenge Bowl, respectively, will be at stake.

Carl Sittinger, as our guest expert of the week, has chosen as his thesis a board which was played in clubs, diamonds, spades and no trump, with the Blacklers picking up the only "plus" score EW by somehow managing to set five diamonds!

Historically, irrespective of what system is being used by the respective players at bridge, the basis of valuation was originally derived from analysis of thousands of hands played at rubber bridge. The famous Ely Culbertson said in his writings that in the play and reshuffle in rubber bridge the cards arrange themselves in a sort of orderly sequence.

At the end of the play of a hand the completed tricks are thrown together, re-shuffled and re-dealt. This condition does not prevail in duplicate bridge. When a board is prepared for a new session, the previously played hands are put together for re-shuffle; note the difference, hands not tricks.

Not infrequently the deals are irregular, sometimes in goulash fashion, and seldom are the hands, as dealt, put in the initially correct pockets. This accounts for the larger percentage of freak hands prevalent in duplicate, and many good hands going sour. (Conventions, of course, are more extensively and effectively used in duplicate, especially in the case of certain individuals who go to the legal limit and beyond the understanding of the average player in the time limits available.)

Board No. 20 played in the Mr. and Mrs. Tournament last week is a case in point. Let us first look at the East-West hands. All vulnerable.

West (Dealer)	East
♠ A J 9 4 3	♠ K 6 5
♥ A 8 7 6 4	♥ K J 5
♦ 9 6	♦ 8 7 4
♣ 7	♣ 10 9 8 3

We do not approve of the North-South bidding. After three passes, South opened one Club and West overcalled one Spade. North passed and East raised to two Spades. South rebid Clubs and North jumped to five. Can you blame West for doubling with three or possibly four tricks in prospect? Here is the entire hand:

"A Void in the Hand"

North
♠ Q 10 8 7 2
♥ none
♦ Q J 10 3 2
♣ A Q 4

West (Dealer)	East
♠ A J 9 4 3	♠ K 6 5
♥ A 8 7 6 4	♥ K J 5
♦ 9 6	♦ 8 7 4
♣ 7	♣ 10 9 8 3

South
♠ none
♥ Q 10 9 3 2
♦ A K 5
♣ K J 6 5 2

North-South never mentioned their 5-card Heart or Diamond suits. West chose to lead the Heart ace as a possible sure trick and the hand was a lay-down with six tricks in trumps and five more in Diamonds, for top of the board. As a matter of fact, the hand will make with any lead but a spade. A real freak hand as well as some apparently freak bidding. A spade opener would have given South a problem against tight defense.

Grandma's Teeth took eight points from the first place North Enders to give the Oilers 1st place. Grandma's team all bowled well over 300, with Augie Cennerazzo bowling a 374 and Charlie McElhiney a 350. They were second and third highest of the night. We have a new member in our exclusive 400 club. Congratulations to Bob Merenda of the Oilers for a 408. Bob also has to share high single honors of the night with J. Holston of the Mill Hillers, both bowled a 152.

The Clubs and Spades met each other on Tuesday evening to "battle it out" for first place in the league standings. The Spades came out victorious by taking all four points from the Clubs. In the standings, the Spades are ahead by one point. With two weeks remaining in the season, the outcome of this second half of bowling is still undecided. In spite of the results of the night, both the Spades and Clubs saw some very good bowling. Fran Lucas, captain of the Spades rolled 314, high of the night. Assisting the team also were Stina Hicks and Norma Kenton. The top bowlers for the Clubs were Cappie Airey and Mary Thorne.

In the match between the Hearts and Diamonds a split resulted, each team taking two points. The Diamonds took the first two strings with the help of Lib Knight and Rose DiTucci. The Hearts gained their two points in the third string and total pinfall due to high bowling of Lucy Corsetti and Jean Luongo.

It has been decided that the banquet will be held at the Frolics on May 20th.

Net Program Planners

WINCHESTER TENNIS ASSOCIATION OFFICERS just elected at the group's annual meeting report that though the nets are going up a little late this year, tennis clinics and the opening get-together tournament will be coming along in May. Seated is William Bird, the new president; and standing are Dwight Bellows, secretary- treasurer, Edward White, vice-president, and Donald Stebbins, outgoing president.

Tennis Assoc. Ready for Spring

William T. Bird was elected president of Winchester Tennis Associaton in the annual meeting last Wednesday evening at the residence of C. Donald Stebbins, retiring president.

Other officers chosen were: Edward G. White, vice president; Dwight E. Bellows, secretary-treasurer; Charles E. Watson and C. Donald Stebbins, members of the governing board.

The members of the association voted to sponsor a full slate of tournaments, including the Mystic Valley Junior Championships, which has become an important event for youthful New England tournament players. Also on the agenda will be the annual spring draw tourney and the Winchester Town championships.

After some discussion, the members voted to appropriate funds to purchase back-drops for use on the base line fences at the Palmer Street courts. When affixed to the fences, these will improve visibility of the flight of the ball and also serve as wind breaks.

Representatives of two groups planning to construct indoor tennis facilities in the area were present at the meeting and outlined their plans. One two-court set-up is scheduled to be located in Lexington, while a four court center is in the planning stages for Winchester.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Easter snowstorms notwithstanding, the Little League rosters are all made up and the teams are ready for the season opener on May 1. This week the listing for the American League is shown and the National League rosters will appear in next week's Star.

Because Little League does not have the manpower to field more teams than they now have in each league, there are some boys who tried out and were not selected for team play. This does not in any way detract from their baseball ability but Little League regulations dictate the size of the team rosters and the ages of the boys that comprise each club.

All boys who are not on one of the regular teams are invited to join in the Cap League facilities and participate in that program. All boys will be welcome and there is plenty of action in Cap League games each Sunday.

This year the Little League is proud to greet three new sponsors. These new friends of Winchester youth are Leslie Ford, sponsoring the Greyhounds in the National League, Spaulding-McGhee Book and Gift Shop, sponsors of the National League's Beavers and Chitel's Clothing Store, backers of the Wolves in the American League.

Talk on Thoreau Here May 1

The annual meeting of the Winchester Historical Society will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 1, at 2:30 p.m., in the Rich Room of the library. The speaker will be Roland W. Robbins lecturing on "Thoreau, the Concord Traveler."

As a pick-and-shovel historian, Roland W. Robbins has spent 20 years as a professional historian and archaeologist. His discoveries of lost American landmarks have been responsible for many historic restorations, including the 1646 Saugus Ironworks Restoration; a 17-18th century Dutch settlement on the Hudson River at Tarrytown, N. Y.; Shadwell, birthplace of Thomas Jefferson; the 1751 Sterling Ironworks; and others.

In his talk next Saturday, Mr. Robbins will tell the dramatic story of his discovery of Thoreau's Walden house site and recall some of the strange coincidences that accompanied this work. He is president of the National Thoreau Society.

Suzanne Wilson Wins Internship

Suzanne Wilson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson of 2 Myrtle Street and a senior at Connecticut College will be one of the first two summer interns in an office of the Berlin city government under a program recently initiated by George K. Romoser, assistant professor of government at Connecticut College, with the support of the German Academic Exchange Service in Bad Godesberg and Berlin.

Miss Wilson will spend approximately ten weeks this summer working in various divisions of the West Berlin Information Office and observing the workings of the Berlin city government. By combining work with study, the interns contribute to the normal work of the office and at the same time are oriented to the functions and operations of the office within the larger governmental structure. The program is particularly designed for students who intend advanced study of political science or who are preparing themselves for careers in the public service.

The two successful candidates were selected by Professor Romoser from student applicants at Connecticut College, Smith College, Mount Holyoke College and the University of Massachusetts.

Miss Wilson is a zoology major with considerable work in government at Connecticut College, Boston University, and the University of Massachusetts. She was graduated from Reading High School, and has studied at Antioch College, Boston University, and the University of Massachusetts before going to Connecticut. She has also been employed at the New England Center Hospital in Boston and Cambridge Hospital in Cambridge.

The second intern chosen was John Kriendler, a graduate of Cornell University and at present at the University of Massachusetts, where he is a candidate for the M.A. in government, Mr. Kriendler served as an officer in the United States Navy for several years.

1965 Mornings: Art, Religion, Music, Politics

Tickets go on sale this week for the 18th season of the Winchester Mornings, sponsored by the Winchester Wellesley Club. The co-chairmen of the Ways and Means Committee, Mrs. Herbert H. Howell and Mrs. Ross M. Cunningham have prepared a stimulating program for the fall season.

On September 23, Harry Ellis Dickson, a member of the first violin choir of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, assistant conductor of the Boston Pops and Esplanade concerts, conductor of the Brookline Youth concerts and the highly successful Youth concerts at Symphony Hall will speak on "Inside and outside the Boston Symphony Orchestra." Mr. Dickson spoke here in 1963 to a most appreciative audience.

On October 7, Dr. Samuel H. Miller, dean of the Harvard Divinity School, will discuss Modern Art and Religion. This will not be an examination of Church Art but of contemporary art in general and its reflection of religion. Dr. Miller is well known as an advanced thinker in his field. Time magazine for April 2, 1965 (p. 80) quotes his definition of the difference between health and neurosis in religion as the best extant.

On October 14, Geoffrey Godsell, an Englishman, now assistant news editor for the Christian Science Monitor, will examine "Challenge and change in the World Today"—an historical view which might be taken by a future historian. He feels strongly that the actual boundaries of the three great world powers, the U. S., the U.S.S.R. and Red China are no longer where you think they are and that the coming struggle for power will definitely be between whites and non-whites all over the world.

Proceeds from tickets sold for this highly popular and worthwhile series enable the Wellesley Club to make gifts to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, the Wellesley College Development Fund and its Student Aid Society.

Sodality Dance Tomorrow Night

The Immaculate Conception Sodality is sponsoring a Spring Dance at the Parish Hall in Winchester on Friday, April 23rd from 8 to 12 p.m.

Door prizes will be awarded and the committee consisting of Mrs. Audrey Bonny, Mrs. Ann Brown, Mrs. Mildred Cantillon, Mrs. Peg Carr, Mrs. Virginia Odin, Mrs. Mary Parsons and Mrs. Eleanor Mullaney assures everyone of a good time.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

About two years ago, for example, a man died and left his wife enough insurance that she could pay off the loan on their nice home. She left the fire insurance policy untouched.

But when the policy came up for renewal she decided to save a few dollars by cutting the insurance amount from $20,000 to $6,000. "All you need," a friend assured her, "is enough to pay for the damages of a small fire. Few homes ever burn down completely."

But one windy night a fire started; it was quickly fanned into a roaring blaze. The widow escaped with just her nightgown and robe. The estimated damage—$21,900. And she had only $6,000 of insurance to cover her staggering loss.

This is a true story but not a local incident. We could cite many other "insurance tragedies" which have occurred right here.

What makes these stories doubly tragic is that huge losses could have been avoided at a rather modest cost.

Please don't take chances! Let us guide you to the proper kind of home insurance coverage.

Marycliff Honors Art Students Here

To Ursula Keleher went the best of the show award as well as a special citation for an original poem which was executed in block prints. For her work in sculpture, Kathy Lucey was one of two girls honored and won a blue ribbon for her two heads molded in clay.

Judges Joseph Benenate, an artist from Woburn; John Dyer, art teacher in Stoneham; and Sr. Joseph Maurice, S.P., Chelsea art teacher, awarded blue ribbons to the following local students: Joseph Savarese in grade 2; Lauren Berthiaume and Kathy Quinn, grade 4; Julia Tiernan, grade 5; Carol Perrotti, grade 6; Cathy Canavan, Nancy Keleher, Mary Sennott, grade 9; Kathy Lucey, grade 10; and Ursula Keleher, grade 11.

Among others receiving honorable mention awards were these Winchester students: Susan McAdams, grade 1; Mary McAdam and Cathleen Norris, grade 3; Mary Martin, Lauren Berthiaume and Mary Livingstone, grade 4; Kathy McDonough, grade 5; Christine Ryan and Jayne Greco, grade 6; Joanne Martignetti, grade 7; and Carol Martignetti, Janet Maggiore and Joan Sennott, grade 8.

All the work of the blue ribbon winners has been entered in the archdiocesan art competition. The winners will have their work on exhibit at McHugh Forum of Boston College from April 30 to May 4.

Art Assn. Annual Show Coming Up

Art and the artist, the annual exhibition of paintings by the members of the Winchester Art Association, will be on view to the public in the West Reading Room of the Public Library. The colorful array of delightful and exciting work will be there from May 5 throughout the month.

The pictures to be exhibited will be selected from art association members' entries, by jurors Elizabeth Lobingier and King Coffin. At the regular monthly meeting, May 4, at 7:45 p.m., Mr. Coffin will conduct a gallery talk in the form of a stimulating critique of the submitted pictures.

As in previous years, this opportunity to exhibit is open to all members. Non-members who are interested are cordially invited to call Mrs. Byron Stites at 729-6255 for qualification information.

Jim Jones, president of the Art Association, specified that any original work of any medium or technique will be acceptable such as oil, water color, pastel, mixed media, wood cuts, silk screen prints, etc. Other entry regulations will appear in the next issue of the Star.

Wheaton Group To Hear Sarah Caldwell

The Winchester-Lexington Wheaton Group will hold its final meeting of the season on Thursday, April 29, at 8:00 p.m. Dr. Victoria Cass of 4 Myopia Hill Road has kindly opened her home for the occasion.

The program for the evening will be the unusual and amazing Miss Sarah Caldwell, artistic director of the Boston Opera Company. Since the formation of this opera group seven years ago, she has served as founder, fund-raiser, director, and producer. Miss Caldwell, the "Girl from Missouri," began her interest in music at an early age in her home town of Maryville. She then continued her study in Kansas City and later at the New England Conservatory under Boris Goldovsky. Miss Caldwell has brought to Boston opera a new vitality and developed a great following for her subscription series.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Alexander Pugh, III, and her committee, and Mrs. William Budd, the chairman of the club, will preside at the meeting.

Study Assembly For Witnesses

Richard L. Harlow, presiding minister of the local Burlington Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses which serves Winchester, Woburn and Burlington made announcement today of a three-day semi-annual Circuit Assembly to be held May 7-9 in Worcester, at Mechanics Hall.

Mr. Harlow said the event will be an educational one in that many Bible discourses and demonstrations will be presented at the various sessions. Jehovah's Witnesses are trained in the field of preaching house to house and in calling back or making revisits on those interested in their message.

The program for the three day convention will be designed to aid all those attending to carry on Bible educational work as set forth in the scriptures and as arranged by the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society of Brooklyn, New York.

Mr. Harlow stated that in order that the assembly may function properly, twenty departments have been organized such as cafeteria volunteer, attendants, cleaning, public relations, etc.

Highlight of the convention will be the public lecture "The Moral Breakdown - What Can Be Done About It" to be delivered by C. V. Henry, district minister of the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society.

LIVING AND FOSSILIZED

From time to time archaeologists, digging in coal beds, find fossils of plants in the equisetum genus. The plants were living over 300 million years ago.

The unbelievable fact is that equisetums are still thriving today. Commonly called horsetails, they are found growing wild in woodlands along stream beds.

Three hundred million years ago horsetails grew 60 to 70 feet tall with trunks two or three feet in diameter. Horsetails today never top four feet with one-half-inch diameter stems. These plants have no branches or leaves—the plant is simply an arrow-straight shaft. Can you imagine walking through a prehistoric forest and finding a grove of 70-foot branchless and leafless trunks towering before you?

Horsetails were and are found in groves because they grow from a far-reaching system of rhyzomes. On an evolutionary level with the fern, horsetails are very simple plants, propagated either by spores or by that extensive rhyzome system.

As mentioned before, these plants are leafless; they do have, however, sheaths which encompass the stem, creating the illusion of nothing but a stem.

If you are not able to wander through a woodland to look for some horsetails, plant specialists often list them in their catalogs.

These plants are herbaceous; that is, they have non-woody stems. It is quite obvious, though, that horsetail stems are most rigid. The answer may lie in the fact that the stems contain a high percentage of inorganic matter—like sand, as an integral part of the cell walls.

As a result, horsetails make first-rate nail files! Also, well suited to artistic flower arrangements, these plants are a welcome focal point in most every garden.

It is interesting to know that these plants flourished over three hundred million years ago; perhaps even more interesting is the fact that there is such a thing as a fossil to fill us in on prehistoric plants and animals.

Most of you know that coal is a direct result of plants decomposing in the "right" way. A fossil is a structure which is composed of minerals which have faithfully replaced organic matter, retaining the plant or animal's unique structural characteristics.

On an entirely different note, if you are going to start some seed inside this year (in this case "inside" means in a greenhouse or coldframe, not just indoors), be sure to apply a damp-off preventive to the soil just after sowing the seed.

Wherever there is little air circulation newly sprouted seeds are quite susceptible to a disease called damping-off — seedlings will reach a height of about one-half inch, suddenly wilt and later die, as as a result of a fungus attack. The only way to prevent this fungus from taking hold is to either run an electric fan all the time or use the no-damp-off chemical.

John R. Ellis of 259 Washington Street, sales manager at the S.S. Pierce Company, took part recently in a ribboon cutting ceremony in Quincy that marked the opening of Montilio's Fruit Orchard and Gift Shop there. Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa of Quincy did the honors.

THE EAGLE SCOUT HONOR, top of the ladder in scout achievement, went last week to Tom Butterfield of 20 Symmes Road of Troop 503. With him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Butterfield, traditionally a part of this ceremony, and Scoutmaster Calvin Allyn.

Tom Butterfield Earns Eagle Scout

Boy Scouts who received second class rank were Mark Allyn and Bob Painter. Due to the desire for qualifying for the annual canoe trip, the rank of First Class Scout was awarded to the following: Henry Dieterich, Paul Donahue, Bob Romney, Chape Whitman and Phil York. Merit badges were earned by Rick Hillger for music, David Baird for citizenship in the community, Scott Jeffery for soil and water conservation, Chris Allyn for reading and swimming, Alan Raphael for reading, pioneering and first aid.

Scoutmaster Calvin P. Allyn introduced George Dillon, chairman of the Advancement Committee for Troop 503. Mr. Dillon then proceeded to itroduce the visiting dignitaries who would take part in the presentation of the Eagle Scout award to Tom Butterfield. These gentlemen were: A. MacDougall, asst. district commander, F. Smith, Council Scout executive, and L. Chase, district committee chairman.

Mr. Chase presented the award of Eagle Badge, the highest achievement of the Boy Scouts of America, to Tom Butterfield. In an impressive description of all the steps of scouting attainments, Tom Butterfield's Scout history was reviewed. Tom is a member of the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church. He is a member of the cross country team, the gymnastics team, and spring track team of Winchester High School.

Scoutmaster Allyn presented the Eagle Badge to Tom and Mr. Butterfield pinned it on his son. A miniature pin was given to Tom to present to his mother. Mr. F. Smith, Council executive, presented the official certificate to Tom and gave a short talk on scouting procedures and the up-to-date deveiopment of the Merit Badges.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, refreshments were served to the large audience who were thoroughly impressed with this ceremony.

Methodist Church Pulpit Exchange

The Rev. Donald H. Freeman, Ph.D., minister of the Cliftondale Methodist Church in Saugus, will preach this Sunday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church in an exchange of pulpits with the pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay.

Dr. Freeman will preach on the subject, "The Frantic Immediacy" at the eleven o'clock service.

Before coming to Cliftondale Dr. Freeman served pastorates in Methodist Churches in Medford, Holyoke, Worcester and Athol. A native of Belmont, he was educated in the public schools of that town and earned his A.B. degree at Boston University and his S.T.B. at B.U. School of Theology as well as his Doctorate in Philosophy.

Open Bible Conference On

Ten foreign countries are represented at the nine-day annual Missionary Conference being held in The Church of the Open Bible in Burlington this week. Movies or colored slides from the various fields will be shown each night.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST, WINCHESTER

114 Church Street

Sunday Service at 11:00 a.m.
Sunday School is held at the same time as the Church Service.
Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock.

Reading Room, 4 Mount Vernon Street. Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays 7 to 9 p.m.

The Christian's approach to final victory over death will be a central theme at all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Probation After Death." One of the Bible selections to be read is from Galatians: "He that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

Also included in the Lesson-Sermon will be these lines from the denominational textbook: "Emerge gently from matter into Spirit. Think not to thwart the spiritual ultimate of all things, but come naturally into Spirit through better health and morals and as the result of spiritual growth. Not death, but the understanding of Life, makes man immortal" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 485).

MSUEW Meets

The spring meeting of the Massachusetts Society for the University Education of Women is scheduled for Wednesday April 28 at 2:30 p.m. at McCormick Hall, the women's dormitory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Lynwood Bryant, formerly of Winchester, will hostess the group.

Now nearly ninety years old as an organization, the M.S.U.E.W. is devoted to furthering the college education of women and has as its prime purpose the awarding of scholarship and loan aid to women students in a number of Massachusetts colleges. During the past year approximately fifty young women have received such aid.

Speaker for the spring meeting will be Dr. Sheila Evans Widnall, Assistant Professor of Aeronautics at M.I.T., with the subject "Women's Commitment to a Scientific Career." Dr. Widnall was appointed in July 1964 as the first M.I.T. alumna professor in the School of Engineering.

Fenoglio Agent For Harvard '65

John J. Fenoglio, Jr., of Chesterford Road has been elected a class agent for the Harvard College Fund by the marshals and class committee of Harvard's Class of 1965.

JOHN J. FENOGLIO, JR.

The Harvard College Fund each years raises unrestricted money for current use by Harvard College. President Nathan M. Pusey has described the College Fund as "providing the venture capital Harvard must have to keep pace with the future."

The class agents solicit pledges from seniors before graduation. Afterwards they correspond with classmates over the years. Many agents for earlier classes have served since their graduation. The oldest living agent still solicits ten members of the Class of 1891.

Mr. Fenoglio is a graduate of Winchester High School, where he was president of the science club. At Harvard, he is an honors candidate in history and science. After graduation this June, he plans to attend Georgetown Medical School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenoglio.

Remember When: WFD at Chelsea Fire, April '08

Fifty seven years ago last Palm Sunday the city of Chelsea was almost destroyed by fire.

The Winchester Fire Department was called on for help and horse drawn steam pumper Mary Ann and a hose wagon arrived on the scene shortly after noontime.

They were asked to see if they could prevent the fearful conflagration from crossing the Boston & Maine railway tracks near the railroad station and a wooden bridge. Steam was up when they arrived and they put two lines of hose on a large pop corn factory which was destroyed with great explosions.

An extension was put on the chimney of the Mary Ann and with forced draft the smoke went up straight for three of four stories. Soon, with the cannel coal used in steam fire engines, flames poured from the chimney and white-hot sparks went up four or five stories. They were doing what was called pouring it on.

Soon the Medford Fire Department arrived to help, and the two departments saved the whole north part of Chelsea. The fire burned all night, and the Mary Ann pumped until nearly daylight. The men of our fire department were soaked with water, their faces were black with smoke and cinders.

Few people are now living that saw a whole city aflame on that Palm Sunday; but they will never forget, especially when the oil tanks filled with gasoline and naphtha exploded.

Town Finds Solution To A Public Health Nuisance: Pigeons Trapped, Gifted

"Let's face it, Pigeons are attracted to the Winchester area." With these words—and with no parallel satire between the desirability of local public property and structures and the choiceness of Winchester residential real estate intended—Michael D. Saraco, director of the town Board of Health, summarized one of the community's major health nuisances.

For over a year now the Winchester Board of Health has been seeking a way to "quietly and peacefully" rid the town of these communal birds that turn public areas into their own private aviaries, much to the annoyance of pedestrians and motor vehicle operators who must pass beneath their "public" domains.

After receiving many complaints from townspeople on the aggravations and potential health hazards caused by the not-so-pleasant and not-so-clean flocks in the Center, which were steadily multiplying in 1962 and 1963 especially, the Board of Health decided something must be done on the official level.

The problem was concentrated at the new railroad overpass structure, with its exposed under-beams making perfect pigeon roosts. Pleas to the Boston and Maine Railroad to alleviate the situation proved fruitless, although an official railroad party inspected the scene with the local health director and admitted, yes, Winchester did have a birdy, if not downright messy, problem.

The railroad begged hands off because screening the birds' bridge home would be expensive, because it did not want to contend with any adverse minority reaction—including institutional groups traditionally against any form of anti-birth, housing or death controls over animals and birds, and because it had legally, it was pleased to discover, consigned the care and maintenance of the overpass over to the town.

This left the Board of Health in an awkward position, especially since it had already officially declared the pigeon problem "a nuisance and potential hazard to the public health." Something had to be done.

The Health Board did research into what other cities and towns had been doing to solve the same problem. Many solutions were grim: they ranged from poisoning to shooting to bludgeoning the pigeons to death. These were too direct an elimination solution for the board to consider the town accepting.

Third Reich solutions put out of the question, the board turned to humane possibilities which would be more palatable than slaughtered squab.

They enlisted the advice of the U. S. Wildlife Service and the M.S.P.C.A. (which didn't want anything to affect the natural life and habitat of the birds, but if something had to be done, wanted it done gently and non-violently). The government service suggested trapping the birds and humanely gassing them to end the misery of their problem. The M.S.P.C.A. suggested taking them many miles away from Winchester and hoped they wouldn't return.

The Board of Health had two traps made by the School Department shop and put them on the Common on April 5, first to try releasing them far away, and gassing if that didn't work.

However, some teenagers and adults couldn't bear to see the pigeons penned, and many were let loose and the traps broken several times before they were moved to the center of the rotary under the overpass where police officers could keep an eye on both the free and the freeing.

After the second week of the capturing program, the health officer and a police officer drove 58 trapped pigeons on a pleasant one-way ride out of town. They took the lot more than 50 miles away from Winchester, and so far, according to Health Director Saraco, none have returned.

The Board of Health began to have some misgivings, however, on the sagacity of Winchester's dumping its pigeons in another state. The question of interstate transportation of a health nuisance and potential health hazard waxed on the local board—along with the possibility of an intertown or interstate bird war problem.

It was decided to seek out an acceptor for our beautiful and charming pigeons, but neither federal nor state authorities or parks wanted to have anything to do with the idea. They were busy enough trying to kill off their own birds.

Finally, one sunny day—and Mr. Saraco doesn't remember whether in was really a sunny day or whether he just came to the conclusion it was—a local resident, seeing him take some pigeons out of the traps, walked up to him and offered to take them off his hands.

Mr. Saraco was, to say the least, astounded.

Even more, he later told the Star, he was overjoyed.

'Outstanding Man Of Year' Jaycee Award To Dr. Austen

Honored Saturday night at a banquet at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel was Dr. W. Gerald Austen of 29 Allen Road, chief of the Surgical Cardiovascular Research Unit in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and well known, among other things, for having designed and built the first open heart machine at the MGH.

DR. W. GERALD AUSTEN

Dr. Austen, who is 35 years of age, was chosen as one of 11 young men in Greater Boston who won the Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce "Outstanding Young Men of the Year" award. Of the others three were attorneys, two churchmen, two business executives and one each a politician, teacher, and novelist-journalist.

A distinguished panel of Boston civic and business leaders selected the group on the basis of profesional and vocational accomplishment, as well as on service to the community. All are between the ages of 25 and 36.

Dr. Austen lives here with his wife Patricia and an eight month old son. Born and raised in Akron, Ohio, he was graduated from MIT in 1951 and from the Harvard Medical School in 1955. His internship was in surgery at the Massachusetts General and, excepting two years of army service, he has been on the staff of that hospital since.

Dr. Austen has devised two new operations for heart disease, as well as making important modifications in other heart operations. He has conceived and proved many new concepts in the physiology of cardiovascular disease, has made important contributions in the understanding of the pharmacology of cardiac medications, and has done important investigations in the area of cardiac metabolism.

He was instrumental in designing and building the first open heart machine at Massachusetts General Hospital, and was responsible for organizing the Surgical Cardiovascular Research Unit at M.G.H. which he now heads. This new research facility with its expanded teaching and clinical program now produces some of the United States' most outstanding cardiovascular surgeons. Dr. Austen is also an associate in surgery at the Harvard Medical School, and a member of numerous professional organizations.

Selectmen To Call 2nd Special Town Meeting May 24 on A New High School

A special Town Meeting has been tentatively scheduled by the Board of Selectmen for Monday, May 24, for consideration of the Permanent Building Committee's recommendations for a secondary school building project.

While the date and purpose of the special Town Meeting announced this week are unofficial at this time, a warrant is being drawn up by Town Counsel Vincent Clarke at the request of the Selectmen on Monday night. The Selectmen anticipate singing the warrant next Monday.

The Permanent Building Committee's report and recommendations for a secondary school building program has been distributed to Town Meeting Members and other groups in the community. Copies of the report (summarized April 8 Star) are available at the public library and the School Department offices.

Edward E. Hicks, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, closed the special Town Meeting of April 20, on zoning and building by-law height restriction for apartment houses, by saying there would be another special Town Meeting at the end of May on secondary school building proposals, and urged all

Gov. Volpe Entertains Italian Premier, Staff In Winchester Saturday

Governor of Massachusetts John A. Volpe, son of immigrant Italian parents, entertained visiting Premier of Italy Aldo Moro at his 10 Everett Avenue home in Winchester for luncheon last Saturday.

Despite doctor's orders that he cancel all weekend engagements due to his suffering after effects sustained when shaken up in a helicopter crash last weekend at Northampton, Mass., the Governor and his family and staff greeted the visiting President of the Council of Ministers of the Republic of Italy and his staff at his home.

The party of 24 guests enjoyed a 2:30 luncheon combination of home-cooked Italian and American food, including ravioli, tenderloin of beef, asparagus, Italian salad, and baked Alaska flambe.

Mrs. Volpe said in describing her international guest, that she was surprised at Mr. Moro's youth and youthful good looks, which is not a very common quality in prime ministers she explained.

Mr. Moro and his party visited Gov. Volpe at his home after the Governor had extended an invitation when he was at an American Community of Italian Origin dinner honoring Mr. Moro a week ago today in New York.

The Italian Premier and his staff had been the official guests of the United States Government for the week of April 19 to 23, and was still accompanied by two State Department officials when he visited the Volpes.

Mr. Moro's party included Amitore Fanfani, foreign minister of Italy; G. Frederick Reinhardt, U.S. Ambassador to Italy, and Sergio Fenoaltea, Italy's Ambassador to the United States.

With the Premier's party were members of his staff, personnel from the U.S. State Department and security guards.

The visitors were greeted at the Governor's home by His Excellency and Mrs. Volpe, Superior Court Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro and his son Joseph L. Tauro, Volpe's legal counsel, State Auditor Thadeus Crane, and other members of Volpe's family and staff.

Also invited were Don S. Greer of Winchester, Peter Duadio, Grand Venerable of the Order of the Sons of Italy, and two priests.

Following the luncheon Mr. Moro toured Boston, including stops at the State House, a walk along the Freedom Trail, and a visit to the Don Orione Home in East Boston, one of Volpe's favorite charities, where he was greeted with many Italian signs and comments of welcome.

Gov. Volpe was not able to accompany the Italian Premier and his party to Logan Airport on the orders of his physician, but he did send several aides and a State Police escort to the field for the 7:45 flight to Rome.

Gov. Volpe's parents immigrated to the United States from the town of Pessccosansonesco, Province of Abruzzi, in the central part of Italy near the Adriatic Sea.

AND WHAT ARE WE BID FOR THIS FINE PIECE? The 16th annual country-style Rotary Auction in the Town Hall Saturday, followed by the traditional bean supper, proved a popular and successful event again this year. Prices from a penny to $250 flew to the auctioneer's chant and gavel—all ultimately going through Rotary donations to local charities and activities.

Volpe Sales Tax Proposal Wins Local Support Officially Here

Gov. Volpe described his sales tax bill today as "An overall tax program designed to stabilize and equalize the tax burden."

"If Massachusetts is to improve its economy, get more jobs, lower property tax, give students better education, and provide the public with the services it demands," the Governor said, "this comprehensive tax program must be approved by the Legislature."

At the local level Winchester Selectmen have announced their support of Gov. Volpe's sales tax plan.

Edward E. Hicks, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said that a unanimously approved town executive body resolution to support the sales tax was passed at their April 5th meeting.

According to Mr. Hicks, a representative from the board will testify in favor of the tax bill at the Joint Legislative Tax Committee hearing in Medford on May 5th.

This hearing, which will take place on Wednesday, May 5th at 7:30 p.m. at the Medford City Hall, is the last in a series of public hearings planned by the Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation.

Members of the taxation committee include Senator Philibert L. Pellegrini (D-Arlington) and Rep. Michael Catino (D-Medford). Rep. Catino is co-chairman of the committee.

The Winchester School Committee also voted to support a sales tax. Mrs. Robert J. Grenzeback, chairman of the School Committee said, "the School Committee fully endorses a sales tax proposal for state aid to public schools which does not limit local fiscal autonomy."

Public Officials To Be Honored At LWV Recognition Reception Here

Elected and appointed town board and committee members, and elected town officials, will be honored at a special reception sponsored by the League of Women Voters next Thursday night to focus public attention on recognizing the valuable contributions these officials make to Winchester government.

The recognition reception party will be held at Lynch Junior High School auditorium from 8 to 10 o'clock on Thursday, May 6.

Mrs. John W. Null, president of the Winchester chapter of the League of Women Voters, said the League expects a good turnout of public officials invited to the event honoring them for their public service. A few brief speeches will be given, and coffee and refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Null added that although such "public thank you" recognition parties are common in other parts of the country and in the state, "this is the first time to our knowledge that such an appropriate thank you to public officials is being given in Winchester."

They Stand Out: Like A Red Thumb

They're a very bright red.

And when you've seen them, you'll know you've been caught; and you may very likely get chewed out in person for violating a town ordinance.

Murphy Elected To Journalism Academy

Francis R. Murphy of 17 Norwood Street has been elected to the Academy of New England Journalists, according to an announcement this week by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalists society.

Mr. Murphy, recently retired news editor of the Boston bureau of the Associated Press, was elected to the distinguished Academy of New England Journalists in recognition of his 37-year distinguished career in New England journalism with the AP.

New Swim Club, Pool Organized In Winchester

The organization of an association called the Winchester Swim Club, Inc., a social and recreational club formed principally to provide swimming and perhaps tennis facilities for its members, was announced this week by the officers and directors of the club.

The club has an agreement to purchase a six-acre tract of land on the west side of town, north of Johnson Road, a few hundred yards west of Ridge Street. Subject to a variance approval on the use of the land by the Board of Appeal—which will hold a public hearing on the proposal Tuesday night, May 11, at 7:30 in the Town Hall—the club plans to construct a swimming and tennis recreational area.

The club proposes to build an Olympic-size swimming pool with a separate diving area or diving

Rev. Henderson Baptist Church Interim Minister

The Reverend Alexander Henderson of 6 Standish Lane will start this Sunday as interim pastor at the First Baptist Church, replacing the Reverend Joseph E. O'Donnell, who resigned recently to take up work at the Andover Newton Theological Seminary in Newton.

Announcement was made to the parish by the Baptist Diaconate.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson is himself an alumnus and a trustee at Andover Newton and has served the Massachusetts Baptist Convention as its president for two years and for many years was a member of the board of directors and chairman of the Pastoral Settlement Committee. He is a member of the Rotary Club and a past president of the Medford Rotary.

Police Active On Housebreaks And Court Actions

At 1:02 a.m. police were alerted that residents at the Everett Goss Home on 41 Allen Road had returned from an evening out to find that their door had been jimmied and an entrance forced. Officers Albert Duffy, Erwin Nurnberger and Mario Buzzotta investigated and were told several articles were missing.

At 10:40 p.m. police officers Daniel Parsons, Jr., and John Mawn responded to a request from the home of John Lane of 5 Orient Street, adjacent to the Winchester Hospital.

At this home evidence told the story that every room in the house had been ransacked and the contents of closets and drawers all perused. The occupants had left their home at 7:30 and returned about 10 to find that several valuables were missing.

Ten minutes before the call to headquarters on the second break, a resident of Fairmount Street (one over from Orient) had telephoned in relative to the suspicious action of three young men observed in the area. According to his report two were across the street from his house and the third was coming out of the driveway when he first saw them. They then went up Fairmount to the hospital, where they were later observed in the lobby. Sgt. Elliott, investigating, was told one had asked for the location of the public telephone while at the hospital.

Although they searched the area, police were not able to locate anyone answering to the description of the persons observed.

A 45-year-old Cambridge man was sentenced on April 20 in Middlesex Superior Court to serve between two and six years in state prison for the armed robbery of the Winchester business office of the New England Telephone Company.

Kenneth J. Dick of 166 First Street in Cambridge was also sentenced before a Grand Jury to serve between two and three years for the unlawful possession of a firearm during the same telephone office holdup on February 5.

Raymond L. Barry of Woburn, formerly of Winchester, reappeared before Middlesex Superior Court on April 15 for an appeal from an earlier Woburn District Court one-month sentence to Billerica House of Correction for driving so as to endanger when involved in an accident on Cross Street last year.

The appeal, which was pending when his three-month suspended sentence for striking Police Officer Angelo Amico was ordered enforced, and a fourth month at Billerica added when he threatened a police officer in the courtroom, was denied by a six-man jury and the additional sentence ordered carried out.

Mrs. Ruth B. (Newcomb) Harris

Mrs. Ruth R. (Newcomb) Harris, a resident here for nearly 40 years, died on Wednesday, April 21, at the Reading Nursing Home after a long illness.

Services for her were held in the Ripley Chapel, the First Congregational Church on Friday afternoon and the Reverend Mr. Wesley A. Mallery officiated. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Harris was born in Richmond, Maine, on June 9, 1897, the daughter of the Reverend Edward Holmes and Anna Marie (Weber) Newcomb. She received her early education in Maine. In Winchester she and her late husband, Thaddeus William Harris, made their home first on Highland Avenue. She had lived at her home at 23 Stevens Street for 33 years.

Mrs. Harris was a member of the First Congregational Church, being associated with its women's organizations; she was also a member of the Eastern Star here.

Mrs. Harris is survived by four sons, Robert E. and Charles P. of Winchester; David N. of Concord, New Hampshire; and John M. of Bolton, Connecticut; also by 11 grandchildren.

Donations in her memory may be made to the building fund of the First Congregational Church.

Claude Gordon Fleming

Claude Gordon Fleming, husband of Mary B. (Brown) Fleming of 8 Glen Road, died on April 22 after a brief illness at the age of 73. He is survived here also by his sister, Myrtle M. Fleming, of the same address.

Mr. Fleming was born in Boston, the son of Claude H. and Mary Ann (Somerville) Fleming on June 29, 1891.

In World War I he served in the U. S. Navy for four years and he was well known here in veteran's circles, having been a member of Post 97, American Legion and Post 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars. He died at the Veterans' Hospital in Jamaica Plain.

The Reverend H. Newton Clay of the Methodist Church officiated at private services held at the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Martin Thomas Connolly

Martin Thomas Connolly, a native of Ireland, but a resident here for over forty years, died on Thursday, April 22, after a lingering illness. He was 87 years of age.

Mr. Connolly, the husband of the late Margaret (Connolly) Connolly lived at 141 Washington Street, but had also resided on Upland Road and elsewhere in town.

Born in County Galway, Ireland, the son of Thomas and Mary (Costello) Connolly, he spent his early youth in that country before coming to the Boston area. He was for many years a leather worker at the Beggs and Cobb tannery, formerly on Swanton Street.

A solemn high Mass was celebrated for Mr. Connolly at St. Mary's Church on Saturday morning, following a funeral from the P. J. Cox Funeral Home in Woburn and he was buried at Calvary Cemetery.

He is survived by two sisters, Annie Connolly of California and Katherine Connolly of Ireland, and in this area, by several nieces and nephews.

Elizabeth J. (DeCourcy) Hurley

Mrs. Elizabeth J. (DeCourcy) Hurley, wife of Leonard J. Hurley, and a resident here throughout her life, died suddenly at her home at 16 Westley Street on Friday morning, April 23. She was 55 years of age.

Mrs. Hurley was very well known throughout the town. She had been born here on January 16, 1910, the daughter of the late Winchester Fire Chief David H. DeCourcy and Mrs. Anna E. Healey DeCourcy. Her father, too, had been a native of Winchester.

Mrs. Hurley went through the schools here and was graduated with the last class to go through the former St. Mary's High School; she subsequently also attended Boston University and she was for 10 years a secretary in the office of Dr. Milton J. Quinn.

Mrs. Hurley was married here in 1938 at St. Mary's her lifetime parish, and she was a member of that church's Ladies' Sodality.

The Reverend Martin J. Dolphin celebrated a solemn high Mass for her on Monday morning, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Mrs. Hurley was buried in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Surviving her in addition to her husband are her mother; a daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Patterson of Melrose and one grandchild. Mrs. Hurley's late brother was Harold DeCourcy, a former fire chief at the Bedford Airport.

Mrs. Mary (Daly) Chamberlain

Mrs. Mary (Daly) Chamberlain who lived here on Salem Street for about 25 years, died on Thursday, April 22, in the Lowell General Hospital, after a long illness. She was 64 years old and the widow of the late John Chamberlain.

She had been a member of the Immaculate Conception Church here and Father Gerald B. Horgan celebrated a requiem high Mass there for her on Monday morning, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Mrs. Chamberlain was a native of Ireland where she was born on Christmas Day, 1901, the daughter of Hugh and Mary (McKenna) Daly. She came to this country at the age of four and had lived in this area since, moving two years ago to Pinehurst to make her home with her brother, John F. Daly.

In addition to him she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Anna Spear of Wakefield and Mrs. Jane Creed of Revere, also three nieces.

Mrs. Rose (Frisco) Ferro

Mrs. Rose (Frisco) Ferro, the mother of six sons and a resident here for over 50 years, died at the Winchester Hospital on Saturday, April 24 after a brief illness.

A solemn high Mass was celebrated for her at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday morning, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Ferro, who was a long-time member of the Christoforo Columbus, Ladies' Sodality, as well as of St. Mary's Church, was born in Italy on February 27, 1892, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frisco. She is survived by a brother and sister in Italy.

The widow of the late Giuseppe Ferro, who died several years ago, Mrs. Ferro leaves in addition to her sons, 15 grandchildren and one great grandchild. Her sons are Peter of Malden, Salvatore of Somerville, Frank J. of Winchester, Charles A. of Brookline, Christopher of Reading and Angelo F. of Stoneham.

Andrew Callahan

Andrew J. Callahan, who had spent almost all of his life in Winchester, died very suddenly on Saturday, April 24, at his home at 44 Clark Street.

Mr. Callahan was also well known in railroad circles having been associated with the Boston and Maine for over 40 years, at one time as a gate tender and later as a ticket agent. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Workers' Union.

Mr. Callahan was the son of Timothy J. and Elizabeth (Lucey) Callahan, both natives of Ireland. He was born in Boston on June 6, 1900 but moved to Winchester when he was four years old and was educated in the Winchester schools.

He leaves two brothers here, Timothy J. and Robert J., and a sister, Mrs. Peter W. Cullen of Deerfield Beach, Florida.

A requiem high Mass was sung for him at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, April 28 and interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn. The funeral was from the Lane Funeral Home.

CSA Secondary School Report Public Meetings

Town meeting members, parents and interested citizens may learn more about, and ask questions about, the Secondary School Report of the Permanent Building Committee at four area meetings to be sponsored by the Community School Association before the special Town Meeting, at which the committee will present its recommendations for action.

These meetings will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening on Wednesday, May 5, at the Vinson-Owen School; Thursday, May 6, at the Mystic School; Wednesday, May 12, at the Lynch Junior High School; and Thursday, May 13, at the Lincoln School.

Mrs. Henry T. Gerould, president of the Community School Association, said that the association was glad to help in getting the widest possible spread of information about the Permanent Building Committee's proposals which, she stated, "may be the most important single building program ever presented to the town."

Members of the Permanent Building Committee, the School Committee and School Department staff will be present to explain the recommendations and receive reactions to them. While the meetings are located in different schools to be convenient to different parts of the town, each is open to everyone who wishes to know all the facts about these far-reaching plans.

It is expected that the special Town Meeting will be held before the end of May and that motions will be made to take the various parcels of land included in the recommended site for a new senior high school.

Cushing Academy Local Trustees In Centennial

Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, one of this country's oldest privately endowed co-educational institutions in continuous existence, this year celebrates its Charter Year Centennial Saturday, May 8, with several local residents who are trustees at the school in attendance.

Charter Year chairman William C. Cusack of 2 Lakeview Road will deliver the address of welcome to visiting notables and returning alumni of the famous institution started in 1865. Mr. Cusack said he anticipates a big celebration at the school on this 100-year event.

Other local trustees who are scheduled to attend include Dana M. Cotton of 49 Yale Street, and Harlow Russell, formerly of Winchester.

Do It For Dooley

PERSONAL FRIEND OF TOM DOOLEY, Dr. Brock Lynch of 51 Bacon Street, speaks to parents, community leaders and members of the Arlington Chapter of the Thomas A. Dooley Youth League. Dr. Lynch described the late and famous Dr. Tom Dooley, whose selfless works and ideas for the medical benefit of remote Southeast Asians made him an international missionary personality. The league, dedicated to aiding Dr. Dooley's goals by raising money through community service, is sponsoring a Do It For Dooley Day on May 15.

The Seriekas Are Honored

Thirty-two years ago Sunday John Serieka of Cambridge and Mary O'Connell of Winchester were married in St. Agnes' Church, Arlington, by Father Francis X. Bransfield. Permission for Father Bransfield to perform the ceremony had been obtained because of his long and close friendship with the bridegroom.

In as much as son Danny Serieka was slated to leave on Monday for Fort Knox, Kentucky, for eight weeks' training, the three Serieka children decided to give their parents a real surprise anniversary celebration before Dan's departure. (Dan had been commissioned a second lieutenant the preceding Friday.)

As a result of the planning by Danny, Edward (Young Jocko) who teaches and coaches at Concord, N. H., High School, and Mary, the daughter of the family, a perfect surprise was perpetrated.

On Sunday they were, by the way, to be hosts at the Red Coach Grill at a small celebration. With the three young members of the family the guests were to be Edward's wife, Dorothy, and sons Michael and Stephen, Dan Murphy of Arlington, the best man of 32 years ago, and of course the honored couple.

As they had an early start Edward suggested that they stop on the way and see an electrical installation in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall on White Street which is similar to one he is to build in his parents' home. The ruse worked.

As they entered the beautifully decorated hall, they were greeted by 100 relatives and very close friends who had gathered to offer their best wishes.

A tastefully appointed table with lovely flowers, silver candelabra with white lighted candles, and gleaming silver beckoned to the happy gathering who were soon enjoying a delicious dinner. Adorning the center of the festive table was a beautiful three-tierd anniversary cake, baked by Mrs. Ruth Peterson, niece of Mrs. Serieka.

Young Jocko Serieka acted as M.C. As this was a family party, no one needed an introduction. He did, however, ask Dan Murphy, prominent Arlington citizen and best man of 32 years ago, to take a bow. Dan's wife, Ruth Donaghey, who had acted as bridesmaid, passed away a few years ago. Her sister Mrs. Hazel Piggott, was at the head table. The M.C. read warm, hearty telegrams of congratulations from Senator and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy and State Senator and Mrs. Phil Pellegrini.

Mrs. Serieka is a prominent member of the local Democratic Town Committee.

Her family, the O'Connells, were all present with wives and husbands as were the Serieka family of Cambridge. Husband John, nicknamed Jocko in his athletic days when he was football captain at Rindge Technical High School, was a valued executive with the Beggs and Cobb Tannery Co. until it left Winchester.

Both sons were fine athletes at Winchester High. Later, young Jocko graduated from Xavier College in Cincinnati and Dan received his degree at New Hampshire State in June. Both boys were outstanding athletes at college.

The evening wound up with music by Danny Noonan, songs by nephew Charlie O'Connor of Woburn, who sang as a highlight, "Hello Mary, Hello Jocko," a parody on "Hello Dolly." The whole group sang the chorus with much gusto. Music, sociability, and dancing completed an evening that will not be soon forgotten. As a reminder, too, the happy couple received many fine gifts and a sizeable sum of money.

Reverend

The Rev. Mr. Henderson was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, and received his early education in that city. He came to Boston by way of Toronto, Canada. He is a graduate of Bowdoin College, as well as of Andover Newton.

REVEREND ALEXANDER HENDERSON

From 1920-1923 he was director of Christian Education for the United Baptist Convention of Maine and was a pioneer in training for Vacation Church Schools. He served as minister of the First Baptist Church in Fairfield, Maine 1923-1929 and then came to the Calvary Baptist Church in Lowell, where a Men's Fellowship Class featured his work there.

In 1938, Mr. Henderson became pastor of the First Baptist Church in Medford, where he served for 22 years until his retirement in 1960. He is now pastor-emeritus of the church. He led that church in a strong educational program and also to substantial missionary giving to Baptist work at home and overseas.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson is married to the former Eva Clarke of Melrose, a past president of the Massachusetts Baptist Woman's Society and the couple are the parents of seven children, including two ministers.

Swim Club

pool and a wading pool. The pool would be equipped with water circulation and purification systems, and surrounded with concrete decks and fenced for privacy and safety. A small building for bathhouse uses also is proposed.

The club plans to provide off-street parking facilities, and at a later date may decide to add tennis courts and/or other recreational facilities for its members.

If the club obtains variance permission from the Board of Appeal, and its membership quota is filled, the officers and directors have estimated club members may be able to use the proposed swimming facility by the middle of July.

The club indicated that many Winchester residents had expressed a desire for such a recreational facility, contending that swimming conditions at the local lakes had deteriorated and that other local pools were congested and offered no place where the serious swimmer could work out.

The newly elected directors and officers of the club are

President and director — Frank P. Stevens

Treasurer and director—Henry D. Twitchell, Jr.

Secretary and director—Austin Broadhurst

Directors — Sam G. Gountanis, George R. Harris, Jr., Mervin J. Shuman, Barnard E. Smith, James W. Stanley, Joseph W. Vick Roy

Brenda intends to major in math or physical science at Radcliffe College, where she has been accepted for admission. She plans a career in college teaching or as a research scientist.

She is a member of the National Honor Society, president of both the Science and French Clubs, executive board member of the Math Club, and a member of the High School Math team from 1962 to 1965. She also belongs to the Bridge Club and plays in the orchestra.

Her interests include classical music, science, math and foreign languages. And she works at them all.

In 1964, Brenda was awarded the fourth prize of $100 in the American Chemical Society high school chemistry examination. That same year she received third prize in the Edgar J. Rich "Lincoln and Lee" Essay Contest. This year she was finalist in the first annual Math Olympiad, a state-wide contest.

After school hours, Brenda has studied for 7 years at the Longy School of Music in Cambridge where she concentrated on piano, viola and music theory. She will graduate from the Longy high school music department in June.

BRENDA S. BAKER

For the past two years, Brenda has been a violist in the Greater Boston Symphony Orchestra which is composed of selected high school students from Boston and surrounding towns. She recently participated as violist in the All-State Orchestra at the University of Massachusetts.

Kathleen intends to major in applied math at Pembroke College. She plans a career as a mathematician.

She is business manager of the Matignon school newspaper, a member of the Russian and Math Clubs and the Sodality, and was a participant in the M.I.T. Junior Science and Humanities Symposium last year.

Her interests include tennis, sailing and swimming.

John intends to major in English at Harvard College. He plans a career as a writer.

John is editor-in-chief of the Belmont Hill Panel newspaper, executive editor of the Sextant literary magazine, and layout editor of the Yearbook.

He was one of twelve Massachusetts winners in a national contest sponsored by the Council of Teachers of English, and writes short stories about adolescents.

John is a member of the Cum Laude Society, on the Student Council for six years, and is secretary of his senior class.

He is a member of the Varsity basketball and tennis teams and his other sporting interests include sailing and skiing.

This tenth merit program began in March of 1964 when 807,000 students took a 3-hour qualifying test of educational development covering five areas: English usage, social studies reading, natural sciences reading, mathematics usage and word usage.

The top scorers in each state were named semifinalists in September. About 14,000 students achieved this level.

Each semifinalist took another examination, the Scholastics Aptitude Test, and filed a record of extra-curricular activities, honors, achievements, and interests. The high school record and an evaluation by the principal were also submitted.

Of the semifinalists, about 97 per cent achieved finalist rank. All Merit Scholars were selected from the finalist group.

The description of what a Merit Scholar is, according to the National Merit Scholarship Corporation: "Merit Scholars are usually products of able parents, wholesome home influences, superior schools, and effective background experiences both within and outside of formal schooling."

Anniversary Tea For St. Mary's Mothers' Club

A tenth anniversary tea will mark the closing of St. Mary's Mothers' Club activities for this year. Sunday afternoon, May 2, at 3 in St. Mary's Hall, Sister Francis Xavier, C.S.J., vocational guidance director at Fontbonne Academy, will be guest speaker.

This celebration of the Mothers' Club tenth year, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Francis X. Hurley and Mrs. Joseph F. Kane, will give all members an opportunity to participate in this happy occasion which honors the past, applauds the present and looks to the future.

Serving on the committees for the anniversary tea are the Mesdames Angus A. Beaton, Donald R. Bumiller, John W. Carey, Walter M. Crotty, John A. Dolan, James J. Dobbins, Joseph M. Donahue, William J. Gannon, Richard M. Hines, George A. Kean, William J. Kennedy, James F. Murphy, August S. Niewenhous, Timothy F. Sullivan and Francis J. Yanulis.

Pigeons

And the Board of Health echoed his sentiments by granting Ernie Cantella permission to take the town's pigeons for the Colonial Retriever Field Trial Club to keep, care for, and use in the training of retrieving dogs for use in the hunting of game birds.

We're delighted with this solution to the town's pigeon problem," Dr. Warren Taylor, chairman of the Board of Health, said last week.

And the pigeons? It's almost a typical American happiness story, only it takes place in the bird kingdom.

The formed winged scavengers of society are now being put on the welfare rolls of the Colonial Retriever Field Trial Club, where they are adequately kept and fed.

And, as in all welfare programs, few, if any, ever escape their care.

Meeting

Town Meeting Members to thoroughly familiarize themselves with all pertinent facts.

A series of informational meetings on the Secondary school building program proposals will be held throughout the town during the next two weeks; at 8 p.m. at Vinson-Owen School on May 5; Mystic School on May 6; Lynch School on May 12; and Lincoln School on May 13. On Recreation

The news announcement this week of the formation of a private club to provide a swimming facility, and maybe later tennis facilities, for a certain membership group in town is of significance to the whole community in several important respects.

First it should be said that it is commendable a group of enlightened citizens has seen the need for more recreational facilities for their families here and have taken steps to get what they feel is necessary and desirable. It should be noted that while this is not the only group of local citizens that has seen the need for more recreational facilities; it is the first (since the establishment of the Country and Boat Clubs) that has been able to approach its goal with a view to success.

While we applaud the idea and the effort, and wish the group success in attaining its necessary variance for land use, we hasten to add our concern for two areas beyond the economic and recreational aspects. First, we hope that in its social aspects the new Swim Club will lean a little more toward an "open" than a "closed" private facility and society. Secondly, we hope the new club will expectantly assume its fair share of proper taxation, and not expect to fall into the same situation of under valuation, under assessment and under taxation that prevailed at the Country and Boat Clubs for so long—and thereby resulting in a shifting of the cost of membership (only) pleasures to the general residential and business taxpaying public.

In larger scope, this little town has grown big now, and it's about time more of its responsible leaders and the public itself begin thinking seriously and in concrete ways of providing more in terms of public recreational facilities—beyond the several playgrounds, beaches and tennis courts.

What can be subscribed for successfully on a private basis for a swimming pool, possibly could be duplicated townwide on a public subscription basis, with help from institutions and/or state and federal funds, to obtain a much needed and public recreational center that could serve many community and residents' sporting, civic and activity interests.

The germ of the realization of this need is very definitely present in the town, and advocates and activists find little questioning or resistance other than the blank checkbook look. With potential sites for such a center rapidly disappearing, and with yet no planned project program; we the people of Winchester, may soon find with hindsight that we have overconservatively and even parsimoniously cheated ourselves from providing adequately for what is now and will increasingly be more a necessity of living here.

On Law And Laws

A general and proper respect for law and order, and laws designed to promote that end, tend to guarantee the preservation and protection of society.

If that statement is true, then the preservation and protection of our society are in very real danger today, and will be more so tomorrow.

A general respect for law and the order of society based on its laws is lacking in many more quarters—both specifically with individuals and collectively at large—than should be the case. This is not an idle, ideal statement; but a fact of present life and living that cannot be repressively filtered away by unthinking men shrugging their shoulders or a shying away from the naked fact with rationalizations of non-involvement.

With exploding populations, rapid scientific achievements, and liberal social advances, the "official" crime rate soars at statistically disproportionate heights. So much for the individual. Collectively the case is the same: a society that within the geometry of its social fabric breeds algebraic patterns of tolerance and even acceptance of the "quasi-right or lawful" progressively all the way to the outright illegal and immoral.

While with exploding populations the achievements of medical science and invention are many and of great benefit to man's life and health in society; a parallel contrast with the same exploding populations shows significantly lesser advances in the area of legal science and judicature in dealing with a constantly liberalizing society.

The basic disease threatening the individual citizen and society today is that often laws, legal processes, and judicial renderings are either not adequate to satisfy present day needs or else, plainly and simply, are not the equivalent of "justice." Justice in quotes because even Plato made much of trying to define it in his Republic; nevertheless, what "justice" is there in the following examples:

* To break into a man's home and steal his TV set is a crime; but in this state to break into a man's car and steal it is not a crime. What kind of a law arrangement is that? In our past history to steal a horse was more adequately dealt with and the crime was less prevalent.

* Civil law cases can wait as long as two or three years in some states before going to court. A legal system of processing its business on such a delayed basis is in many cases law denied!

* The infamous case of the NY judge's son whose motor vehicle caused the death of several persons needs little reminder, but when his father turned the case over to a close colleague who summarily let the youth go free, who can deny that rendering any kind of "justice" was lacking?

Lawyers and judges are quick to defend their legal professions by attempting to separate law and justice with the idiom: "Law is not always justice; and justice is not always law." A seemingly good defense—at least it sounds reasonable in the almost poetic structure of its logic. Maybe a poet wrote it. But what men and society are in need of is a more concerted effort to equate Law(s) and Justice, rather than separating them by a continuing lack of corrective research and action, delay, and poor example—and then "poetically" brushing aside proper and just criticism!

Lest the legal profession and its associations take undue offense, we hasten to point out that some progress has been made, and where it has it often has been beneficial to the citizen and society. But the contention here is: that it is too slow, not accurate enough, and often crimped and slanted as a result of political pressures in the legislation of laws; that it is inadequate, not strong enough, and even hinders executive enforcement of laws; and that it is sometimes overly lenient in criminal cases (thus encouraging crime indirectly) while being overly hard in some civil cases and awards (thus encouraging quantities of civil cases) in the judicating of laws.

In the recent Presidential campaign Goldwater decried the very real deteriorated condition of crime and morality in our society; and Johnson envisioned the Great Society which is in our future if we care to build it. President Johnson, as elected architect to design that Great Society, now has the opportunity to fight not only the domestic war on poverty, but should also take the lead in fighting the war on crime by buttressing and rejuvenating a legal system that—while still basically good and somewhat sufficient—is not fully what it should and could be for the citizen and society's needs today.

Possibly a good start would be with the appointment of a "blue-ribbon" Presidential commission, maybe composed of citizens outside the practicing legal profession but familiar with it for an objective look at the legal system to study its workings and make recommendations based on its merits and demerits in the legislating, executive enforcement, and juricial arenas at the federal, state and district levels. Such a commission would make a healthy beginning toward a more equitable and uniform order of law.

Respect for the Law Insures Order

Winchester Actively Promotes Minuteman Litter Revolution

By Dorothy Sundberg

Governor John A. Volpe doesn't know it yet but some people around Winchester are talking about the start of a litter Revolution.

And they have suggested calling out the minutemen.

Two weeks ago a luncheon was held in Boston to open Keep Massachusetts Beautiful Month. Fortified by the Governor's statement that utmost effort and cooperation is needed at the local level, cities and towns in the Commonwealth were asked to place special emphasis on anti-litter and roadside improvement as well as beautification.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club was one step ahead. It had already decided to propose an anti-litter symbol for the state which could be used to put a little spirit into routine clean-up campaigns, which often consist of little more than signs and sighs.

Following the meeting Mrs. Cyrus Brewer, chairman of the Garden Club Federation Roadside Improvement Committee and the Roadside Council Anti-Litter Projects said she thought it an excellent idea and will discuss it at a future meeting with club representatives.

Several suggestions for the figure were submitted by the club. Among them a Prissy Pilgrim symbols (with a broom) and the old witch of Salem with her built-in broomstick (a formidable opponent for any litterbug). But the one most favored was the old standby minuteman and the slogan "On the Alert Against Litter". One reason this was the popular choice was the fact that Patriot's Day, April 19, occurs during Keep Massachusetts Beautiful Month and the National Anti-Litter and Beautification period.

Jim Dobbins, award-winning cartoonist for the Boston Traveler and a Winchester resident, has sketched his interpretation of the symbol for this week's Star.

The question has been asked, why another symbol when we already have a litterbug? One reason is that the litterbug represents only half the litter problem - the cause not the cure.

Since 1947 the familiar figure of the four-legged creature in its prison stripe jersey has been stamping around the U.S.A. on leaflets and posters depicting a limitless variety of outdoor and indoor untidiness. Its rapid rise as a celebrity of sorts has been matched only by that of its human counterpart who has the added advantage of the horseless carriage. But there are signs it may be weakening.

A national public service organization studying the cause of littering points out that humans are basically thoughtless, and realistically, there are far more important things to occupy the mind. The value of the litterbug sign is as an instant (or constant) reminder to which most people respond. There are some however, who forget it, ignore it or get the wrong message.

It's a little disconcerting, after these years to realize that the litterbug figure has an undertone of humor which sometimes defeats its purpose. It is not thought that this has been obvious all along to most children and many adults who, although they know a litterbug is generally an effective messenger and will probably be around forever - even when space ships replace the family buggy and receptacles for travel trash are placed along the Milky Way.

But a great many Americans who are seriously concerned about the public apathy toward the appearance of their country and efforts to improve it, have decided it is time for a fresh approach. Recently little anti-litter characters began to appear in many areas to act as silent spokesmen for local clean-up campaigns.

The results have been amazing. The power of positive thinking has shown its effect in stepped-up anti-litter activities, effective publicity, more cooperative efforts and especially more spirit. The idea has been given whole-hearted approval by the chambers of commerce because a figure easily recognized is also good advertising. Daniel Broom in Kentucky and a Puritan named Tom Tidy in Rhode Island are examples of this.

Will a mascot do as much for Winchester or Massachusetts? A symbol alone isn't going to clear debris out of the ditches or soda cups out of the shrubbery, but it might inspire a few people to take a step in the right direction. If a negative personality like the litterbug can do a good job, the addition of a positive figure (like the minuteman) might do a better one.

History of Local Interments

By Marshall W. Symmes

During Colonial times people were buried in various places in this Town. The Hutchinson family had a private cemetery at the junction of Ridge Street and Arlington Road. After Winchester had a town-owned cemetery the remains were taken up and reburied. Traces of this cemetery are still visible although a house has recently been built on the site.

A man who died of smallpox was buried on the Asa Locke farm on Ridge Street just in back of the new Catholic Church which is now being erected. When this farm was sold in the early years of this century the new owner asked me if I wished to have the remains removed as he was a distant ancestor of mine. The new owner said he intended to farm the spot where the grave was located. I declined as the body had been there over a hundred years. No trace remains of the grave now.

On Arlington Street just as you go east down the hill from Ridge Street there once stood the pest house of the town of Charlestown. People who died there were buried near the road in the night with no markers. There was also the grave of an Indian at this point but all trace has gone during the last fifty years.

The Josiah Locke family had a private tomb on their farm near what is now Cox Road. This is still to be seen although it has been empty for many years. Some fifty years or more ago a policeman at the Arlington Heights carbarn saw some young men with a burlap bag. He demanded to know just what was in that bag. It was full of skulls and human bones so they were taken to the police station. They had gotten them from the Josiah Locke tomb and they were going to decorate their dormitory rooms in Cambridge with them.

The bones were returned to the Locke family but there was no way of telling which was which. They were then buried in the cemetery.

Another was the Andrews family tomb just off Emerson Road, near High Street. All bodies were removed many years ago. The land has since been sold and a house built there. The huge granite tomb is still there but it has been turned into a rock garden. It seems that some sort of clause in the deed states that it should always be available for a burial but all the family are long since dead.

Near the center of town a cemetery was located back of the Congregational Church which burned down in 1853. These bodies were taken up and reburied in the then new town cemetery. While building the various additions to the present church traces were found of this cemetery.

The southern part of the Town near Symmes Corner was then a part of Medford and people who died there were buried in the Medford cemetery. The old cemetery on Salem Street dated in the late 1600's and 1700's contained members of the Symmes and Brooks families. The present Medford cemetery also contains members of these families and also the Russells.

Winchester as a new town in 1850 decided to have a public cemetery and in August 1852 the following Cemetery Committee was appointed: John A Bolles, Charles Kimball, O. R. Clark, Aaron D. Wells, and Harrison Parker. They drew up a set of rules and regulations which are still in force.

On September 15, 1852 an auction of lots was held. Some of the best lots in the cemetery sold for $30.00. My grandfather bought one and I still hold part title to it.

During the years since the grounds have been carefully cared for and it is now one of the most beautiful cemeteries in the Boston area. The trees and hills help make it a lovely place for our departed citizens.

Some years ago one of our residents who lived on Wildwood Street started a quarry for crushed rock just north of the cemetery grounds. A spur track was built from the Horn Pond railroad which connected with the Boston and Maine railroad via the so-called ice bridge. The Horn Pond railroad was the shortest incorporated railroad in the United States.

The blasting at the quarry was a public nuisance and complaints poured into the town officers. Dust from the crushers blew all over the cemetery. Carloads of crushed rock were sent out every day by a shifter from the main line. Court action was started but had trouble as we had no zoning laws at that time.

It ended up when the owner found out he was not making money and closed up. Traces of the quarry and railroad right of way still exist. The owner of the quarry is now buried near where the dust was worst.

The town is fortunate to have such a fine cemetery and it is due to the foresight and care of our public officials and employees.

BOOK REVIEW

To celebrate National Library Week, April 25-May 1, the Notable Books of 1964 will be on display in the Boys' and Girls' Room of the Winchester Public Library. The Notable Books were selected by a committee of the American Library Association.

Also on exhibit will be book reports and book illustrations written and drawn by Winchester students in grades one to six. This year boys and girls from Vinson-Owen and Wyman Schools wrote the reviews. A sample of the reports follows:

LONG WINTER
Laura Ingalls Wilder

Do you know anyone who lives on a farm? If you don't, then you probably don't know what farmers went through in the early days of our country.

To get the hay in before a storm, the Ingalls family could not afford to hire help and Laura soon found herself trampling hay in the truck. Finally it was done and the storm came only a few days later.

The Ingalls family lived in a little shanty, but the house could not keep out the wind and snow, and soon they found themselves moving to town for the winter.

Laura and Carrie found the beginning of school coming closer. Both of them dreaded it, for they didn't know anyone else.

One day in school the sun was blocked out by fierce storm clouds.

Soon it was snowing fiercely and the wind was whirling through the cracks in the schoolhouse.

Did the children make it home safely?

LAD: A DOG

He wrote Lad: a Dog which I think was his finest lead.
I will tell you of a chapter that I liked best,
Plus I won't be mean and make you guess.
Lad treed a man on the "place,"
And what he treed I think not an ace.
He saved the same man from a bull, you see,
By grabbing the bull's nose not tenderly.
The book I read which I adored
Was very touching, I was never bored.
Another chapter which I liked a lot
Was named "Quiet," about how Lad was taught
To lay quietly at the sick mistress' door,
To be never quiet and never to roar.
Lad is dead now, I hate to say,
But he will always be in my memories anyway.

BEN AND ME
by Robert Lawson

This amusing story is about Ben Franklin's life told by his mouse, Amos. I bet you couldn't imagine some of the adventures they get into. I enjoyed the time Ben made his first lightning rod, boy! Did that give them a scare when everything went wrong. After that Amos never went near lightning rods again. There also was the time Amos met Sophie, a lady mouse, and she told him about her children being kept beneath the queen's throne. He told her he would free them the night of the ball. How could he free them? Why the night of the ball? Read the story some time and find out.

MARY POPPINS
by Pamela Travers

Mary Poppins is a delightful book written by Pamela Travers. Pamela started writing poems when she was seven. Which is very unusual.

We go to England, on Cherry TreeLane, number seventeen. This house is the smallest on the lane because Mr. Banks, the owner, said his wife could have four children and a small house, or no children and a big house. Mrs. Banks decided to have four children, Jane who is the oldest, Michael, and the twins, John and Barbara.

Mary Poppins, the main character, is a person who does queer things, but is still nice and kind She is neat and tidy, and carries everything she needs in her carpet bag. She buys things at stores that are there for a minute and gone the next.

Through the whole story Mary and the Banks children, for whom she is the governess, take part in many strange adventures. Every once in a while Mary goes off to peculiar places with the children. She transports them in a make believe way.

For example, while they were strolling in the park Mary found a compass, she said, "north" and they were in Alaska. Mary said "east" and suddenly they were in China. Then they went south. Mary then said "west" and an Indian village welcomed them. She finally said "Home" and they were back in the park.

When you read this delightful story you feel as if you are there on the spot with her. All age groups especially younger people would find this book entertaining to read because of the author's imaginative style of writing.

Beggs Developer Thanks Town For Confidence Vote OK on Apartment

Editor of the Star:

I would like to express my gratitude to the Town Meeting members and town officials who, speaking for and representing the town, voted to make the new 40-foot or three habitable story height restriction applicable only on buildings constructed after April 20, 1965. This action circumvented there being any zoning, building, or legal obstacles in the going ahead with the planned apartment house building at the Beggs and Cobb site.

Excavation work has been completed on the project, and the laying of the foundations is now in progress. Next year at this time the new housing facility for Winchester should be ready for occupancy, and I believe local residents will be as happy with the results as well as with the often remarked tax relief it will bring.

In the past year some of the opponents against the new apartment house have said the structure will detract from the town's residential character. It is my understanding that 10 years ago it was also claimed the then proposed railroad overpass in the center would detract from the town's residential character; but that hasn't proved true, rather it seems to have benefited the town. The new apartment building under construction will be tastefully modern and beautifully landscaped, and will also prove, I am confident, a great benefit to the town. It will certainly be much more in keeping with the residential character of Winchester than was either the old leather tannery formerly there or the burned-out ruin remains that stood for five years as a monumental eyesore to the town and its residents.

This new apartment building will provide modern, gracious living facilities for both present and future Winchester residents who are looking for good apartment housing. These residents will go to churches in Winchester, do their business and shop here, participate in local organizations and activities, and in many other ways add to the life and prosperity of the town.

I am now trying to find a suitable name for the apartment building, and have been receiving many suggestions from interested residents. The first proposed name I now feel would not be in keeping with the fine conservative heritages and traditions of the town, which I would like to reflect in some way in the naming of this building. I would welcome any more suggestions that Winchester residents might like to offer.

Yours sincerely,
Edward D. Berndt, Jr.

OTHER COMMUNICATIONS ON PAGE 1C

Democratic Town Committee

In answer to the many inquiries we have had about an opportunity to hear a disucession of the sales tax, there will be a meeting in Medford on May 5 at the Medford City Hall.

This will be the last of the regional meetings which are being held across the state for the purpose of hearing the arguments for and against Governor Volpe's proposed tax-raising effort.

The Medford meeting will be held for the benefit of the voters in the area surrounding that city. The newspapers will have more notices about the meeting. This matter is so vital that good citizens will feel it is necessary to get their information first-hand.

The regional meetings have been, and are, concerned only with the Volpe bill, who and what are to be taxed. Later, we will be notified by our Democratic leaders in the Legislature just what they propose in order to alleviate conditions as they exist.

The whole situation is tremendously important and one would be rash, indeed, to formulate a judgment until he has informed himself thoroughly concerning all aspects of the question.

Later, after the Medford meeting, we will have our own Committee meeting here in Winchester. At this meeting we will get the straight Democratic side and, no doubt, we will be able to have as our speaker, Senate President Maurice Donahue or House Leader Jack Davoren. Both gentlemen, we understand, have a fine respect for our local Democratic Committee.

At a later meeting we hope to have Dr. Franklin Patterson, local citizen and outstanding educator, as a guest speaker. This is a gentleman in whom we have the utmost confidence, not only in his splendid educational preparation, but also in his inherent integrity.

Our chairman thanks the many members and countless other friends for the beautiful Easter flowers, plants, fruit and cards. It was truly a deluge of affectionate kindness which she will try to repay. Latest report from her wonderful doctor — making a steady daily improvement from the relapse, and is now faithfully following orders!

Skateboards, Rabbit Ears: They Are Termed A Real Menace To Safety

Two new hazards have been added lately to tip in the wrong direction the always precarious balance between children's activities and children's safety.

They are the bicycle rabbit ears and double seats and that even more recent and dangerous craze, the skate board.

"It's only a matter of time before some child here is going to be either killed or seriously injured," said Joseph Derro, Chief of Police, when asked how he felt about the skateboards.

And relative to the new accoutrements for bicycles which seem to have an appeal especially to the very young, the Chief tells this story.

"The other day we were driving through town and, on an incline, came up behind a boy about nine who had as a passenger a still younger boy seated on one of the new extension seats. The bicycle also had rabbit ears. The combination of the extra load plus the loss of control by the novelty handlebars and the incline meant that the bike was wobbling all over the street. We actually didn't dare pass the bicycle for fear of hitting the youngsters."

What seems to have happened is that bicycles which are a legal way of transportation on the public ways, are being turned into toys.

The high, extended bars are used for "jumping" the bikes. In other words they encourage their use for play and are therefore, by simple deduction the opposite of useful, to say the least, in the effort to train children toward the safe use of bicycles in the streets.

The fact that they have great appeal especially for the little children, increases the problem. For often as not the child is on a bike just a little too large for him anyway. Make him reach way out and up higher and he loses a large percentage of his already limited manipulative control.

As for the skateboards they are, according to juvenile officers here, "a menace."

The Police Department is receiving calls almost daily with citizens complaining of their use on the streets.

The threat from them is two sided. On the one hand the child on them in the streets is in danger; on the other the motorist confronted with a youngster speeding, out of control—or even with an abandoned skateboard, whizzing riderless out across a street such as Main or Church—is endangered.

Like roller skates they can be used only on a hard-finished surface. Unlike roller skates they (with the exception of the motorized ones and there are those on the market) can be used only on an incline. How many hard surface roads are there that don't empty onto a well-travelled way in this Town? Almost none.

The skilled skateboard rider is pretty much able to control his board and swirl to a stop at the bottom of a hill somewhat like a skier. How do you become skilled? Spend a lot of time on the streets unskilled is the answer.

One youngster in the State, a 12 year old boy in Northampton, was killed on April 10 while riding a skateboard. The motorist subsequently was cleared of responsibility in the death.

Many serious injuries have so far been reported in the area due to the craze including: fractured skulls, internal injuries, broken limbs, injured backs.

In Randolph the police chief has found an old by-law controlling coasting and invoked this to preclude skateboarding.

In Lawrence, Methuen, Andover, North Andover, Holbrook, Lunenburg, Canton and Stoughton and probably by now in more towns yet, they are banned on the public streets. Some boards of selectmen have acted to enact a prohibition when no law existed which could be used against the skateboard.

"A sidewalk version of Russian Roulette" is what Richard Powers called skateboarding in the Globe this week in an article in which he reported that retail sales are heading to top $100 million by fall.

Many more mature citizens, drivers and non-drivers alike, are again asking the question—is this not just one more stop in letting the young people take over as though the community were theirs alone? And if so, what can be done about it?

Sales Tax

Mrs. Grenzeback also said that School Committeeman Charles P. Harris will testify on behalf of the School Committee at the tax hearing.

Rep. Harrison Chadwick (R-Winchester) commented yesterday on his opinion of the Governor's sales tax program, saying:

"The state budget is out of balance; the property tax on Massachusetts homes and business is the highest in the nation; essential strengthening of programs in education and mental health will be costly. Although the Governor has instituted economy measures, major new revenue is needed to meet the situation. The sales tax is by far the best and fairest source.

"Amendments to proposed Legislation can and will be made," Rep. Chadwick said, but added "The citizens of Winchester will have their most convenient opportunity to register their feelings at the public tax hearing in Medford. All should attend and express their views."

local officers explicitly direct that they "must be returned personally to the Police Department."

The point behind the unavoidable colors and directions, according to one officer, is so police can "explain" in person to offenders the error of their ways on the the public ways.

GOP Fund-Raising Drive Announced

The co-chairmen of the Winchester Republican Finance Committee, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery and George Pettersen, are scheduling the local annual Republican fund-raising drive for the month of May. This coincides with and supports the Loyalty Fund Campaign being conducted by the Massachusetts Republicn Finance Committee.

Harrison Chadwick, chairman of the Winchester Republican Town Committee, has pledged the assistance of town committee members as well as associate town committee members.

The purpose of the drive is to retire financial obligations of the Republican Party in Massachusetts as well as to form a solid financial base from which to conduct the 1966 campaign. An important portion of the funds will be used to assist Governor Volpe in presenting his program of fiscal responsibility to the Commonwealth.

Staff and Key Raises Rafters; A Fine Evening

There is a phrase, "Let the rafters ring!" and ring they did last Friday evening in Hadley Hall when the chorus of the Staff and Key Society presented an all too brief program of excerpts from their production of last year, "The Pirates of Penzance," and a sampling of "The Mikado" to be given next December.

Accompanied by Frances Cabot, who also directed, the entire chorus sang with joy, as did the soloists. Linda Milani, Mary Smith, Victor Jonas, Bob Mathews, Richard Bates and Enid Houlding. Listening to this group is an experience to be treasured; they sing with their whole hearts in it, loving the music and projecting their delight to the audience.

A monologue, written specially for the occasion, was acted by the exteremely talented Jay Sibley. This time she was a wealthy high-society matron, chairman of the local Gilbert and Sulivan Society. She is an actress without peer on the local scene, and in every one of her original characterizations she makes us believe in the person and situation being portrayed.

One of the loveliest moments of the evening was to hear Eleanor Banks singing two selections. Both were pleasing in every respect, with the moving "There is a Balm in Gilead" holding the audience enthralled.

To round off a fine program, the "Two-by-Fours" gave a selection of harmoniously varied numbers which they presented with gaiety and humor. They were followed by Jack Gilbert, who played several popular piano numbers in a rousing, exciting tempo.

Thsi community is fortunate in having people who care enough to plan and carry out musical, dramatic and artistic events. They deserve every possible support.

FAMILIAR VOICE. Gardeners have heard John D. Lyon give pointers and suggestions for outdoor work over WCRB for 15 years. After the noon news, usually 12:10 p.m., he can be heard at 1330-AM and 102.5-FM.

15th Year for John Lyon on WCRB

Lawn and garden consultant John D. Lyon marks his 15th anniversary of horticultural talks over radio station WCRB making this the oldest continuous gardening program in this region.

Lectures on lawn and garden care are given by Mr. Lyon throughout New England to garden clubs and other organized groups.

John D. Lyon, Inc., garden center in Cambridge, has had 36 years of experience in providing supplies and advice to homeowners, landscape contractors, architects and town, state and federal agencies.

Community Chest Elects Officers

In a brief address at the annual meeting of the Winchester Community Chest April 22, Philip Johnson, division manager of the North Central Division of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund, described recent policy changes and streamlining of the United Fund structure.

To an equal degree, our Community Chest has already simplified its organization and pinpointed its aims. This is our clearing house for the United Fund Drive.

After the annual meeting the following officers and directors were elected: president, E. R. Hearn; vice president, R. E. Edgar; treasurer, Mrs. P. B. Everett; asst. treasurer, C. W. Butler; clerk, R. F. Williams; publicity, Mrs. C. S. Luitwieler; United Fund chairman, J. R. Hulm and directors, Messrs. C. W. Butler, R. N. Edgar, E. R. Hearn, Mrs. P. B. Leverett, Mrs. C. S. Luitwieler.

Upon taking office, Mr. Hearn expressed himself with breadth of vision and a practical determination in outlining the scope of next year's campaign.

Nothing But The Truth

• A QUICK-WITTED politician once demolished an opponent in public debate by saying: "If you will stop telling lies about me, I'll stop telling the truth about you." We would not want the people of this community to stop telling the truth about us, however. We have discovered that more people have been directed to us by persons we have served than any other means. Please keep talking about us!

A Blood Call On 2300—Quick Results Needed

A call rings in on 2300 - "Hi, this is Peggy, can you find a driver to pick up some blood for us at the Blood Center?"

The caller is Peggy Landry at the Winchester Hospital blood bank. Another time, the same caller: "Could you get us a couple of O negative donors for an RH baby? The supply is short, and the mother will be delivering soon."

So the office force at the local Red Cross gets on the phone and soon there are two O negative donors on the way to the hospital to give a pint of their blood.

They and others like them know how important it is to have the righ type of blood on hand when it is needed. Unfortunately, only a relative few in our town are aware of this need. May we count on you when the bloodmobile comes to Winchester on May 12th?

If your health is good and you're no younger than 18 or older than 59, chances are that you can find out how simple it is to give a pint of blood.

Overheard at a recent bloodmobile, "I feel so good after giving a pint of blood!" Wouldn't you like to be able to say that?

Come on down to the First Baptist Church anytime between 1 and 7 p.m. on Wednesday, May 12th. An appointment could save you some time by calling 729-2300.

Kindergarten Registration

The registration of children, who will enter the kindergarten classes of the Winchester Public Schools next September, started this week and goes through May 5th from 9 to 11:45 a.m. as outlined below.

In order to be eligible for admission to kindergarten children must be five years old by December 31, 1965. Parents are advised to take their children's birth certificates with them when they register. Vaccination certificates must be provided by next September. The school medical officer will be in attendance during the registration periods in the event parents wish to have their children examined.

Giant Rummage Sale May 13

A much-anticipated event on the spring calendar is the Giant Rummage Sale, sponsored by the Ways and Means Committee, Women's Association, of the First Congregational Church.

This year, the sale is Thursday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Chidley Hall. Mrs. Herbert Clark and Mrs. Lawrence Beckley are co-chairmen of the sale, assisted by a large and enthusiastic committee.

Doors will open to the public promptly at 10, and there will be no selling on the night before the sale. The committee has been given many boxes of unusually lovely dresses, coats, suits and items for children, as well as choice bric-a-brac and linens. Hats right in style and lovely handbags are also being marked at bargain prices.

One department will be reserved for "deluxe" clothing—dresses etc. that are new or expensive and should go to "the right buyer." All are welcome to this sale on May 13. apr29-2t

Harry A. McGrath Makes Million $ Round Table Again

Harry A. McGrath of 16 Rangeley Ridge, Winchester's perennial member of the select life insurance Million Dollar Round Table group, was again elected this year as one of 89 Boston area men to receive the honor.

Members of the select organization must have written one million dollars of new life insurance paid for in 1964 in accordance with the rules of the organization, although Life members may have earned the honor by fulfilling previous requirements. There are three classes of membership: Qualifying, Qualifying and Life; and Life.

The 4,000-member organization, representing 240 life insurance companies with members residing in 20 nations, is dedicated to improving the ability of life insurance underwriters who serve the public.

Each year the Million Dollar Round Table holds a distinguished annual meeting packed with educational lectures, workshops, and give-and-take room-hopping sessions. Guest speakers including educators, philosophers, economists, bankers, lawyers, and accountants, add scope and significance to the meetings.

This year's meeting of The Million Dollar Round Table is scheduled for June 28 - July 1 at the Broadmoor Hotel, in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

PARISH PLAYERS PRESENT "THE FANTASTICKS." Suzanne Goldman, Woodford Wilcox, Larry Smith, Robert Mathews, and Michael Levin are shown in a gay scene from the musical comedy being given tonight and Friday and Saturday nights at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church. Tickets may be had at the door with the best choice of seats available for tonight's performance. The lively broadway hit is an adaptation from Rostand.

WHS Pops Concert Next Week

May 7 is the night to remember for the fourth annual Pops Concert to be given at the high school gym.

The program will start 8:15 p.m. with performances by the band, orchestra, girls' glee club, choir, and the double sextet. The musical organizations will perform under the direction of Wendell S. Withington.

Industrious students have gaily decorated the gym and arranged for the audience to be seated at tables. Refreshments will be served.

Don Kent To Appear Here

On Friday evening, May 14, at 7:45 p.m. Don Kent, popular staff meteorologist at WBZ, will be appearing here in town. He is to be presented by the Bethany Society of the Second Congregational Church and will be in the church in person and with a color film.

This first hand glimpse of a TV personality known to everyone in the area is to be the highlight of an evening planned to help meet the society's church pledge and to bring parishioners and friends, old and new, together.

Everyone is invited and tickets may be had in advance from Mrs. R. R. Meigs, 729-0236.

Fair Housing Sponsors City Planner May 5

The Winchester Fair Housing Association cordially invites everyone to attend its spring meeting to be held at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on May 5th at 8 p.m.

One of the most pertinent and perplexing issues facing this Commonwealth today is that of Low Cost Housing, a problem that affects all of us. The W.F.H. Association has obtained Chester Hartman, director of Special Commission for Low Income Housing for Massachusetts to speak to the citizens of Winchester on this subject.

Mr. Hartman is a professional city planner and a member of the Scout Center for Urban Studies of Harvard and M.I.T. He has done a study concerning the relocation of families displaced by Urban Renewal and at the moment is specializing in this field.

The association extends an invitation to everyone to come and hear this well-qualified speaker discuss "A New Approach to Low Cost Housing."

Special Notice

To all members and friends of Florence Crittenton, Juniors and Seniors.

Please go into Shreve Crump & Low's to vote for the Crittenton Table by May 1st. The winning table will receive a prize of $1,000.

"Roots, Branches" For Congregat'nal Women's Assoc.

The annual meeting of the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church will be held on Tuesday, May 4, at 1 p.m. in Chidley Hall. Luncheon will be served by the Mission Union Guild, with Mrs. Russell Strout and Mrs. Charles Stebbins, co-chairmen. Mrs. Dwight L. Cart will conduct the devotional and installation service.

The program, "The Women's Association—a Matter of Roots and Branches," will be presented by Mrs. Robert Whitman, a member of the church. In her talk Mrs. Whitman will explain the various boards of the United Church of Christ and how the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church of Winchester fits into the picture.

Mrs. Whitman, a native of Pennsylvania, is an alumna of Pembroke College. After graduation she was employed in Boston and has lived in this area ever since. A resident of Winchester, she is the mother of four boys.

It is hoped that all women of the church will attend this final Women's Association meeting of the season and hear this informative program. Baby-sitting will be provided at a nominal fee.

—the famous new grass
Windsor

Windsor is the amazing new grass that needs mowing less often. Fact is, you can skip every other mowing.

Windsor loves heat. Needs less water, too, so it stays green longer during drought. Add to this fact that Windsor is extra-sturdy and resists fungus disease, and you'll begin to see why so many people are wild about Windsor.

You can be wild about Windsor too—for only $4.95.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Wednesday, May 5th, is the date for both our Men's Pairs Championships for 1965, so be sure to sign up your favorite partner and prepare to go into action. Defending champs are Betty Slade and Lee Mitchell in the Women's and Clarence Woodward and Robert Haskell in the Men's. Incidentally, if you don't have a partner, we will try to pair you up at the door. Better still, call club secretary, Nancy Atkinson at 729-2903 ahead of time so she can match up the available "singles."

North - South

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger	129
Donna Redpath and Guy Mingolelli	126½
Fred Gove and Henry Morgan	126½
Nancy Atkinson and Greta Hawley	124½
Ida Finlay and Miggs Root	122
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Knox	122

East - West

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lorris	135
William Duryea and Clarence Woodward	122½
Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cade	119
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	116½
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	115½
Lena Collins and Ruth Jackson	112

Section B also played to a 110 average computed on the basis of 22 boards.

North - South

James Byrne and Jock Olmsted	140
Carlene Lauten and Robert Arthur	131
Steve Haseltine and Charles Richardson	130½
Peggy Sanderson and Richard Smith	121½
Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Symmes	117½
Mary Campbell and Lee Mitchell	117
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hills	112

East - West

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson	146½
Stephen Root and David Littleton	141
Margaret Jackson and Barbara Shea	133
Ann Galpin and Madeline Walworth	128
Everett Young and Leo Gonsalves	126
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagan	116

We are pleased to welcome Steve Haseltine back again as guest swami this week. His theme is the ever more popular, dangerous and controversial psychic bid. Take over, Steve:

So many times that psychic bid has cost us untold numbers of match points — stopping at game when a slam is cold or settling for a part score when game is a lay down. Occasionally, we get a chance to get back some of those stolen points by being right in doubling our "occasional psychic" bidding opponent and having it cost him more than he would have paid by remaining quiet—especially, when his partner was deceived more than the opponents were.

Board 16 in Section B presented such an opportunity to at least one NS pair. A small slam was bid in hearts 3 times. Once it was doubled and made 6 for 1160, another was redoubled and made 7 for 1770, the other went down 2 for minus 100. Four hearts was bid and made 6, while 3 no trump made 3 once and 4 another time. The rest were various part scores in no trump, except that 3 diamonds made 6 and 5 spades by North went down 2.

East's spade bid was psychic and even though he was vulnerable, the risk was not too great at the one level. His partner's 2 spade bid over a free response at the two level by South was the bid that made the psychic unprofitable. Down 4 doubled and vulnerable for 1100 points isn't much of a trade for a 20% small slam worth 980. Of course, North could have bid 2 no trump or three hearts—even with such a strong hand. It looked like a potential misfit—but just how vulnerable were those spades. Were they under or over the K J? The double apparently suited him and down 4 vulnerable for 1100 was the result.

South opened the C3 which North won with CQ. He cashed the CA and led the D4 that let South win with the DJ. South cashed the DA and North discarded a club. A low diamond allowed North to ruff with the S3. North led the HK and then the HA which East ruffed. East led a low club and let South hold the trick with his S7 and discarded a diamond from dummy. South led a diamond, dummy discarded the H6, North played the H9 and East ruffed with the S6. East led another C, South played the S10, dummy the SJ and North the SQ. North played the H10, East discarded a C, South followed with the J and dummy won with the Q. Dummy led a low S, North playing the S8 and East winning with the S9. The last trick went to North's SA.

I wonder if North checked his own vulnerability on the double of 2 Spades — he can count 31 points for sure before he tries a heart bid? A vulnerable small slam would be worth 1430—against that 1100 penalty. That wouldn't have been such a good trade.

For The Military Ball

Arranger Before The Garden Club

A delightful luncheon preceded the April meeting of the Winchester Garden Club at the Winchester Country Club. The hostesses were Mrs. William W. Goodhue, Miss Caroline D. Kellogg, Mrs. Harold M. Twombly, Mrs. Charles M. Vanner and Mrs. Willard S. Hudson.

After a brief business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, the program chairman, Mrs. Chandler W. Symmes, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Thacher Jenney of Lexington. Mrs. Jenney is an accredited judge of flower arranging and has herself won many blue ribbons at the New England Flower Shows, as well as many other shows. Naturally, her topic was "Flower Arranging."

Her first piece was in a ceramic bowl, using driftwood and pine, with daffodils and jack-in-the-pulpit. Next, she used a pink pottery container with forced branches of white dogwood and pink geraniums. This was followed by a black iron stove top with black painted branches and strelitzia regina leaves and a mass of red tulips.

In a white epergne with a base of southern myrtle, there were rannunculus, marguerites, daffodils, bachelor buttons and alstrumeria. In brass scales, Mrs. Jenney then made twin arrangements of statice, tulips and pansies.

As part of the decorative scheme she created a composition of gerbera, anemones and snapdragons on a five-candle candelabra.

It was an informative afternoon, thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Art Association Tells Entry Rules For Members Show

The Winchester Art Association cordially invites all its members to enter the annual Members' Show to be held at the Public Library from May 5 through the end of the month.

The following rules and regulations for the show should be kept in mind by anyone interested in entering.

Entries: members of good standing (dues paid by May 4) may submit two original works in any of the following media—paintings in any media (including water color and collage), drawings, prints and pastels.

Frames: all works must be framed. No screw eyes or wire.

Size: because of limited space and hanging facilities, pictures must not be over 40 inches in width. Miniatures should be avoided.

Labels: affix a label to the upper right hand back corner of your entries, listing name and address of artist, title of picture, and price. Indicate value even if not for sale.

Delivery: bring pictures to the Rich Room of the Library on Monday, May 3, between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. If you are unable to come; have a friend deliver your work.

Jury: Elizabeth Lobingier and King Coffin will serve as jurors. An effort will be made to hang one work by each artist. Jurors' criticism of the unaccepted work, will be attached to its back and verbal comments will be given the accepted work at the critique to be given by King Coffin, on Tuesday, May 4th, at 7:45 p.m. in the Rich Room of the Library.

Pick up of pictures: all works not hung should be called for at the meeting on May 4. Please do not leave them at the Library. Those chosen to hang throughout the remainder of May should be picked up on Tuesday, June 1st, preferably in the morning. Arrange to have someone do this if you cannot.

Mount Holyoke Club Elects

The annual spring meeting of the Winchester Mount Holyoke Club was held at Mrs. Martin Swanson's home at 47 Cambridge Street on Wednesday evening, April 21. Mrs. Russell Thompson presided after a coffee hour.

The major business of the evening was the presentation of officers for the year 1956-66. The nominating committee headed by Mrs. Swanson made the following report: president, Louise Kugler; vice president, Hazel Swanson; secretary, Bev Jones; treasurer, Nancy Cunningham; house tour, Ruth Thompson, chairman and Bev Jones, vice chairman; publicity, Betty Ellis and Mary Jean Weylman; school contacts, Betty Reynolds, chairman, and Babs Marvel and Gloria Butterfield; refreshments, Jean Miner; alumnae councillor, Jennie Lou Brackett; picnic, Gloria Butterfield and Betty Reynolds.

Members were reminded of Mount Holyoke Night at the Pops, Tuesday evening, May 18th. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. T. Bradley Rockett, 128 Ardmore Road, Needham Heights.

Plans for the annual picnic for Winchester Mount Holyoke alumnae and their husbands were announced. This will be held on Wednesday evening, June 9th at Mrs. Swanson's home. By popular acclaim, Emmons Ellis was once again chosen as the auctioneer for the affair.

After a lively discussion regarding the Fall House Tour, the meeting was adjourned.

BKTA Week

The 51st Be Kind To Animals Week, one of the oldest of the nation's many special weeks will be celebrated early in May, opening with Humane Sunday, May 2nd and continuing through May 8th. Emphasis will be on loving care of pets and thoughtful treatment of all animals.

Winchester elementary schools have for many years cooperated in this worthwhile effort to promote kindness toward all God's creatures by asking their pupils to bring unwanted old sheets and blankets to school. This material, which will be collected at the end of the week, is needed for splints and cage pads for sick and injured animals at the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital.

The committee cooperating with the schools during BKTA week consists of Mrs. Clarence Roberts, Parkhurst School; Mrs. William Cronin, George Washington School; Mrs. James Gustin, Wyman School; Mrs. Fred Cardin, Vinson-Owen; Mrs. Stanley Seaver, Noonan School and St. Mary's; Mrs. Albert Thompson, Lincoln School; Mrs. Herbert Preble, Mystic School.

Masonic Sunday At Unitarian

"A Free Man" is the sermon topic for this Sunday morning at the Unitarian Church when the guests at the service will be members of the Masonic bodies in Winchester.

Dr. Storer will be assisted in the service by Francis D. Thayer, Master of the William Parkman Lodge. Members of the DeMolay have been invited to attend. Special music has been arranged by the senior choir under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham.

A social hour will follow the service which has been planned by the hospitality committee under the direction of Mrs. Carl A. Stevens, chairman. Assisting Mrs. Stevens will be Mrs. Alan F. Howard, Mrs. Wallace D. Dexter, Mrs. George Hale Reed, Mrs. Edward W. MacCormack and Mrs. Robert E. Moffatt.

Mental Health Assoc. Elects, Defines Programs

A seventy-year old hospital volunteer telling with warmth and humor about taking her 70-year-old mental patient to see the Red Sox in Fenway Park, was a highlight of the annual meeting of the Winchester Mental Health Association held last Wednesday afternoon in the Church of the Epiphany's Hadley Hall.

A tea to honor all volunteers was part of the program and many representatives from many local organizations were there including some of the High School group, 21 of whom volunteer to give weekly time out at the Bedford VA Hospital and five at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston.

Miss Constance Trickett, president of the group and widely known as a guidance officer and former teacher at WHS chaired the meeting and added her commendation of the students' work to that of Mrs. Ruth Turner of the volunteer service department at Bedford.

She also reminded the group of the Mystic Valley MHA's annual meeting coming up the evening of May 10 at Hanscom Field and announced that the Mystic Velley Children's Center, sponsored together by all five MVMHA affiliates, has just been given accreditation by the American Association of Psychiatric Clinics for Children.

Members and guests were both enlightened and inspired when Mrs. I. R. Merriam, a volunteer at Boston State and Mrs. Doris Epstein director of the new Case Aide program being sponsored jointly by the WMHA's parent affiliate, Mystic Valley Mental Health Association and the nearby Central Middlesex MHA, told of their respective programs.

Serving as a liaison between patient and the community, the volunteer program is aimed at providing the patient with a meaningful relationship with a particular volunteer. She helps the patient make the best possible use of the hospital facilities in addition to giving guidance in gradual exposure to non-hospital situations such as the ballgame mentioned and such things as a journey to get a social security card.

Volunteers are asked to give only one morning a week but are asked to sign up for a year to insure continuity and feeling of dependability in the relationship. In every case the volunteer meets together with others and with a social worker once a week to discuss progress and exchange ideas. Hospital authorities are enthusiastic about the programs and welcome the spontaneity and enthusiastic warmth brought to the patients by the volunteers.

Any person interested in these programs or in finding out more about the services and programs of the Winchester and Mystic Valley MHA's is urged to call Mrs. Lucille McMahon, executive secretary of the MVMHA at VO 2-7082.

After the talks refreshments were served to the group by Mrs. John E. Kent and her committee. And prior to the program, the Rev. Dr. Robert Storer of the Unitarian Church, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers voted in as follows:

Miss Constance Trickett, president; Miss Lenore Rich, vice-president; Mrs. Donald K. Lewis, secretary; and Mrs. Charles DuToit, treasurer.

As committee chairman will be Mrs. Joseph P. Lynch, Jr. and the Rev. Dr. Storer as program co-chairmen; Mrs. Victor Soucek, publicity; Gerald Y. Hills, finance; Mrs. Winston F. Clark, hospitality and Mrs. Paul Walters, membership.

The nominating committee for 1965-1966 will be Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Rowland Patrick, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. Alan Simmons and Mrs. Richard Alt. And the delegates to the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association include Mrs. James Wingate, Mrs. W. Langdon Powers, and Dr. Neil H. Borden.

AFTER THE FLOWERING

Many plants which are given as gifts can be rested for a period and brought back into flower in the future.

If you are now enjoying Easter lilies you are in store for many more seasons of snow-white trumpet-shaped flowers. The bulbs 100% hardy in New England; therefor, by the time the current crop of blooms have opened and passed, the weather will have warmed enough so that the plant can be put directly outside.

Any sunny, well drained spot is a good place for the lily. All you need do is remove the plant from the pot and place the ball of dirt in a hole just deep enough so that the top of the soil is level with the ground.

If the soil is quite dense, or if the area tends to collect water, place some coarse sand in the bottom of the hole to insure good drainage—lilies are very susceptable to root rot.

The lily bulb will sprout each year, rewarding you with many beautiful flowers.

Tulips, daffodils and hyacinths are also popular plants to enjoy indoors during this season. Unfortunately, these three varieties can only be grown once for use indoors. If any of these plants are in flower now it is because they have been forced — grown faster than they normally would.

The result of this forcing is early flowering and a weakened bulb. In 99 out of 100 cases, a bulb which has been forced will never bloom again, so these plants are discarded after the flowers have withered.

Azaleas are also popular plants during this transition season. An azalea which is in flower now is a tender not-hardy-in-the-north variety. It can be brought into flower year after year, but the plant must spend the winters indoors.

These plants require a cool temperature and high humidity. Buds are formed during the summer for the following winter and spring's flowering, so the quality of summer care decides whether or not the plant will bloom six months later.

These plants are put outside in the garden during the summer. They must have semi-shade and be in a spot where air will circulate around them.

If the light intensity is too low, or if the plants are stuck away in a corner, buds will not form. Remember, though, that azaleas cannot stand too much light either, so choose the location carefully.

Another popular able-to-be-grown-again plant is the gloxinia. When all flowers have withered on this plant, slowly let the soil dry out. As soon as all foliage has dried, remove the leaves and stems and set the pot on its side in a cool dry spot.

When the soil is dry as dust, remove the bulb and shake off all loose dirt; store in a cool dry spot. Next January, plant it in African voilet soil.

Home and Garden Fetes Presidents

Spring was very much in evidence at the April 21st meeting of the Winchester Home and Garden Club at the Methodist Church. Flowers were in bloom everywhere, on hats, in the lovely corsages made by Mrs. Deran Hintlian for the special guests, and at the tea table.

The past presidents of the club were honored at a reception before the meeting. Those present were:

Mrs. William W. Goodhue, Mrs. Harold M. Twombly, Mrs. Frank J. Robinson, Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, Mrs. Edward J. McDevitt, Mrs. John Chipman, Mrs. Gerald Y. Hills, Mrs. Frederick W. Cole, and Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro. Other welcome guests were the president of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, Mrs. Edwin L. Branley, and the director of the East Middlesex District, Mrs. Wesley A. McSorley, Jr.

The one important piece of club business voted upon was approval of the board of directors' proposal to do extensive planting along the west bank of the Mill Pond from Main Street to Mt. Vernon Street This project is of such size and interest to the town that it will be treated in a separate article in the Star.

Mrs. Hollis L. Gray of Belmont lectured on "Living with Spring Flowers in the Home." She stressed the importance of choosing the correct colors in the right flowers for each setting in the home, be it formal or informal, modern or traditional. Mrs. Gray demonstrated these points by creating flower arrangements in colors which tied in with the wallpapers and drapery materials used for background. Her enthusiasm, talent and charm delighted the audience.

Eight Women Honored For Scout Service

Honored for their service to the Girl Scouts were several Winchester women at the third annual meeting of the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council held Monday at the Stratton School in Arlington.

Anne Rozelle and Judith Wells, Winchester's 1965 Roundup selectees, were among the girls who conducted the opening ceremony, and Mrs. James R. Stewart, Jr., also of Winchester and the council president, greeted the gathering.

Mrs. Charles D. Myers, personnel services, and Mrs. Harold Butters, Jr., program services, reported for the year with the officers from other towns.

Receiving service numerals in honor of their gift of time to the Scouts were Mrs. Maxwell McCreery and Mrs. Richard Hakanson for 20 years; Mrs. Arthur Gast and Mrs. Charles Hemmingsen for 15 years; Mrs. Ralph Swanson, Mrs. Herbert Uhlig, Mrs. Richard Merrow and Mrs. Paul Douglass for 10 years.

Mrs. Ralph C. Thompson was chairman of the meetings committee; assisting her from this town was Mrs. Charles D. Myers.

Japanese Scholar To Address AAUW

Mrs. Henry D. Twitchell, Jr., of 4 Hawthorne Road, vice president of the Bedford-Lexington Branch of the American Association of University Women, has announced that the annual dinner meeting of the Branch will be held Wednesday, May 5 at the Colonial Inn, Concord, at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Fumi Takano, visiting research scholar at the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study, and a graduate of Tsuda College in Tokyo and a Radcliffe M.A. will speak. A former AAUW International Fellowship holder, Mrs. Takano has been a professor of English and of American Literature at Tsuda College, as well as dean of students.

She is the author of many articles on American literature and has translated several books into Japanese, among them recently "The American" by Henry James.

Wyman Board Announces Parent Activities Soon

The board of the Wyman Parents Association entertained new Wyman mothers at a coffee on April 21. Mrs. Richard Brackett, membership chairman of the association, was hostess for the occasion.

In addition to providing an opportunity for the mothers to meet the association board members and William Warnock, Wyman principal, dates were set for several important association functions. These included: classroom visitation day for parents on April 28, at the morning session; Wyman teachers' luncheon to be held in mid-May when the board will entertain the teachers at a May basket luncheon; also the annual meeting of the Wyman Parents' Association will be held in May.

Stockwell Chairs Dartmouth at Pops

Hanover, N.H., To Boston and Back: Dial-a-Ride?

Dartmouth College students, alumni and friends in Winchester are getting acquainted with a unique new Dial-a-Ride program designed to get together automobile rides and riders bent on making the trip between the Boston area and the campus in Hanover, New Hampshire — going either way.

If you dial 482-4166 in Boston or 643-4166 in Hanover, N. H., you are in contact with the Dial-a-Ride telephone service, newly initiated to ease the transportation problems of the students. It was organized by Mrs. Daniel J. Bell of Cambridge, an officer of the Dartmouth Women's Club, Inc., and by Dartmouth College.

Dial-a-Ride consists of the two telephone answering services, which will take and relay messages from students wanting rides or riders to any point. It will also be available to anyone connected with the college.

The services will not arrange the rides, but will serve as a central clearing house for information. Once the students make their own arrangements, they are to call the service back and take their names off the list. The Hanover service will operate between 9 a.m. and 10 p.m., and the Boston service will be 24 hours a day.

Dial-a-Ride originated when Mrs. Bell, wife of a Dartmouth alumnus and mother of Robert H. Bell, class of '67, found that students were having a great deal of difficulty obtaining rides or riders for the trip between Boston and Hanover. She learned that they felt the cost of public transportation prohibited frequent trips, but that the process of connecting carless riders and riderless drivers was so haphazard that students usually ended up hitch-hiking, something that most mothers strongly opposed.

Mrs. Bell enlisted the support of the Dartmouth Women's Club (which has many members here) and the college officials, and made the necessary arrangements with the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. for the similar telephone numbers.

The service is scheduled to last through June 7 and to resume again in the fall if interest holds. If present usage is an indication, it should be here to stay. Started on a Thursday, the opening day of the current Dartmouth term, the service had a booming beginning and its sponsors were delighted with the results.

Mrs. Bell, to whose sympathetic nature many undergraduates will owe many a happy weekend, hopes that on the Boston end alumni and friends will respond when they plan a trip north, and that they will be willing to transport not only the students but also the students' dates. One presumes that on their end the students are dedicating a song or a building to her or planning a day in her honor!

AIRMAN PAUL T. NELSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Nelson of 245 Pond Street, has completed Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Texas. Airman Nelson has been selected for technical training as a communications-electronics specialist at the Air Training Command (ATC) school at Kessler AFB, Mississippi. He is 1962 graduate of Winchester High School.

TRANSPORTATION to a hospital or clinic by a friendly Red Cross driver—

RAPID COMMUNICATION to a son or husband in the service through the efforts of a local volunteer working with the Red Cross Field Director at a military installation—

PLEASURE in filling a Friendship box to be sent to a boy or girl in a disaster area — or making holiday favors for the enjoyment of veterans at the Bedford V. A. Hospital—

These are some of the things that Red Cross can mean to you. Why not find out from your local Red Cross how you can help and be helped. Visit your Red Cross Chapter at 84 Washington Street, between the Public Library and the Town Hall.

Colleges Scheduled For Meeting May 4

As a means of encouraging thoughtful selection toward college choice, Winchester High School juniors and their parents are cordially invited to attend a regional College Information Night.

This program is being sponsored by the following schools: Burlington, Malden, Melrose, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, and Winchester, on May 4, 7 p.m. at Wakefield High School and the following colleges have agreed to talk with students and parents:

Albertus Magnus, Conn.; Antioch College, Ohio; Bates College, Maine; Beaver College, Pennsylvania; Colby College, Maine; Colby Junior College, New Hampshire; C. W. Post College, New York; Denver University, Colorado; Drew University, New Jersey; Fairleigh Dickinson, New Jersey; Hartford University, Connecticut; Marietta College, Ohio; Massachusetts Community College; Monmouth College, Illinois; Nasson College, Maine; Norwich University, Vermont; Quinnipiac College, Connecticut; St. Anselm's College, New Hampshire; St. Michael's College, Vermont; Syracuse University, New York.

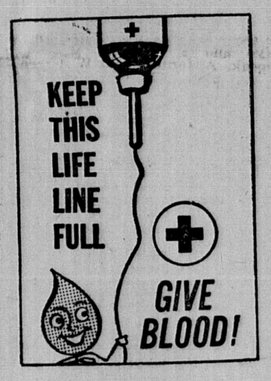
Have you ever flipped through the pages of an IDEALS book? You will enjoy it. These books are beautifully bound, hard or soft covers — for the young and adults. Give one for a birthday or as a delightful gift for a shut-in. At the Winchester Star.



Wednesday, May 12th at the First Baptist Church from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m.

En Ka Directors Prepare For Street Fair

GAY, SUNNY SYMBOL OF CHARITY EVENT that's all fun and fun for all, the valiantly flamboyant sunflower seems very much among the 1965 directors of the En Ka Street Fair, slated for May 21 and 22. Wearing sunflower yellow shifts, hand-painted by Mrs. Richard Brackett, are Mrs. Milne Blanchard, Mrs. Earle Spencer, Mrs. Russell Strout, Mrs. Fred Cardin, Mrs. Donald Birchall, chairman of this year's Sunflower Fair, Mrs. Bradford Bentley, president of En Ka, Mrs. James Kimball, Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee; and seated, Mrs. David Choate, Jr., Mrs. Alfred Pywell, Mrs. Edward Little.

George Trickett Chairs Annual Prot. Communion

George A. Trickett of 61 Lorena Road, vice president of the Episcopal Churchmen in Massachusetts, is general chairman of this year's 15th annual Greater Boston Laymen's Communion Breakfast, to be held Sunday, May 9, at the new Prudential Center.

Among the 5000 men expected to attend services of Holy Communion in seven Copley Square churches and then march to the Memorial Auditorium for breakfast and speaking programs are delegations from most of Winchester's Protestant churches, according to Mr. Trickett.

Arrangements are being made now by the separate churches. Any interested person can contact his church or Mr. Trickett himself at PA 9-3920.

Services are scheduled to commence at 7 a.m. in the square's churches. The procession to the auditorium which follows will be led by three bands.

This year's program is in charge of the Episcopalians, but Mr. Trickett chairs a 25-man executive committee with representation from all Protestant denominations under which many working committees also are functioning.

Announced to be the main speaker at the breakfast is Prime F. Osborn of Jacksonville, Florida, a member of the National Council of the Episcopal Church and general counsel of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. Mr. Osborn is a former assistant attorney general in Alabama and a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army. He was formerly chairman of laymen's work in the diocese of Alabama.

The first communion breakfast celebrated together by the Protestants of the area was held in the old Mechanics Hall; but subsequently they have had to go to the Arena, which has accommodated only 2,500. Mr. Trickett reports great enthusiasm this year and a general interest in trying Boston's newest, highly publicized auditorium.

Ralph Muehlig In the News

Ralph J. Muehlig, a native and long-time resident here and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Muehlig, who lived here many years, was recently interviewed in New Brunswick, New Jersey, for a "Personality in the News" column.

Mr. Muehlig, industrial relations manager of the Westinghouse plant in the New Brunswick area, had just ended a term as president of the United Fund and taken on another as president of the New Brunswick Raritan Valley Chamber of Commerce. In the story he was expressing his belief that business holds an obligation to its community to make it a better place to live.

Mr. Muehlig was born 38 years ago and was educated in town. He saw World War II service on the destroyer USS J. P. Kennedy, Jr., serving with the now Senator Robert Kennedy. Muehlig was radioman, Kennedy radarman. Following the war he went to Dartmouth and subsequently was an industrial engineer with Pequot Mills in Salem.

Next Mr. Muehlig served as an investigator with the federal government and for the United Nations. He joind the Westinghouse staff in 1953.

Historical Soc. Presents Thoreau

Roland W. Robbins, a popular historian and archaeologist who is no strager to Winchester, will be the featured speaker here on Saturday afternoon, May 1, at 2:30 p.m., when he talks on "Thoreau, the Concord Traveler" before the annual meeting of the Winchester Historical Society in the Rich Room of the library.

Arthur R. Keehn, president of the group, cordially invites the public to attend.

Mr. Robbins will tell the dramatic story of his discovery of Thoreau's Walden house site and recall some of the strange coincidences that accompanied this work. He is president of the National Thoreau Society.

Mr. Robbins for many years during the depression years had a successful house painting and window cleaning business. He has lectured in Winchester on a number of occasions for various organizations.

He has been a professional historian and archaeologist for 20 years and is responsible for the discovery and the restoration of many American landmarks in this area and across the country.

Letters To The Editor

Only signed letters to the editor of the Star will be considered for publication in these columns. Letters should be brief.

Merchant Affirms High Business Tax Assessment vs. Low CC Rate

Editor of the Star:

At the onset I would like to take this opportunity to salute the editor for his work and effort in exposing the situation regarding the tax status of the valuable land occupied by the Country Club.

I write this letter both as a taxpayer and businessman, and can note the extreme discrepancy between the ridiculously low assessment placed on the Country Club as opposed to the figure placed on the land which I occupy.

I certainly do not feel that the Country Club should be run at the expense of all the members of the community in which it is located; rather, it should be run at the expense of its members.

With our ever-increasing tax rate it would seem not only necessary, but mandatory that there be no such tax havens allowed to exist for a small minority.

Yours truly,
A Local Merchant

Critic Answers Red Cross Note On Some Policies

Editor of the Star:

If anyone would re-read my letter in the April 15th issue of the Winchester Star, and that one of Mr. Hoffman's in the preceding issue, he would find no criticism whatever of the local Red Cross Chapter.

We both wrote that it is an excellent organization. My criticism is of the personnel in the Red Cross Swimming Program. I do not find fault with the program. In fact, I am proud of it because my niece, Helen J. Carroll, now Mrs. Bertram Pratt of Cohasset, was an early pioneer in this Red Cross Swimming Activity in Winchester and was chief swimming instructor for several years.

As for the Red Cross "footing the bills," that is not so. Without public contributions the Red Cross could not exist; therefore it is formed by people for people. Consequently, their activities become public interest.

Mr. Sexton has said that the Red Cross will always be pleased to accept constructive criticism, but the method of hiring instructors presently used by Mr. Shinney are the direct opposite to the spirit of Mr. Sexton's remarks. Certainly Mr. Shinney is a volunteer worker. So were all his predecessors; but no other allowed personal gain to cloud good judgment!

Instead of making known the fact that the water-safety instructors' positions were open when Mrs. Noreen Johnson Connell resigned, so as to choose the best applicants, Mr. Shinney advanced one instructor and hired his own daughter (who had limited experience) to be assistant, absolutely ignoring far more qualified applicants whom he knew were interested, yet whom he kept in the dark about the vacancy of said positions.

Most of these applicants were older, more experienced and also were graduates of the Red Cross Aquatic School in South Hanson, Mass., and also are certified Red Cross Swimming Instructors. Furthermore, one of these also graduated from the Red Cross Small Craft School in Sharon, Mass. The number of worthy applicants is constantly growing because of the popularity of the Aquatic Schools.

The Red Cross should have the final word over whom is hired as water-safety instructor — that is not the problem—the problem is that the selections made by Mr. Shinney have not been in the public's interest and is presently benefiting two families. This degeneration of a fine program is what many townsfolk are now criticizing for I have had several phone calls of commendation on my first letter on this subject.

Mr. Sexton has honestly shown how valuable the swimming program can be but under the present leadership, fair competition is barred.

Sincerely yours,
Vincent G. Carroll

Medical Writer Needs Cold Cure

Editor of the Star:

I am a medical writer with a strong interest in the common cold. Probably no other ailment has as many "cures," and right now I am making a collection for a book. You may wish to run this in the letters column, with the thought that your readers might have some interesting treatments that have been handed down, which they will be willing to share with me.

The American Medical Association says that the best way to treat a cold is to stay home in bed, drink fluids, gargle for a sore throat and take aspirin for the discomfort.

This may be fine for most people, but I heard about a treatment that consists of taking two aspirin tablets and a carbonated drink..... though I have no idea what the drink is supposed to do. Another I picked up calls for a large dose of castor oil and lots of fruit juices. Well, to each his own.

A tribe of Indians in the West uses a tea made from a root called chutepate, which they say clears up a cold in fast order.

I would like to have a large response from your readers.

Sincerely,
Wayne Pennington

Shake His Paw... Brother!

Editor of the Star:

I have followed with interest your coverage and the letters you have received about the proposed law which would require dog owners to keep their animals on leashes.

I am dismayed because this is the kind of community problem that sets neighbor against neighbor and turns warm friends into cool acquaintances. Being somewhat new in town and wanting as many friends as possible, I have no intention to take sides.

Dog lovers or owners (the two are usually synonymous) call attention to the "Lassie image" and the unfairness of keeping nice, friendly pooches in the virtual imprisonment of the family backyard. On the other side are those who are concerned about burned lawns, overturned garbage cans and safety. Particularly the safety of children.

There is merit to both points of view.

However, I think the burden falls on the dog owner. All opinions are trivial when a child's safety becomes a factor. Indeed, it appears that the opponents to the proposed law must, in good conscience and as good citizens, come up with an alternative to the proposition.

Of course it won't be easy. It'll take some good thinking. As a start, it will mean diverting thoughts and energies away from a negative viewpoint to a positive solution assuring the well-being of the close society in which they must live.

This, I think, is the challenge. If it is not met and the proposition not passed, it would be a hollow victory. It would mean that each dog lover would have to underwrite a future that could involve a calamity regardless of whether he's personally involved or not.

And to those who say they don't care, I can only say that when you see an angry, unfriendly and dangerous creature—shake his paw, brother!

Racial Imbalance Here and There

Editor of the Star:

Gov. Volpe has made known his intention to correct racial imbalance in our public schools, most notoriously perpetuated by the Boston School Committee. The Boston NAACP cites evidence from several studies proving that segregation inherently means inferiority in teaching and in social adjustments of children.

Why, then, do Dr. Alt and the rest of our School Committee fail to initiate action in this urgent matter? If segregation stunts one group, others outside but adjacent to urban school areas are being deprived of the experience of cultural assimilation essential to the Great Society. Even token busing with students in any nearby deprived neighborhood would help break down what Dr. Martin Luther King last week called our "provincial, chauvinistic situation."

Surely Winchester, home of the Commonwealth's chief executive, can and should set an example of educational cooperation that would strengthen the case for state aid to schools.

If, as some say, the problem is one of jobs and modest-income housing, activists for more local apartments construction could do some real Domestic Peace Corps work by redefining goals with the Planning Board under Mr. Gray or with local realtors to achieve a new housing balance.

So far the only town agency to identify with the spirit of change is the public library, through its connections with the Fair Housing Association. Chairman Dolan of the board of trustees has lent his weight to the cause by presiding at its meeting. Citizens interested in the drive for equality may contact the librarian's secretary, Mrs. George Beal.

Certainly Winchester's clergy, resident university faculty and Defense Dept. contractors from Rte. 128 should bear down as hard in town as on the state or national level. Otherwise these public figures are open to a charge insincerity.

Sincerely,
D. E. Rush

Fair Housing Assn. Welcomes Meeting Guests

Editor of the Star:

The Winchester Fair Housing Association was organized in 1962 to help members of minority groups find housing in Winchester and to promote in the town acceptance of minority groups and appreciation of the individual merits of all newcomers.

The Association invites interested townspeople to its annual meeting on Wednesday, May 5, at 8 p.m., at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, at which Chester Hartman will speak on "A New Approach to Low Cost Housing." It also invites those who would like to declare their interest in welcoming members of minority groups to Winchester to join the Association.

Sincerely,

Les Troubadours

Editor of the Star:

May I, through the Star, thank "Les Troubadours," Winchester High School's French singing group for their very fine performance at the Anniversary Tea of the Guild of the Infant Saviour. These talented and well-mannered teenagers are a credit not only to their leaders, French Club Adviser, Mr. Patrick Moreno and Musical Director Mrs. Eleanor A. Thistlewaite, but also to their school. Taking part in this unique program were Mary Mouradian, Mary Power, Jean Henry, Carolyn Root, Sally Worthen, Anne Rozelle, Karen Trump, David Choate, Scott Cunningham, Edwin Cushman, Tom Erskine, Louis Briasco, Jack Maloney, Alan Eugley and Bruce Cardin.

Merci beaucoup "Les Troubadours."

Sincerely,
Eileen B. Johnson

Holy Name Social Features Top Band

St. Mary's Holy Name Society is having a dance on Saturday evening, May 15, at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Each year it is the custom of the society to hold a social function before the close of the meetings for the summer. This time the officers decided on a dance and buffet supper to bring all the members of the society and their wives together for a well planned evening of dancing and entertainment by that well known Greater Boston trio, "Two Scotches and a Rye."

Two years ago we had the privilege of having this trio appear in Winchester and have received many requests to bring them back to display their musical talents. These three lads go from table to table singing requests and playing dance music such as a "waltz" or the new fangled twist called the "Freddie."

Whatever type of dance you would like or song to be sung it is certain this trio will provide the music for you. So, come on down to the K. of C. hall on Saturday evening, May 15th, dancing from 8 to 12 p.m. A buffet supper will be served by the members at 11 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door if you haven't received any in the mail.

The Winchester Chapter No. 175 O.E.S. announces its next meeting to be held May 3, at 7:45 p.m.

After the meeting there will be a film "The Beauties of Italy," by Mr. Kirsten of Kirsten's Travel Agency. Refreshments will follow.

On May 5th there will be a morning coffee at the home of Betty Sullivan, 19 Ridgefield Road at 10 a.m.

On May 19th there is a morning coffe at the home of Madora Deroo, 2 Dana Avenue at 10 a.m.

McCall Parents Back in The Classrooms May 4

Next Tuesday, May 4th, at 7:45 p.m., parents of McCall Junior High School students will have an opportunity to hear presentations and discussions of basic subject matter and the continuity of instruction planned for a particular subject through the course of junior high school years.

These discussions are scheduled for the evening to allow both mother and father to attend, affording coverage of two different subjects or dual coverage of one subject particularly vital to their child.

The five subject discussions will be conducted simultaneously, following the annual meeting and will afford broad coverage of the junior high curriculum. Parents will select one (or two) and go to the classroom assigned to the selected subject. The five teachers, and the subject which each will discuss are:

Social studies will be the subject for John Parker in Room 102.

Mathematics will be in Room 106, with Miss Mary Mirka.

English in Room 202, will be discussed by Mrs. Marie Dugan.

Science is scheduled with John Limongiello in Room 101.

French (German) is in Room 207 with Miss Charlotte LeClaire.

This series of discussions will provide parents with much deeper insight into the whole course and the structure of presentation during junior high school years than is possible in the open house representative class sessions.

Here is the opportunity for parents to see what changes have taken place since they went to school and to gain a much better and broader understanding of the courses which their children are taking. Discuss the five possibilities with your child now and make your selection.

Spring Smiles Break Thru For High School Seniors

Smiles are in evidence at the high school guidance office.

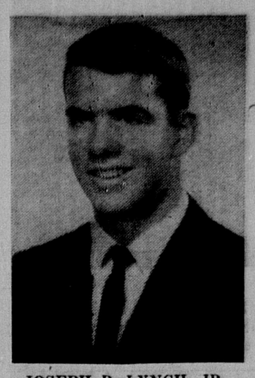
It's been a long pull since September for WHS teachers, seniors, and guidance personnel. Faced with rising numbers in college applications and dramatically increased competition, all high schools have been worried about the chances of college admission for this year's graduates.

This year looks good for Winchester. Not all colleges have sent word to the high school, but at this time, the following colleges and universities have accepted Winchester seniors for admission next fall:

Adelphi, Bowdoin, Boston College, Boston University, Brown, Bucknell, Colby, Connecticut College for Women, Cornell, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Elmira, Georgetown, Goucher, George Washington, Hamline, Harvard, Hollins, Hood, Jackson, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Lake Forest, Lehigh, Marietta, Merrimack, Marquette, McGill, Middlebury, Mount Holyoke, New Rochelle, Northeastern, Northwestern.

Also Penn State, Princeton, Purdue, Radcliffe, Rensselaer, Regis, Ripon Rochester, Simmons, Skidmore, Smith, Swarthmore, Stanford, Springfield, Sweetbriar, St. Michael's Syracuse, Washington, University of St. Louis, Wells, Wellesley, Wheaton, Wilson, University of Massachusetts, University of New Hampshire, University of Maine, University of Michigan, University of Virginia, and Yale.

Despite the clamor at college gates, Winchester is not only keeping up numbers of admitted candidates to some of the highly competitive colleges, but is actually surpassing former figures, in some cases. Six students were admitted to Harvard this year, five to Yale, five to Wheaton, four to Brown, to name a few. Two students applied to Princeton; two were admitted. The same 1000 batting average was true of Johns Hopkins, Purdue, and Hood.



JOSEPH P. LYNCH, JR.

Student Council President, Winner of Harvard National Scholarship

Successful college admission, experts agree, stems from good training and preparation at the high school, good counseling by guidance officers and teachers, and good, hard work by the students. Kudos might also go to those WHS alumni who, having done well at their colleges, have helped to keep the gates open to Winchester students seeking to follow them.

May 1st Opening Day For Winchester Little League

Suddenly it's spring and the magic date is Saturday, May 1, when Little League Inc. of Winchester sets sail for the 1965 baseball season. A day has been planned that will be brimming with activity for the spectators as well as the ball players.

President Al LaPointe, with his vice presidents, Ray Chase, American League boss and Charles Buchanan, head man of the National League, has come up with a new idea in opening ceremonies. In the past there have been two celebrations and the president had to choose between them. But this year the officials came up with a single spot which is to take place at Ginn Field at 10 a.m.

Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr. of the First Baptist Church, has been invited to offer the invocation which will start the day's festivities. After the opening prayer, the boys will salute the flag from their positions on the field.

A short welcoming address will then will be delivered by President LaPointe together with his congratulations to each team member. Mrs. Rosemary C. Dolan, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, has been asked to offer her words of welcome on behalf of the mothers' group.

It was decided that no official league game would be played during these morning ceremonies but an exhibition game has been scheduled bewteen the Yankees of the National League and the Reds of the American League.

An older Little League, former president of the program, Edmund Williams, will try out his side-arm curve to toss out the first ball. As a member of the Winchester Park Department, Ed will officially represent that group for the affair. The timetable calls for Ed's big moment to arrive at 10:30 a.m. and the exhibition game will get under way at that time.

This will be a chance for the two managers to get a good look at their charges under actual playing conditions. The Yankee's freshman manager, Dave Deshler, is planning to make good use of the exhibition game toward formulating his strategy for the coming campaign. Joe Julian, manager of the Reds, is crossing his fingers hoping to come up with another pitcher as he intends to try some of his new mound aspirants in this game.

Actual league play begins in the afternoon. A doubleheader is on tap at both fields so that all of the major league teams can be observed in action. At Ginn Field the Red Sox will attempt to slide by the Dodgers in the 1:30 p.m. game, while the Braves hope to scalp the Twins in the 3:30 contest.

At West Side Field the 1:30 p.m. game will see the Mets chopping at the Pirates and the 3:30 fracas pits the Athletics against the Cardinals. There is nothing for the spectators to do but pick themselves a winner and sit back with a knowing smile.

All sixteen minor league teams will be in action on May 1. The first contests will be played at 1:30 p.m. with games slated at both minor league diamonds at Ginn and with two games utilizing the minor league and one major league diamond at West Side. These four games will take care of eight teams and the remaining eight outfits will clash at the same four diamonds at 3:30 p.m.

That ought to be just about enough baseball to suit all tastes. President LaPointe has set the stage and now all that he needs is a large audience. Ray Chase extends an invitation on behalf of the American League and Bucky Buchanan is welcoming the National League followers to Opening Day.

"Ginn Field is large enough to accommodate everybody," was the comment from the official trio, "and we hope that it will be filled to the edges of the field. Let's make this the biggest Opening Day ever."

24 HOUR TOWING

Tracksters Swamp Belmont, 96-34; Bow To Reading, 70-60

Last week the Sachem track team split two meets. They opened the season with a very impressive victory over Belmont, the team which cost the Sachems the track title in an upset in the final meet of the winter. In the rain Saturday a key injury to Sachem hurdler Tibor Saddler cost them the meet. Tibor had to sit out the meet when he pulled a muscle in his leg warming up for the broad jump.

In the season's opener the powerful team out for revenge for that winter loss had no pity for the team from Belmont as they swept 12 out of 15 first places. Tibor Saddler won the high and low hurdles and the broad jump to account for three first places. Stafford set a school record when he jumped 5 feet 11 and ¾ inches just missing the 6 foot mark, which would have made him the first in the school's history to crack the six foot mark. All in all the Sachems placed many one, two, three in a few of the events.

It was a drizzling rain that fell over Manchester Field Saturday morning when the Sachems gunned for victory number two. The baseball game with Lexington had already been cancelled but they decided to go on with the track meet. After the meet was over the Sachems found themselves on the short end of a 70-60 score.

There were a number of reasons why they lost but most noticeable was the absence of Tibor Saddler. A usual performance by Tibor would have given the Sachems the victory, but he was out with an injury and the Rockets from Reading took full advantage of his absence in the high and low hurdles and broad jump and pulled up enough points to win.

Coach Battino was quick to point out that Reading will have a tough enough time the rest of the season and that the Sachems even with that early loss are not out of the running yet. Not by a long shot. He was also pleased by the performance of the youngest of the three Fahey brothers, Dick, who won the two mile. He is only a sophomore and could be one of the great ones. The summaries:

The meet against Belmont April 20:

He enlisted in the Marine Air Reserve and will spend six months on active duty before being assigned to a reserve squadron here. Bill is a graduate of the high school and was employed by Swift & Co. in Somerville before enlisting in the Marine Corps.

Cap League Opens May 8

The Cap League will star its sixth season on Saturday, May 8th, at Ginn Field at 1:30.

This league was founded six years ago by Bob Wild and others interested in informal baseball. There are no try-outs required and every boy plays ball. Any boy between the ages of eight and twelve, not associated with a major or minor Little League team is welcome.

In the past many parents have turned out to assist with these games. This year we hope a large number of dads will come again with their boys to give their help.

Whether or not you have ever played baseball come to Ginn Field and have a good time. There will also be a game on Sunday, May 9th, at 1:30 at the West Side Field.

John Peckham of Church Street, helped the Yankton College nine open their home season in Yankton, South Dakota, April 20. They took Northwestern 15 to 1 and 4 to 3 in a doubleheader and John opened the day by pitching six flawless innings during which he allowed only one run and that one unearned.

Sachems Lose To Belmont, 5-1; Lexington, 4-2

Last Wednesday the Sachems opened the 1965 baseball season with a 5-1 loss at Belmont.

The regular season home opener for the Sachems was scheduled for Friday afternoon but the rain forced it ahead a day. When Saturday came there was no sign of relief in sight so the game was put off until Monday afternoon. When Monday afternoon came the rain also came and once more Coach Colella had to postpone it until Tuesday afternoon.

The game was finally played Tuesday afternoon but as you can guess the rain fell during the entire game. When the game had ended the Sachems were on the short end of a 4-2 score. This was certainly a frustrating experience for the boys.

Getting back to the game at Belmont Wednesday afternoon, the Sachems lacked the big clutch hit at the right time which would have broken the game wide open. The thing that has been plaguing the Sachem nine over the last few years has been errors and once again the game was decided on this. Four of the five Belmont runs were unearned.

Marty Hill opened the game for the Sachems on the mound and he was the victim of some shaky support. Hill was reached for four runs and three of them were unearned. Sophomore Brian Collins came in to pitch in the fourth and pitched fine baseball. He retired the side in order in the fourth. The only run Belmont got off him was an unearned run in the sixth. The only scoring the Sachems could muster was one run in the seventh. Joe Lynch tripled to right with one out. Belmont pitcher Joe Restursia pitched himself out of trouble when he got Schlener and Sullivan to ground out, Lynch scoring on the ground-out.

Tuesday afternoon the Sachems dropped a 4-2 decision to Lexington. The game was played in a steady rain. It was delayed for more than three quarters of an hour because the Minutemen had trouble with their bus. It appeared for a time that Lexington didn't even know there was a game. Sophomore Brian Collins pitched a great game and if it wasn't for that fluke home-run that Besecker hit for the Minutemen he could have been on the winning side. Besecker hit a wicked line shot that took a bounce past Joe Monteresi, rolled out on to the parking lot and ended up as a two run homer. Collins scattered seven hits and pitched himself a whale of a ball game.

The Sachems are going with the sophomores and juniors more and more. First baseman Schlener, although only a sophomore, collected two hits Tuesday to lead the Sachems attack. Chase has looked good at third, Joe Monteresi is a big boy and can wield a hot bat playing right field. Coach Colella is quick to point out that this is a young team and they can do nothing but improve.

One quick note, J.V. Coach Macey Rosenthal was very pleased with the showing of Kevin Barry who pitched a tremendous game last week at Belmont. Barry pitched the entire game and gave up only one run in seven innings of pitching. One problem the team had was that they left 14 runners on base. With so much young talent on both squads they will improve with every game. The summaries:

Mixer for Teens Tomorrow Night At Legion Hall

A reminder that the first Teen Dance, A. Mixer, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, will be held this Friday evening, April 30, from 8 till 11 p.m.

Warren Wilson's Band, "The Squires" will be playing all of the latest recordings for dancing pleasure. There will be a door prize and other surprises during the evening. Coke will be on sale for the thirsty. Dress is jacket and tie for the boys, and skirts, blouses or dresses for the girls.

We're hoping all young people will be at the Legion Hall on Vine Street tomorrow night, because we're sure they will have a marvelous time. No, you don't have to be in couples, yes, you can come stag. Tickets will be sold at the door at a very low cost, just to cover the expense of the band.

Come on down, and let's do the Freddie!

DYNAMITE DUO HEADED FOR HARVARD?

Good news is in store for Sachem hockey fans. George Murphy and Barry Johnson, teammates two years ago at Winchester High, may again join forces in college. Both are expected to enroll at Harvard next fall. This information was received from a reliable source.

George all along set his sights on an Ivy League college, Barry on a few Ivy League schools and a few colleges in this area. Sachem alumni have always been well represented at Harvard. Paul Del Rossi and George Neville made it in baseball; Billy Lamarche was a standout in hockey a few years ago. Many more were outstanding in sports there.

This is a break for fans in this area. Cambridge is only a few miles away from us, and many will follow the progress of these two closely. There is the possibility of another Sachem joining them, which would make it a banner year in hockey if this happens.

The Massachusetts State Coaches' Association will hold its annual meeting at Bridgewater State College in a few weeks. High school coaches representing all sports will be there, with speakers featuring the meeting. Heading the long list of distinguished speakers will be Sachem track and gymnastics coach Isidore Battino, who is chairman of the gymnastics committee. Last year's officers were I. Battino, president, Winchester; Joe Schwerk, vice president, Braintree; and Dave Webster, secretary-treasurer, Milton. Annual elections will be held. Coach Battino has been president for the past three years.

Henry K. Knowlton, director of athletics for the school here, returns this morning from Washington, D. C., where he has since Monday been attending the national conference of State High School Coaches Association, an invitational affair. Henny has also been president of the Mass. Coaches' Association and has held many other organizational jobs in the area.

Sports fans around here will have the opportunity of viewing an international football game at Dilboy Stadium, Somerville, on Sunday, May 2.

The visiting Irish International football champs from Dublin, Ireland, will play Boston's league-leading Galway team. The airlines team includes many of Ireland's outstanding football stars, but the fit, well-trained Boston selection is expected to hold this fine team of Irish athletes. The program for this gala field day includes a senior hurling game between Young Irelands Club of Somerville and Fr. Tom Burke's Club of Dorchester, a junior football NE league game.

When Lord Mayor, a four-year-old colt owned by Alfred Thomas, president of the New England Standardbred Owners Association, won a 2:06 mile at Rockingham Park last Wednesday night, it was his seventh straight. He had an impressive 2:04 mile just a week before to tie the record.

Two Rock horses had previously held the record, but Lord Mayor became the first to make it seven in a row at any one given meeting. He is trained and driven by Bobby Stiles, Jr., the former Ohio reinsman.

The weather hasn't been too cooperative for Suffolk Downs over the last two weeks, but last Saturday afternoon before 25,000 fans the six-furlong-dash record of 1:09 1/5 was tied when Macedonia breezed to an easy three-length victory in the co-featured event. On opening day Macedonia lost badly in the mud, but when the fast track appeared Saturday the fans were rewarded with a record performance.

S. O. I. News

The joint installation of officers of the Men and Women's Lodges will be held this coming Sunday evening, May 2nd, and will start at 6:30 p.m.

A choral group called the Troubadours will provide some musical entertainment before the start of the formal ceremonies. Our own degree team will install the officers with their usual most impressive performance. If you have not as yet had the chance to see these fellows working as a team, this is a must affair for you to attend. The installation committee who have been working to set up this affair urges all officers to be installed to be present at this installation. At the conclusion of the formal part of the evening the installation committee will serve refreshments, which will then be followed by dancing to the music of our good brother John Gambino and his Blue Chips.

Our next monthly meeting will take place this coming Monday, May 3rd, and will start at 8 p.m. This will be the first meeting of which Arthur Dunbar will hold that gavel as our new Venerable.

As in the past years it has been an unwritten law that the new venerable's first meeting is full of surprises and unexpected incidents to try out his patience and just to see how much he can take. Before the meeting is over we all set the joking aside to assure the Venerable that he will have our support to make his term of office as successful as the ones before him. Let's all try to get down to this meeting to give Art our support and send him off into his term with a big bang.

The golf committee under the chairmanship of Al Fiorilli have started their league playing golf this past Sunday, April 25th. This is the fourth year for this sport in our lodge, and it is gaining support each year. This past Sunday which was a bit cool but a nice sunny day, was in all a great day for the 35 members who were out on the greens to start the league on its season, full of surprises and golf champs. The golf members play every Sunday morning, and if there are any members who would like to have their names placed on the list as spares, please contact any member of the golf committee.

Our Social Night for this month will be held tomorrow night, April 30th. Why not plan to come on down and spend an enjoyable evening among your friends, and leave your problems behind.

Congratulations to Angelo (Muskie) Tofuri who at the annual men's bowling banquet held this past Saturday, April 24th, was awarded the Sportsmanship Trophy. This award is given out each year to the man that the bowlers themselves vote as the one best deserving its merits.

BOWLING

Aunts,' Uncles', Nieces', and Nephews' League

As the fourth week of bowling comes to a close, spares and strikes were still plentiful. Niece Terry Paonessa has been doing very well, her average went up two points. Aunt Jo DeTeso did herself proud by getting a few spares, and bringing her average up. Aunt Ann Tranfaglia receiving a spare, yelled "Gee! I knocked them all down with only two balls." And, surprisingly, the aunts and uncles outbowled the nieces and nephews.

Bowling 100 were: J. MacIsaac, 105, 108; Rose DeTeso, 104; Tony DeTeso 104.

Gov. Volpe At Opening Day Of Pleasure Island

Gov. Volpe will open the 1965 season of Pleasure Island, 170-acre family recreation center on Route 128 in Wakefield, on Saturday, May 1st.

The opening day has been designated as Governor's Day in honor of the Bay State chief executive who will attend with state leaders from all parts of the Commonwealth for the inaugural ceremonies.

The governor expects to spend several hours at Pleasure Island and meet many friends who will come to enjoy the festive day of fun at the mammoth park.

Gov. Volpe is a native of Wakefield where Pleasure Island is located, and all top town officials have been invited to greet the executive.

Since Pleasure Island was opened in 1959, nearly 2,000,000 persons have visited the spectacular home of Moby Dick, the white whale. The park has an unique policy whereby all rides and shows are free after paying admission. This permits youngsters and adults to ride as often as they like on the various rides. One outstanding attraction is the 1911 antique autos which youngsters and adults can drive over an exciting track. These authentic reproductions of antique Cadillacs have been driven thousands of miles.

Pleasure Island, located at exit 32 on Route 128, will be open on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays from 1 to 8 p.m. The daily season begins on June 26.

Little League Kick-Off

The Little League kick-off meeting was held Wednesday night amid the cheers of four hundred boys and their fathers. This is an annual event sponsored by the Dads Club in order to bring together all the teams and to give the 1965 season a spirited start.

Bob Wild, vice president, National League
Leo Roche, vice president, American League
Arthur Reading, treasurer
Charles Hall, secretary
Ted Von Rosenvinge, sponsor chairman
Charles Hill, liaison to Cap League

In his brief remarks, Ralph Atkinson emphasized the many hours given to Little League each year by the managers, coaches, other officials and enthusiastic supporters. He also stated that there are many openings still available for anyone interested regardless of baseball experience. After further introductions the teams were treated to the film, "Batter Up."

Landlocked Salmon Program

The Department of the Interior is interested in restoring salmon fishing as a key attraction for sportsmen.

The department's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife conducts a broad research program whose objectives are a better knowledge of the abundance and behavior of some 150 species of salt water fish of interest to sportsmen, and the development of effective methods for managing fresh-water sport fishing.

Experiments are carried on to develop economical culture of warm-water species, trout and salmon. Biological studies are aimed at migratory marine game fishes and reservoir fishes. Nutritional requirements are investigated and other subjects such as disease diagnosis and treatment, rearing facility design and testing, population control, effect of pesticides, and the development of select strains of propagated species—all these studies pointed toward a single target—better sport fishing.

One of the products of the bureau's fishery research has been progress in the salmon program—both Atlantic salmon and landlocked salmon.

The efforts of both state and federal fishery biologists to bring the Atlantic salmon back to the rivers of Maine is attracting the attention of New England sportsmen.

At the bureau's Craig Brook National Fish Hatchery at East Orland, Maine, unique facilities for propagating salmon are found. In addition to the culture of Atlantic salmon, more than 200,000 of which are produced at Craig Brook every year, this 94-year-old federal hatchery also has developed a satisfactory brood stock of landlocked salmon.

Much progress has been made in recent years in the rearing of this species in spite of the allocation of most of the hatchery's facilities to the Atlantic salmon program.

The salmon being stocked in Quabbin Reservoir are the progeny from eggs taken from Lake Memphremagog in northern Vermont. Taken in 1943, these eggs were the start of a landlocked salmon program at the bureau's St. Johnsbury Hatchery. In 1954, not satisfied with results at St. Johnsbury, the bureau moved the landlocked program to Craig Brook in Maine, only 750 fingerling landlocked salmon making the journey.

From 1954 to 1962 the experiment continued, seeking a method to produce under hatchery conditions, good-quality eggs which would result in strong, healthy fish.

Until 1962 a low survival rate of eggs discouraged the effort, but in 1962 improvement in cultural methods and techniques began to bear fruit, as evidenced by the survival rate jumping from five percent to sixty percent.

Improvement in feeding methods, especially adding live alewives to the diet has insured the continuance of a survival rate of sixty percent.

Presently around 700 brook fish of various age groups ranging from 1 to 6 years old are maintained in earthen ponds at Craig Brook.

The bureau will continue to improve its breeding stock with a view to cooperating with those states who wish to develop their own landlocked salmon culture program.

The salmon, which spawn when around four years old when they weigh around two pound, are the nucleus of a program for matching the return of the Atlantic salmon to the rivers, with a corresponding boom in landlocked salmon fishing in New England lakes.

Maycliff Seniors Do 'Little Women'

For their annual production the senior class of Maycliff Academy will present "Little Women" on Sunday, May 9. The play, an adaptation of the classic, is being coached by Mrs. George Stone of Winchester.

The male parts will all be played by Winchester boys, Ronald Macdonald, Robert Letty and Richard Amoroso.

Catherine Lord of Winchester is stage manager and Christine Marvin will be doing publicity. Stage settings are under the direction of Mother S. Borella R.C.E.

Tickets may be obtained at the Academy or from the members of the senior class. The play will be given at 8 p.m., May 9, in the school auditorium.

Here We Grow Again . . .

By Gary LaBaer

If your wondering what to do first in your garden this spring, the following timely tips might be helpful in getting you started on the right path.

That lawn deserves prime consideration. After all, without it, how useful is your yard? A good raking with a spring tooth rake or bamboo rake will remove winter's accumulation of leaves, dead grass, sticks and other debris. This also provides the needed air, so essential for healthy growth, to reach the crowns of the grass plants. Raking the lawn is very stimulating to the many individual grass plants that make up your lawn.

After raking has been completed, lime should be spread evenly at the rate of 50 lbs. per 1000 square foot of area. This is normally done once each third year, more often if needed. With raking and liming out of the way, the job's nearly done. The most important step must now be performed.

Choose a quality, long-lasting fertilizer and apply in accordance with manufacturers instructions. Research and experience leads me to recommend a 10-6-4 type fertilizer. This ratio is easily explained. The 10 figure represents the percentage of nitrogen, and the next two figures phosphorous and potash in that order. Nitrogen being the prime food and green-up article that all lawns require. The others provide for good root growth and increased bacterial action in the soil. The increased bacterial action also provides slow releasing nitrogen, and a more favorable condition for growth.

Exclusively at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery, Winchester, a 10-6-4 highest quality fertilizer. This quick-acting, long-lasting fertilizer packed only for Mahoney's and well deserving of the Rocky Ledge quality conscience stamp of approval. This fertilizer is really a buy, and results are guaranteed.

Packaged in 50 lb. bags, easily handled with complete instructions on every package, the price is only $3.95 per bag. On established lawns one bag will cover approximately 2500 sq. ft. Remember, timing is important in obtaining good results. Apply Mahoney's fertilizer to your lawn now. Don't starve your lawn at the time of the year it requires the greatest amount of food.

Dr. Brock Lynch of Bacon Street is a member of the cast of "Center Capers," the Tufts-New England Medical Center benefit musical revue scheduled for the evenings of April 28 and 29 at John Hancock Hall. School Lunch Price Change Begins Next Week

The Winchester School Committee, with the approval of the State School Lunch office, announced this week a modification of school lunch prices, effective Monday, May 3, as follows:

1. The price of the "type A" hot lunch will remain unchanged at 30 cents, excluding "non-government dessert."

2. The price of the "type A" box lunch will be reduced to 25 cents, excluding "non-government dessert."

3. Non-government desserts, such as cookies, pies, cakes, etc., will be available at an additional charge of 10 cents. However, government surplus commodities such as canned plums, apricots, applesauce, etc., will be provided, when available, with type A lunches at no extra charge.

In accord with regulations established by State and National school lunch programs, lunch will be supplied without cost, or at reduced price, to all children who are determined by local school authorities to be unable to pay the full price.

Stoneham Zoo Closed to May 23

The Metropolitan District Commission announced Friday that the Middlesex Fells Zoo in Stoneham will be closed to the public until Sunday, May 23, due to hazardous conditions caused by the facility's reconstruction program.

Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., said the action was taken at the request of safety engineers who expressed concern for the safety of youngsters during excavation work on two bear moats, 15 or 16 feet deep, at eigther end of the mammal house building.

Upon completion of this phase of the work, the zoo will be reopened to the public on Saturday, Sundays and holidays when visitors can be guided safely through construction areas. The zoo has been closed weekends since March 29 and will not resume a full daily schedule until January.

Presently under construction is the second phase of a $2 million program, which features new structures and outdoor areas enclosed by moats.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"I've got a good message for you - one you should tell people who complain about the price of insurance," said Mrs. Trayler.

"What's that?" I asked.

"Tell them to try sleeping nights without any insurance," she replied.

"I'm serious," she added. "We've always carried insurance on our home, and contents, and car - and personal liability besides. But not to long ago, you may remember I was slow in getting around to sending you a payment on our insurance. I glanced at the expiration date on my way to bed. Our insurance had expired. If it hadn't been about midnight I'd have called you right then."

"I remember now, you did call about seven o'clock one morning," I replied.

"Yes," she said. "I couldn't sleep for fear that something would happen. I kept staring at the clock and worrying."

"Actually," I said, "as you discovered the next morning, your renewal policy had already been issued. You were worrying needlessly!"

"True," she said. "But it proved the value of insurance to me, once and for all."

Don't lay awake nights worrying about insurable hazards! Let us design a balanced program of protection for you.

Termites Cause $500,000 Damage Here Yearly

The average man's unawareness of just what what termites are and what they can do to his home is a factor allowing them to gain a stronghold in Massachusetts, according to a local pest control authority.

Richard L. Keenan, of Waltham Chemical Co., urges residents of the Greater Boston area to take a close look at their property for any indications that termites may have set up a nearby colony. Until recent years, says Keenan, they never presented a very serious threat. Today it is estimated that termites do $500,000 damage yearly to homes in this area.

"The termite", says Keenan, "is ugly, even as monsters go." He is a small creature, about 7-16 of an inch long, exclusive of wings. His color may be creamy white, black or brown. Many people mistake the flying ant for termites", he says. "The ants have two sets of wings, the longer of which is just about the length of its body. The termite, on the other hand, has two sets of silvery wings, both twice its body length. While the ant has a wasp-like waist, the termite shows almost no division between the upper and lower halves of its body."

Since central heating systems have come into greater use, states the pest control expert, infestation have become more common. Heated basements have contributed to making termites a serious problem in areas not greatly bothered by them before.

The first indication of termite infestation is usually the swarming of large numbers of winged adults from the soil or wood. In New England, this often occurs on rainy or humid days, sometimes in the late fall, but more frenquently during the early spring months. Although the actual flight may not be observed, the presence of discarded wings is positive evidence of a well established termite colony in the vicinity.

Contrary to popular superstition, termites do not leave tell-tale paths of sawdust in their wake, says Keenan, whose company has operated a separate termite division since 1933. The sawdust occasionally seen in an older house may be the work of another wood boring insect, the carpenter ant.

Salmon Arrive in Massachusetts

Landlocked salmon ranging in size from six to nine inches were stocked in Quabbin reservoir in the central part of the state at 3:00 p.m. last Thursday. The 14,420 fish were a gift from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Game, and came from the Craig Brook National Fish Hatchery at East Orland, Maine.

The fish were transported in four state Division of Fisheries and Game tank trucks, which left the Maine hatchery at 5:00 a.m. and traveled non-stop to the stocking site at Gate eight at Quabbin reservoir. The trucks were manned by Lem Hambly, Jack Dixon, "Buzz" DeCarlo, Harlan Buckmaster and Frank Guilbeault of the Division of Fisheries and Game. It was the longest overland haul of salmon by tank truck on record, yet only one fish was lost during the long trip in spite of the fact that salmon are more sensitive to handling than are trout.

Boats operated by natural resources officers Gordon Smith and Ken Crossman of the Division of Law Enforcement released the salmon in the 25,000 acre Metropolitan District Commission reservoir. On hand to observe the operation were state fish and game director Jim Shepard, Quabbin superintendent John Copithorne, and federal regional superintendent of fish hatcheries George Balzer.

Salmon must be 15 inches long before they can be legally taken in Massachusetts. If these fish prosper, some are expected to exceed that size by the fall of 1967.

Cub Pack 509

Miss Lenore Rich will receive the Cub Pack Charter for the coming year from Al McDougall at the regular monthly Pack meeting at the George Washington School, April 30th.

This month's meeting will highlight the "Green Thumbs" of the Cubs. Many of them have been growing their exhibits for the past few weeks and Den Three is scheduled to give a skit depicting all the "Green Thumbs."

The Pack will participate in the "Keep Winchester Clean" campaign being sponsored by James Fitzsimmons. Let's all join in and help with this worthwhile program —we all benefit.

Pack 509 leaders will host a Round Table Meeting at 7:45 p.m., May 12, at George Washington School, for the planning of a summer program. All interested parents are encouraged to attend.

Local Opera Group Honors Liz Phinney

The Winchester Chapter of the Boston Opera Guild will honor Elisabeth Phinney on May 18. She will be a guest of guild members for tea at the home of Mrs. John A. Volpe, who has long been an opera enthusiast. Sarah Caldwell, artistic director of the Boston Opera, will outline plans for next season and meet informally with guests.

Mrs. Phinney, who lives in Winchester, recently won the Metropolitan New England Tryouts, competing in the finals in New York. She studied under Johanna Egli of Stuttgart, and for the past six years has been a student of Clara Shear in Boston. She thrilled audiences with her singing at the last Winton Club cabaret, and will appear soon in Honeggar's "King David" with the Lexington Choral Society. She has promised to sing three selections and will be accompanied by Dorothy Nelson.

The Boston Opera Guild was formed several years ago for the purpose of promoting interest in and supporting Miss Caldwell in maintaining the Boston Opera Group. From this original group of dedicated people has grown not only support for the performances and an expanded season, but also free operas for children. Many young people from Winchester have benefited from the activities of members of the Guild and have enjoyed notable opera productions.

Committee chairmen for the tea are Mrs. Ernest Covino, Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr., Mrs. John J. Donahue, Mrs. William Davies, Mrs. Ralph Seferian, and Mrs. O. Guinn Smith.

Theodore Clapp At Senior Forum

Theodore Clapp of Wellesley will be guest speaker at the Senior Forum chapel service next Sunday at 9:15 a.m., at the First Congregational Church.

Mr. Clapp has visited Forum before and proved to be a most forceful speaker. He has spent his entire professional life working with young people. He was an associate minister of Old South Church, Boston. From there he returned to university studies to equip himself for guidance work.

At present he is guidance counselor at the Wellesley Junior High School. He is chairman of the Youth Committee at the Wellesley Congregational Church. He will speak to Forum on the subject "When You Face the Lions."

Chaplain for the service will be Richard Wakefield, assisted by Kathy Hessert. Deacons who will serve are Graham Chase and Philip Boesch and ushers Garth Nelson and William Gustin.

Plans are underway for the annual closing banquet which will take place on May 16. David Weaver and Ellen Moody are in charge of the arrangements.

Route 3 Extension; Rise Of Winchester Layout Is Expected

"The Route 3 extension into Boston may shortly come to the fore as a decision soon to be made," Representative Harrison Chadwick told the Star Tuesday.

Rep. Chadwick's statement reflected recent federal-state developments in getting the inter-state and inner belt highway programs over political hurdles and into construction stages. He specifically referred to the on-again-off-again local area controversies on what pathway to extend Route 3 into Boston . . . one of which, and according to present indications appears to be the prime route selection, is through Winchester.

"The issue is getting very hot again," Rep. Chadwick warned.

With last week's U. S. Bureau of Roads agency announcement that Massachusetts might jeopardize receiving federal highway funds if it didn't proceed with its programs immediately, Rep. Chadwick said "This matter of getting the routes firmed is very pressing now."

Last night Rep. Chadwick had to forego his planned attendance and speech at a Volpe sales tax public hearing in Medford in order to go to a joint meeting of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council and Boston Regional Planning Project—both of which he serves as Winchester's representative to —that discussed transportation developments, including highway programs.

Rep. Chadwick noted that the apparent prime route under consideration cuts right through Winchester, running parallel to Hutchinson Road and through the Winchester Country Club, crossing Mystic Street and sweeping toward the Medford Boat Club. It would then cross the lake by the dam near the Boat Club and go along the other side of the river to join with Route 93 in Medford.

One former alternate route was to extend Route 3 through Arlington, Rep. Chadwick said, but added that that was effectively blocked by Arlington and is now developed to the point where it is no longer a likelihood.

Another former alternative route was to extend Route 3 through Lexington, but Rep. Chadwick noted that Lexington has had an effectively organized group actively engaged in preventing the highway from going that way.

Winchester is in a difficult position, Rep. Chadwick warned. "Politically," he said candidly, "the Country Club has no vote—not when compared to displacing many families in other towns—and highway route decision makers aren't likely to get very excited over the fact that a few wealthy suburbanites might lose their golf course."

Selectmen Sign Special Warrant

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night signed a warrant calling for a special Town Meeting on Monday, May 24, at 7:45 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

Most of this week's Selectmen's meeting was devoted to discussion on the three articles in the special warrant, the most significant of which was the Permanent Building Committee's secondary school building program.

The three articles in the warrant included:

The Scavenger & The Hunter

Winchester Center last week was the scene of a trap and hunt story more natural, or at least a little more commonplace, in the African veldt.

A pigeon, inveigled by bird food to a trap set by the local Board of Health on the rotary beneath the now notorious pigeon roost overpass in the center, was passing the time of day eating inside the trap.

A sometimes seen around town mongrel dog, apparently unheedful of recent letters to the editor of the Star newspaper about dangerous dogs being put to the leash, and similarly unmindful of last week's Star story about the nuisance pigeons being trapped and turned over to a retriever hunting club for training, decided to go against public opinion and the rules of the game, and went after the game instead.

The dog charged into the trap and captured the bird. Like his prey, however, once inside the trap he was unable to get out.

A policeman's hands had to open the trap and let the baying dog out. There being no local or state laws covering death by hunting in the animal kingdom, Officer Henry Cogan let the canine go free. And, carrying his victim, the mongrel retired to a corner of the rotary to feast.

The rotary and the traps remained clear of pigeons for the rest of the day.

'Scouting In Action Show' At Manchester Saturday

Pioneering with a 50 foot "monkey bridge" and a twenty-five foot tower, camp and outdoor skills, equipment and gadgets, crafts, and competition between Dens and Patrols in a series of Cub and Boy Scout skill events are some of the features to be presented by packs and troops from Winchester and surrounding towrs at a "Scouting in Action" show at Manchester Field this Saturday afternoon.

The Winchester High School Band will lead a parade of participating units from Manchester Field through Winchester via Waterfield Road, Church Street, Mt. Vernon Street, Washington Street, and from Mystic Valley Parkway back to the field. The band will play for the opening at the field at noon.

Entered to participate from Winchester are Troop 503, First Congregational Church; Troop 507, First Baptist Church; Pack 508, Noonan School; Pack and Troop 509, Washington School; Pack 524, Parkhurst School; and Pack 525 of Vinson-Owen School.

The commissioners' staff of the Musket District of the Minuteman Council will have a display presenting the services provided to scout units.

Post 503, First Congregational Church, will provide a service crew of Explorers to assist on the grounds.

Musket District members of Taskiagi Lodge of the Order of the Arrow will have a camp display and present Indian dancing.

For safety, the Winchester Fire Department will station a piece of apparatus on the field, and the Arlington Chapter, American Red Cross, will provide a crew and equipment for first-aid emergencies.

In charge of arrangements and program is a committee headed by Nolan T. Jones, general chairman, Edward Cincotta, Albert Moulton, Philip Ardagno, Robert S. Gales, Joseph van Hake, Donald Wrisley, and William Jeffrey, all of Winchester, among others.

The show will close at 4 p.m.

TREE PLANTING BY MILL POND. Aberjona River banks along Mill Pond are being beautified with the town's blessings by the Winchester Home and Garden Club's tree-planting program. Mrs. Alexander Aitken watches Edward Harrington plant an evergreen on west embankment in modern "Johnny Appleseed" community service project.

Beautifying Trees Planted By Home And Garden Club

If you walk along the Mystic Valley Parkway near the Junior High School, or stand in back of the library near the bank of the Mill Pond some of these spring days, stop a moment and gaze across at the new look on the opposite shoreline.

You will notice that the picture is changing daily as work progresses on the Winchester Home and Garden Club's beautification project of the west bank of the pond between the bridges at Main and Mt. Vernon Streets.

By the end of this week 30 new trees will have been set in place by Frost and Higgins, nurserymen, and delivery will begin on nearly two hundred deciduous and evergreen shrubs. The final planting of ground cover is expected to be completed in three or four weeks.

The decision to landscape this area of town was made following a preliminary survey of the town's planting needs by Moriece and Gary, landscape architects, last fall. Their recomendations to enhance the natural beauty assets of rivers, streams and ponds and improve public grounds by planting of trees and shrubs were considered by the club's landscape design committee, under the direction of Mrs. Edward Mansfield and Mrs. Alexander Aitken, which decided that this should begin in the center.

The area along the Mill Pond was singled out as the one most in need of revitalization.

The planting design and selection of planting materials were made by the Committee in consultation with the Park Department and the plans submitted to Moriece and Gary for final approval.

In March the club voted $1,000 toward the project, and in April voted unanimously to underwrite the entire expense of the plantings not to exceed $3,000, so that it could be completed in one season.

Within one week the Park Department had begun to remove unwanted woody shrubs and to fill in a portion of the banking near Converse bridge. Regrading was necessary to restore the original contour.

The walking path near Mt. Vernon Street was altered slightly and renewed with fill removed during planting operations.

Last week, on Arbor Day, the first tree was planted near the corner of Converse Place. A white dogwood, it will be known as the "Liberty Tree." Mrs. James Mason,

Liz Phinney Is Honored Locally By Opera Group

Winchester members of the Boston Opera Guild will entertain Elisabeth Phinney at a tea on Tuesday, May 18, at the home of Mrs. John A. Volpe.

Sarah Caldwell, artistic director of the Boston Opera, will be there to meet members and their guests and to speak briefly about her plans for the future, and to delight her audience with "behind-the-scenes" experiences.

Mrs. Volpe has long been an opera enthusiast and generously offered her home to guild members to honor such outstanding local talent.

Logue's Proposal To Bus Hub Students To Suburbs 'Acceptable,' 'Impractical' Here

Boston Redevelopment Administrator Edward J. Logue's statement last week that the only effective way to alleviate racial imbalance in Hub education is to bus Negro children to suburban schools was met in Winchester, officially, with a "whether we'd like it or not, it's not practical here."

The Winchester School Committee discussed Mr. Logue's proposal to bus some 134 Boston Negro schoolchildren to local schools to correct the imbalance of the Boston school system at a meeting Monday night.

Asked for an official policy position, the School Committee released the following statement to the Star:

"It is the philosophy of the School Committee to improve educational excellence for Winchester children.

"We define this goal as the fullest possible development of the potential of each child coupled with the fullest preparation of each pupil for his rights and duties as an American citizen. We believe this is the right of every child in the Commonwealth and the nation.

"Racial imbalance is a serious conflict in the American creed of equal opportunity. Whether Mr. Logue's suggestion is feasible legally or otherwise, the School Committee must recognize that Winchester's schools have a very serious space problem, which will not be relieved until new building facilities are available — potentially three years from now.

"Despite our societal concerns it would be unrealistic, in fact, impossible, to participate in the program suggested by Mr. Logue."

Mrs. Robert J. Grenzeback, chairman of the School Committee, said the committee did express its concern over the racial imbalance problem within the Commonwealth, however.

The "scatteration" principle to solve racial imbalance in education proposed by Mr. Logue involved the bus transportation of 4,000 Boston Negro pupils in grades five to eight to 21 Hub suburbs, including Winchester.

Library Gears Its Services To The New Construction

Townspeople will have noted that construction on the library addition began last week. This will naturally cause some alteration in usual library service but will not disrupt it, according to Head Librarian Robert E. Wagenknecht.

The Children's Room door, facing the Town Hall, has been closed off. The door facing the parkway, however, will remain open, and parents and children are urged to use it as well as, when necessary, the stairway to the Chirldren's Room from the main floor of the library.

After the middle of June the Children's Room is going to be temporarily relocated in the Rich Room. Access to this area for children will be either through a door opening to the outside from the Rich Room or from the main lobby upstairs. This means that the Rich Room will be unavailable to the public for meetings and displays from the time the Children's Room takes possession of it until construction is finished, presumably in the early months of 1966.

There will be less drastic changes upstairs. Ultimately the West Reading Room will have to be closed to the public, and the books now shelved there will be moved to a new location. This should not occur until well into the summer.

Beginning June 1 the loan period for most books will change from two weeks to one month with the due date being Wednesday of each week. This should reduce the necessity for renewing books to a minimum. With relocation, the Children's Room wil be unable to accept telephone renewals.

The library wil continue to have long-term loan service, and urges townspeople to take advantage of the summer loan. Books can be borrowed from June 1 to October 1, except for those on the school reading lists and books recently published.

In the Adult Department, magazines, pamphlets, records and recent fiction will continue to circulate for one week with no renewals.

The trustees and library staff regret the inconvenience, but say the completed addition will be worth the trouble. Meanwhile, any suggestions as to how the library can improve services during this construction period will be welcomed, according to the trustees.

$6,000 Weekend Robbery At Purity-Converse Market; Police Search For Suspects

A $6,000 weekend robbery at the Purity Sav-Mor Supermarket at 10 Mt. Vernon Street, formerly known as Converse Market, has kept local police and Purity Foods, Inc. of Chelmsford searching for suspects this week.

The theft occurred some time between 8 o'clock Saturday night when the Purity supermarket closed for the weekend, and Monday morning at 7:30 when Joseph Nowell, assistant store manager, discovered on opening the market that several cash registers and the office safe had been pilfered.

The main office of the store was completely ransacked, and the contents of the safe were strewn around the floor. First estimates placed the cash theft from the safe at between $5,000 and $6,000. The contents of five of the six store checkout station cash registers were emptied of about $50 each. And several second-floor doors on the premises, leading to a ladies' lounge and a rest room, were forced open, as well as an inside lock on the Winchester Place sliding delivery door (opposite the Savings Bank), where police say the criminals apparently left the building.

Lieutenant Jonh McHugh at Police Headquarters was alerted to the theft, and he immediately dispatched Officer David K. Richardson from the Center to the store to investigate the robbery.

Purity store manager David Flynn was notified of the robbery, and he and John Dixon of the Purity Security Division rushed to the store.

Sergeant James Cogan, Inspector William Nash and Officer Thomas Kennedy were assigned to continue the investigation.

By all first indications the robbery appeared to be an "inside" job, according to police, as there were no signs of evidence of any forced breaking into the store from the outside entrance (Shore Road, Mt. Vernon Street, and Winchester Place.) The Purity Security Division was also led to a similar preliminary view based on the lack of apparent forced entry.

Sgt. Cogan said on Tuesday he believed someone was hiding in the store when it was closed because the manner of the pilfering indicated the robbers were not familiar with the store.

He explained his view by pointing out that the second floor doors that were forced led only to a lounge and rest room and not to anything worth stealing, that a strongbox containing about $2,600 in cash and that anyone familiar with the store would have known about was not touched, and that a Purity employee had seen two suspicious individuals in the store on Friday afternoon.

As of Wednesday morning no suspects had been questioned, but Sgt. Cogan said the Police Department is checking out the individuals described by the alert Purity employee, who had also, wisely, noted down the car registration of the persons who had acted suspiciously in the store the day before the robbery.

Public Meetings On Proposal For New High School

A new school for 1500 high school students on a 46 acre tract of land between Johnson Road and High Street was described last night as the Permanent Building Committee's proposed solution to the problem of overcrowding at the Winchester Senior High School and McCall Junior High School.

The new high school building project has been scheduled for official consideration by the Town at a special Town Meeting on May 24.

Construction costs on the hilly site, busing costs and high taxes were discussed Wednesday night at a public information meeting sponsored by the Community Schools Association at the Vinson-Owen School.

A second similar meeting will take place this evening at 8 p.m. at the Mystic School. There will be a third meeting at Lynch Jr. High on Wednesday, May 12 and a fourth meeting at the Lincoln School on Thursday May 13.

The meetings are being held prior to the special Town Meeting on May 24 as a service to town meeting members and the general public.

CAR IMBEDDED IN GARAGE. Last Thursday afternoon this Buick, parked on Samoset Road with a seven-year-old youngster left in it who, according to police, probably pulled the shift lever out of park and into drive, rolled down Samoset, crossed Emerson and struck the side wall of a garage owned by John Hanson. The youngster was not injured, but the car and garage were damaged, and the car had to be left in the garage wall to support it until it could be buttressed.

Bloodmobile Day For Gift of Life

You are healthy, no younger than 18 nor older than 59, and someday someone in your family may require blood transfusions.

As a Red Cross blood donor, you won't need to scurry around looking for donors to replace blood used. And it won't cost you $25 to $35 a pint if you don't find donors.

Be safe and be reassured, come on down to the bloodmobile on Wednesday, May 12, at the First Baptist Church and offer a pint of your blood. One donation a year assures you and your family of full blood coverage. The hours are from 2-7 p.m. (note change of time).

Then if you have a need, call your Red Cross at 729-2300.

Kick Off Drive For Scholarship

Otto Schaefer, chairman of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation has announced its twentieth anniversary Kick Off Drive for funds today. The committee soliciting funds for the Foundation is headed by John Dolan and Robert Costello.

Placards have been placed throughout Winchester urging citizens to "Buy A Share" in Foundation scholarships. Business firms in town will be approached for contributions at this time. As the need this year is greater than ever, the committee is optimistic that the original $5 share merely will be the starting point for contributions of a more substantial nature.

Judge Cullen In Woburn District Court Observes Law Day, U.S.A.

The occasion of Law Day, May 1, and its theme "Uphold the law—a citizen's first duty," proclaimed by President Johnson, was celebrated in this area in a special ceremony at the Woburn District Court on Monday morning.

Judge Francis P. Cullen of 78 Bacon Street presided at the brief observance, attended by Senator Long, Representatives Cain, Contalonis, and Harrison Chadwick of Winchester, County Commissioner Dever, members of the Woburn High School student council, and students from Winchester High School.

In his speech on Law Day, Judge Cullen remarked:

"We are gathered here in the Fourth District Court of Eastern Middlesex this morning, to take a few moments to observe Law Day, U.S.A.

"Law Day in this year nineteen hundred and sixty-five, takes on a greater import than ever before. This is in view of the turmoil throughout the world and here within the continental limits of the United States.

"A general and proper respect for law and order—and laws designed to promote that end, tend to guarantee the preservation and protection of our society.

"That general respect is lacking in many more quarters than should be the case.

"The theme, set down by President Johnson, Chief Law Enforcement Officer of this nation, is "Uphold the Law—A Citizen's First Duty."

"We need not look great distances to see flagrant disregard and violations of the laws of our city, state and nation.

"This theme applies to our many present day problems, not only in Viet Nam, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and other foreign shores, but here in the United States as well.

"Examples are racial turmoil in parts of the South; a wave of heinous crime in the greater Boston area, and yes, even the flagrant violations of the law on our highways which needlessly take hundreds of lives each year."

A Common Mutual Trust Organized By Local Residents

A new open-end mutual investment trust under the name of "Common Mutual Trust" was recently organized by local residents.

The unusual feature of this trust is that it will not be open to the general public but will be limited to one hundred shareholders with the privilege of monthly subscriptions.

The board of trustees consists of Elmer F. Cutts, retired, formerly an executive with Western Union Company, Joseph H. Johnson, an official with 42 years of service in the Surety Bond field with The Employers Group of Insurance Companies, Theodore E. Shasta, a practising attorney and trustee for many years of other mutual funds which he has been directing successfully, all of Winchester, and Albert W. Ludlam, owner-operator of Retail Specialty Stores, headquarters in New England's largest Shopping Center, formerly of Winchester.

The Annual Meeting of the Winchester Savings Bank was held at the Winchester Country Club, Wednesday evening, April 28. It marked the commencement of the 95th year of the bank as a local business institution. Officers re-elected were James F. Dwinell, Jr., President; William J. Speers, Jr., Vice-President, and Austin Broadhurst, Clerk. Arnold M. Gibson continues as Treasurer. Re-elected as Trustee for 3 years were. Clinton W. Bennett, James W. Blackham, Austin Broadhurst, Charles S. Eaton, Edward V. French, Ralph W. Hatch and Waldon B. Hersey.

The Treasurer's Report showed a gain of $2,500,000 in deposits for the year and an increase of over $2,700,000 or 11% in assets. Total resources of the bank now stand at approximately $30,000,000. Mr. Dwinell gave an account of the year's activities, commenting on the newly renovated building, the new services offered by the bank and expressing special appreciation to the employees who worked so capably under most difficult and trying conditions while building alterations were in progress. He presented some figures showing the rapid growth of the bank in the last decade, during which time deposits increased by ninety per cent and total assets were increased by one hundred per cent. In the same period the mortgage portfolio has risen 154% and total income 160%.

Corporators and Trustees remained for dinner following the meeting.

from 2:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Dinner Meeting

All interested residents in addition to all Winchester Mental Health Association members are urged to attend the annual meeting of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association, a dinner meeting, to be held Monday, May 10 at Hanscom Field, Bedford.

The Mystic Valley is the parent chapter of the Winchester MHA and the organization which runs (for Winchester and its other four affiliates) the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic in Lexington. A report of the clinic will be a part of the program which will follow a social hour from 6 to 7 and a short business meeting.

Reservations for dinner may be made by calling the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association at VO 2-1780.

The highlight of the program will be "Person to Person," the story of the new mental health case aide program at the Metropolitan State Hospital, told by Mrs. Doris Wright Epstein, its supervisor. It will be a much fuller presentation than that heard here two weeks ago.

Relative to the Children's Clinic and its work here, Miss Constance Trickett, Winchester MHA president, calls attention to the 1964 Town Report in which the Board of Health makes this statement:

"Our experience with the Mystic Valley Health Association has continued to be most satisfactory... There has been a substantial increase in the utilization of the Mystic Valley Mental Health facilities during the past year..." The notation, on page 162-63, includes statistics on the use of the clinic by Winchester.

Christian Service Installation

On May 13 at 8 p.m. the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will have an installation of new officers for the coming year.

The Rev. Newton Clay will perform the impressive ceremony. Preceding the installation there will be a pot luck supper sponsored by the Wesleyan Circle and a business meeting. The one hundred members of the W.S.C.S. will at this meeting be divided into five new circles. This is an event that the women of the church should not miss.

Mrs. Herepsime (Buchakjian) Boodakian

Funeral services for Mrs. Herepsime (Buchakjian) Boodakian, wife of Krikor Boodakian of 14 Lochwan Street, are planned for tomorrow, Friday, May 7, at 1 p.m. at the Armenian Holy Trinity Church, 145 Brattle Street, Cambridge.

Mrs. Boodakian died on Tuesday, May 4, at her home here, after a long illness. Friends and relatives may visit tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Aram Bedrosian Funeral Home, 558 Mt. Auburn Street, Watertown.

Mrs. Boodakian leaves a daughter, three sons and 11 grandchildren in this immediate area. She was the mother of Levon, Harry and Michael of this town and of Mrs. Diane Bechakian of Woburn.

She was born 61 years ago next week in the town of Kelice, Armenia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Buchakjian, both now deceased. She had lived in Winchester for the past 38 years.

Mrs. Boodakian had been a member of the Holy Trinity Church in Cambridge and the Reverend Opapken Maksoudian of that church will officiate at the services; interment will follow in Wildwood Cemetery. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the Armenian Holy Trinity Church.

Andrew J. Dalton

Andrew J. Dalton died last week Wednesday, at the age of 71.

Mr. Dalton, well known in the town was born in Ireland, the son of the late Thomas and Catherine (Lynch) Dalton.

He had been a resident of Winchester for over 40 years. Mr. Dalton was employed by the town on the Highway Department for 32 years, but retired six years ago.

Surviving are his wife Hazel G. Dalton, two sons Andrew J. Jr., and Captain David N. Dalton of the Winchester Fire Department, four daughters Eleanor of Winchester, Mrs. Ann Marshall of Bakersfield, California, Mrs. Mary Lou Cournoyer of Newport, Rhode Island and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Blackey of Bow, New Hampshire, a brother Edward F. of Winchester, and two sisters Mrs. Mary E. Grant of Winchester and Mrs. Catherine Deasy of Ireland. Also surviving are thirteen grandchildren.

The funeral was held from the Lane Funeral Home Saturday morning with a solemn high Mass of requiem at the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Edward Mansfield Mason

Edward Mansfield Mason, who was born in this town on May 4, 1889, died on Saturday in Ridgewood, New Jersey, where he had lived for over 40 years.

Memorial services have been held for him at the West Side Presbyterian Church in Ridgewood; but interment is to be in Wildwood Cemetery here at 11 a.m. on Saturday, May 15th.

Mr. Mason was a member of one of Winchester's earliest families. He was the son of John North and Emma Mansfield Mason, late of this town and he was the grandson of John Clark and Lucinda Elizabeth True Mason.

Mr. Mason attended the University of Chattanooga, Tennessee and was graduated from MIT in 1912. He retired in 1952 from the Standard Oil Company of New York, with which he had been associated in many ways for 38 years most recently as manager of the lubricating oils department of the Standard Vacuum Oil Company.

He had been very active civically in Ridgewood in the life of his church, the Boy Scouts, the Masons, Sons of the American Revolution and the Country and Yacht Clubs.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; by a son, Robert H. of Scarsdale, New York; by three granddaughters; one sister, Miss Margaret Mason of East Orange, New Jersey and a brother, Leroy T. of Forestville, Connecticut. He was predeceased by a son, Lt. John Mansfield Mason, U.S. Air Force, who met his death while flying the Hump in Burma on V.J. Day.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles today cautioned all Massachusetts motorists that the semi-annual Spring motor vehicle inspection will conclude on Saturday, May 15.

Charles Crosby Rogers

Private services are being held this afternoon at the Forest Hills Cemetery in Jamaica Plain for Charles Crosby Rogers, 70, who died suddenly on Tuesday, May 4, at his present home in Riviera Beach, Florida. The Reverend Robert A. Storer will officiate.

Although Mr. Rogers had lived in Florida for the past five years, until that time he had lived all his adult life in Winchester. He was born in Lincoln, Nebraska on June 3, 1894, the son of George Henry and Eliza (Green) Rogers and he moved here at the age of 11.

Mr. Rogers also maintained a home in South West Harbor, Maine, for over 30 years.

He attended the Winchester schools, graduating from the High School in the class of 1913. He then attended Holderness School in Holderness, New Hampshire. In World War I he served in France with the Winchester Unit of the American Field Service later transferring to the Canadian Royal Air Force, Flight 13.

He was retired in 1955 from the Dr. A. C. Daniels Company, manufacturers of veterinary medicines, of which he was the owner. He was a member here of the Calumet Club and a former member of the William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

Mr. Rogers leaves his wife, Mrs. Marian (Cooper) Rogers; Mrs. Mildred Rivinius of Winchester; two sons, Edward E. Hitchborn of Malden and Warren C. Hitchborn of Winchester and eight grandchildren. He was also the father of the late Mrs. Aleyone R. Bullen.

Contributions may be sent to the Heart Fund, but it is requested that flowers be omitted.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. (O'Brien) Muggah

Mrs. Elizabeth G. (O'Brien) Muggah, widow of the late Henry Muggah and a former resident of 9 Stowell Road here for over 25 years, died on Saturday, May 1 in Port Charlotte, Florida, after a brief illness.

A requiem high Mass was held for her in St. Mary's Church in this town on Tuesday morning, May 4, after a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in the Holy Cross Cemetery in Malden.

Mrs. Muggah was born in Boston, the daughter of the late John and Mary (Fouhy) O'Brien. She was well known in music circles of Boston, having been a member of the Musicians Club there. She also had played the clarinet in an all women's orchestra for many years. She was a member of the Winchester Art Club.

Mrs. Muggah is survived by one niece and one nephew, Mrs. Agnes Greco and Cornelius F. O'Brien, both of Boston.

Mrs. Mary E. (Brown) Hession

Mrs. Mary E. (Brown) Hession, for 44 years a resident of this town, died at the Winchester Hospital on Tuesday, April 27, after a short illness. Mrs. Hession was the wife of Patrick Hession of 19 Lochwan Street and the mother of two sons and two daughters.

Born in Ireland on August 21, 1886, Mrs. Hession was the daughter of Michael and Nora (Burke) Brown. She had been for many years a member of the Ladies' Sodality of her church the Immaculate Conception.

The Reverend Gerald B. Horgan celebrated a solemn high Mass of requiem for her on the morning of Friday, April 30, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

In addition to her husband, surviving her are her two sons, John J. and William P., both of Winchester; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Fuller of Winchester and Mrs. Louise Moran of Dracut; one granddaughter, Mrs. Patricia LeSaffre of Melrose and four great grandchildren. She is also survived by two brothers in New Zealand and one in Ireland.

Marycliff Academy First Communion

FIRST COMMUNION WAS RECEIVED by 25 boys and girls at Marycliff Academy last Saturday when the Reverend Francis McFarland, school chaplain, celebrated Mass in the school auditorium. Leading the First Communicants were Kathy Martin and Anne McCarthy of Grade 8. Michael Hintlian and Matthew Hintlian were the altar boys who assisted Fr. McFarland. The following children received the Sacrament for the first time: Mary Ann Brandt, John Bostonian, Harley Coyne, Susan Danti, Doreen DeJesse Paula DeLeo, Kathleen Duffy, Mary Jane Gallogly, Deborah Hanson, Margot Hintlian, Claire Iandoli, Susan Koury, Marion Martignetti, Jane Martin, Deborah Notarangeli, Lawrence Pope, Robert Regan, Donna Robertie, Joseph Savarese, Carol Scollans, Robin Sullivan, Stephanie Tamburino, Mark Tedisco, Karen Tracey, and Patricia Troiano.

Planting

the club's president, has announced that a special dedication ceremony will be held when the entire project has bene completed sometime in June.

With the "Liberty Tree" will be a grouping of white dogwood, pink and white azaleas and laurel, separated from Main Street by an evergreen hedge of Yew. A drift of low azaleas will extend along the shoreline for approximately 70 feet, tapering off to an area of green lawn. A few feet beyond another mass of low and medium azaleas and two white dogwood trees will blend into a planting of laurel with three Austrian pines at the point.

Rounding the point a row of five white pines and five Austrian pines and azaleas will force a background for green lawn and, around the point, for low white pines, azaleas and laurel at the shoreline.

Beyond the large elm tree at the curve seven large laurel will provide background for the lawn and relocated path, ending with two Austrian pines. Two white dogwood have been placed at the foreground along the bank beyond the willow tree.

Two corner plantings will flank the entrance to the path at Mt. Vernon Street. A larger one near the bridge will feature one large Austrian pine and three dogwood with laurel and azaleas and on the opposite side a single white dogwood with laurel and azaleas.

The simple but effective color scheme of pink and white against green foliage has been planned to afford a splash of color in the spring when the azaleas and dogwood are in bloom, followed by laurel in June, and climaxing in the autumn with shades of red foliage.

When the major planting is completed, members of the club will plant several hundred vinca minor as ground cover and a pine mulch wil be applied.

From this point on maintenance will be in the hands of the Park Department but plants were chosen which will require little care beyond watering and occasional feeding. It is interesting to note also that watering is now being done by hand from the pond rather than tax the town's already dwindling water supply.

The entire beautification project has been a cooperative effort involving not only the landscape design committee but town officials, the Park Dept., professional landscape consultants, nurserymen, club members and volunteer helpers. It was made possible financially by Winchester residents themselves through their support of the club's Christmas greens sale and Yuletide marts.

Members of the landscape design committee in addition to Mrs. Mansfield and Mrs. Aitken are Mrs. Frank Robinson, Mrs. Edmund Wright, Mrs. Frederick Cole, Mrs. Clifford Sundberg, Mrs. John Chipman and Miss Corrine Mead.

Connolly — Legere

A reception at the Chestnut Hill Country Club followed the marriage of Miss Ann Marie Legere and Joseph E. Connolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Connolly, of 1 Chardon Road. The Reverend McCabe officiated at the ceremony in St. Agnes Church, Arlington.

MRS. JOSEPH E. CONNOLLY

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Legere, Sr., of Arlington, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white peau-de-soie gown fashioned with a portrait neckline and cathedral length train embroidered with Alencon lace. Her headpiece was a crown also embroidered with the same lace and accented by an elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses, carnations and stephanotis, surrounding a white orchid.

Miss Patricia O'Brien of Arlington was maid of honor. She wore a gown of frosty organza the bodice of which was enhanced with a dainty, daisy design which also graced her slimline skirt, made with semi-back fullness. She carried a spring bouquet.

The bridesmaids, who were similarly gowned in pale turquoise organza and who also carried spring bouquets, were Mrs. William Merrick of Bedford; Mrs. Anthony Breshcia of Flushing, New York; Miss Maureen West of Belmont; Miss Mary-Jo Regan of Cambridge and Miss Judith McKenna of Somerville.

Mr. John F. Connolly, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man and ushering were the Messers. Thomas Connolly, another brother; Thomas J. Legere and Peter J. Legere, brothers of the bride and Girard J. Fortin and John Canavan of Somerville.

The bride was graduated from the Mt. Auburn School of Nursing and Mr. Connolly is a graduate of Boston College.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Connolly will reside in Woburn.

Williams — Krysto

The first wedding reception to take place at the Sheraton, Boston was that of Judith Anne Krysto and Lauren Spencer Williams, whose wedding took place at St. Cecelia's Church in the Back Bay, at 3:30, Saturday afternoon. The reception and dinner were held in the Constitution Room of the new hotel.

MR. AND MRS. LAUREN S. WILLIAMS

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Krysto of Island Creek, Duxbury, formerly of Winchester. She wore a gown of ivory peau de soie. Her Empire bodice was embroidered with pearls and crystals, and her skirt had a removable train fashioned of two layered panels with a rose in back. She wore a four-tiered wedding veil of imported silk illusion held in place by a floral headpiece of matching silk with hand embroidered pearl trim.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Thaxter H. Polk, Jr. of Arlington was matron of honor and the bridesmaids included Mrs. Charles Lyons of Brockton, Mrs. John Fallon of East Hampton, L. I., Mrs. Gerald C. Wunderlich of Old Greenwich, Connecticut, and Miss Jean Randlett of Winchester. They wore floor-length gowns of maize yellow georgette with Empire silhouettes and velvet trimming.

The best man was Mr. Llewellyn R. Williams of Poughkeepsie, New York. The ushers were Mr. Robert Manning and Mr. Peter Pohly of New York City, Mr. Alan R. Morse of Cambridge and Mr. Walter Levring of Stowe, Vermont.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Krysto wore a full-length gown of green peau d'ange with a Chantilly lace bodice, and a hat of two tones of green illusion.

The bride was graduated from Winchester High School and from Skidmore College. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Williams of Milford, Connecticut, and Tarpon Springs, Florida, is an alumnus of the Hopkins School. He was graduated from Yale University in 1959 and from the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business. He is a member of the Yale Club of New York.

After a wedding trip in Jamaica and Mexico, the couple will reside in New York City.

Miss Fitzgerald Is Engaged To Wed Mr. Hansen

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas H. Fitzgerald of 250 Washington Street, announce the engagement of their daughter Alice Ann Fitzgerald, to Barton James Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hansen of Sarasota, Florida.

ALICE ANN FITZGERALD

Miss Fitzgerald was graduated from Connecticut College in 1961, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She recently returned from two years in Peru with the Peace Corps and she is presently doing graduate work at Tufts University.

Mr. Hansen, a graduate of the University of Florida at Gainesville, is terminating two years with the Peace Corps in Guatemala. Mr. Hansen, who also served three years in the U.S. Marine Corps, will do graduate work at the Center for Latin American Studies at the University of Florida in the fall.

A summer wedding is planned.

Celebration For The Gaudiosos

Their 25th wedding anniversary was the occasion for a happy family get together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gaudioso of 34 Oak Street last week Sunday.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN J. GAUDIOSO

Planned and carried out by their daughter, Carol, a student at Salem State Teachers' College and their son, Frank and his family, of Irving Street, the celebration presented a lovely repast and a very special cake in the couple's honor.

They were joined by close relatives and their grandchildren for the occasion, in honor of nuptials celebrated in Boston on April 21, 1940.

Kazanjian — Honey

At a noon wedding on Saturday, May 1, at St. Gabriel's Church in Charlotte, North Carolina, Miss Marilyn Rose Honey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yates Louis Honey of Charlotte became the bride of Martin Kazanjian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Martin Kazanjian of 30 Cambridge Street.

MRS. MARTIN KAZANJIAN

The bride's sister, Mrs. W. H. Kouri attended her as matron of honor and Myron Kazanjian was best man to his brother. Miss Dianne Pope was maid of honor at the wedding.

The bride attended the Saint Genevieve's of the Pines School in Asheville, North Carolina and was graduated from the Myers Park High School. She attended Chamberlain College in Boston where she was on the Honor Court and was social chairman of the junior class.

Mr. Kazanjian was graduated from Lawrence Academy in Groton and from Babson Institute where he was an economics major and was active in the Delta Sigma Pi fraternity and the Circle K Club. He is now associated with the Hobart-Smith Construction Company in Charlotte.

The couple are guests at the Cloisters, Sea Island, Georgia, for their wedding trip and will make their home in Charlotte.

The Winchester Star

Established 1880 By Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Editorials:

A Call To Arms!

This week's announcement by Rep Chadwick that the Winchester planned path for the Route 3 extension into Boston now appears not only to be the prime selection choice in political circles, but also appears to be a decision soon to be forthcoming and should serve as a call to arms for Winchester citizens!

Winchester stands to lose a lot if the Route 3 extension slices through town territory.

On the surface, the Winchester Country Club and its sporting members might appear to be the main losers if the super highway extension does end up going that way; but in fact the whole town would lose a very important part of its practically one remaining green area, not to mention a very significant local—if private—recreational spot.

The situation is critical now, even if the decision is further away than it appears to be. If the crisis is more pending than actual now, then there may still be adequate time for protective organization and action.

The Selectmen should immediately set organizational gears into being, not from the view of protecting a local business so much as in terms of preserving the character of a very beautiful and important part of the town (and one that will yield high tax returns if preserved). A clearing house group for putting to best use citizen volunteer support should be activated. And maybe the Country Club itself could organize funds to use in the apparently imminent battle.

According to present indications, the issue is hot again. Possibly a united town front could achieve an important deflection of the route from Winchester.

Good Community Service

The Winchester Home and Garden Club's modern "Johnny Appleseed" tree planting project along the west embankment of the Aberjona River at the Mill Pond is a service to the town of commendable note. The program, in conjunction with cooperative help from the Park Department, will beautify that bucolic scene immensely.

The idea was initiated as a result of the club's privately financed consultant's study recommendations, and the project itself is being financed and supervised by the club. This is exemplary community service, and its results will enhance the natural river beauty of the picturesque Mill Pond.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will be gratefully appreciated by community residents for many years to come because of this fine project, and we salute their endeavor as a worthy community cause.

The Importance Of Being Informed

To the newspaperman, the investment counselor, and the teacher, facts are continually the medium through which knowledge is applied. And it is through the application of knowledge based on facts that intelligent decisions are made—be it for an editorial policy, a stock investment, or the interpretation of history taught to young minds that someday will affect the course of future history.

In the next few weeks in Winchester every adult citizen will have an opportunity to partake of all three ways of dealing with facts as they relate to the proposal to construct a new high school on the west side of town to solve the overcrowded secondary school space situation that exists.

The decision to be made by the special May 24 Town Meeting is a tough, but very important one—and one that will require a well informed citizenry choosing a wise educational investment decision so that future historians of Winchester can teach that the town acted appropriately.

Every parent must do his own fact-finding, much like the reporter goes out to cover a story. Probably the simplest way this can be done is to attend at least one of the informational public meetings held in the various precincts. While the community newspaper covers major news in the town, the townspeople themselves must search out answers to their own questions about the proposed project and alternatives to be able to make a decision upon facts. Mere emotional responses to proposals should not be confused with making intelligent judgments upon facts.

Every taxpayer must research the cost factors involved, much as an investment counselor reviews the history of certain stocks, developments, and projects growth to determine whether it is worth whatever money is to be invested. No wise investor simply buys a new stock that comes out just because it is new; similarly he doesn't buy an old one just because the company has been around for many years and is likely to be around a lot longer. The case is the same when talking about an investment in an educational plant; the investment is in providing the best space at reasonable cost in which to educate the youth of the town.

Every citizen will have the opportunity to take part in the pending decision. It is a community choice, and future citizens will look back upon it and either praise or damn the decision. Meanwhile, everyone will be footing the bill—so, hopefully, everyone will inform themselves of the facts, both educational and economic, and prepare to make a careful but significant decision through their representatives at the special Town Meeting.

What Progress Cancer Research?

How soon can we expect a cure for cancer?

It is a disease of tremendous complexity, yet research gains already made have led some scientists to predict we will see the problem solved within our lifetime.

There is reason for this hopeful outlook. Within the short span of 25 years, we have made such progress as this:

A drug has been developed in treating a rare type of cancer found in women after pregnancy. It is the first solid tumor ever to respond favorably to chemotherapy.

The "Pap" smear was developed, making it possible to discover uterine cancer cells in an early and curable stage. The mortality rate of cancer of the uterus, once the most feared of all forms of cancer in women, has dropped 50 per cent in 25 years.

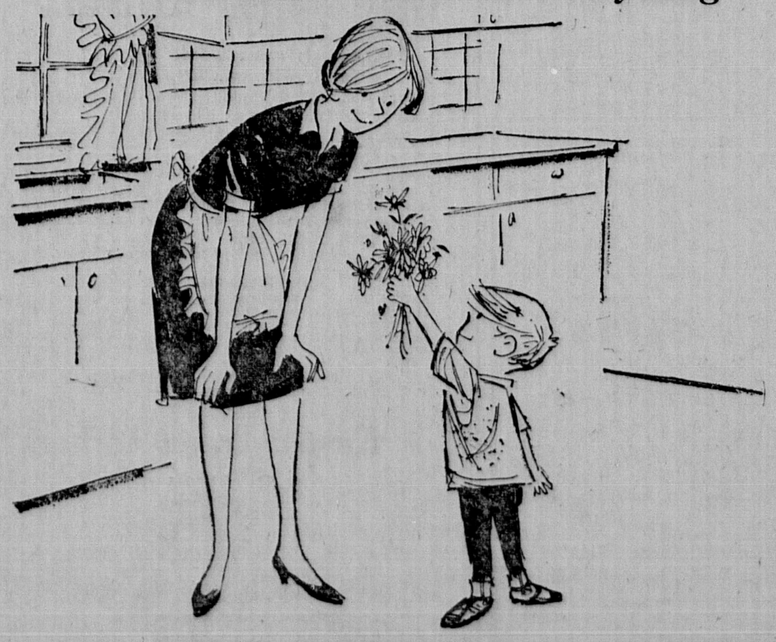
At present, there is no preventive or cure for leukemia, but the lives of patients are being prolonged with new combinations of drugs, and many scientists believe that cures will be found for this type of cancer sooner than for any other cancer.

Hundreds of scientists in many branches of cancer research are working long hours in laboratories across the country to find new clues to fathom the mysteries of a disease which takes the lives of more than 800 Americans a day.

The head of one of the largest research centers has said, "People think there is a lot of money available for cancer. There really isn't. There are many things we wish could be done. . ."

This is worth keeping in mind when you are asked to contribute to the American Cancer Society during its annual April Crusade against Cancer. The pace of support for cancer research must be stepped up to bring closer the day of victory. Your dollars can help.

For The Mom Who Has Everything



Dr. Leo Leroy Beranek — Head of World's Largest Acoustical Firm

Winchester And The Prudential Auditorium

By Barbara Powers

What goes into the life of a small town Iowa boy to make him grow up and become president of the largest acoustical consulting firm in the world?

Why does Winchester have a right to some familial pride in the good reviews which marked the christening of the new Prudential Center War Memorial Auditorium in Boston two weeks ago?

The answers to both questions are found in the story of Dr. Leo Leroy Beranek of 7 Ledgewood Road, 50-year-old president of Bolt Beranek and Newman Incorporated of Cambridge.

When Dr. Beranek and his wife Phyllis entered the hall for the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera's one week spring stay here, they looked just like most of the others there—handsome, elegant and pleased to be there. But inside of them there was a different kind of, and slightly less comfortable, excitement.

To be sure when Boston Pops Orchestra opened the vast new hall earlier, its acoustics had a preliminary test and the reviewers gave qualified, quasi-positive judgments; but the experts were waiting for the Met's appearance before they could really know. To be sure Dr. Beranek is his company's president and the detailed and day to day work on the auditorium was carried out by two other lieutenants in the company; but if it was a flop, he was sure to be blamed.

DR. LEO L. BERANEK

So the opera's opening in the auditorium was for Dr. Beranek much as the opening of a Broadway play is to its author. Only it's easier to rewrite a second act than it is to change the acoustics of a tremendous public hall.

The Beraneks didn't sit up for the next day's reviews—they didn't have to—but they were more pleased than most, and also relieved, that the Boston papers' music reviewers gave the hall as good if not better notices than they did Saint-Saens' "Sampson et Dalila," the performance which made the test.

"It seems that Boston has a workable opera house—an all purpose hall in which it is altogether possible to see, hear and enjoy an opera," said the Globe's sharply critical and often acid Michael Steinberg.

"Yes is the answer to the Boston War Memorial's operatic acoustics —the beginning of a new era," said Robert Taylor in the Herald.

And, "This hall is acoustically excellent, if not superb," said the Monitor. Lovely words to hear.

Dr. Beranek has known much success but he has tasted failure, too and with it the wails and crys of the music critics. They did a sound job of cutting up his company in September, 1962 after the opening of the New York Philharmonic Hall for the Performing Arts in Lincoln Center.

He appears to take it all with a quiet equanimity, a blend of scientific detachment and personal philosophy.

In "Music, Acoustics and Architecture" (John Wiley, 1962), his fourth book, Dr. Beranek has this to say: "The art of music and science of sound must fuse if criteria are to be established for the design of halls in which music is to be played, since the experience of music can never be divorced from the acoustics of the space in which it is performed.

"Depending on how a hall affects what they hear, the musicians play differently; both consciously and unconsciously they adjust their performances to the acoustics. The hall must transfer their music to the listeners preserving the musical qualities of intimacy, definition, timbre, balance, and dynamic range; it must contribute fullness of tone, loudness, and a wide range of crescendo and decrescendo. In short, a fine hall enhances the music in some ways, without detracting from it in others."

Blending and fusing are key words here and they also took place to make this man of science who is in addition a performer of music.

In Solon, Iowa, just outside Cedar Rapids, Leo Beranek, son of a hardware merchant, knew at the age of eight that he wanted to be a scientist. From his early school introduction he wished to go on and on investigating and learning, just as he is doing.

At the same time, probably, he thinks, at the suggestion of his mother who was a rather good pianist, he took up the bass horn in school. His inclination changed to percussion, however, and he soon was experimenting with the sounds of trap drums. In high school he added kettle drums, travelling to Chicago to take from the kettle drummer in the Symphony there. From there consistently and profitably up through graduate study he was a tympanist, playing with the Cedar Rapids Symphony and, to allay the cost of college, in a good dance band and elsewhere.

Although lack of time has since dictated much less playing, he is still a practising listener and stalwart friend of music. Two years ago when the Boston Opera Company opened its season in the Winchester High School auditorium, Dr. Beranek was its president. He is still on its board of directors. And he is at present president of the Cambridge Society for Early Music.

Must one be a musician to be a consultant acoustician? "No, but it helps." One staff member in the Cambridge firm holds a union card and plays the bassoon regularly in Cambridge groups.

His first experience in practical acoustics came when he was an undergraduate in Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa where ("because they knew I was interested in these things") he was asked to build a recording studio for the speech class. This in turn led him, when during the low depression years of 1934 he dropped out to earn money to continue his education, to a job in a national radio company in Cedar Rapids working with microphones, loudspeakers and other attributes of communications for use in airplanes. Back at college he operated a radio repair business in his spare time.

Dr. Beranek went on to Harvard for graduate work in physics and communications engineering. He earned his M. Sc. in 1937 and his D. Sc. in 1940 with a thesis on architectural acoustics. The wartime communications research in his Harvard lab, which he directed from 1941 to 1946, gave another emphasis and boost to his research, making him an expert in projects aimed at reducing noise in long-range bombers, tanks and motors among other things. After the war he combined work at Harvard and MIT and from 1947 to 1958 was associate professor of communications engineering at MIT.

He is still a guest lecturer at the Institute and has lectured on acoustics all over the world from Finland to Buenos Aires and in London and at Oxford.

In 1948 he formed his partnership with Dr. Richard Bolt, the company's board chairman, and Professor Robert B. Newman, its vice president. They incorporated in 1953 and became almost immediately the largest firm for acoustical engineering in the world. They are continually at work all over the world and usually have about ten concert halls under construction at the same time. At the moment, among others, they are consulting for two in Germany, one in the Philippines, one in Milwaukee, one in Houston, Texas.

Dr. Beranek's handsome volume on "Music, Acoustics and Architecture" (with foreword by Eugene Ormandy) makes history in his chosen science, a relatively new one and one the progress of which is wedded to the development of electronics. In it he gives the acoustical particulars of 53 of the best concert halls in the world; he buries many of the myths of his practice, such as the one that broken wine bottles beneath the stage are good for the acoustics of a hall and he outlines the basics of his science.

The new War Memorial Auditorium in Boston? It is typical of the kind of job for which the company each year fills contracts: a big, all purpose, municipal hall in which concerts may be given. William Cavanaugh and David Klepper of his firm were in charge, working with architects Hoyle, Doran and Berry.

The hall is over a million cubic feet and seats more than twice the number of Boston's top rated Symphony Hall. But even so one hears and sees opera with comfort and ease as this reporter discovered at the Saturday afternoon rendition of Menotti's "Last Savage" where the light voice of Roberta Peters gave the acoustics quite a test.

"The worst hazard to acoustical consulting is the oft encountered last minute cut in funds given to the architect." This means that all early studies and plans are laid aside or compromised. The acoustical engineer can foresee trouble and maybe even disaster, but he can only weep and hope for the best. He is simply not in charge.

Does he have a favorite among his concert hall endeavors? There were quite a few favorites, Dr. Beranek thought when interviewed here in his comfortable, simple, modern home; but he might pick out the acoustical face-lifting job the firm did at the Tanglewood Music Shed in Lenox. There they were given a very free hand to work and the results were signally successful and everyone was delighted.

In the field of acoustics Dr. Beranek's firm is busy both with what might be called the positive—or creating for listening—kind, and the negative—or noise reduction—kind. However, as of now the firm has so developed that only 20% of the time of its 280 employees is spent on acoustics, the rest goes toward computer technology and such things as underwater studies.

Dr. Beranek lives here with his wife, the former Phyllis Knight of Jamaica Plain, and two sons, James Knight, a senior at St. Mark's School and Thomas Haynes, at the Belmont Day School.

His books and art objects tell the story of a man who travels the world with much discernment and great interest; but one of the most charming things in his living room is a lovely old 1908 Edison phonograph "morning glory horn" through which he can play wax disc renditions of such comfortable oldies as Harry Lauder's by-gone favorites.

Jean Bodman Off To Afghanistan With Peace Corps

Jean W. Bodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bodman of 18 Wedgemere Avenue, has been named a Peace Corps Volunteer after completing three months of training at the Experiment in International Living, Brattleboro, Vermont. She left on May 3 for Afghanistan.

Jean went through the lower schools here and then to Dana Hall where she was graduated in 1960. She was graduated last June from the University of Colorado.

The group of volunteers with which she is travelling will join others already at work teaching in Kabul, the capital city, and also begin a rural community development program.

JEAN BODMAN

At Brattleboro they learned, among other things an introductory course in Farsi, the basic tongue of the area.

Most of the Volunteer teachers will teach English for as in many other developing nations, Afghan leaders realize that knowledge of English is a key to economic and technological development and international trade.

The rural development workers will help the villagers to define their problems and work together toward solutions. They will undertake elementary construction projects like bridges, irrigation ditches, small school houses and others.

About 100 Volunteers already are in Afghanistan, working in education, health projects, public works and public administration.

In addition to technical instruction, these Volunteers studied the history and culture of Afghanistan, United States history and world affairs.

The departing Volunteers join the 10,000 other Peace Corpsmen now working in 46 nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America. Despite these numbers, many more Volunteers are needed. Applicants interested in starting a two-year Peace Corps assignment this summer should complete and submit a Peace Corps Questionnaire as soon as possible and take the Peace Corps Placement Test, which is given throughout the country the second Saturday of each month. All pertinent information can be obtained at post offices.

MAN AND HIS SYMBOLS

edited with an introductory chapter by Carl G. Jung

"Sweet dreams," we say, but not all our dreams are sweet. If you have ever heard anyone screaming during a terrifying nightmare, would you guess that the contents of the unconscious mind was causing such an experience?

In his last book, Carl Jung explains to the general reader his greatest contribution to our knowledge of the human mind: the theory of the importance of symbolism as revealed in dreams and the part that the unconscious mind plays.

Why dream and why do symbols occur (sometimes) in dreams and what do they mean? And where does the unconscious mind come in?

Jung writes, "the general function of dreams is to try to restore our psychological balance by producing dream material that re-establishes, in a subtle way, the total psychic equilibrium. This is what I call the complementary role of dreams in our psychic make-up. It explains why people who have unrealistic ideas or too high an opinion of themselves, or who make grandiose plans out of proportion to their real capacities, have dreams of flying or falling."

There are certain psychotic associations to our thoughts, feelings, and everyday happenings. These stay on the level of the conscious thought. In dreams, these subliminal aspects of our entire mental life play a great part. They sometimes express themselves in symbols. In dreams, the symbols have so much psychotic energy that we are forced to give them our undivided attention.

Jung cites a case history of a lady who was well known for her stupid prejudices and her stubborn resistance to reasoned argument. "Her dreams, however, took a different line of approach. One night, she dreamed she was attending an important social occasion. She was greeted by the hostess with the words: 'How nice that you could come. All your friends are here, and they are waiting for you.' The hostess then led her to the door and opened it, and the dreamer stepped through—into a cowshed!"

The "something more" to make us change our attitudes and behavior is supplied by such dreams—a message from the subconscious mind.

Jung remarks that no dream symbol can be separated from the individual who dreams it, and there is no definite or straightforward interpretation of any dream. The symbols that may appear in dreams can be individual or collective in origin, primitive or cultural.

Occasionally a person will have a dream in which there are mental forms present which cannot be explained by anything in the individual's own life. Freud called them "Archaic remnants," and Jung, "archetypes." These have come out of the biological, prehistoric and unconscious development of the mind in archaic man. For Jung feels that the mind has an evolutionary history as does our physical body.

Such dreams are baffling and apparently almost unsolvable. They contain images which cannot be related to anything known or anything remembered. Jung, who has a delightful sense of humor, relates one such instance.

"I vividly recall the case of a professor who had a sudden vision and thought he was insane. He came to me in a state of complete panic. I simply took a 400-year-old book from the shelf and showed him an old woodcut depicting his very vision. 'There's no reason for you to believe that you're insane,' I said to him. 'They knew about your vision 400 years ago.' Whereupon he sat down entirely deflated, but once more normal."

Jungian psychological concepts are too numerous to go into this type of review. Other essays by his followers make up certain ancient myths and modern man, the process of individuation, symbols in art, and symbols in an individual analysis.

This book, with over 500 illustrations, written for the general public, was itself brought to fruition because of a dream. Just how important a dream it was is told by John Freeman in the introduction.

Town Response To Social Change Is Questioned

Editor of the Star:

The response of the town of Winchester to changing social conditions presents an interesting case study. At a time when the basic struggle for freedom of suppressed minorities is being waged in all points of the world it is only natural that concerned people should look for its meaning not only for our society as a whole but for our own community as well.

It is difficult for most of us to see what relationship exists between the Negro drive for freedom and the social climate of Winchester. There is an underlying uneasiness on the part of most of our people that a relationship does exist.

There is a feeling that something disturbing is happening in America that does have some bearing on the lives of all of us. But we are unwilling to recognize or examine what direct effect it must of necessity have on each of us or on the life of our community.

This is a very natural reaction to a condition that lies unseen beneath the surface of our daily lives. Nobody likes to be told about a hidden and unrecognized disease. As long as a community is not dramatically and painfully confronted with a serious moral issue it tends to deny that the issue exists. They seems to be a widespread but unspoken hope that, if we shut our eyes, the issues will disappear or that the Racial revolution will change society without affecting our own relatively peaceful lives or the life of our community.

We must not delude ourselves. It is only a matter of time before the inevitably swift march of time must catch up with Winchester. The momentum of this social revolution is much too powerful and too relentless to be stopped for long outside our town limits.

The question the responsible citizens of Winchester must ask themselves is not when but how are we going to react to the inevitable. We may be able to delay our decision for a very short time but, if we do, we face the very real possibility of a more disturbing crisis.

For those who are unable to see the urgency of the issue, who are unable to believe that a crisis already exists in Winchester, it is well to point out that at least three times within the past year responsible Negro families have attempted to buy homes in our town and have been turned away.

The reactions of a number of our citizens have been nothing less than shocking.

Have our individual consciences and our community conscience been asleep? Do we profess to all the noble ideals of Democracy and Christianity but contradict them by our behavior?

Are we really any better than the racists of Mississippi and Alabama?

Have our community and church leaders, like those in the South, closed their eyes in the hope that this is all a bad dream that will somehow vanish?

Are we, each of us, going to allow ourselves to drift into the future, hoping against hope that the issue will go away?

The crisis is upon us and demands a decision—NOW.

Sincerely yours,
Francis X. Hurley

For the Sake Of Recreation

Editor of the Star:

For the sake of teenagers, we strongly feel that a matter of building a recreation center in Winchester should be taken into consideration more importantly than the recently organized Swim Club mentioned in the Star of April 29th.

Traffic Situations Around Town Are Discussed by Citizen Critic

Editor of the Star:

In spite of all the dog-talk in the Star and in spite of the fifteen hundred or so more or less untrained dogs roaming the streets it would not be correct to state that Winchester has gone or even is going to the dogs.

On the other hand the state of perfection which, I am sure, is the aim of our various authorities still, in some areas, seems distant enough to form only an indistinct blur or is even entirely invisible.

Some citizens may even feel that the Town Hall zeal to achieve perfection is not as evenly multi-directional as it might be. They point to the recent resurfacing of Church Street as an example of over-eagerness on the part of the Highway Department, for a state inspector is rumored to have stated that this particular street was perfectly good for another five years. These citizens suggest that the Highway Department take another look at, say, Spruce Street.

Now Spruce Street, for the information of our opulent citizens on the west side who may be ignorant of the fact that the town extends beyond the end of Church Street in the center, runs from Swanton Street to the by-pass. Sometime ago it was gashed more or less from one end to the other by some town department or some utility authorized by the town.

Whoever did it evidently regards the people on Spruce Street as second-class citizens, for it is utterly inconceivable that, say, Everett Avenue or Church Street would have been left even momentarily in the disgraceful condition in which Spruce Street apparently is to be left permanently.

I could also mention my own Street. Last summer Valley Road, which is an extension of Orient Street or vice versa, was resurfaced, but not Orient Street which gets just as much wear from trucks delivering to the Hospital.

And isn't it, incidentally, a bit puzzling that these lumbering trucks are permitted to drive on Orient Street which, no doubt, like all such streets, is a piece of meadow more or less thinly black-topped, whereas they are forbidden to traverse Highland Avenue which is more likely to be a properly constructed street.

But lest my fellow citizens gather the impression that, in spite of my introductory remarks, I am of the opinion that the town is going to the dogs, let me hurry to assure them that such is not the case. Improvement may be detected here and there.

Take traffic lights, for instance. After my letter dealing with the subject some time ago the dangerously short yellow phase of the cycle at the crossing of Forest and Washington Streets was actually lengthened, and though the green phase is now quite short for those who drive along Forest Street, the situation is much safer.

On the other hand I am still puzzled about the traffic light situation. I am curious to know who is in charge. One day some men from the Forestry Department where fixing the light at Forest and Washington, and, as I remember it, they assured me that they were the ones to do it. I am sure there is some clear logic behind this, but at the moment it escapes me. It might, to be sure, explain why traffic lights in Winchester are, so to speak, played or frolicked with in such seemingly irrational fashion.

It might even be sort of poetic to imagine that, say, wood nymphs, airy and playful friends of the men in the Forestry Department, roam our fair town in the night time and play pranks of various kinds. This may seem fanciful and farfetched, but does it make better sense to assume that rational men (our Selectmen) have empowered other presumably rational men to fool around with the traffic lights the way it is done?

And speaking of traffic lights, I still think the red-yellow blinking lights on Highland Avenue at the Parkway should be reversed. At the very least a Yield sign should be placed at the end of Mt. Vernon Street which ends at Highland Avenue. The number of drivers who come tearing up Mt. Vernon Street at high speed and obviously under the impression that they have absolute right at the intersection is too great for safety.

Finally let me mention one or two more potentially dangerous traffic situations in Winchester. Those familiar with the town know that Forest Street west of Washington Street runs in a sort of double S or question mark fashion into Cross Street. But at one point Clematis Street runs from Washington Street into Forest Street in a straight line and at another point Brookside Avenue or Andrews Street does the same. It is quite evident that drivers coming out of or going into these streets to or from Forest Street think that they have the right of way. Recently a driver drove along Clematis Street from Washington Street at what seemed a rather high speed and continued on Forest Street without casting even a casual glance at cars coming along the latter street on his right. Now, maybe the straight line does give these people the right of way, but along Forest Street runs a yellow center line all the way to Cross Street and at Cross Street there is a street sign indicating the beginning of Forest Street. A couple of Yield signs would seem to be in order here before two drivers who insist on their presumed right of way have a collision.

Sincerely yours,
Kaspar O. Myrvaagnes

On Pigeons, "Ridiculousness" And People

Editor of the Star:

At the risk of sounding like some kind of a nut, I'm going to go to bat for the pigeons once more.

We are getting quite thoroughly fed up with the continual use of the terms "health hazard" and "potential health nuisance" used in reference to pigeons. They may create a certain amount of soil where they roost, which can be hosed off easily, but they are personally clean and are not—I repeat Not—a health hazard.

Dr. John D. Schneidau, Jr., in "Science," February 7, 1964, said "that the organism supposedly spread by pigeons is present in "a variety of natural substances, including soil, fruit juices, and milk—thus, humans are constantly exposed to the fungus, whether pigeons are present or not." Other medical men have come forward since then and corroborated his statement, so that any remarks to the contrary are sheer bunk, and simply scare tactics used by the misinformed, or those who, through ignorance or a complete lack of humane understanding, want to get ride of these harmless birds. From the front page headlines, these people make it sound as if Winchester had a plague of seventeen year locusts.

Our town's newest solution to it's so-called "pigeon problem"—that of turning the birds over to a dog training club—is callous, indeed, as anyone knows who has ever watched these trials. To say that it is unpleasant for the birds, is to put it mildly.

There's an interesting editorial in the Louisville, Kentucky, Courier-Journal for Monday, April 12, 1965, which begins, "one of the marks of a civilized human being is a decent concern for the suffering of dumb animals. Carried to extremes, such an interest may become obsessive and hysterical. But callous disregard for the plight of dumb creatures puts man himself in the category of the more savage beasts." You can figure out for yourself where this puts some of our Winchester residents!

And speaking of "health hazards," what about that revolting fad so popular among some teenagers and college students the past few summers—that of going barefoot everywhere, even on city streets and sidewalks? I've never seen a word against that dirty custom, by any health authority in our own or any other paper, but can you just imagine what those kids walk on? Ugh! And to think that in our house we even take our shoes off before we go in, rather than track germs through the house!

All I can say is, there isn't a pigeon anywhere that's as germladen as the average person, and—I was about to say that 'you don't see anyone advocating exterminating people,' when it occurred to me that people are doing a pretty good job of exterminating themselves.

Anyway, let's stop beating that dead horse about pigeons and health, and let's stop picking on harmless birds. It's like trying to kill a gnat with a hatchet. This hysteria reminds me of the days of witchcraft, when lies, superstition and panic spread everywhere, about innocent people.

This pigeon business has been magnified out of all proportion and has gotten ridiculous. I'm sure Winchester has other problems to solve. This is Be Kind to Animals Week, and that ought to include the pigeons, those "scavengers" who go around cleaning up the refuse left by people.

Sincerely yours,
Claudia Kelty Edgell

Swim Club Has Open Membership; Invites Members

Editor of the Star:

Your editorial concerning the Winchester Swim Club raised the question of whether the club would be open or closed. I would like to go on record for the club that we will be "open." Membership is "open" to any resident of Winchester. It will be "private" only in the sense that the users will support the club directly rather than through taxes.

We are currently accepting applications for charter membership on a first come basis. Charter membership will close May 10. Thereafter new members will be assessed an initiation fee.

To prevent overcrowding only 200 members will be accepted. This limitation is not imposed to create exclusiveness. Rather it is required in order to maintain high standards for health, safety and control.

Our primary purpose is to provide a first class swimming facility. All those in favor with this purpose are cordially invited to join with us.

Sincerely,
Barnard E. Smith
Membership Chairman,
Swim Club

At their organizational meeting, Mr. Cutts was elected president, Mr. Ludlam, vice-president, Mr. Johnson, treasurer, and Mrs. Helen Shasta, secretary.

The investment policy of Common Mutual Trust will be conservative and the trustees hope to achieve reasonable income and growth of principal. The Trust will provide for its shareholders a medium through which they can combine their savings into a common fund and thus help cut the risks inherent in the stock market by diversification and also to protect themselves against inflation and the erosion of the value of the dollar; the monthly payment plan will insure averaging.

The Trust plans to use the facilities of the local banks.

Judge Cullen

"You have heard Rep. Contalonis read the Proclamation of the President, pointing out that today is an occasion for the American people to rededicate themselves to our nation's ideals of equality and justice under the law, and to our responsibilities as free men. To this we wholeheartedly concur.

"Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, speaking before the Suffolk Bar Association in 1885, summed up his talk by stating 'the law, as in a magic mirror, We see reflected not only our own lives, but the lives of all men that have been.'

JUDGE FRANCIS P. CULLEN

"We might all take this day and opportunity, to look back in retrospect on our own lives regarding the laws of our community, our state and our nation.

"While we here in this free Democracy observe Law Day, those behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains use the occasion to celebrate their 'May Day,' flouting to those who believe...and those who are made to believe...in the ideals of Communism and all its aspects.

"J. Edgar Hoover in a recent law enforcement bulletin stated...Americans should view with alarm the growing lack of respect for law and order. We have seen what occurs when extremists are encouraged by irresponsibility on the part of those charged with maintaining law and order. On the other hand, who is to say what damage is done to the impressionable minds of our young people who witness, or are urged to join in, activities in which participants defy constituted authority with no apparent misgivings and go unpunished. Abuse of the law is a dangerous practice for freedom-loving people, and there can be no exceptions to compliance, for we know "Where Law Ends, There Tyranny Begins."

"All Americans can contribute to a lawful and orderly society, by upholding the Constitution of the United States, and by recognizing and respecting the rights of others, regardless of their station in life.

"This is Law Day U.S.A....May we ever be mindful of it,...and mindful of our forebears who made it all possible.

"I would like to sum up this observance with a personal favorite of mine "the american creed" written by William Tyler Page, Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives in 1917...

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a Democracy in a Republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states, a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of Freedom, Equality, Justice and Humanity for which American Patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my Country to love; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its Flag and to defend it against all enemies."

Drive

"In the course of the past twenty years college expenses, both private and state, have doubled," Mr. Schaefer said. "It is our duty to the young people of Winchester High School to meet this need with our generous support," he added.

The committee described the main points of its program:

1. No child graduating from Winchester High School should go without higher education beyond high school for lack of finances;

2. Every citizen in Winchester should partake in this program to "Buy A Share."

Contributions may be sent to Charles Butler, treas., Winchester Trust Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Abernathy of Oak Street are members of the Irish American Associates of Middlesex County which will present a Spring Festival of music, song and dance, featuring "Breath of the New Ireland," a documentary film of the New Ireland which will be flown from New York for this first and only showing. The social will be held Friday night, May 7th at Odd Fellows Hall, 536 Massachusetts Avenue, Central Square, Cambridge, beginning at 8 p.m.

Democratic Town Committee

The committee extends its warm congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. John Serieka on the occasion of their thirty-second wedding anniversary which they celebrated recently. May they enjoy at least thirty-two more happy years with their fine family and their many friends.

Several of the members are planning to attend the annual concert and dance of the Woburn Democratic City Committee next Sunday evening in that city. The Woburn committee is noted for the fine entertainment it always sponsors and for the warmth of its hospitality. Music will be provided by Lolly Gilgun's popular orchestra, with Lolly, himself, at the piano.

Lolly is Chairman Lawrence Gilgun of the Woburn Democratic City Committee. He is also assistant principal of Woburn High School.

Chairman Elizabeth McDonald has appointed Vice Chairman John Hogan, Robert Keeton, and Alan Simmons to serve as a committee to recommend what action we will take on a donation to the Harry S. Truman Memorial Library in the celebration of our former President's next birthday.

She has apointed, also, John Murphy, Jim Russo and Treasurer Bill Dailey as a committee to recommend what our interest will be in the Endicott Peabody dinner at the Statler Hilton Hotel on Sunday, May 23.

At our next meeting, which we hope to enjoy during the week of May 10, the date to be announced, our speaker will be John Pierce Lynch, Register of Deeds, Hampden County, who has requested an opportunity to speak to us.

Our social chairman, Bee Wilson, will handle the social part of this meeting.

Liz Phinney

Liz Phinney won the New England tryouts of the Metropolitan Opera and competed in the finals in New York. She will sing three selections.

MISS ELIZABETH PHINNEY

The Boston Opera Guild is what Life Magazine calls the "tin cup" operation of the Boston Opera. It was organized three years ago for the purpose of furthering Miss Caldwell's work in any way it could; by providing volunteers, by helping to sell subscriptions to the series, and to increase interest in opera not only in Boston but also in the suburbs.

Free opera for children has grown from the expanded activities of the Guild, and many Winchester children have attended open rehearsals through their efforts.

Opera study groups have helped to enrich the musical experience of adults who meet to discuss opera and to exchange knowledge about opera.

The ladies of the Guild have been disproving the oft-quoted idea that a "poet is not without honor save in his own country."

If Route 3 were to cut through the Country Club as per the plan set aside a few years ago, it would reduce the 18 hole golf course to a 9 hole course. The 14th and 15th holes would be eliminated, and also most of the 13th and 16th holes. There would be no way of replacing those holes, according to Rep. Chadwick. If this were to happen Winchester would lose its championship golf tournament course. It is possible, and has been speculated, that under the circumstances the Country Club might be forced to sell the remainder of its golf course.

The danger that the Route 3 extension might go through Winchester appears to be very real and serious, Rep. Chadwick said. He added that he thought it was imperative that the town should consider what it plans to do if the Winchester route comes to a head.

WHS Class of '40 Has 25th Reunion

On Saturday, May 1, 45 members of the class of 1940 at Winchester High School with husbands and wives enjoyed a 25th reunion banquet and dance at the Sons of Italy Hall in Winchester.

Also Doris (Ericson) Gamble, Earl Street, William Fiore, Martha (Hadley) Rockwell, Daniel Stygles, Donald Cass, Pauline (Lindsay) Ryfa, John Nash, Elizabeth (Nichols) Keyes, Emmons Ellis, Mildred (Colucci) Damon, Anthony DeTeso, Carl Tourtellot, Joann (Luongo) DeNapoli, Frances (Muraco) Sylvester, Kathryne (Sullivan) Gurney, Jean (Drake) Alvoed, Margaret (Callahan) Pettingell, Mildred (Rogers) Rivinius.

The reunion commenced with a cocktail hour starting at 6:30 p.m., and the banquet consisted of a delicious roast beef dinner. Members of the Winchester High School faculty were guests of honor: Mrs. Edward G. Stacy, retired head of the social studies department, Dana M. Cotton, former vocational advisor, and Wade L. Grindle, retired principal, and Mrs. Grindle.

Reunion chairman, Emmons Ellis, introduced each of the guests of honor, who extended their greetings to the class, and each received a hearty ovation.

Class Vice President Anthony DeTeso spoke of the profound influence many fine teachers had on his professional career. It was evident from the response that many classmates shared his high opinion of their high school faculty.

Paul Butterworth, as M. C., regaled everyone as he called upon each class member to comment upon his present status as compared to his yearbook prophesy.

Peter Galuffo awarded several prizes. Joe Becker came the farthest distance (Schenectady). Peg (Callahan) Pettingell had the oldest grandchild (3½). The man who had changed the least was Tony DeTeso, and the women, Pauline (Lindsay) Ryfa and Frances (Muraco) Sylvester. The parent with the youngest child was Dan Stygles. The class member who lived in the most states was June (Aitchison) Mustain. June has lived in five states and said that each of her five children was born in a different state. The last award was for the baldest pate, which was hotly contested by Dom Errico and Barney Vespucci.

A most enjoyable evening was spent renewing old acquaintances and recalling happy school-time memories. Members of the reunion committee were: Barbar Blake, Joe Butler, Peter Galuffo, Paul Butterworth, John Nash, Nancy (Nickerson) Ryder, and Emmons Ellis, chairman.

Luongo New Comdr. of VFW

Nick Luongo has been elected Commander of the Aberjona Post 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The annual election of officers of the Winchester Post was held on Tuesday, April 27 at their White Street quarters.

Commander-elect Luongo will succeed John Collins who has served as the leader of Post 3719 for the past year.

Other elected members of the officer's staff are Senior Vice Commander, Henry Connors; Junior Vice Commander, John Welch; Chaplain, Henry Heitz; Quartermaster, Clem Landry; Trustee for three years, John Collins; Trustee for one year, Stearns Wyman.

The installation of the new staff of officers is scheduled for Saturday, May 15 at the Christopher Columbus Club, 18 Raymond Place, Winchester at 7:30 p.m.

Logue

said on Monday that he felt the proposal was something the School Committee should investigate.

"I think we all have an obligation to the Boston area," Mr. Ellis said, "and I think it (Logue's proposal) would fit well with our educational development.

"On a limited basis I think it would be very worth-while," Mr. Ellis commented, "but I don't think anything would be accomplished on a permanent basis.

"Perhaps it could be worked out on a voluntary basis," he said.

When asked about the space problem, Mr. Ellis suggested that "maybe an exchange basis could take care of the space problem."

Superintendent of Schools Harry Gilson, commenting Tuesday on the Logue proposal, said that "if the state and the cities and towns decided this was the best way to achieve integration I would have no objection whatsoever."

Mr. Gilson raised the question who would pay for the bus transportation. He pointed out that if the town were to participate in such a program he did not think it should be obliged to pay for the transportation too.

Superintendent Gilson said he also felt there might be a question as to the legality of such a plan, saying:

"However desirable this proposal may be in improving race relations and better understanding, there is a major legal aspect that remains unanswered. I know of no law that permits a local school system to arbitrarily assign a given number of schoolchildren to another community."

While Mr. Logue's scatteration principle was applied in his statement to correcting racial imbalance in Hub education, some informed political observers feel he was actually speaking to the racial imbalances existing in suburban education. An expert in housing, Mr. Logue may have been, according to some observers, indirectly but forcefully pointing out that racial imbalances in suburban housing have contributed to the existing segregated imbalances in the Hub city's housing and education.

Cub Pack 525

Cub Scout Pack 525 recently had a stomping good meeting. All the boys made stilts with the assistance of their fathers and a stilt walking contest was held. All the boys demonstrated considerable skill in manipulating the stilts, and the judges had a difficult time choosing the winners. However, after careful consideration the judges determined that the following showed the most skill working the stilts:

Den 1—David Wright
Den 2—Paul Miller
Den 3—Gary Brefini
Den 4—Darien Rondeau
Den 5—Mike Corf
Den 6—Vincent Palumbo

The boys were also busy earning awards this past month and the results were as follows:

Den 1—Jimmy Staffier, a Wolf with Golden Arrow.
David Wright, one Gold and Silver Arrow.
Den 2—Eddie Pierce, a Wolf Badge with Gold and Silver Arrows.
Paul Miller, a Silver Arrow.
Den 3—Mike Gales, a Wolf Badge with Gold and Silver Arrows.
Den 4—Danny Ladd, Wolf.
Randy Morsch, Wolf with Gold and Silver Arrows.
Kevin Pierce, Wolf with Gold and Silver Arrows.
Timmy Porter, Wolf with Gold Arrow.
Darien Rondeau, Wolf with a Gold and two Silver Arrows.
Philip Toomajian, two Silver Arrows.
Den 5—Rupert Stanley, Wolf with Gold and Silver Arrows.
Joseph Medwar, one Silver Arrow.
Den 6—Paul Cormier, one Silver Arrow.
Scott Howard, a Gold and Silver Arrow.
Bruce Larson, one Gold Arrow.

This Friday evening the boys will stage their "Pinewood Derby" of homemade racing cars. It ought to be a lot of fun and all parents are encouraged to attend.

S. O. I. News

A forthcoming article will deal with our installation of officers, held last Sunday, May 2nd.

As could be expected Arthur Dunbar had his hands full on his first meeting as Venerable of our Lodge which was held this past Monday, May 3rd. Arthur took a lot of riding etc., but we must admit that he was very sharp on his replies. Before the meeting was over all kidding was put aside and as Mike D. Saraco put it "we are going to stand behind Arthur and his officers and give them all the help that they will need to make Art's term of office as successful as the ones before him have been."

Our district deputy Ed Tarrullo spoke early in the meeting because he had to attend another meeting. He congratulated all the out-going officers for the fine job they had done, and wished Arthur and his new officers continued success.

We welcome two new members into our Lodge who were installed at this meeting and they were Denis Benard and Frank Costa, Jr.

Ex-Venerable Bob Fiore reported that he is fast getting two bowling teams together to compete in the Grand Lodge Bowling Roll Off which will be held on Sunday afternoon May 23rd and will be at the Woburn lanes. We came in third place last year, and there are hopes of doing better this year.

Mel Fiore reported that the softball team is now being formed and any member wishing to play please contact him or write their names on the notice on the club bulletin board.

Scoutmaster Bob Fiore hopes to see many members down at the Boy Scout Jamboree which will be held this coming Saturday, May 8th at Manchester Field. There will be a parade which will start at 10:45 and our own Troop No. 1580 will march in it. Bob hopes to see you down at our scout booth so that you may see just what our youngsters have been doing in the way of scouting, etc.

Chairman Frank A. Dattilo of the degree team reported that the team will be at the Newton S.O.I. Lodge this coming Sunday to install the officers of their lodge. They will be at the Woburn S.O.I. quarters the following week to install their officers.

We hear from his family that our good brother Neno Marchesi has come out of the hospital this past Saturday and is at home coming along very well after his operation. Get well soon Neno, and we hope to see you up and around again in the near future.

We must congratulate brother Moose Bellino and his wife Dagmar on the birth of their fourth child which was born April 29th; it is their first boy.

Giant Rummage Sale May 13

A much-anticipated event on the spring calendar is the Giant Rummage Sale, sponsored by the Ways and Means Committee, Women's Association, of the First Congregational Church.

This year, the sale is Thursday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Chidley Hall. Mrs. Herbert Clark and Mrs. Lawrence Beckley are co-chairmen of the sale, assisted by a large and enthusiastic committee.

Doors will open to the public promptly at 10, and there will be no selling on the night before the sale. The committee has been given many boxes of unusually lovely dresses, coats, suits and items for children, as well as choice bric-a-brac and linens. Hats right in style and lovely handbags are also being marked at bargain prices.

One department will be reserved for "deluxe" clothing—dresses etc. that are new or expensive and should go to "the right buyer." All are welcome to this sale on May 13. apr29-2t

Republicans Give A New Boost To 1965 Fund Drive

Winchester Republicans are being contacted both by letter and by personal solicitation for their annual contribution to the Republican Party.

At the Republican Town Committee Meeting held at the Town Hall on April 29th, Harrison Chadwick stressed the need for maximum fund raising effort this year. He noted the need to lay the foundation for next year's campaign with its important four year term for constitutional officers. Mr. Chadwick, chairman of the Republican Town Committee spoke from personal experience in the problems of financing political campaigns. He is also Winchester's Representative in the General Court.

The Massachusetts Republican Finance Committee is trying to enroll 100,000 Massachusetts Republicans as Sustaining Members of the Republican Party with an annual contribution of $5.00. Contributions should be mailed to either of the Winchester Finance Committee Co-chairmen, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery at 5 Curtis Street or Mr. George Pettersen at 5 Fairlane Terrace.

Long-Term Gains

★ "WHAT DOTH it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his immortal soul?" And what, in the long run, does it profit a man of professional stature, if he should tamper with the ethics of his profession in order to make immediate gains? Confidence and trust, once shaken by even the hint of suspicion, never can be regained. Our organization has been built upon a foundation of trust and confidence which has supported our growth over the years.

Griffin to Head Home Heat Counc.

John J. Griffin of 31 Lincoln Street was elected chairman of the Better Home Heat Council, at the group's annual meeting.

JOHN J. GRIFFIN

A vice-president of Metropolitan Petroleum of Massachusetts, Griffin has been president of the Massachusetts Oil Heating Association and is director, New England Fuel Institute.

The oil and heating equipment industry has been Griffin's profession since 1937 when he joined Household Fuel of Waltham after a year of teaching in Somerville. From there he proceeded to Marcy Fuel which soon merged with Metropolitan Petroleum. He was appointed vice-president of Metropolitan Petroleum in 1957.

A busy man, even outside the fuel industry, Griffin is a past president of the Boston College Alumni Association; a Past Grand Knight, Mt. Benedict Council No. 75; a Trustee of the Somerville City Hospital, Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanian Veteran, and an active United Fund campaigner. In 1962, in recognition of his contribution to these and other civic and community organizations, he was awarded the much respected McKenney Medal, an annual presentation to the "Boston College Alumnus of the Year."

What leisure time Mr. Griffin manages to squeeze into his busy schedule is spent reading, playing golf, or just plain enjoying himself at home with his wife Rita and their 7 children: John, Jr., Dennis, MaryAnne, Robert, Cecilia, Alice and Kate.

Auxiliary Names Two WHS Girls For Girls' State

Mrs. Fred J. Cause, vice president of Unit No. 97, and chairman of Girls' State, has announced that Miss Caroline Root of 14 Winthrop Street has been chosen by Unit No. 97 American Legion Auxiliary, with the assistance of W. Howard Niblock, principal and Miss Constance Trickett of the Guidance Department of the Winchester High School, as its representative to the 21st Annual Massachusetts Girls' State scheduled to convene at Bridgewater State College, June 11th to 18th.

Miss Constance Voges of 2 Wedge Pond Road, has been chosen alternate in the event Miss Root is unable to attend. Both Caroline and Connie have been chosen from among those in the upper third of the junior class for leadership, character, courage and honesty, the qualifications set forth by the Department of Massachusetts, Inc., American Legion Auxiliary.

Caroline Root is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell A. Root of 14 Winthrop Street. She moved to Winchester from California at the age of three and has received her education in the Winchester schools.

She is an editor of the Red and Black, secretary of the Debate Club, a member of the math team, and an officer of the French Club. Caroline has always loved to sing and is in the double sextette and a member of Les Troubadors, the school's French singing group. She also plays clarinet in the High School band.

Outside of school, Caroline is active in the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church, being a member of the Student Council and the Forum Choir. She is in her tenth year as a Girl Scout and is secretary-treasurer of her troop. And as a "Candy Striper" for the past two years, she has enjoyed service at the Winchester Hospital.

Constance Voges is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Voges of 2 Wedge Pond Road. She came to Winchester from Stoneham and has attended Winchester schools since the second grade.

Her favorite subject at WHS is French. Her extra-curricular activities include the French Club and Curtain and Cue. Afternoons she may be found working at the Winchester Hospital and in her spare time she has become a talented seamstress and makes many of her own clothes. She belongs to the Church of the Epiphany and is a member of the Young People's Fellowship there. Her hopes for the future include continued study of French and possibly a trip to France.

J. William O'Donnell of 35 Washington Street, president of Suffolk Farms Packing Company, Inc., of Chelsea, has been reappointed by Governor John A. Volpe as a trustee of the Danvers State Hospital. He has served on this Board for over 22 years. Mr. O'Donnell is also a trustee of the Chelsea Memorial Hospital

It seems that my wife (and the mother of my two lovely daughters) will have some very special attention coming her way this Sunday, May 9th. For it is Mother's Day—and do not make the large error of forgetting her. First, you're not supposed to let it slip your mind; and secondly, she most certainly does not deserve to be neglected. Women make many funny comments about our wives in the spirit of fun, and, I think, to cover up the fact that our great manliness prohibits getting sentimental about them. But those jokes are a lot of hogwash because we know how important our wives are and how helpless we great males would be without them. I'm in a difficult position about a gift because it would not take much imagination just to select a gift from my shop for her. So it will be a set of new golf clubs, which I know she does want. But for you other husbands and sons and daughters we have the nicest gifts for your mothers or wives in our Lady Bountiful Shop. Dora and Barbara (our lovely salesgirls) will assist you in your selections and gift wrap your purchases. It's easy — just leave money or charge it—very painless. And best of all, we are right at her doorstep if an exchange has to be made. Why wear out tires and burn a lot of high-test gas going miles to correct a size or color. Well, I've made my pitch. I have reminded you of the occasion. I've waxed philosophical about the whole matter. The rest is up to you. I've already gift-wrapped the golf clubs. If you get belted with a five iron because you forgot—DON'T blame me.

Honoring A Notable

Sarah Caldwell Speaks To Wheaton Club

On Thursday evening, April 29, the Winchester-Lexington Wheaton Club met for its final meeting of the season at the home of Dr. Victoria Cass of 4 Myopia Hill Road.

Mrs. William Budd, chairman of the group, presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Sarah Caldwell, the intriguing artistic director of The Boston Opera Company. Dressed in her customary "blue serge suit," Miss Caldwell entertained her audience with humorous anecdotes of her early musical background in Missouri, her training at the New England Conservatory, and some of her unique problems in producing opera in Boston.

After a lively question period, a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. Alexander Pugh, III in charge. Mrs. Raymond J. Carter poured coffee and Mrs. Bernard Japy presided at the punch bowl.

The following local alumnae will serve on the board for the coming year; chairman, Mrs. William B. Budd; publicity, Mrs. William M. Burrows; alumnae scholarship, Mrs. Alexander F. Pugh, III, and treasurer, Mrs. Rosemary Layzer.

Women's Fellowship Baptist Church

Do not miss the women's annual fellowship banquet on Tuesday, May 18, at 6:30 p.m. in the social hall. We will be served Lilly Kempe's famous buffet at $3.25 per person. This includes entertainment presented by the well-known Baptist Hospital Nurses' Glee Club. You will be contacted by phone. Please say "yes," and better yet, pay for your ticket in advance to insure a reservation. may6-2t

Good Report From March of Dimes

"The 1965 March of Dimes Campaign in Winchester has exceeded last year's results by $930.02," announced Walter T. Anzoni, Campaign chairman in Winchester. "Last year we collected $3,080.82, and this year we collected $4,010.84.

"Had it not been for the laudable efforts of our splendid volunteers, the drive to finance the fight of the March of Dimes against birth defects would not have been possible. Thanks to them, many children will be saved from a life of crippling and disaster," Mr. Anzoni stated.

Gay May Meeting For MSPCA

"Making the Most of You" is the intriguing title of the talk to be given by Mrs. Walter Wilcox, Jr. of Arlington, to the members of the MSPCA, Winchester chapter, at their annual meeting on Monday May 10th at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, 4 Curtis Circle.

A former Winchester resident, (Mrs. Betty Bolster, now very active in the Portland, Maine animal shelter program, will be an honored guest.

Come to this gay, entertaining meeting, enoy the social hour with your friends, and look for a few surprises!

Middlesex County Bank Opener

Yes on Saturdays For the Registry

The Registry of Motor Vehicles will conduct a one-year experiment in Saturday morning business hours at eight regional Registry Branches, beginning May 8, Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announced today.

This increased Registry service was designed to help eliminate loss of work and pay experienced by many drivers who have been unable to get to Registry offices during their lunch periods or after work hours during the week, McLaughlin said.

The offices will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon for processing license and registration applications and renewals. The offices to have Saturday hours are: Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Pittsfield, Lynn, Lowell, Brockton, and New Bedford.

NOW IS THE TIME

Right now is the right time to prune most plants. Branches are pruned from plants in order to conserve energy and divert it to more advantageous channels, like more and better flowers or more lateral stems.

It is very important to note that some plants do not need to be, and others should not be pruned. Examples are most oriental plants and others like the forsythia. . .

Oriental plants like the Japanese Quince are most beautiful in the natural state—the small leaves and short, thick, bent limbs cannot be improved upon by man; any attempt to do so would only ruin a beautiful shrub.

The common forsythia is not cut back for a reason almost every one knows—the plant will not flower if it has been pruned.

In all these cases, though, it is perfectly alright to remove any suckers or dead wood.

When pruning, it is most important that: one, the cut is made one-quarter to one-half of an inch above the bud; two, that the cut is a diagonal one with the lower edge opposite the bud, and third but not least, that a clean cut is made.

Professionals never use anything but a razor-sharp knife for cutting. Unfortunately, wielding a knife is just as much an art as painting or musical composition—one which is for all practical purposes, beyond all of us.

Making a clean cut is the most important part of pruning. The home gardener should use only a pair of precision knife-cut shears. Scissors are utterly useless, as are most cheap shears—they crush before they cut.

Larger shrubs and all trees are pruned with a crescent-shaped pruning saw. The cut must be as close to the main stem, trunk or branch as possible. If the remaining scar is circular, make another cut; this time make it as close to the main trunk as possible—the correct scar is the oval one.

All wounds over one inch must be treated with a tree wound paint to prevent disease from entering.

Rose pruning is an art in itself since both the quality and quantity of flowers is at stake.

Severe pruning yields fine individual flowers, moderate pruning will result in a few more flowers of moderate size; light pruning yields an abundance of flowers, large plants, a long blooming period and in general a most attractive display. If many plants are available, it is best to prune some for each effect.

The pruning of tea, miniature and rambling roses is up to you, keeping in mind the quality vs. quantity rules of thumb. Grandiflora, floribunds and polyantha roses are designed for bushy many-flowers pruning. Tree roses are merely teas or floribundas on tall stems. It is very important that all shoots emerging from the sides of the trunk be removed.

Flowering shrubs which bloom from buds formed on present year's growth are pruned now; those which form buds in the summer for flowering the next year are pruned right after flowering is over.

The shape to which a hedge is pruned is entirely in the hands of the gardener; remember, though, that the top must never be wider than the bottom, and it should not grow more than two to three inches between shearings.

Fruit trees are severely pruned before they are planted. All very long roots are shortened to the averate length of the others.

When a two year old tree is bought (the average age), four branches are saved, all others are removed. Choose the four healthiest ones, spaced evenly on the trunk. These branches determine the shape of the tree until the day it dies so work carefuily. Never leave two branches opposite each other—the "V" joint is most weak.

After the initial pruning, subsequent prunings in years to come are required only to encourage upright growth and to maintain space between main structural branches. Naturally, all dead wood and suckers from the main trunk are removed.

We are happy to announce that our recent successful Charity Tournament has realized proceeds of $190, which sum will be divided equally between the Winchester Little League and the local division of the Boys Scouts of America.

We also wish to express our appreciation at this time to Renton's Market for their kind donation of a delicious ham to our Easter party, Club secretary Nancy Atkinson has more than one reason to send to Renton's our official letter of thanks. She was the lucky winner!

The Spring Knockout Team of Four Championship was won by the "Harvard Business School" entry as Paul Vatter, Lewis Ward, James Fleck, and Joseph Bishop demonstrated their mastery of the "overall picture at the graduate level." They won by 27 IMP's in a hotly contested final round against Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sanderson and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bracken. The Brackens, however, won the best prize of all as their first baby arrived a few days after the match!

The game on April 28th saw a large number of men's and women's pairs get in a practice round for the May 5th championship events. In Section A, both Bob and Evelyn Blackler showed that they are ready and rarin' to go with their favorite partners.

Everett Knox draws on his photographic memory as he takes over the rest of the column to develop a case in point:

Most of the hands last week were very ordinary but there was one played by Mrs. Martha Walker (N) and Mrs. Ellen Schofield (S) at Board 14 that deserves comment. It involves a question which has been argued pro and con, whether or not to lead an Ace when a slam has been bid. Most of the experts do not recommend the lead of an Ace, but if you surmise your partner has the King then the lead of an Ace is excellent. In this particular instance if an Ace had been led, the slam goes down.

East led a small diamond taken by North's DA. North finessed the SQ then led the S10 which was covered by East's SK and taken by the SA. Hearts were then run followed by Diamonds. North sloughed off two clubs to make 7S.

The hand was played at 6S, 4S, 4H and 3NT, but the clever team of Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Schofield was the only pair who bid and made the slam.

This proves that when you bid slam and your opponent gives you the right lead (?), the battle is won.

Have you ever flipped through the pages of an IDEALS book? You will enjoy it. These books are beautifully bound, hard or soft covers — for the young and adults. Give one for a birthday or as a delightful gift for a shut-in. At the Winchester Star.

Troop 503 Goes Mount'n Climbing

The week-end of April 24 and 25 found Troop 503 camped at the base of Mt. Monadnock, N. H. Saturday afternoon all the scouts and several adult counselors (or senior citizens) made the five-mile climb to the top of Monadnock.

Scoutmaster Calvin P. Allyn was in charge of the group, with Peter Schmink and William Schmink of Troop 503 and the following fathers assisting him: G. Campbell, H. Rondeau, D. Stebbins and H. Woodward.

The following scouts were on the trip:

Chris Allyn, Mark Allyn, David Baird, Chris Barlow, Richard Bennink, David Benson, John Benson, John Bradley, Kevin Campbell, Bruce Clark, Paul DeMars, Steve Detra and Paul Donahue.

Also David Gibson, Brooks Herrala, Rick Hillger, David Holmes, John Hosmer, Peter Kaufmann, Buzz Kelley, Peter McClennan, Rick Mobbs, Alan Raphael, Peter Richardson, Bob Rommey, J. Rondeau, Jim Sauber, David Schmink.

Others are Bob Shannon, Michael Smith, Bruce Stebbins, Bill Stites, Frank Stitham, John Tello, Ted von Rosenvinge, Steve Washburn, Chape Whitman, Steve Yanulis, Philip York.

A considerable amount of advancement work was accomplished. There was a swim on Friday, April 30th.

En Ka Sunflower Country Fair May 21 Weekend

Awaited almost as eagerly as Christmas by many moppets not only in Winchester but in surrounding towns, En Ka Street Fair week-end is rolling around once again.

Circle Friday night May 21st and Saturday May 22nd on your calendar. Gayer and bouncier than ever, this year's Sunflower Country Street Fair offers all the traditional delights of rides for young and not so young, the sale of rare books, the plant counter, the enticing "Bargain Box," the Country Store in its own tent, the various snack bars, the delicious "Supper," the wondrous novelties available no where else, the opening parade, plus several Somethings-New-Which-Have-Been-Added!

A dainty and delightfully relaxing tea service is planned for Saturday afternoon to please all those with tired feet as well as people who simply enjoy a delectable spot of tea.

A Saturday Night surprise for teenagers is being whipped up.

Plan to delight your youngsters and to have fun yourself while you help En Ka help Winchester charities and youth groups by attending the En Ka Street Fair.

New Charter For United Fund

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has granted a charter to The Massachusetts Bay United Fund as the successor to four area United Funds.

The announcement was made April 29 at the M.I.T. Faculty Club in Cambridge jointly by the presidents of the four United Funds whose functions will be taken over by The Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

The new United Fund covers 61 cities and towns in a population area of nearly 2,400,000 and will provide money for approximately 273 health and social agencies.

Firemen Selling Tickets for Show Set for May 27

On their off time, the forty or so officers and firefighters in the Winchester Fire Department are out doing a house to house canvass in the interests of their upcoming annual Fireman's Relief Association public entertainment to be at the High School auditorium on Thursday, May 27.

Featuring six top acts and an orchestra, the show is for everyone in the family and the firemen urge all not only to buy some tickets but to be sure and plan to use them.

'Fantasticks' Under the Spire is a Sellout

The Parish Players brightened the Spring scene with a sparkling production of the lovely musical, "The Fantasticks," on April 29, 30, and May 1. Three full houses packed Chidley Hall for this hit show, written by Tom Jones with music by Harvey Schmidt, based on a play by Edmund Rostand.

Under the skillful direction of Roger Golde and Arthur Waldstein, the Parish Players presented a polished, professional production of their first musical comedy.

The story line is simple. Two neighbors, the Boy's father and the Girl's father, hit upon a scheme to arrange the marriage of their children. They build a wall between their gardens, and pretend a feud, knowing that if they tell the children not to fall in love, the children will do the opposite. And Louis and Matt do just that. In order to cement the relationship, the parents obtain the services of the famous El Gallo, who agrees to stage a fake abduction of the girl, with the help of two hired actors, Henry and Mortimer, so that the boy can "save" her and become a hero, and the parents can end the feud and consent to the marriage. As the first act ends, the fathers' plans have succeeded, the Boy is a hero and all are united. But in the second act, disillusionment sets in as the Girl, the Boy and the Fathers sing "what at night seems oh so scenic, may be cynic in the light."

El Gallo presents his bill for the kidnap, and the Fathers reveal that the kidnap was not real at all. Matt and Louisa have to face the realities of life, and the Narrator sends Matt away to see the world through the experienced eyes of Henry and Mortimer, while he shows the world to Louisa through a sophisticated mask which hides all ugliness. But he brings her back and then leaves her saying, "who understands why we all must die a bit before we grow again."

Matt and Louisa have both been hurt by their exposure to the world, but this gives them the experience they need for a more lasting love. And as they sing a reprise of the lovely "Love, you are love," the Fathers come forward, friends once more, but are warned by El Gallo to leave the wall standing as a reminder; "Deep in December, it's nice to remember without a hurt the heart is hollow. Deep in December, our hearts should remember, and follow."

The orchestra, skillfully and sensitively directed and led by Roger Golde on the piano, never overpowered the singers, but blended well, providing the right accompaniment, and background music to the scenes in the play. Special effects were achieved with the effective use of the harp, played by Mary Jane Anderson, the bass, with Jim Willoughby, and the drums, played by Phil O'Shea. They were an integral and vital part of the show.

Suzanne Goldman, as Louisa, not only had a clear, lovely soprano voice, but also a charm and wistfulness that captured the hearts of her audience.

Bob Mathews' Matt had an enthusiasm and freshness that made him completely believeable, and his tenor voice was glorious, blending well with Suzanne's. Their duets together were show-stoppers.

The Narrator of the story is actually a puppeteer who snaps his fingers and manipulates his players. Michael Levin played El Gallo with dash and authority.

The Fathers, played by Harry Hallenbeck and Fred Della Paolera, livened the stage whenever they appeared, and their two duets, "Never Say No," and "Plant a Radish" were well executed.

Dick Wilcox's splendid voice was just right for his part as the old Shakespearean actor, Henry. His exit line, "remember me in lights," was marvelous. Larry Smith served as his perfect foil as Mortimer, the man who makes a specialty of dying. Together they created some hilarious comedy scenes in this otherwise poignant love story.

The function of the Mute was to hand out props, provide chairs and bench as needed, become a wall or a tree. Peter Jones did well with the part. We sensed his presence, yet he didn't intrude on the action.

The musical numbers were tuneful and lovely, with variety and verve. The fast paced "It Depends on What You Pay," sung by the Narrator and the Fathers, was very well done, as the tempo changed from Flamenco to Boogie-woogie and then back to Flamenco. The difficult rhythm was perfectly executed with full orchestra.

The kidnap ballet in the first act was a perfect melding of music, tempo, and timing. It showed the skill of choreographer, Elizabeth Martin, as well as the agile talents.

Another well staged number was "Round and Round" in the second act, with the entire company involved in action, ballet, song, and music.

Throughout the show, the smooth stage direction of Arthur Waldstein was well evident. He helped his actors believe in themselves, and they turned in some top notch performances for him.

"The Fantasticks" is a small musical, simply staged, with the characters waiting for their cues at the sides of the stage. It was ideally suited for the Parish Players' hall. The lighting, under Roger Foskett, was especially important in this show. It helped set the moods and relieved visual sameness. The use of the follow spot, operated by Henry Fitts, was effective and dramatic.

This deceptively simple musical obviously represented a tremendous amount of time and effort on everyone's part, from the directors to the actors and musicians, to the production staff.

The Parish Players, and the producers of this show, Phyllis Hollinshead and Elva Raphael, are to be commended for making this effort, and congratulated on the results - a smash hit.

What's the Rush? At Vinson-Owen

The Vinson-Owen Parents' Association will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, May 13, at 7:45 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Following a short business meeting and the election of new parents' association officers and committee chairmen, there will be an interesting panel discussion on the subject of our children and today's pressures, "What's the Rush? Where Are We Going?"

Dr. Clare M. Corcoran, principal of Vinson-Owen School, will act as moderator and introduce the following panelists: Dr. Euan T. Blanch, a practising pediatrician in Winchester; Miss Doris Bergren, adjustment councilor, Winchester schools; Dr. Norman Goldstein, chief psychologist, Mystic Valley Children's Clinic and Dr. Harry Gilson, superintendent of schools, Winchester.

It is hoped that this discussion will benefit all those parents who attend. Certainly it is an important topic and uppermost in many parents' minds. So do plan to come and join in on the question and answer period.

Wellesley at Pops

Enthusiastic Wellesley College Club members are completing preparations for Wellesley Night at Pops on Saturday, May 8 at Symphony Hall. Those desiring reservations should write or phone the chairman, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Jr., 258 Mill Street, Newton. (969-7764)

This popular annual benefit which features Arthur Fiedler's Boston Pops Orchestra gives financial aid to Wellesley students through the College Development Fund and Students' Aid Society. Among the patrons and patronesses of this event here are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Jope, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lindenfelser and Mrs. George M. Vrotsos.

"Rise and Shine" Before Women Of Epiphany May 18

The Women of Epiphany are announcing a Triple Treat General Meeting program which will take place on Tuesday, May 18th in Hadley Hall, Parish of the Epiphany.

First, a tasty luncheon will be served at 12:45 p.m. Second, the Women of Epiphany will have their annual meeting consisting of brief but important business. Third, a one act play at 1:45 p.m., directed by Jay Sibley of Epiphany. The Traveling Players, Enid Houlding, Betty Vallee, Peter Alterio and Cecil Prest (with Ginny Hillger in charge of properties) will present "Rise and Shine" by Elda Cadogan.

All interested ladies are most welcome at this meeting.

Community School Assoc. Meeting To Be At Noonan

In keeping with its policy of informing residents about our local schools, the Community School Association of Winchester announces that the public is invited to its annual meeting, Monday, May 10, at the Noonan school. A tour of the school is planned.

A short business meeting will start promptly at 7:45 p.m. The tour will follow and refreshments will be served at the end of the evening.

Among those present will be the retiring and incoming presidents of the parents associations of the ten Winchester schools along with the outgoing and newly elected officers of the Community School Association.

A Luncheon For Teachers

The board members of the Washington School Mothers' Association served as hostesses for the teachers of the school at a luncheon last Wednesday at the home of their president, Mrs. Hugh Ferber of 10 Hillcrest Parkway.

The small bouquets of daisies decorating the bridge tables didn't tell, but the teachers did—about the delicious buffet of seafood casseroles, molded salad, hot rolls, souffle, bite-sized cakes and coffee.

This has become an annual event, enjoyed by the board members and teachers alike. Also included as guests were principal Miss Leonor Rich, and school secretary, Mrs. Richard Preston. Mrs. Robert Grainger and Mrs. Nicholas Vallas, first and second vice-presidents respectively, planned the menu, assisted by the other board members.

Change In Epiphany Date

The Women of Epiphany in the Circle 3 - Study Group are asked to take note that their last meeting of this season will take place on Tuesday May 11th instead of the usual Thursday.

It will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Watkins, 7 Longfellow Road and coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. followed by a business meeting. Each member is requested to bring a suggestion for renaming the group.

Mrs. C. Hemmingsen will then review the final part of "death of a Myth" by Dr. Kyle Haselden. New officers who will be taking over in October are Mrs. William Towner, chairman, and Mrs. J. Stanley Bates, secretary.

Dog License Time Here Again

Have you licensed your dog? The Clerk's Office reminds us this week that to date 1,080 dogs have been licensed for the year, a number which indicates there are still a good many unlicensed.

If you are one of those persons whose pet is unlicensed it would be best to get right down to the Town Hall and do this to insure the safety of your pet.

Self-Service Post Office May Be Coming

More service facilities for the postal customer are receiving new emphasis in the postal system, Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun commented today after receiving word from Postmaster General John A. Gronouski in Washington, D. C., of a new improved "self-service post office."

The first unit was installed recently at a shopping center just outside Washington, D. C. It offers around-the-clock facilities for buying stamps, postal cards and envelopes at cost, mailing letters and weighing and mailing parcels.

In the new models, the vending machines dispensing cards, envelopes, etc., have five times as much capacity, and a larger roof over the vending devices and parcel post drops for better protection of the public.

Noting that the self-service units are designed as a supplement to service, and not as a replacement for central postal facilities or personnel, Postmaster Gilgun added:

"While there has been no determination yet of how far this program will be expanded, it has a great potential for helping to meet the tremendous increase in suburban service demands more efficiently, while providing even better services.

TOWN OF WINCHESTER
BOARD OF HEALTH
TOWN HALL

In order to better acquaint the operators of food service establishments (including church groups, civic, fraternal, service and veteran organizations), a public meeting will be held in the Board of Health quarters, Town Hall, on Wednesday, May 19, 1965, at 8:00 P.M.

The Board of Health calls to your attention the following regulations in Article X, of the Sanitary Code, which became effective January 1, 1965.

Regulation 1. Definitions:
FOOD SERVICE ESTABLISHMENTS means any fixed or mobile place, structure or vehicle whether permanent, transient, or temporary, including any restaurant, coffee shop, cafeteria, luncheonette, short-order cafe, grille, tearoom, sandwich shop, soda fountain, tavern, bar, cocktail lounge, night club, roadside stand, industrial feeding establishment; private, public or non-profit organization or institution routinely serving the public; catering kitchen, commissary, or any other similar eating and drinking establishment or place in which food or drink is prepared for sale or for service on the premises or elsewhere, or where food is served or provided for the public with or without charge.

MOBILE FOOD SERVER means and includes every mobile stand, wagon, truck, or other vehicle which moves from place to place to operate, dispensing coffee, sandwiches, box lunches, ice cream, popcorn or other similar foods.

TEMPORARY FOOD SERVICE ESTABLISHMENT means any food service establishment other than a mobile food server which operates for a temporary period of time not to exceed two weeks in connection with a fair, carnival, circus, public exhibition, or similar transitory gathering.

Regulation 32.1 Permits:
No person shall operate a food service establishment unless he is the holder of a valid permit granted to him by the Board of Health. Only a person who complies with the requirements of these regulations shall be entitled to receive and retain such a permit, which shall be posted on the premises of the food service establishment for which it is applicable. Permits shall not be transferable from persons and/or places. Permits shall be issued for a period of time not to exceed one year and may be renewed: provided, that permits for temporary food service establishments shall be issued for a period of time not to exceed 14 days, and the inclusive dates for such a proposed operation shall be included in the permit.

Regulations may be seen at the Board of Health office and will be distributed at this meeting.

Medical Auxiliary Sponsoring Dance

On Tuesday, the eighteenth of May, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Massachusetts Medical Society will hold its first annual dinner dance which will take place in the Constitution Room of the exciting new Sheraton Boston Hotel at the Prudential Center.

Proceeds from the dance will benefit a favorite charity of the Woman's Auxiliary, the American Medical Association Education and Research Foundation. Working on a national level, the A.M.A.E.R.F. gives financial aid to medical schools and deserving students.

Members of the public wishing to attend this gala formal occasion are cordially invited to contact Mrs. Charles Rooney of Highland Avenue, a co-chairman of the event.

Rummage Sale At Epiphany

The gigantic rummage sale being planned by the Women of Epiphany under the direction of Mrs. George Pacetti and Mrs. F. Sheppard Holt will take place next week.

It will be held in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, 70 Church Street, on Thursday evening May 13th from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and on Friday morning May 14th from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

On sale will be a large assortment of usable clothing (all kinds, including hats, shoes and handbags), also jewelry, bric-a-brac, books, toys and many, many other miscellaneous items.

The Women of Epiphany expect this to be a better-than-ever sale. The Rummage Sale will be open to the public and everyone is welcome.

Mother and Son Night Is Success At Washington

The first Mother and Son Night held by the Mothers' Association of the Washington School last Saturday evening was an overwhelming success. This was the first time a deviation to the annual Mother and Daughter Night had been tried.

A capacity crowd filled the school auditorium, and were seated at long banquet tables patriotically decorated in red, white, and blue.

Mrs. Hugh Ferber, president of the association, introduced the guest for the evening, Isidore Battino, physical education instructor and gymnastics coach at the high school. Mr. Battino opened the program with the foot tapping melodies of the Hillbilly Jug Band. This band, informally attired in suspenders, red-checked shirts, hip boots and the like, is composed of a group of talented high schoolers, as follows: Kevin Connor, Warren Wilson, and Garth Nelson, guitar; Walter Harwood, washboard; Tony Silvestri, kazoo; Colin Gray, base fiddle; William Gustin, banjo; Barry Weeks, pickel barrel; and Chuck Schipellite, jug.

The enthusiastic audience was then introduced to three of Mr. Battino's tumblers, Douglas Fox, Mark Harrington, and Stephen Baird who performed with agility and skill.

Mr. Battino delighted the crowd when he picked up a nickel with his mouth, while doing a hand stand on top of a table. Also well received were the volunteers from the audience who demonstrated their skill at balancing.

The Hillbilly Jug Band played while handsome male waiters appeared and glided up and down the aisles bearing trays of banana splits.

Mrs. Robert Bryant, program chairman, was in charge of the evening assisted by the following: Mrs. James Phillips, entertainment; Mrs. James Burke and Mrs. Charles Hodgson, co-chairman of decorations, assisted by Mrs. Nicholas Vallas, Mrs. John Doughty, Mrs. Craig Wark, and Mrs. Robert Kelly; Mrs. Frank Keller, chairman of favors, assisted by Mrs. Paul Wankowicz and Mrs. Robert Abbanat; Mrs. Michael Penta, Mrs. Robert DeBourke, Mrs. John Andrick, Mrs. Hugh Ferber, tickets; Mrs. James Wakefield, personnel; and Mrs. Nunzio Mazone, equipment.

Fathers who volunteered their services were: James Kakatsakis, John Andrick, Robert Bryant, James Burke, Charles Miller, Clellan Bunn, Samuel Jones, Hugh Ferber, Richard Lawrance, Robert Cronan, Paul McHugh, Howard Nichols, Manuel Rainha, Nicholas Vallas, Craig Wark, Robert Gallant, Enar Carlson, Robert DeBourke, William Cronin, Alvaro Pirani, Robert Grainger, Joseph Von Hake, Herbert Cabral, Louis De Maio, and James Phillips.

Newcomers To Jr. Crittenton

A tea to welcome the new members of the Winchester Junior Circle of Florence Crittenton League was held on Tuesday afternoon, April 27, at the home of the Circle's president, Mrs. Richard Bannister. The new members who were introduced to the Circle were:

Mrs. Ronald T. Bradshaw
Mrs. Lawrence E. Brown
Mrs. Thomas D. Coe
Mrs. James Dorsey
Mrs. James Frongillo
Mrs. William A. Garner
Mrs. John A. Kavanaugh
Mrs. Robert F. MacNally
Mrs. Philip E. Richardson
Mrs. Richard Ross
Mrs. Allan Ruggles
Mrs. John Udaloy
Mrs. Neal C. White

Mrs. Roger Swanson and Mrs. Bradford Whitten poured while unusual and delicious tea sandwiches and cakes were served by Mrs. Alan Ross and her committee.

Den 8, Pack 509 Press Day Visit

Eight young men from Den 8 at the Washington School, Pack 509, came to the Star on press day last week to watch last minute casting, composing and the run of the big press.

Den mothers Mrs. Clellan Bunn and Mrs. Samuel Jones and Den Chief Robert Bunn accompanied the group's regular members, who were: Richard Bunn, Thomas Gramzow, Daniel Harrington, David Jones, Paul Miller, Peter Rigney and Charles and Paul Salerno.

WHS Girls To Attend Wellesley Tree Day Pageant

Winchester High School sophomore and junior girls are invited to spend an eventful day at Wellesley College on Saturday, May 15.

This is the day on which the College will celebrate its annual Tree Day Pageant which includes the appearance of the Tree Day Mistress and her Court, music and entertainment by the College Dance Group and others, and crew races on Lake Waban.

Preceeding the afternoon's tree day festivities, the Winchester girls will be given a full tour of the campus and will have lunch in the college dormitories. Among the students guiding the group will be Miss Patricia Sexton, class of 1966 at Wellesley, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton of 14 Rangeley Road.

Arrangements for the tour should be made as soon as possible through Miss Constance Trickett of the High School Guidance Department or by calling Mrs. Lane McGovern, PA 9-2661, Winchester Wellesley Club Acquaintanceship Chairman.

Cars will leave from the Winchester High School parking lot at 10 a.m. and will return about 5 p.m.

The Volkswagen is the one in black.

These cars look alike to a Volkswagen mechanic. They have the same engine, the same transmission, and the same chassis.

But the one on the bottom got mixed up with an Italian who thought the Volkswagen would make a sexy little runabout: Ghia of Turin.

The car's the VW Karmann Ghia.

Its special body takes so much hand work that Volkswagen farms it out to one of Europe's greatest custom coachworks, Karmann of Osnabrück. Every seam is welded, ground down, filed and sanded by hand. (It's been mistaken for everything from a Ferrari to a Lancia.)

Yet VW parts are all you need. You get the VW's legendary mileage. VW's air-cooled engine. And the famous Volkswagen traction in snow and sand.

Along with a gee-gaw or two. A defroster for the back window. Acoustical soundproofing. Adjustable bucket seats.

DAR Ends Year, Visits Air Base

The Committee of Safety Chapter N.S.D.A.R. ioncluded its year with an annual meeting at the Hanscom Air Field in Bedford on Monday, April 26th.

This sixtieth anniversary year was a milestone in the history of the Chapter, highlighted by continued public service, patriotic endeavors, and a new field of historical research into Winchester's participation in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Herbert Darling, chaplain opened the meeting with a devotional reading.

Mrs. William Cusack, regent, called on chapter officers and committee chairmen for their reports. Mrs. Rony Snyder summarized the year's activities in a detailed report and Mrs. Cusack expressed her appreciation to the membership for their enthusiasm and support.

She announced that Mrs. William Goodhue and her committee has completed their study of historical sites in Winchester and have proposed three which they feel should be suitably marked with plaques. The matter has now been referred to the Town's Selectmen for future action.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Mrs. William C. Cusack, regent, Mrs. Michael MacDonald, Jr., vice-regent, Mrs. Rony Snyder, chaplain, Mrs. Ralph W. Swan, recording secretary, Mrs. Louis C. Kuhn, Jr., corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bertram H. Dube, treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Ross, registrar, Mrs. Clifford Sundberg, historian, and Mrs. William W. Goodhue, librarian. Directors for the coming year will be Mrs. Lindsey Caldwell, Mrs. Harry D. Locke, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. George F. Nieley, and Mrs. Russell P. Pearl; auditor, Mrs. Harold M. Twombly. Mrs. Cusack, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Dube were elected delegates to the fall State Meeting with the following alternates, the Mesdames Snyder, Twombly, Goodhue, Ross, McCreery, Pearl, Caldwell and Coon.

The meeting and luncheon were held at the Officers' Club, and a delightful day had been planned for the visiting D.A.R. members. Colonel Richard R. Thuma, Jr., assistant deputy for civil engineering, and Colonel Harold E. Cotter, deputy base commander were the day's hosts. Lieutenant Bosley briefed the members in electronics, and Lieutenant Raymond Ringler served as escort for a bus tour of the base. Mrs. Albert R. Shield, wife of the deputy for Surveillance and Control Systems, and Mrs. E.L. Beach graciously opened their beautiful colonial homes for D.A.R members to enjoy. Mrs. Cusack spoke for the members and expressed great appreciation to these ladies, the officers and personnel of Hanscom Air Field for their hospitality which contributed so much to the success of this final meeting of the year.

Couples Club Spring Prom

The Couples Club of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will hold their annual spring prom Saturday, May 15 in Gifford Hall.

The Mel-Tones will provide music for dancing from 9 p.m. to midnight. Light refreshments will be served during the evening. All members are urged to attend and bring a friend.

Door prizes will be awarded at 9:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from David Dettinger 729-0570.

VFW Benefit Social to Aid Cystic Fibrosis

Aberjona Post No. 3719 Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold its benefit social to aid Cystic Fibrosis on Friday evening, May 7th at their Post Home, 15 White Street, at 8:15 p.m.

Cystic Fibrosis is a disease which affects approximately one in every six hundred (600) children born each year. Briefly, Cystic Fibrosis is an abnormal flow of thick mucous which blocks the lungs and pancreas. Blocking of the lungs causes infection and death. Blocking of the pancreas prevents normal digestive juices, and the chilen literally starve to death.

The Vets, with members of their Auxiliary under the chairmanship of Past Post Commander Sid Horn, promise a good time for all who attend.

In case you are not able to attend and wish to contribute to this worthy cause, please make checks payable to Mass. Chapter Cystic Fibrosis and mail to: G. H. Horn, Jr., 8 Westley Street, Winchester.

"Operation Y" Formed As A Result OF A Letter To The Star Editor

A boy wrote a letter to the editor about the need of a YMCA in Winchester. A mother read the letter, and decided that maybe it was time something was done—hopeless as the task seemed.

Thus was born an organization of young people with a plan named "Operation Y." The name simply means that they have a sort of "Battle" plan to lick the problem of so-called "Juvenile Delinquency" in Winchester by providing a place for young people to gather—an organized, supervised, recreation club like the YMCA, which could be for families also. It wouldn't be the whole answer maybe but at least it was better than just letters to the editor—and a step in the right direction.

These ten boys hope to get jobs this summer—at least ten hours of work each—which is the minimum amount they are pledging to the "Operation Y" savings account which will be set up.

However, they can't accomplish that part of their plan if the young people and adults of Winchester refuse the idea itself. This brings them to the first part of their plan which is:

1. This publicity which they hope will stir up interest.

2. Collecting names of young people who like the plan and are willing to work for it, plus adults who will help guide the effort to completion.

3. A public showing of a YMCA film on May 30th with a YMCA official present to answer all questions.

(The Senior Youth Fellowship at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church voted last Sunday night to swing their support behind the "Operation Y" committee. They are furnishing the hall for the showing of the film, with representatives from the fellowship acting as host.)

The boys have been busy this week spreading the word, seeking support from both young people and adults. The mother involved, Mrs. Mary Haff, has been doing the same. Some young people offered to even build the building themselves, so the committee feels it just might be possible to finally accomplish the impossible.

Summer School To Start June 28

The Winchester Public Schools have distributed brochures and applications for the 1965 Summer School Program to be conducted from June 28 through August 6 at Lynch Junior High School.

The summer school has grown since its inception in 1959 and demonstrates the interest in formal study during the vacation period.

Residents of Winchester and non-residents may attend. Non-residents, however, will pay a slightly higher fee.

Courses for credit may be taken for make-up, upgrading, or advance credit. Non-credit courses may be taken for review, preview, or general interest. Credit courses are limited to pupils presently in grades 9-12.

All classes with the exception of Developmental Reading for grades 7-12 will be held in the morning 5 days a week with two-hour class periods.

The courses listed are: elementary arithmetic review in modern math for pupils now in grades 4-6; review arithmetic in SMSG math for pupils now in grades 7, 8, and 9; modern elementary algebra; modern plane geometry, and intermediate algebra; developmental and remedial reading; English review for grades 7 and 8; English for each year at the high school level; U. S. history; French, 1st and second year; physical science; personal typing, driver training; and a learning laboratory for grades 4-6.

The experimental learning lab is designed to create more intensive learning experiences and more self-reliance with the learning process. The purpose of the class is similar to that of the Harvard-Lexington summer class offered in previous years.

Courses are subject to change, depending on the demand. Applications should be filled out and returned to the school principal. Early application is advised.

Further information may be obtained from Walter P. Gleason, assistant superintendent of schools, 10 Brantwood Road, Tel. 729-1788.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Official Ceremonies Mark Opening Of Little League

There can be no doubt that somebody up there who is in charge of baseball weather certainly likes the Winchester Little League. Opening day ceremonies and games could not have enjoyed a better set-up if they had drawn up the specifications to order.

The festivities began at Ginn Field last Saturday as American League vice president, Ray Chase acted as master of ceremonies and presented Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr. of the First Baptist Church for the invocation prayer. And from that point forward things rolled along like a well tended machine.

With all of the boys lined up around the diamond, the flag was saluted and president Al LaPointe said a few words of welcome to all. Mrs. Rosemary C. Dolan, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, then spoke briefly to offer the best wishes of her group to all of the participants. Ed Williams, representing the Park Dept. tossed the first ball out to Yankee pitcher Ed Fitzgerald and the interleague exhibition game was on.

Although the Reds walked off with a 7 to 3 win, the game was a seat squirmer for the first three innings. Manager Joe Julian of the Reds started his son Joe to get things under way but it was just not Joey's day. A couple of fielding lapses and a clean single by Larry Spang put the Yanks on the scoreboard before the spectators had settled in their seats.

Opening the second inning after Sandy Staniewicz had flied out, Anthony Vespucci poked out a good single and was able to work his way around to tie the score. The Yankees just would not wilt and Ed Fitzgerald singled, Bob Wolfe doubled and Dick Cantillon pushed both runners over with a timely two-bagger.

Stephen Everett took over the mound duties for the Reds and that was the end for the Yankees. The third inning was all Reds and Chape Whitman put Procopio over the plate with a timely single and later chalked up another score as he came in with the game tying marker. Passes put men on for the Reds in the fourth and Joey Julian's hard single pushed them in for two more counters. With the score now 5 to 3, the Reds added two more in the fifth by virtue of singles by Staniewicz and Vespucci and it was all over.

Freshman manager Dave Deshler had to watch his Yankees take the loss but he saw some good pitching from three of his moundsmen who had ten strike outs between them although they allowed eight passes that proved to be costly as the game progressed. More than that, manager Deshler was able to watch his team under fire and what he learned about them may point the way to a victory later in the season.

League action really began in earnest in the afternoon contests as every team with the exception of the two that played the exhibition contest got into the act with double-headers on each of the six Little League diamonds.

The American League started off with a wing-dinger that found the Mets doing their utmost to sink the Pirates. It was a beauty that saw a no-hitter going for Dennis Rotondi until the final inning when the Pirates came alive with two singles to spoil the effort. Peter Niles toiled on the mound for the Pirates and struck out 14 but his team just could not find the necessary hits and the Mets ruled the roost with a 3 to 0 victory.

In the minor league action, the Leopards and the Jaguars roared at each other until the Leopards finally cut down their opposition with a big fourth inning that put them out in front by an 18 to 10 score. The game was a wild one from the opening toss even though a pretty little lady, Miss Martha Kinton, threw in the first ball to get the game under way.

Barry Mears worked for the Leopards while John Fitzgerald pitched for the Jaguars. By the end of the second inning the score was 9 to 9 with hits bouncing into the outfield like raindrops. In the fourth the Leopards rolled over and began to wield some hot bats and by the time the smoke cleared they had dented the plate nine times and the game was all theirs.

Meanwhile, back at the other minor league diamond, the Buffalos were stomping over the Badgers, in a big 5 to 0 game that featured a no-hitter by pitcher Tom Raleigh. Tom struck out nine and was never in any danger throughout the contest. Good catching by Ben Ewing and some fine fielding by this club makes the Buffalos a real threat this year.

The second major league game was another cliff-hanger as the Cardinals did their best to unseat the Athletics and they almost did it, too. Larry Penta was on the mound for the Athletics against Louie Gentile for the Cards. The Athletics put the first one on the board in the initial inning and added four more in the second.

A 5 to 0 lead gave the game a false look for the Cards proved that they were not dealing from the bottom of the deck and they pushed five big runs over to knot the score in the last of the second. It was up to the A's to get three in the last inning to give them a total of eight runs while the best the Cards could do was one more to give them six and the Athletics took the first game by an 8 to 6 reading. It was not easy and the Cards will surely be stacked against the next opponent that they face.

Minor league teams met for their second contests and the Panthers clawed the Whippets for eight runs in the first inning and then hung on to make it an 8 to 4 win over the battling losers. Lee Pollacchi was on the mound for the Whippets and after that shaky first inning he was in command all the way. Chris McCarthy and Steve Neergaard took on the pitching chores for the Panthers and they had some wild moments until the final out was made.

The first triple play of the season was pulled off by the Whippets as they kept snapping at the Panther lead in each inning. They just could not come up with the extra runs but they cannot be counted out in the coming games for they kept fighting back even though they were working up hill all the way.

But the wildest game of the day had to be the Wildcats and Wolves meeting. Young Eddie Ball ran into disaster in the first two innings and the Wildcats scratched out nine runs while the Wolves got hungrier. In the fourth the Wildcats took an eight run bite and the Wolves were now down 17 to 0.

Maybe the Wildcats were ready to purr over the win but the Wolves were not ready to call it quits yet. In the bottom of the fourth they came up with four runs and in the final stanza they added eight more before the Cats could chase them from the door. The final score was Wildcats 17, Wolves 12 and those Wildcats were panting at the end of the game.

Things were humming in the National League also as the Red Sox took the measure of the Dodgers behand masterful pitching by John Carr. John was working on a no-hitter and went into the final inning with two outs and two strikes on the batter. The score was 5 to 0 at that point and everything went wrong. The final score was Red Sox 5 and Dodgers 3 but pitcher Carr had to be satisfied with a one-hitter and the win.

The second major league game had the Braves out to scalp the Twins but the war dance was not loud enough and the Twins whooped up a 5 to 1 victory. It was a contest that had good pitching from both sides. Larry Weller was on the mound for the Twins and he gave up four hits but Dick Beaton toiling for the Braves was only touched for five singles by the winners. Good base running was the secret weapon in this one and the Twins had some heads-up running from Al Milley, Anthony Pizza and Steve Devany.

In the minor league games, there were two tight wins and two with some breathing space. The Beavers gnawed their way over the Greyhounds by a single bite with the final score reading Beavers 6, Greyhounds 5. Al Sampson, the Beaver shortstop, was the hero of this one as he smacked a grand slam home run to give his team the winning edge. Al also was the starting end of a triple play that the Beavers accomplished and that is quite a day for a fellow's first game. Ricky Bonasera also homered for the Beavers but the Greyhounds were in this one right up to the final out.

The Bulldogs nipped the Bears by an 11 to 8 count and it was a good win for the victors. Dave Harsch, the Bulldog catcher, came up with the best hit in this game which was a two-bagger that put things on ice for his club. The Bulldog infield is one of the shining lights of this season's play.

Manager Fred McGrath sat on the edge of the bench through his contest but his Lions finally chewed up the Ponies and took away a 9 to 8 win. Last year the Lions were at the top of the heap all the way and it will be tough to duplicate that job again but they are in there trying and who can tell?

The Rams slumbered last year but this season they came out with their horns lowered and their feet stamping. Not the least upset by the snarling Tigers, the Rams pounded out a 12 to 9 victory as easily as if they were eating ice cream and cake. The Tigers may have been stunned but that does mean that they are sitting down licking their wounds. There is a lot of baseball ahead and the Tigers are sharpening their claws for it.

Tracksters Break Two Records, Beat Wakefield 74 - 57

Friday afternoon the Sachem track team broke a two meet losing streak by defeating Wakefield 74-57, at Manchester Field. Three days before they had suffered a tough 70-61 loss to Melrose team at Melrose. As far as the meet Friday it was very important for the Sachems to win. If they had lost the meet they would have been out of the running in Middlesex League track. Wakefield is one of the strongest teams and they were undefeated.

The Sachems had their troubles last Wednesday when they bowed to Melrose 70-61. They showed no strength in the 229, 880 relay, or the shotput. This is where Melrose picked up enough points to overtake them.

Tibor Saddler regained his old form as he swept the high and low hurdlers. Tibor had injured his ankle two weeks ago, but showed no ill effects while breezing through the hurdles. The high jump was all Winchester as Art Stafford and Steve Fahey were one-two. Stafford who broke the school high jump record last week scored his third victory in a row. The pole vault also went to the Sachems. This was the best effort of the day for the Sachems. They finished one, two, three, and four. Granted, Sullivan, Swimm and Rowe did all they could to pull the meet out of the fire. Tom Kelly finished a close second in the broad jump. Other than those standout performances it was a tough day at Melrose for Coach Battino's team.

The Sachems like to beat Wakefield more than any team in the Middlesex League. There is always a great rivalry between the two schools in all sports. Last Friday the team was faced with a do or die situation in their meet with the Warriors. Lose and they were out, win and they still had a chance in the Middlesex League track standings.

The Sachems came through with the very important win, 74-57. There were over three hundred fans from Wakefield and Winchester on hand to watch the meet and it shaped up to be a great one.

Tibor Saddler had a record breaking performance in the low hurdles and Chuck Swimm also broke a school record in the pole vault. The Sachems were very strong in the mile and two mile events. They also showed strength in the shoput and discus. The high jump and 100 yard dash also showed strength for the Sachems. It was a very important win for the Sachems who are still in the running for the league championship.

Tracksters Blast Watertown 96-35

Tuesday afternoon the Winchester High track team put on its best show of the season dumping Watertown 96-35.

The Sachems were still high after that win with Wakefield and the boys from Watertown felt the brunt of the attack.

The Sachems swept 12 out of 15 first places. They shut-out Watertown in the 220, 2 mile, and the shotput. They had trouble with only a few events, but they lost them by only a few points.

Sachems Win 1st Game of Season

The Sachem baseball team won its first game of the season as they defeated Browne & Nichols, Thursday afternoon 13-3. Wednesday afternoon the Sachems dropped another league tilt to Concord, last year's Middlesex League champs 5-2. Then the Sachems were back on the losing end this time they lost to Melrose 9-4 Friday afternoon.

Wednesday's game was a tight pitching duel between Steve Kajander and John Donovan. Both were standouts on the basketball court during the winter and have now turned their talents to baseball. Concord broke the game open in the 4th and 5th innings when they reached Steve for two runs in each inning. Even in the loss the Sachems did put on their best hitting performance of the season as they pounded out eight hits, but could not get the big hit to break the game open.

Thursday's game was a different story as the Sachems chased 13 runs across the plate. The big blow came when right fielder Bob Gilberti smashed a grand slam home run. Lee Sullivan also had a round tripper for the Sachems. Don Murphy and sophomore Kevin Barry pitched well for the Sachems.

The Friday game had the WHS team back on the losing trail 9-4. This time Melrose made the Sachems their victims. They started quickly, scoring two in the first and four in the second on starting pitcher Brian Collins. Six different Melrose batters collected hits. Gulla, the cleanup batter, collected his first round tripper of the season for Melrose. Don Schlener batted in two runs for the Sachems. Jack Kimball and Bob Gilberti also batted in a run for the team. The only other Sachem batter to collect a hit was second baseman Kevin Wiggin. He laced a double in the third inning and later scored the Sachems first run.

ARE SOX IMPROVED OVER LAST YEAR?

This week should be just about the right time to take a look at the 1965 Red Sox. With two weeks gone in the season things are starting to shape up.

The first question people ask, "Are the Red Sox improved over last year?" Yes, the Red Sox are improved over last year's eighth-place team, but the other teams are improved also. Baltimore and Chicago have some great young players. They are improved. Cleveland made many trades during the off season and is also improved. Detroit and Minnesota have always been rough. The team that may surprise everyone is L. A., which traded during the winter and has some fine young players to go along with the best pitcher in the league. Dean Chance.

Kansas City and Washington are improved; the Senators have the edge in improvement. Then there are the Yankees, enough said.

Now we come to our pets, the Red Sox. They say that pitching is baseball, and they are right. Baltimore, Chicago and New York were in the pennant race last year because they had the pitching. Sure, the Red Sox led the league in hitting, but what good did it do them? Yaz, Tony C., Mantilla and Thomas are fine hitters, but they cannot pitch.

A few years ago the league expanded and two new teams were admitted. Now both of these teams are as good or almost as good as the Sox. Washington may not be as good, but they are improving. Los Angeles beat out the Bosox last year. Why? because the Angels went after pitching. Unless the Sox get pitching they will not improve. All their hitting will be in vain if they do not get solid pitching.

They do have excellent hitting, perhaps the best in the league. This could make them an improved club. It's tough to keep harping on pitching, but it is so very important. If they get that pitching they need so very much they will go a long way.

Sports Briefs: The Sachem baseball team has a job cut out. Starting this Wednesday it plays 10 games in 17 days. This will really be a workout for the pitching staff. Speaking of that pitching staff, Bob Crotty is still having problems with his pitching arm and has yet to make an appearance on the mound for the Sachems. Starting this Saturday the Sachems will visit Woburn for a home-and-home series with the Tanners. They will play the return game Saturday, May 15, at Manchester Field. Although an experienced ball club, Woburn is still looking for its first win under new coach Doc Sweeney . . . The Woburn track team invaded Manchester Field today to meet the Sachems.

Paul Del Rossi (WHS 1960) pitched three innings of shutout ball last week for the Yankee farm club, Columbus, Ga., in the AA Southern League. Jack French, the pitcher who looked so good two years ago for Stoneham High, is now pitching for an Angels farm club on the West Coast. Dick Faieta (WHS 1964) plays ball for a college in upstate New York. The other day he banged out two singles, a triple and a home run, while pitching a five hitter.

Three school records were broken last week when Chuck Swim set the pole vault mark, Tibor Saddler a new-low hurdle mark and Art Stafford the high jump.

Here is one guy who outsmarted the Yankees. His name is Curt Blefary, Oriole rookie. He was originally the property of the Yankees. They had agreed to pay his way through college if he signed with them. Two years later they dropped him from the team, but they still had to pay his way through college. Blefary was picked up by the Orioles two years ago, and besides picking up his Oriole paycheck, the Yankees have to pay him for college. To make matters worse, he hit two home runs against the Yanks last week end as the Orioles swept three out of four games.

The Girls Look To The Colleges

High school juniors are thinking in terms of college now, and colleges are thinking of them.

Junior girls interested in attending Cardinal Cushing College in Brookline are invited to an Open House on Friday evening, May 7, at eight o'clock. The program will include a talk by Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy and a campus tour.

Sophomore and junior girls interested in nursing are invited to participate in an Acquaintance Tour at Catherine Laboure School of Nursing in Dorchester, affiliated with Carney Hospital, to be held at 3:30 p.m. on Friday, May 7. Parents are also invited.

Wellesley College will celebrate Tree Day on Saturday, May 15 and invites junior girls interested in the humanities, sciences, social sciences, or art to attend the visiting day.

Olympic Films Of 1964 Yachting

An exciting film showing the yachting competition in the 1964 Olympic Games in Japan will be one feature of the nautical evening to be presented at MIT's Kresge Auditorium on Friday, May 14th, at 8 p.m. and which is open to the public.

These pictures are the property of the United States International Sailing Association, and the Olympic Yachting Committee of the USISA is offering them for showing to yachtsmen all over the country.

Cap League To Open Saturday

May 8, Saturday, will inaugurate the sixth season of Cap League at Ginn Field at 1:30 p.m.

Cap League enrolls any boy 8-12, years old who is not on a Little League team. All equipment excepting gloves are provided for recreational baseball. It forms a pool of boys and fathers who coach, umpire, or otherwise assist and who become the major source of Little League players and officials.

It has proven very well as a father and son activity in past years and many of these fathers and sons are now comprising Winchester Little League, the latter providing complete Liability Insurance for this group. En Ka society has sponsored the equipment needs. The Dad's Club of Little League is cap's original sponsor and guarantees its continuity. Last year's enrollment was 171 boys.

Cap League has its own treasurer who expedites the operating costs of caps, bats and ball from the $2.00 dues requested of each participant.

Games are scheduled for every Saturday at Ginn Field and Sunday at West Side Field at 1:30 p.m. throughout June 20th. Boys are grouped by age and school district to facilitate local spirit and possible extra practice sessions.

Every boy plays ball in Cap League! Come and join the fun of week end recreational baseball! Roberta Nowell will again run the refreshment stand. For additional information call: Bob Wild, 1258; Ralph Atkinson, 729-2903; Charles Hill, 2001; Charles Hall, 729-7883; Leo Roche, 729-2340; Ted Von Rosenvinge, 729-3799; Art Reading, 729-4892.

BOWLING

Uncles, Aunts, Nieces and Nephews League

Let's all scream,
For that wonderful team.
With style and grace,
They're still in first place.
What team could it be?
The Spades, naturally.
Here they come,
The team full of fun
They're on the run,
At the sound of a gun.
They're second at a stance,
The sparkling Diamonds by chance.
They're a great team,
And cause quite a scene.
Their forms vary so,
And they put on quite a show.
They're third from the best,
The Hearts no less.
They're not sad,
They're not even mad.
It's all in the game,
They're not looking for fame.
They are last,
But, are still having a blast.
They're the Clubs.

Nothing very exceptional happened this week of bowling, but Aunt Rose DeTeso should get credit for bowling 110, and also for outbowling Uncle John MacIsaac. How did you ever accomplish that? That was surely a marvelous strike Niece Eileen Lizotte, keep up the good work.

Freddie Johnson of the Oilers did some really good bowling last night when he rolled a high triple of 417. Fred compiled strings of 136, 160 and 121, his 160 was also high single of the night. His team, the Oilers also took high team triple away from Grandma's Teeth (1749). Freddie's team mate Bob Merenda was second high with a 379. Bud Nash and Augie Cennerazzo had to share honors for third high of 347. Congratulations Freddie for joining the 400 club.

Jaycee Tennis Tournament Is Saturday, May 22

The Winchester Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its annual Junior Tennis Championships for all boys and girls in town under the age of 18 on May 22 at the Palmer Courts.

The tournament will be singles only with four categories; boys 16 to 18 years, girls 16 to 18 years, boys 16 years and under, and girls 16 years and under. Winners in each category will be sponsored by the local chapter to the State Championships held this year in Springfield.

Last year the Winchester Chapter hosted the state event and was fortunate in having Winchester's Janet Klippel represent our town and state in the national championships held in Minnesota. This opportunity is open to all young tennis players in town.

Applications for this year's local tournament may be obtained from the Winchester Sports Shop and the office of the athletic department at the High School. These applications must be mailed back to: Mr. J. A. Kavanagh at 739 Main Street, Winchester, by May 19.

In order to insure minimum inconvenience to the town tennis buffs, the tournament will begin promptly at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday May 22. Entrants who are more than fifteen minutes late will be disqualified.

The Jaycees have expressed their appreciation to the Winchester Tennis Association and the Park Department for their cooperation.

SOI Sportsman Of The Year

ANGELO P. TOFURI, right, was awarded the annual Good Sportsmanship Award trophy of the SOI Bowling League at the group's recent bowling banquet held at headquarters on Swanton Street. Named in honor of the late Andrew "Dippy" Diapella, the award is here being presented by his brother, Frank Diapella.

The Sons of Italy annual bowling banquet was held last Saturday night, capping another successful bowling season. Among the many awards presented, the sportsmanship trophy still seems to create the most interest and curiosity. Any bowler is eligible and the winners name is kept a deep dark secret till the presentation is made.

This year's winner was Angelo (Musky) Tofuri. He joins a select group of previous bowlers who in the opinion of a selection committee met the requirements necessary to be considered sportsman of the year.

For the last several years the sportsmanship trophy has been a memorial trophy in honor of our late brother Andrew (Dippy) Diapella, who was an excellent athlete, participated in all sports, in, as well as out of high school. Later, he was instrumental in starting for the SOI, many of our present sports activities.

The wonderful part of this trophy for the many who knew Dippy, who played with him, and who played for him, is that it perpetuates the memory of a man who exemplified the true meaning of sportsmanship. In the world of the common every day man, the world of the eight to five people, the world of people who never make history-making decisions or move mountains, Dippy left his mark on us.

Bob Fiore was the m.c. this year and he did an excellent job handling a difficult and tricky program. There were many awards and introductions to be made and Bob went through it smoothly and quickly.

2nd place Navy: captain Moose Bellino, Ralph Fiore, Mike Saraco, Charlie Lizzotte, Tony Melaragni, Bill Falzano, and Sam Caluggero.

High average: Bob Fiore, 116

High triple: Andrew Buzzotta, 393

High single: Richard Riga, 158

Teams most valuable players: Mario Mascioli, Moose Bellino, Frank Gangi, Musky Tofuri, Babe Tofuri, Paul Gangi, Correction Fiore, Hokie Procopio, Richie Riga, Jerry Brosini, Mel Fiore, Phil Muraco, Giro Cerulli, Woozy Giacalone.

Runner-up troph (for the team who finished in the second half, but lost in the roll-offs: Harvard captain Angelo Tofuri, Tom Haggerty, Tony Lentine, Sal Marchesi, Jack Borian, Bill Maggio, Henry Armstrong.

Sportsmanship Trophy: A. P. Tofuri

WTA Tennis Clinic Begins Saturday

The Winchester Tennis Association is again sponsoring the annual Tennis Clinic at Packer Courts, near Wedge Pond.

This clinic is for children aged 8 to 18, both beginners and intermediates. It will begin on Saturday, May 8, and will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Follow-up clinics will be given on Saturdays, May 15, June 5 and 12, beginning at 9 a.m. After the initial clinic, the beginners and intermediates will be separated and given individual attention.

The first clinic will be conducted by Joe Corish, chairman of the New England Lawn Tennis Association Clinic Committee. Mr. Corish has vast experience in the group teaching of tennis, having given tennis clinics for 25 years to coaches, schools and clubs. He has worked with many of the top professionals of the world among them Fred Perry, Don Budge, Jack Kramer, and Pancho Segura. His method of teaching tennis by analogy has been used throughout the world.

In the following clinics demonstrations will be given by high ranking New England tennis players Arthur Hills, Robert Joslin, and William MacNeill. Court etiquette and scoring will be covered by Everett Whit Gray, the supervisor at Packer Courts. Many other local tennis stars will be on hand to give assistance and work individually with the children. In the event of bad weather a notice will be posted at the tennis courts regarding relocation of the clinic.

Little League Auxiliary at Work

Mrs. John Dolan, president of the Little League Women's Auxiliary, opened her home at Lakeview Terrace Wednesday morning, April 28th, to welcome the new team mothers of the American and National Leagues.

Mrs. Thomas Kell, Mrs. Paul Mulloy, and Mrs. Claude Shannon were hostesses for a delightful coffee hour during which the president explained how proceeds from the various undertakings of the Auxiliary, particularly the dance and the refreshment stands, assisted in the purchase of baseball equipment.

Mrs. Frank Brennan, vice president of the National League and Mrs. Joseph Julian, vice president of the American League, described the responsibilities of Team Mothers.

The Team Mothers for 1965 are:

THE MANAGEMENT OF J. H. WINN dial hands company meeting at the Country Club.

J. H. Winn Management Meeting

The Eighth Annual Dinner Meeting of Winn management was held at the Winchester Country Club on Tuesday evening, April 27. Approximately 47 persons attended the occasion.

General manager Ralph W. Jury welcomed the gathering with brief introductory remarks. Words of appreciation for being part of the group were expressed by John Sala, the new maintenance foreman.

Henry L. Clarke, Jr., president of J. H. Winn Inc., addressed the group on the recently completed fiscal year, and said he felt that it would reflect progress comparable to the previous year.

Paul Everett, car merchandising manager for the Ford Motor Co. in New England, then took over as the main speaker of the evening. He immediately launched into a discussion of the present boom economy and the effect of the population explosion on the American marketplace. Obviously, his remarks were tuned to the automobile industry which is currently producing at a 9,500,000 rate.

He contends that the cars being offered are the best ever and are a major factor in our highest-ever economy. One out of seven persons is affected by this industry.

Mr. Everett emphasized that youth must be served in the next five to ten years, and one out of sixteen will be buying a car, new or used, in the next ten years.

Each year three million persons become eligible to drive. It is interesting to note that in 1965 40 per cent of our population is under 20 years of age, and the percentage is predicted to increase each year to about 60 per cent in 1970. Multiple car families are a potent factor in automotive growth, due in large degree to the teenager.

The speaker then defended racing as a means for his company to prove their products under fire.

The speaker's easy manner of delivery, wit and factual knowledge of the industry provided an exceptionally interesting and informative evening for those hearing his talk.

The Fire House, Police Department Get Going Over

Brownie Troop 679, of the Washington School, had a wet and therefor hurried walk to the Police and Fire Stations on April 27. Despite the rain they arrived with great excitement and before they knew it, were all locked in cells.

Following release, each girl investigated the gun room and was handcuffed. The ambulance too, had a thorough going over by the 14 girls, seven, eight, and nine years old.

Mr. McNutt, a troop father, gave a grand tour of the Fire Station, covering everything from bells and trucks to the dining-room and Brenda McNutt was able to show all where her father sleeps when he is not at home. After a fire safety lesson and an ice cream from Randall's it was time to hasten home.

The girls who went were: Alison Cary, Patty Church, Stephanie Darrah, Janet Doyle, Susan Ferber, Jan Gardner, Lowell Guy, Karen Johnson, Leslie Keenan, Wendy Lawrence, Brenda McNutt, Nancy Pease, Andrea Pirani and Jane Yarley. They were accompanied by Mrs. John Doyle, and their leaders: Mrs. Donald Pease and Mrs. Richard Cary.

The troop extends its many thanks to the Policemen and Firemen.

Saint Mary's Mothers Award First Scholarship

One of the highlights of the final meeting for this year held by St. Mary's Mothers' Club on Sunday afternoon, May 2, was the awarding of a scholarship to Kevin McDonald, the first recipient under the newly formed scholarship program.

Mrs. Joseph P. Collins, out-going president, greeted all the members and presented the officers for the 1965-1966 club year. These are: Mrs. John J. McDonald, president, Mrs. William A. Smith, vice-president, Mrs. Francis R. Staffier, recording secretary, Mrs. Anthony Barbaro, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Richard M. Hines, treasurer. The chairman of the nominating committee was Mrs. Robert R. Cammon.

College Club Annual Tea And Election

The Winchester College Club will hold its annual meeting at a spring tea to be held on May 12, at the home of Mrs. Paul Atwood, 21 Pilgrim Drive. At this time officers for the coming season will be elected and introduced.

Speaker for the day will be Mrs. John Volpe, who will tell members some of the fun and foibles which come up in her travels as the 'First Lady of the Commonwealth.'

A short business meeting will be held starting at 1:30 p.m. followed by Mrs. Volpe. Refreshments will be served to conclude a tea which will combine accomplishment with pleasure.

All members are invited to be present.

To Be a Marine

To Winchester youth of military age—Sgt. Poretta and Cpl. Hill, your local Marine Corps Recruiters, provide you with the following information because of the often asked question: What's it like to become a Marine?

Marine Corps recruit training lasts eleven weeks. It takes place at the Marine Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S. C. During this training period you receive expert instruction from Marine officers and non-commissioned officers. The well-balanced physical training program trims off extra pounds and adds new muscle. You learn leadership. You develop that Marine team spirit. Most important, you gain new self-confidence and the ability to meet any situation.

Your Assignment . . The Marine Corps is America's Force-In-Readiness. As a Marine, you are ready to go to the defense of your country, anywhere in the world. This primary mission of the Corps is the reason that every man is combat-trained, part of a team that has no peer. In the Corps you serve on land, sea, or in the air. Every assignment gives you the opportunity to develop special skills which contribute to the efficient team. There are men in electronics, communications, engineering, ordnance, aviation, supply, and many other diversified fields.

Your life . Marines are stationed all over the world. Major ground and air elements are located on the east and west coast of the United States; on the Hawaiian Islands, Okinawa and many other places. Marines serve at U.S. Embassies throughout the world as well as aboard the capital ships of the U.S. Navy. Upon completion of recruit training you receive four weeks individual combat training at Camp Lejune, N.C. You then return home for your first leave as a Marine. Upon return from leave you are assigned to one of the Fleet Marine Force units; to one of the many posts and stations; or are sent to a technical school for specialist training.

Your benefits...Pay and promotions, paid vacations, Marine Corps Institute to help prepare for higher rank and pay, Recreational facilities, Uniforms plus a monthly allowance, and many, many more.

Requirements: Be 17 years of age and less than 28. If under 18 years of age or enrolled in high school, parents' consent is required. Be in excellent health and good physical condition and pass prescribed physical examination. Be of unquestioned moral character. No minimum on education. But high school graduates are preferred and all applicants must pass a mental test. Must be a U.S. citizen or have filed a formal declaration of intent to become one. Must be single and agree to remain so until after recruit training.

For more information on how to become a Marine contact S-Sgt. Albert J. Porretta or Cpl. Darrell K. Hill at the Post Office Building, Union Square, Somerville, or call MO 6-4855.

Moms Guests At Pleasure Island Mother's Day

Mothers will receive a fun-fest treat this Sunday (May 9).

In connection with the observance of Mother's Day, all Moms visiting Pleasure Island, 170-acre family recreation center on Route 128 in Wakefield, will be guests of the management.

Mothers may enjoy all the facilities of this mammoth magic-land all day including such thrilling attractions as driving the antique cars, riding the Pirate boat and sailing out to meet Moby Dick the white whale, the Wreck of the Hesperus, Chisholm Trail, petting and feeding animals in Animal and and many other features without charge. Picnic areas are also available at Pleasure Island which is open Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 8 p.m. The daily seasons begins on June 26.

Games for youngsters while traveling. The ever-popular card games, 29c. New Magnetic games, Tickle Bee, Treasure Hunt, $2.00 each. Also Katie the Carrot, Pete Pepper with their friend Mr. Potato Head, each $1.00. At the Winchester Star.

Go Army Today

High school graduates or seniors about to graduate—the U.S. Army has a voluntary enlistment program just tailored to your needs.

The Graduate Specialist Program guarantees you the training of your choice at one of the Army's top schools.

If a high school graduate passes the qualifying examinations for enrollment as a Graduate Specialist, he chooses the schooling he wants before he enlists. Successful candidates for the program can take their pick from 107 classroom courses.

Another phase of the Graduate Specialist Program is the "early choice" offered high school seniors. This allows them to choose from the widest range of available courses—60 days prior to graduation—before quotas for the most popular courses are filled. If a senior qualifies, his chosen course is reserved for him until after he graduates, with no obligation until he enlists.

To take advantage of the "early choice" the high school senior needs a letter signed by his high school principal or guidance counselor stating that he is likely to graduate. After satisfactorily completing aptitude tests, the Army recruiter will assist him in selecting a course of instruction based on test results and desires of the applicant. The applicant then receives his guarantee, in writing, which goes into effect only when he actually enlists.

For more information without obligation see your local Army recruiter, Sgt. Fred T. Nixon, at 49 High Street, Medford, or call him at EX 6-5777.

Advertise FIRST in your home town paper—THE WINCHESTER STAR. Large circulation, low rates, prompt, courteous service and fast results.

Picture Lending Program to Aid Scholarship Fund

The Winchester Art Association announced that its earlier anticipation of an enthusiastic response from the public to the new series of Picture Lending Parties has been borne out by the fact that most of the tickets have been sold.

It is through this annual drive to build an Art Scholarship Fund that some of our talented young Winchester students have been furnished with the opportunity to continue their education in the field of art. Some of the young recipients who have benefited from this project are Kathy Lopez and Marie Enright now attending Massachusetts College of Art and last year's beneficiary, a Jonathan Sibley, Museum of Fine Arts student.

The purchase of a ticket enables the holder to attend with a guest the three Picture Lending Parties one in May, one in September and another in January. At these parties seventy pictures loaned to the project will be on exhibition. On a first come first serve basis, the holder of a ticket may select one picture to be hung in his home for the following four months. This he returns to the second party and in turn chooses another; the same procedure takes place at the third and last party.

The exhibited work will include paintings by Tom O'Hara, Lawrence Kupferman, Loring Coleman, Joe Santoro, Laurence Sisson, Elizabeth Lobingier, Forest Orr, Jonathan Sibley, Dorothy Howard. Exciting paintings of various media will be displayed and the ticket holder will have a grand time choosing a picture to suit his taste.

The number of tickets for this art scholarship project are limited and a request for one may be obtained by phoning Mrs. George Marks, 729-2249.

WHS Pops Concert

May 7 is the night to remember for the fourth annual Pops Concert to be given at the high school gym.

A varied program, starting at 8:15 p.m., of popular and show tunes as well as semi-classical music will be performed by the band, orchestra, girls' glee club, choir, and the double sextet under the direction of Wendell S. Withington.

Industrious students have gaily decorated the gym and arranged for the audience to be seated at tables. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets are being sold by the members of the musical organizations and at the door. Come and have an enjoyable evening.

The Music Club Performs; Thrills To Paul Johnian

The Winchester Music Club held its final meeting for this season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Knopf on Main Street Sunday evening, May 2nd.

The program opened with a wind group playing three selections. Players were Kathy Dillon, clarinet; Alta Merritt, French horn and Geoffrey Blair, trombone, with Mrs. Ralph McAdams at the piano.

Piano soloists were Sarah Curtis, pupil of Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell; Hillary Hosmer, pupil of Miss Ruth Hayden and Christine Marrocco who studies in Boston with Margaret Chaloff. Both Miss Hayden and Mrs. O'Donnell were present.

Interspersed with the piano numbers were a trumpet solo by Robert Romney, a violin solo by Becky Irwin, both accompanied by Mrs. Theodore Webb, and two Frank Bridge Miniatures played by Gretchen Bates, violin, Paige Rozelle, cello and Mrs. Frank Bates, piano.

After everyone had concluded singing a lively round "Come Follow" led by Craige and Scott Knopf and Mrs. Thomas, the club settled down to the treat of the evening.

The guest soloist, Paul Johnian, is a junior at the New England Conservatory and a violin student of Alfred Krips. Paul graduated from Winchester High School only three years ago so is not separated by too many years from his audience—in age. In performance it was otherwise. Could a few hours a day of serious practice make that much difference?

Paul played unaccompanied violin selections from the contemporary, romantic, and classical periods ending with the piece he is now working on, Vitali's famous "Chaconne." These provided a wide range in violin technique and to be able to listen and watch at close range was most fascinating and rewarding to all who were fortunate to hear him.

Miss Cullen Is Honored

On Wednesday, April 21st, Miss Mary Cullen, kindergarten teacher at Parkhurst School, was honored at a tea attended by mothers of both morning and afternoon pupils.

Co-hostesses for this pleasant occasion were the room mothers. Mr. Vincent Errico and Mrs. Arthur Govoni, at whose home the tea was held. Assisting at the tea table were Mrs. Paul Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Dwight Newman.

Will The Real Litter Bug Please Stand Up

By Dorothy Sundberg

He wanted to find out why this evasive criminal, the unofficial leader of nearly two hundred million offenders, is so frequently encountered and yet still at large.

Among other reasons, he concluded, it may be a case of mistaken identity.

Most people, he learned, are familiar with the popular symbol of the Litterbug. They just interpret it differently.

When asked to describe the creature, a group of children saw it as a precocious pixy, teenagers called it a "beat Beatle," to some adults it was an obnoxious nuisance. A few called it a monstrous menace. Practically no one looked at the litterbug and saw himself.

Most people just don't recognize themselves as a contributor to the destruction of life, limb and property as the usurper of millions of dollars, the despoiler of beauty or especially as the arch enemy of Smokey the Bear.

According to the Observant Citizen the litterbug has already arrived in Winchester. An alert police officer even caught one, her license was suspended (she was a lady bug), but there are hundreds which haven't been caught—yet.

They've been seen in the center, at the depot, in the common, near the ponds in school yards, just about everywhere. But their biggest invasion has yet to come, when ice cream stands and beaches are opened and warm weather travel begins.

First on the firing lines of Winchester minutemen is Mr. J. F. Fitzsimmons and the Civic League, who last winter provided the first "ounce of prevention" with their "Keep Winchester Clean" cards and the large litter containers for the center purchased with a donation from the En Ka Society. Recently Police Chief Joseph J. Derro issued an order directing police officers to be especially vigilant in apprehending the litterbugs. Fire Chief I. Francis Amico has appealed to homeowners to discard potential fire hazards and Michael D. Saraco, director of the Board of Health, named some forms of litter a major health nuisance.

Highway and Park Departments are alerted. Churches, youth groups, organizations, merchants, private citizens are working for a cleaner Winchester. In schools and home the children are talking about litter.

Then there is another method of attack.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club has begun its project of extensive landscaping in the town center. One of their chief concerns is the litter-proneness of the same area. They're hoping that beautification will be a deterrent to littering. Many home owners feel the same way about their yards.

This litterbug is a stubborn adversary. In the words of the Reverend Robert A. Storer, pastor of the Unitarian Church, "Keeping our town free from litter is a problem that will take time, effort and discipline. We must ask ourselves, each one, 'are we proud of the place in which we live?' Then we should inquire 'What are we going to do about it?' The answer, I feel, is in starting out the right way with our children, and in setting them a better example."

These, then, are the weapons on hand, education, equipment, enforcement and example.

Will they be enough?

Take a good look in the mirror, and ask that question again, OUT LOUD.

Hoods Honors Carl Peterson

Carl E. Peterson, of 35 Baldwin Street, was honored recently by the H. P. Hood and Sons Company for his 20 years of service.

He was one of several Hood employees who were presented service pins by company president Gilbeht H. Hood, Jr., of 6 Everett Avenue.

The awards were made at a service luncheon held at the firm's Boston Ice Cream Plant, and Mr. Peterson, a wholesale salesman with the firm's Charlestown Operation, received a gold pin.

Holy Name Will Hear Mr. Hayes

The last meeting of St. Mary's Holy Name society for 1964-65 will be held this Sunday, May 9th.

All members of the parish are invited to attend the 7:45 a. m. Mass and then proceed to the Knights of Columbus hall on Mount Vernon Street, where a collation of coffee and doughnuts will be served before the start of the program.

The guest speaker for our May meeting is Gerard B. Hayes. His topic will be, "A Visit to Hawaii." Mr. Hayes has traveled extensively throughout the world and has become very well known in the Boston area for his speaking ability and knowledge of the countries he has visited.

Mr. Hayes has been a past president, American Institute of Banking; an alumnus of Boston College; past president of Boston State Hospital League; treasurer and director of the Paulist League of Boston; member of the Mt. Pleasant Council K of C; Navy Post of American Legion; Charitable Irish Society; Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; The Bank Officer's Assoc. of Boston. The Catholic Accountants Guild; Erie Society of Boston; and a past president, Roslindale-West Roxbury Kiwanis club. To Speak To Senior Forum

Miss Lillian S. Gregory, executive secretary of the Council for Lay Life and Work of the Massachusetts Christian Conference, will speak to the Senior Forum at their chapel service at the First Congregational Church on May 9. "Inventing the Future," is the title which she has chosen for her talk.

Stephen Carpenter will be the chaplain and Deborah Barone will be the assistant chaplain Dan Brink and Ellen Bemis will serve as deacons.

Nonagon young people have been invited to this service at 9:15 a.m. as guests of Forum.

The annual Baccalaureate service will be on Sunday, May 16, at 9:15 a.m. in the church Sanctuary. The Closing Banquet will be that evening in Chidley Hall. The arrangements for this gala event are under the direction of David Weaver and Ellen Moody.

MEMS Auxiliary Convention

Mrs. William D. Barone of School Street is chairman of registration for the two day annual Convention of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Massachusetts Medical Society this month.

On May 18 and 19, they will be conducted by the president, Mrs. Ruth Michelsen, wife of Dr. Jost J. Michelsen, formerly of Winchester.

Armed Bandits Holdup Winchester Homeowner In Saturday Robbery

Local police this week have been actively investigating a Saturday night armed robbery by two masked, pistol-brandishing holdup men at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeLuca of 8 Overlook Way.

The robbers, after luring the DeLucas to open the front door on a ruse, barged inside and held the couple at gunpoint for about 15 minutes while they searched the house for jewelry and money.

According to police the holdup men escaped with over $3,000 worth of jewelry and a few hundred dollars in cash.

Lieutenant Edward Bowler was notified of the robbery by the DeLucas shortly after 9 o'clock on Saturday night. Lt. Bowler dispatched Sgt. Robert Elliott and Officer Mario Buzzotta to the scene.

The police officers were told by the DeLucas that the robbery occurred at about 8:40 p.m., in the following manner:

The front door bell sounded and Mrs. DeLuca, who was on the second floor, went to a window and called down to see who was there.

A man replied that they were interested in some real estate and would like to talk to her about it inside.

Mr. DeLuca, who was watching TV in the living room, went to answer the door. On looking outside he saw a Ford that he thought might belong to a friend, but on opening the door he was confronted with two armed and masked men who pushed him back into the house and told him to keep quiet and no one would get hurt.

One of the armed men went upstairs to the second floor bedroom and told Mrs. DeLuca it was a holdup, warning her to keep quiet and she would not be harmed.

Mrs. DeLuca told police she thought it was a joke at first, but soon realized it was a real holdup. A short altercation took place there and the armed holdup man

NATION'S FOURTH HIGHEST AWARD, the Silver Star, and the Purple Heart for wounds he received during his Silver Star combat mission in North Vietnam, were awarded First Lieutenant James A. Cullen, Jr., of 82 Bacon Street (center) by Maj. Gen. John C. Meyer (right), Twelfth Air Force commander, in ceremonies at Cannon AFB in New Mexico on April 29. Col. Joseph J. Kruzel, 832nd Air Division commander, is the third man.

Special Open Hearing Called For May 26 On Town Recreation Needs

The town's Recreation Committee will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, May 26, in the High School auditorium to present its concept of Winchester's recreational needs and how they can best be satisfied, and to obtain a broad public response from the townspeople with regard to initiating plans for getting a Community Center here.

The Recreation Committee's action, somewhat bold in the light of a 30-year-plus history here of the town's refusal to go along with and pay for a town built, owned and managed community recreational complex—as recommended by numerous other Recreation Committees' reports to Town Meetings since 1931, may be the first of many steps toward the actual establishment of such a community-wide center here that could serve all age groups.

Recreation Committee chairman Richard Freeman said Tuesday he hoped this effort to provide the town with a community center would meet with success, for it is being approached in a different way—by trying to raise enough in private donations and subscriptions and from institution and foundations, so that the money won't have to come from local tax revenues to build it. The attempt to spend public tax money for a community center has been the major stumbling block in the past, he noted.

Since World War II Winchester has been developing at a rapid pace. The result has been that now the town is left with very little land available for development—including its own important projects such as the present elementary and secondary school building programs. It is this reasoning that prompts the Recreation Committee to call a public hearing at this time to sound out the townspeople and see if there is sufficient community support to warrant planning for a program and a site and implementing action toward raising the necessary capital funds for such a project.

At the May 26 open hearing the Recreation Committee will briefly go over the history of the recreational facilities in Winchester and the attempts to get more here, and then will briefly review the history of the present three-year experimental project for the high school—noting its successes and showing why they point up to a very evident need for a community center for that age level especially.

This committee feels after studying, analyzing and experimenting for three years that the recreation facilities in Winchester are not adequate. True, there are playgrounds but these are summer facilities only and are not utilized by all age groups. There are school buildings which also are not adequate, primarily because of a lack of adequate types of space in a central location and/or utilization time available to the general public.

Basically, the committee feels there is a distinct lack of a well-developed, well-organized year-round recreation program for all age groups in this town. Concrete plans will be offered the town May 26 for its support, views and criti-

Sales Tax Ahead Of Income Tax Opinion Survey Shows

Democrats, Republicans and Independents alike are united statewide in their opposition to higher income taxes, a new opinion research poll shows.

Results of the poll, just completed by the Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N. J., were disclosed for the first time April 22 at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations.

Frank J. Zeo, executive director, reported these findings: Democrats (68%), Republicans (79%) and Independents (73%) agree a higher income tax is not the best source for additional tax money in Massachusetts. Of those families with income under $5,000, 68% feel the same way, as do 71% of those families with income over $5,000.

Faced with this statement: "A sales tax is the best source for additional tax money in Massachusetts," the voters reacted this way: 42% agreed, 49% disagreed; 9% had no opinion. Zeo's conclusion: A sales tax is more acceptable to the reluctant taxpayer than the income tax, by far.

A growing majority of voters, 72 percent as compared to 52 percent in 1964, feel strongly that high property taxes are a serious problem in Massachusetts.

Asked to react to this statement: "Governor Volpe has proposed a good program to solve the State's financial problems," 49 percent of the public agreed. Thirty-three percent disagreed, and 18 percent had no opinion, Zeo reported.

Citizen resistance to the need for new taxes seems to be diminishing, judging from voter reaction to: "No new taxes are really needed now." The "agree" figure dropped to 44% from the 62% of 1962.

Sixty-four percent agreed the state should pay a larger share of local public school costs. Only sixteen percent disagreed, and 20 percent had no opinion.

The voters (57%) also felt the State should set and enforce standards for operation of the public schools. Only 24 percent disagreed. But in a seemingly contradictory vein, 42% of the voters felt local school committees should not be controlled by the State. Twenty-seven percent felt they should be.

Silver Star Medal Awarded Lt. Cullen For Viet Mission

First Lieutenant James A. Cullen, Jr. of 82 Bacon Street recently received the nation's fourth highest military decoration—the Silver Star—for combat action against North Vietnamese Communists.

Maj. Gen. John C. Meyer, Twelfth Air Force commander, presented the medal to the local pilot, along with the Purple Heart medal for wounds he received during his Silver Star combat mission, at award ceremonies at Cannon AFB in New Mexico on Thursday, April 29.

The Silver Star medal was awarded to First Lt. Cullen for a combat mission he flew on Tuesday, March 2, in which, while attacking a North Vietnamese naval base on the Gulf of Tonkin, he distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy.

Acting as an advisor-pilot to the South Vietnamese Air Force, he flew a close air support mission at minimum altitude over a large concentration of enemy forces. He continously exposed himself to intensive and accurate ground fire and scored numerous hits over the target area.

Although wounded, and his aircraft severely damaged by hostile fire, he remained in the combat zone and continued his attack against enemy forces until he was forced to eject from his crippled aircraft. Later he was rescued from the Gulf of Tonkin and returned to his home base.

Jim is the oldest son of the Cullen's six children. He was born here in 1936 and went through the schools, graduating with the class of 1957. At High School Jim played varsity tackle on the football team and later at West Point, where he was graduated in 1961, he played hockey.

After receiving his commission he went on to Navigation School at Connolly Air Force Base in Texas and then to Webb Air Force Base, also in Texas, for his pilot training, and to Cannon for further study. Before his tour of duty started in Vietnam, Jim completed six months' air force service in Northern Italy.

Jim is the brother of Mrs. Franceline A. Leary of Niskayuma, N. Y.; Mrs. Loraine Metz of Cairo, W. Va.; of Frank F. Cullen, who is completing work for his masters' degree in marketing at B. U. and is associated in a maintenance store in Woburn; of Brian S. Cullen, a senior at Brown, and of Gerald, graduating this year from WHS.

SUSIE GUSTIN SCAMPERS to keep pace with the revolving Bavarian Fun House Barrel—one of the interesting new attractions at this year's En Ka Fair, May 21 and 22.

31st En Ka Fair Is Next Weekend; New Attractions

In addition to a thrilling new revolving barrel Bavarian Fun House, the giant midway at the 31st annual En Ka Fair, May 21 and 22, will boast a roller coaster, two ferris wheels, a scrambler and tilt-a-whirl as well as the exciting Round-up ride for the first time ever. Intriguing games to test your skill may reward fair-goers with fabulous prizes.

En Ka's famous lobster rolls will be available along with the usual hamburgers and hot dogs (which are UNusually good the way En Ka workers prepare them!) plus cotton candy, tonic and ice cream and a big table of home-made specialties in the line of cakes, breads and pies.

Saturday night the traditional baked bean and ham supper will be served, while a quiet interlude may be enjoyed Saturday afternoon at the relaxing afternoon tea.

Swim Club Pool Public Hearing

About 300 persons attended a Board of Appeal public hearing in the Town Hall auditorium Tuesday night on a petition by the Swim Club, Inc. for a variance under Section 8 of the Town By-Laws to build a swimming pool and perhaps tennis facilities on 5.2 acres of land off Johnson Road and Ridge Street in a Single Residence District A zone.

Of those in attendance, about four-to-one appeared to favor the petitioner's proposal, according to one observer.

The opposition to the proposal was represented by Leo Garvey, who claimed the petition would depreciate the value of large undeveloped lands surrounding the site,

Volpe Entertains Foreign Consuls

Governor and Mrs. John A. Volpe entertained about 70 members of the Boston consular corps and their wives last Thursday evening at an informal reception and dinner at his 10 Everett Avenue home here.

Approximately 30 nations were represented at the affair, including Ireland and Japan, and many South American nations. Also present were Secretary of State and Mrs. Kevin H. White, State Treasurer and Mrs. Robert Q. Crane, Superior Court Chief Justice and Mrs. Joseph Tauro, and Justice Raymond S. Wilkins of the Supreme Judicial Court.

The reception and dinner was for the purpose of exchanging ideas with the foreign representatives on how better to trade and on other relations between the state and foreign countries, according to members of the Governor's staff, who said the affair was an innovation by Gov. Volpe.

Summer Program For Children In Hub Environment

Winchester parents who would like to provide their children with the experience of getting to know children with different backgrounds than their own will have an opportunity to do so this summer.

Nancy Curtis, director of the Roxbury Basic Reading Program, has issued an invitation to children aged four through twelve from the greater Boston area to join the Roxbury children who will be participating in a special summer section of the program.

The theme for the summer will be "The City." The children will become aware not only of the problems of city living, but also of the advantages of living in a large and complex urban environment

The children will take walking trips through urban renewal areas, and trips to museums, universities, the wharf, public gardens and arboretum. Art and music also will be emphasized. The children will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Eliot Congregational Church in Roxbury during the months of July and August.

In announcing the program Miss Curtis said, "This program is open to families who are interested in the actively involving themselves in the fostering of friendship between the races in the greater Boston area. We have chosen a program which will permit natural and sustained contact between the children, rather than the 'one visit' type of arrangement attempted in the past. The success of the summer program will depend on the interest, imagination, involvement, and cooperation of all parents and children."

PIONEERING SIGNAL TOWER. Scouts from Arlington Troop 13 built this pioneer-style signal tower with poles and rope lashings, and then had fun climbing all over it last Saturday on Manchester Field at the "Scouting in Action" four-town area Boy Scout Jamboree.

Five hundred scouts of the Musket District, Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, staged a spectacular "Scouting in Action Show" at Manchester Field here last Saturday. And there was plenty of excitement and interest in the event!

There were 30 Boy Scout, Cub Scout and Explorer units participating from Winchester, Arlington, Stoneham and Woburn. More than 1000 visitors arrived during the afternoon. Activities opened with a parade in the morning, followed by flag-raising ceremonies at noon, rally events, games and contests, and action demonstrations in more than 30 booths throughout the afternoon.

District Commissioner Daniel Uenas and members of the commissioner's staff led the parade through the Winchester business

Meetings Report On Proposal For New High School

The two open meetings on secondary school proposals held on May 5 and 6 proved informative for those town meeting members and interested townspeople present. Approximately 120 attended both meetings.

William Cusack, chairman of precinct 4 town meeting members, opened the Vinson-Owen meeting and introduced the speakers. Mrs. Robert Grenzeback, chairman of the school committee, explained the "school needs;" Austin Broadhurst, chairman of the secondary school building committee, presented the committee's recommendations and explained the reasons for its proposal.

At Mystic School the next evening, Richard A. Sawyer, acting chairman of precinct 3, presided. The same speakers were present.

Wedge, Leonard Beaches Are Improved By Park Department

There is a new look at Wedge Pond and Leonard Pool Beaches this year, and Winchester swimmers will like the improvements when the public beaches open sometime late in June.

At Wedge Pond the beach has been extended 80 feet in length southerly toward Church Street, and the old sand play area near Palmer Street was resurfaced with a new layer of sand. A new lifeguard stand is scheduled to be installed on the extended part of the beach in the next few weeks, making two lifestands for the public swimming area, according to Herbert S. Mullen, superintendent of the Park Department.

The blockhouse used for dressing rooms and concessions was repainted inside during the winter, and outside in the first weeks of April.

Also during April the Highway and Park Departments jointly extended the street surface drains from the beach edge near the driveway entrance another 30 feet further out into the pond. They also constructed two manholes at the base of the banking there to handle the drainage from the street and from the parking lot. An existing drain from the parking lot to the water was cleaned and extended further out into the water; a second one was also installed to handle overflows and prevent erosion of the beach area.

Earlier this month new curbing was installed from the bath house along the edge of the parking lot and beach area to the driveway entrance from the street. This will also help stop erosion of the beach from rainwater and post-winter thaws. The parking lot was filled in and levelled in some spots to make the grades even.

At Leonard Pool the Park Department extended the beach area about 80 feet in length southerly toward Irving Street. A new lifeguard stand will be installed on the extended part of the beach sometime in the next few weeks, Park Superintendent Mullen said this yesterday. This will make three lifestands at Leonard Pool.

In other changes at Leonard Pool, curbing was installed in March along the back part of the beach, on the beach side of the trees where the poles were, and the corner by the parking lot and stones has been graded off and covered with loam and gravel.

Town Employees' Election Not Over

A Monday election at the Town Hall from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m. for the town's 375 employees to select a three-year representative to the Contributory Retirement Board is still not officially over, and could possibly be defaulted and another election called.

ENCLOSING WEDGE POND BEACH. A 415-foot chain-link fence is being installed this week from the Wedge Pond bath house along the parking lot to the driveway entrance and from there down the resanded beach to the water. The Park Department has been beefing up physical improvement at both Wedge Pond and Leonard Pool Beaches this spring, and is planning on adding an extra lifeguard stand at each beach to add more safety protection at the newly enlarged beaches.

Fireman's Relief In 76th Year

Coming up two weeks from tonight is the not-too-be-missed annual entertainment of the Winchester Fireman's Relief Association for which the firemen are still out selling tickets.

The program, to be announced next week, will hold something of interest for all the family.

The Relief Association was 76 years old on January 7 for, on that date in 1889 seven Winchester firemen "associated themselves with the intention of forming a corporation to be know as the "Winchester Fireman's Relief Association" for the purpose of giving aid to widows of its members killed in action and aid to families of sick, injured or disabled members. The seven charter members were Charles Symmes, Timothy Haley, John Lynch, William Broderick, Albert Ayer, William McGrath and Michael Maguire.

Since that time benefits of the fund have been broadened. But the organization, chartered by the state, is stil controlled thereby relative to investments, etc. It is an active, working fund and held in high regard by the department.

Stoneham Zoo Re-opens May 23 For Weekends

The Metropolitan District Commission has issued a reminder that the Middlesex Fells Zoo in Stoneham will remain closed to the public until Sunday, May 23, due to hazardous conditions caused by the facility's construction program.

The closing was ordered late last month on the recommendation of safety engineers, after work began on excavation of two bear moats at either end of the mammal house building.

Upon completion of this construction phase, the zoo will be reopened to the public on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays when visitors can be guided safely through the work areas.

Top Archdiocesan Art Award To Ursula Keleher

Miss Ursula Keleher, a junior at Marycliff Academy and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul C. Keleher of 117 Church Street, was awarded the high school award at the thirteenth annual Art Fair at Boston College on May 2.

Ursula's work, an original poem, which she executed in block print and illustrated with monotype, merited the prize for the best entry from the senior high schools in the Archdiocese of Boston.

Along with Ursula Keleher's work, prize-winning art work from other grades was displayed at the Art Fair exhibit at McHugh Forum, Boston College, from April 30-May 3. Fifty first prizes and two hundred second prizes were awarded at each grade level. The first-prize winners at Marycliff Academy included these Winchester students: Grade 4, Kathleen Quinn; Grade 9, Cynthia Ross; Grade 10, Diane Larson and Kathleen Lucey.

Second-prize winners included Julie Tiernan, Mary Sennott, Kathleen Canavan, Mary Piantedosi, Diane Larson, Kathleen Lucey and Ursula Keleher again. Marycliff's honorable mentions included Lauren Berthiaume, Nancy Keleher (2 awards) of Winchester.

Dedication Of Osborne Hall By Methodists

As the closing part of the morning service of worship this Sunday at the Methodist Church the large room that has long been known as the vestry will be rededicated as Osborne Hall to honor Norman V. Osborne, who, at the church over forty years ago, was the builder in charge.

The minister, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, has prepared a special litany for the ceremony, and the Sanctuary Choir will sing an anthem, "How Great Thou Art."

Mr. Osborne resides at 1 Cliff Street with his wife and daughter. He has been a member of Crawford Memorial Methodist Church since 1908. Mrs. Osborne joined the church in 1907. Both were received by the Rev. John R. Chaffee. Their daughter, Dorothy, is recording steward for the official board. She became a member of the church during the pastorate of the Rev. Allison B. Gifford, minister at the time Mr. Osborne built the church.

CYO Award Goes To Kathy Kelly

At the fifth Archdiocesan Youth Congress at the new Sheraton-Boston Hotel Sunday the Eagle of the Cross award was presented to Kathy Kelley of 35 Lebanon Street, a member of St. Mary's CYO.

The Rt. Rev. John P. Carroll, Archdiocesan CYO director, noted that the Eagle is awarded to outstanding Catholic youth; the awards were conferred by Most Rev. Thomas J. Riley, auxiliary bishop of Boston.

Charles Eugene Howe

Charles Eugene Howe of 6 Drexel Avenue a resident of Winchester for over 30 years, died here on Friday, May 7 at the age of 77.

Mr. Howe was born in North Thetford, Vermont and grew up there, graduating later from Williston Academy. He came to Arlington in his twenties before the advent of the street car there. He was one of the first builders there and responsible for much of its early development. In the 1920's he was also a real estate developer and broker throughout the Greater Boston area.

Mr. Howe was best known in Winchester as the founder and former owner of the Winslow Press, a business which he and his son spawned during the depression of the 1930's.

Since that time, he had been active in the Winchester Rotary Club and was a 50 year member of Aleppo Temple Shrine.

From 1953 to 1963 Mr. Howe was an elected member of the Board of Assessors and served as its chairman during 1955.

Mr. Howe leaves his wife, Emma W. (Hart), his son Robert H. Howe of New Canaan, Connecticut and 7 grandchildren. He was father of the late Marilyn Howe Wentzell of Winchester.

Funeral services were held Monday, May 10, at the Church of the Epiphany here and interment took place immediately following in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary C. (Maloney) Hines

Mrs. Mary C. (Maloney) Hines, who had lived here on Fairview Terrace for over ten years, died last Wednesday, May 5, after a long illness. She had been in the Glendale Nursing Home in Woburn for the past few months. She was 82 years of age.

Mrs. Hines was the widow of the late John J. Hines. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Anselma Binding, formerly of Fairview Terrace; by four grandchildren, Mrs. Marylu Farrel and Jean Binding of Melrose, Kenneth Binding, Jr., of Burlington and Stanley Binding of Boston and by three great grandchildren. She is also survived by one sister, Sister Mary Anselma, C.D.P. of Melbourne, Kentucky.

Mrs. Hines was born in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, the daughter of Daniel J. and Mary A. (Byrne) Maloney. She grew up and was educated in Woonsocket and moved to the Boston area after her marriage. She had lived for many years in Medford before moving here and was an honorary member of the St. James' Women's Guild there.

She was a member here of St. Mary's Church and of its Sodality. Monsignor John Manion celebrated a solemn high Mass for her on Friday morning after a funeral from the Gaffey Funeral Home in Medford. Interment was in St. Charles' Cemetery in Woonsocket.

Geoffrey Harwood

Geoffrey Harwood, well known radio news analyst who died on Sunday at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, had lived here for several years at 38 Rangeley Road.

His unmistakably British diction and precision of delivery were well known to the area. He was for 14 years a commentator for WBZ and since 1961 news analyst for WEZE, authoring "Background to the News," an intepretation of the naitonal, international and local news. Mr. Harwood had written and published two novels and many articles and short stories and in between his Boston radio careers he took a turn at TV newscasting in Seattle, Washington.

Mr. Harwood was born in England 61 years ago and was a product of the English public schools. He chose this country for his home while on a visit as a young man, but he never lost his strong accent and the conservative manners of the English gentleman. They remained as trade marks in his profession.

He leaves at his home on Beacon Street in Boston, his wife, Alix Elizabeth (Dumper) Harwood. He also leaves two brothers and two sisters, who live in England and Africa.

Mrs. Margaret (Greenleaf) Hale

Mrs. Margaret (Greenleaf) Hale of 6 Dix Terrace, widow of Ralph Tracy Hale, died Sunday, May 9, at the age of 85 in the Winchester Hospital.

A native of Newburyport, she came to Winchester in 1908, first residing at 80 Walnut Street and then at 44 Lloyd Street. After Mr. Hale's death in 1951, she returned to Newburyport and lived in her family home until 1964 when she came back to Winchester.

Mrs. Hale was the mother of Albert G. Hale of Lexington and the grandmother of Richard L. Hale of West Concord, Thomas A. Hale with the Peace Corps in the Republic of Nigeria, West Africa and David G. Hale of Lexington. She also leaves two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hale was a member of the Winchester Unitarian Church and services were conducted there Tuesday afternoon by the Reverend Robert A. Storer with interment in Newburyport.

Mrs. Mary A. (Judge) Kennedy

Mrs. Mary A. (Judge) Kennedy, a resident of 31 Sargent Road, died at her home on Tuesday morning, May 11, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was 77 years old, was the widow of the late Patrick J. Kennedy. She is survived here by her two daughters with whom she made her home, Miss Catherine A. Kennedy and Miss Mary G. Kennedy.

A requiem high Mass will be celebrated for her Friday morning at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's Church with the Reverend Martin Dolphin officiating. Visiting hours are today from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Lane Funeral Home, 760 Main Street and the funeral will be from the home at 8 a.m. tomorrow. Mrs. Kennedy will be buried in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Born in Ireland on May 1, 1888, Mrs. Kennedy was the daugther of Mr. and Mrs. John Judge. She had lived in Winchester for 55 years and she was a member here of the St. Mary's Ladies' Sodality.

Mrs. Nellie T. (Lawton) Haggerty

Mrs. Nellie T. (Lawton) Haggerty of 161 Swanton Street a resident here for over 65 years and very well known and much loved in the town, died at the Winchester Hospital on Friday, May 7, after a brief illness.

She was 83 years of age and she leaves in Winchester and nearby six sons, three daughters, 27 grandchildren and 32 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Haggerty had lived here ever since she came from Ireland at the age of 18. She was born in County Cork on March 23, 1882, the daughter of Thomas and Mary E. (Brennan) Lawton. In 1904 in St. Mary's Church she became the bride of her late husband, James Haggerty, a native of Winchester who died 34 years ago.

A high Mass of requiem was sung for her at St. Mary's on Tuesday morning with the Reverend Cornelius J. Hogan of the Blessed Sacrament Church in Saugus, brother of Mrs. William T. Haggerty, officiating. A grandchild, Paul McInerny, a student at St. John's Seminary, was master of ceremonies. The funeral was from the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Mrs. Haggerty is survived by her large family, all also well known. Her six sons are Charles L. of Haggerty Rambler and Garage, James J. of the Water Department, Joseph T. of Bonnell Motors, William T. of the Police Department and Robert F. and Paul J., both of the Fire Department. Her three daughters are Mrs. Mary Petrucci of Wakefield, Mrs. Helen McInerny of Woburn and Mrs. Pauline Riley of Winchester.

The Salvation Army, founded in England in 1865, this year, is observing its centennial it was founded by William Booth, who left the church of which he had been a minister to take the gospel to the unchurched masses in the East London slums.

Theriault of Newbury, sisters of the bridegroom and Mesdames Wesley Richardson of Cohasset, Arthur Stewart of Pembroke and David Schofield of Quincy were the bridesmaids. Their gowns and bouquets were similar to that of the honor attendant.

Miss Carol Ann Richardson of Arlington was the flower girl for her cousin. She wore a dress matching that of the other attendants and she carried a small bouquet of mixed pink flowers.

Mr. William Ryerson of Winchester was best man and ushering were Mr. H. Raymond Levings of Hanover, brother of the bride, Mr. Joseph Costa of Woburn, Mr. Anthony Theriault of Newbury, Mr. Edward Bell of Peabody, Mr. Paul O'Brien of Woburn and Mr. Robert Carlson of Stoneham.

Master Andre Theriault of Newbury a nephew of the bridegroom was the ring bearer and Miss Constance Farrell of Hanson was the guest book attendant.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Levings was in an imported pink brocade sheath made with a chiffon capelet and wore matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Ardini was gowned in a bule shantung sheath fashioned with a lace bodice. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids.

The new bride was graduated from the Hanover High School and from the Plus School of Business. She has been associated with the Boston office of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company.

Mr. Ardini, a graduate of the Winchester High School, has served with the United States Army in Europe. He is an alumnus of the Massachusetts State Police Academy and is presently assigned to the Topsfield Barracks.

Whelton—Capone

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Patricia Capone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Domenic Capone of 3 Royalston Avenue, became the bride of Mark Whelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Whelton of Reading on the morning of Saturday, May 1, in St. Mary's Church in Winchester.

MRS. MARK WHELTON

The Right Reverend John M. Manion celebrated the Mass and the Reverend Herbert K. A. Driscoll of the Immaculate Conception Church was also present at the altar. A reception at the Hillview Country Club in North Reading followed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in an empire styled gown of silk organza, appliqued with Alencon lace and clusters of pearls at the bodice. Her mantilla veil was of matching organza and embroidered lace and she carried a single glamellia.

Mrs. William Keefe was the matron of honor, gowned in a full length yellow organza fashioned with a yellow eyelet bodice. She wore a single bud, matching head piece and she carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze carnations tipped with lemon leaves, made to form the appearance of a single flower.

Gowned to match the honor attendant and carrying the same flowers were the junior bridesmaid, Miss Donna Capone, sister of the bride; the bridesmaids, the Misses Elaine Rubera, Mary Grace Puglisi, and Anita Alberelli, all cousins of the bride and all of Connecticut, and the flower girl, Miss Lisa Molesworth.

Mr. William Keefe of Reading was best man at the wedding. Master Michael Rubera, a cousin of the bride, was the junior usher and Master Dino Rubera was the ring bearer. Head ushers at the ceremony were the Messrs. David and Robert Whelton, brothers of the bridegroom, and John Erickson and ushering were the Messrs. Sebastian and Daniel Rubera and David Williams, cousin of the bride.

The bride was graduated from Lesley College and is now teaching in Winchester. Mr. Whelton, who is studying at Boston College, is associated with the Mitre Corporation of Bedford.

district before noon. Massed American flags from every Scout unit participating and the Winchester High School Band were at the head. Behind them were the long files of smartly uniformed Scout troops and packs, followed by trucks of the Winchester Fire Department.

While all the Scouts stood at attention in mass formation, the exhibition grounds were opened with the raising of the American Flag over Manchester Field. For the rest of the day, this area was alive with Scouts and visitors.

Troops from all four towns participated in booth demonstrations. First prize for the Scout booths and demonstrations was won by Troop 513 of Stoneham, Eugene H. Cote, scoutmaster. Boys in this unit demonstrated how to make pack frames for hiking. The troop is sponsored by Glasgow Men's Club, Stoneham Congregational Church.

Winchester Troop 507, Donald F. Marchant, scoutmaster, won second for its display and activities on how to make fire starters, fire building and instruction in contact axemanship with the Scout axe. This unit is sponsored by the First Baptist Church.

Third prize for Scout booths was awarded to Troop 313, Arlington, Henry Marrec, scoutmaster. In addition to building a pioneering signal tower, the tallest structure on the grounds, these Scouts showed leather craft, first aid, fire building, foil cooking, map and compass.

Boys of Woburn Cub Pack 520 won the blue ribbon for Cub booths. John P. Cronin is cubmaster of this unit sponsored by the Woburn Parents' Committee. Den mothers and Cubs worked together demonstrating various crafts that drew hundreds of spectators during the afternoon.

Second prize for Cub booths also went to a Woburn unit—Pack 519 of St. Anthony's Holy Name, Anthony Grazian, cubmaster. These boys operated a pine wood derby game, popular with younger spectators, and had a lively display of radios and crafts.

The third Cub booth winner was Pack 540, Stoneham's Robin Hood School Council, Fernand F. Daigle, cubmaster, for display and demonstration of Indian craft.

Booths, demonstrations, rally events and games presented during the day showed only a small part of the total program provided by the more than 2500 boys in the 56 Scout units of the Musket District. More than 1000 volunteer adult leaders are behind the year-round activities of the Musket District program.

In the rally area at Manchester Field, Troop 509 of Winchester, James O. Keller, scoutmaster, won first prize in the First Aid contest. Second in First Aid was Troop 306 of Arlington, Norman H. Magnuson, scoutmaster; third was Troop 519, Woburn, Charles E. Pabst, scoutmaster.

Winners of the Boy Scout Loop Relay: first, Woburn's Troop 519; second, Troop 509, Winchester; third, Troop 306 of Arlington.

In the Boy Scout Flagpole Raising Contest: first, Winchester Troop 509; second, Arlington's Troop 313; and third, Troop 307, Arlington, James H. Brogden, scoutmaster.

Rally events for Cub Scouts were won by the following Packs: Potato Race: first, Pack 520, Woburn; second, Pack 540, Stoneham; third, Pack 525, Winchester, Charles R. Gunderson, cubmaster. Dizzy Izzy game: first, Webelo Den of Pack 519, Woburn; second, Pack 520, Woburn; third, Pack 519 of Woburn. Three-legged race: first, Pack 520, Woburn; second, Pack 506 of Winchester; third, Winchester Pack 525.

Explorers of Post 503, Vincent B. March, advisor, First Congregational Church, Winchester, were judges for the Scout and Cub rally events on the field.

General chairman of the "Scouting in Action Show" was Nolan T. Jones of Winchester. He was assited by the following committees.

Program: Robert Gales, Winchester; Donald Ryan, Arlington; Robert Peary, Woburn; Donald Wrisley, Winchester; Joseph von Hake, Winchester.

Refreshments: George Lemos, Arlington.

Advisor: Walter R. Weidman, District Scout Executive.

And when it was all over, after closing ceremonies and after the dust had settled, Manchester Field was cleaned up in true Boy Scout fashion. Not a scrap of paper or rubbish anywere revealed that 500 Scouts and hundreds of spectators had been there at all.

Open House At Hanscom Saturday

Some 100,000 persons are expected to visit Hanscom Field this Saturday as the Air Force Electronic Systems Division holds its sixteenth annual Open House observance of Armed Forces Day.

Gates will open at 10 a.m. for six hours and in addition to the day long program, there will be displays, exhibits, and aircraft open for inspection.

Entrance will be off Route 2A between Lexington and Concord. Visitors using Route 128 should take Exit 45W and follow the signs.

Refreshment stands will be set up on the Flight Line and there will be plenty of free parking space.

Teachers in the children's division of the church school will hold an orientation meeting tonight in the Music Room at 7:30 o'clock.

Homes Around The World

Tours of Homes At Parkhurst

A grass shack, a desert hut, a castle, a lighthouse, which is your favorite abode? At the "tour of homes" at Parkhurst School where the third graders of Mrs. Ruby Wiggett's social studies classes exhibited their favorite shelters, it was hard to tell. Every pupil made a model of some type of domicile; every one was appealing.

For the past month, the youngsters have been studying shelters throughout the world. They discussed building materials, shapes and sizes. They discussed modern buildings and how they are constructed.

For their own exhibits, the boys and girls displayed ingenuity and creativity in their use of materials to simulate the real thing.

The striped desert tent was made of a remnant of striped awning. The castle was a white enclosure built with sugar cubes. The American farm house siding was built with popsicle sticks. The Egyptian house was constructed from a card board box subsequently covered with a thin brown clay. The Spanish house's stucco was made from sand, clay and glue. A white igloo was created from flour and salt combination and shaped perfectly.

A gaily striped lighthouse made of clay was equipped with flashlight batteries and a bulb serving as the beacon atop the structure.

The filigree around the roof of a southern Colonial mansion was done by using the perforated edges of looseleaf notebook paper.

Some of the other shelters included in the display were a Japanese house, log cabin, cave, houseboat, covered wagon, sampan, trailer, English timbered house, tree house, tpeee and a modern apartment house that looked very much like the one presently being planned in Winchester.

A tree house on a tropic isle with a house boat docked nearby—now that's living.

Edgells Attend Boston Opening

As authors and illustrators of a forthcoming book about the old West End of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen M. Edgell (Claudia Kelty), of 8 Sheffield West, were among the guests invited to the opening ceremonies of the new North End Branch of the Boston Public Library, on Wednesday evening, May 5th.

The Edgells enjoyed the program which included an address by Mayor Collins, (whom the Edgells met later) and the presentation of the Key to the building by Carl Koch, its architect. The dedication ceremony was followed by a tour of the unusual and exciting new addition to Boston's Library system.

According to the ALA, one of the greatest highway dangers is the driver with "a tin head and a lead foot."

VFW Ladies To Hold Social

On Monday night, May 17, the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Aberjona Post 3719, will hold its monthly social at the Post Home, 15 White Street, at eight o'clock.

These monthly affairs have become very popular with the auxiliary and their friends and a good time is had by all.

Chairlady Gertrude Horn has planned an enjoyable evening with prizes and refreshments. She urges all members, friends and the general public to attend.

Senior Banquet For Methodists

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church who are being graduated from Winchester High School next month will be guests of honor at the annual senior banquet to be held in Gifford hall tomorrow night, May 14.

W. Howard Niblock, principal of the Winchester High School, will be the speaker.

The supper will be served by the members of the Youth Fellowship who are juniors or sophomores at the high school.

Here We Grow Again...

by Gary LaBaer

Planting time is here again. What is on your schedule this year? Foundation planting? Backyard enclosure? Patio planting? Whatever maybe the choice, be sure the job's done right.

First and foremost is planning. Be sure that all factors have been considered before starting the actual planting of trees and shrubs. Make a small sketch of the area in question and try to plan the placement of plants on paper. You may make changes on paper much easier than the movement of plant materials outside.

Selection of plants comes next. With the wide range of plants available today, your yard or garden can be outstanding. Select plants in accordance with their needs. Windy areas need much thought. Shady areas are also of need of special treatment. We areas are something else again. Don't rush out and buy plants because of pretty flowers or foliage. Find out the desired location and other special needs of the plants and only then select your material.

Methods of planting are very important. The strongest plants will not survive if improperly planted. Various types of plants need very special planting and cultural procedures. When purchasing the plants, be sure to ask for handling instructions. Buying plants at an established garden center offers many advantages. You may see many varieties of plants without traveling from one nursery to the other. You also select your plants from many hundreds giving you choice for special effects. The material is well labeled and priced, therefor you don't "buy blind."

Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery, one of New England's largest garden centers, has a gorgeous display of trees and evergreens. They also sell everything you may need to make all your planting successful. Mahoney's is truly the one stop garden shop. All material is sold with a guarantee, and meets the Rocky Ledge quality conscience stamp of approval. Trained landscape consultants are available for assistance. We here at Rocky Ledge, invite you to visit our greenhouses and many other display areas.

Will You Join The A. L. Auxiliary?

Look at the work being done by your local Unit. Unit No. 97 of Winchester has less than 30 active members, yet their accomplishments during the past year include:

Five regular hospital volunteers, sponsor a girl to Girls State, adopting a recreational program for our youth, five subscriptions to Auxiliare, donate to "The Homefronters" for our boys in the service, doing a landslide business on coupons for scholarships, eager beavers at the Christmas Gift Shop, Bedford Veterans Hospital.

Not to mention that we supply books to the hospital, donate eyeglasses and costume jewelry to New Eyes For The Needy; take volunteer courses, adopted a ward at Bedford Hospital, put on ten hospital parties a year and taught patients at Bedford Hospital how to make poppies.

We are an organization you will be proud of. Eligibility requirements are that your husband be a Veteran of World War I—April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918; World War II—December 7, 1941 to September 2, 1945; Korean War—June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953.

For further information contact Sally Cause, membership chairman, PA 9-0621.

Jaycees Elect New Officers

The following officers were elected for 1965: John Williams, president; David Mawicke, vice president; Joe Conley, secretary; and Paul Stevenson, treasurer. There were no changes in directorships.

Much of the meeting centered around Jaycee projects for the next year, and whether they should be mostly local or statewide in character. The membership appeared to favor swelling the ranks with more young men from 21 to 35 years of age so that more community projects here in Winchester could be undertaken and treated significantly.

The annual Jaycee sponsored Tennis Tournament plans for May 22 at the Palmer Playground courts were reviewed. A suggestion that the local chapter sponsor a beauty pageant for the Miss America contest such as the Lexington Jaycee organization does was discussed, but put forward to another year when a larger group might wish to participate in such a statewide program.

Other business matters were also brought up and covered before a refreshment break and adjournment.

Sears' Shares Stay In Family

PROFIT SHARING

Sears, Roebuck and Co. employees in the Woburn Plaza store learned that they have $375,746.14 in their profit sharing pension fund.

Mr. Magee said the 46 local fund members had 2525 shares of Sears stock and other securities amounting to $49,416.39 credited to their accounts as of December 31, 1964.

The local employe-members are among 158,500 men and women across the nation who are members of the Savings and Profit Sharing Pension Fund of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Employes. These members include more than 15,000 employes of Allstate Insurance Company, a wholly owned subsidiary which each year contributes to Sears profits.

Mr. Magee pointed out that the value of the accounts of individual employes showed a marked increase in 1964. He also noted that the total assets of the fund at market value rose more than $500 million to a total of $2,654,800,000 as of December 31, and the end of the fund's fiscal year.

This gain was the result of a larger company contribution from 1964 profits, increased investment income and appreciation in the value of the fund's stock holdings.

Of the fund's total assets, Mr. Magee said, approximately $231.5 million represents the deposits of members from their wages and salaries. The balance—$2.4 billion—resulted from company contributions, investment income, and appreciation in value of the fund's investments.

The employes' fund, Sears' largest shareholder, held 18 million shares, or nearly 24 per cent, of the company's stock at the end of 1964. In addition to this large investment in Sears stock, the fund's assets also are invested in the stock of more than 100 companies and in other types of securities.

Created in 1916, the fund is designed to encourage regular savings, enable Sears employes to share in company profits, and aid members in establishing a financial reserve for retirement. All regular employes who have completed one year of service are eligible to join the fund.

Employe-members of the fund deposit 5 per cent of their wages and salaries, up to a maximum of $500 each year. The company contributes a portion of its consolidated income before provision for Federal income taxes. The company contribution is credited to members' accounts annually on a formula based on their age, length of service, and deposits.

St. Mary's Sodality May 18

The final meeting of St. Mary's Sodality will take place on Tuesday evening, May 18, with benediction at 8 p.m.

After benediction a social hour will follow at St. Mary's Hall, at which a lecture and slides will be given by Sister Joseph Anthony, M.M.M.

At this meeting the new officers for the coming year will be announced, and the Sodality scholarship will be awarded. A catered buffet will be served.

We hope all will make a special effort to attend this annual event.

American Legion Auxiliary Conv. Delegates

Mrs. Alice Healy, president of Winchester Unit No. 97 will attend the 46th annual department convention to be held on June 3, 4 and 5th at the New Ocean House, Swampscott with the following delegates: Mrs. Sally Miraglia, alternate and other members as guests.

More than 600 delegates will represent 350 Units of the Auxiliary functioning in almost every community in the Commonwealth. At this convention, twelve orphans of veterans will receive scholarships from the Auxiliary's Scholarship Fund for the 32nd year.

Notes From The Methodists

Frank Crawford, now of Lynnfield but long prominent in Winchester and especially the affairs of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, was in the congregation Sunday and was recognized by the pastor, Rev. H. Newton Clay, who announced that Mr. Crawford would observe his 90th birthday on Tuesday of this week, May 11. Mr. Crawford was greeted and congratulated by many of his old friends following the church service.

In observance of Mother's Day at the Methodist Church corsages were presented to several of the mothers present. Flowers were given to the oldest mother present, and the mother of the most recent arrival. Three mothers were recognized as having the largest number of children, and three others for having the largest number of children with them in the church service.

Miss Jacqueline Quinn, a teacher at the Parkhurst School, is a member of the committee planning the annual college week end for Lesley College alumnae which commences on Friday, June 4.

Jaywalking is "a sure-footed way to become a highway accident statistic," says the Automobile Legal Association. Last year in Boston, the ALA notes, 55 pedestrians were among the 75 persons killed in traffic mishaps. The main causes of these pedestrians fatalities were crossing between cars and crossing at mid-block.

Fair Housing Assn. Exhorted To More Action

On Wednesday evening, May 5, the association held a business meeting at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. The following officers were unanimously elected to serve for the coming year:

President—H. Kimball Archibald

Vice pres.—Howard E. Hunter

Treasurer — Dr. Leslie J. De Groot

Recording secretary—Mrs. Donald Hritzay

Coresponding sec.—Mrs. Robert Pritchard

Membership chairmen—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Nichols

Housing chairmen—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cary

Program chairman, Francis X. Hurley

Publicity chairman — Mrs. Warren Price

Nomination chairman—Emmons S. Ellis

Legislative chairman—Allen F. Rogers, Jr.

MCAD chairman—Mrs. Frederick C. Rozelle, Jr.

Urban affairs chairman — Wallace McDonald.

Following the election of officers, a lively discussion was prompted by one member's question, "When are we going to start acting like a Fair Housing Association?"

Several instances were mentioned in which Negro home seekers recently had been rebuffed. Mr. Archibald, newly elected president, said that he would be receptive to any suggestions as to how the association could be more effective. He also expressed appreciation to Emmons Ellis, retiring chairman, for the work done thus far.

Mrs. Karl Tergazhi, program chairman for the evening, introduced the speaker, Chester Hartman, director of the Special Commission for Low Income Housing for Massachusetts. As to the need for low income housing, Mr. Hartman stated that 259,000 families in the Commonwealth live in substandard housing. A racial analysis reveals that the percentage of nonwhite living in substandard housing is three times greater than the percentage of white families.

Public housing has been a notable failure in the past. The reason has been that public housing projects have been too large and entirely filled with low-income families, many of whom are on relief. As a result, the project has become an isolated ghetto not too different from the slums it was supposed to replace.

In order to avoid the failures of the past, the Massachusetts Commission is recommending these new approaches:

1). The sites for public housing must be scattered—not concentrated only in the large cities. They should be limited to 100 units each and be constructed to blend architecturally with their neighborhood.

2) The state should provide low-interest loans to local organizations (businesses, churches, civic groups) which might wish to sponsor and operate a housing project. A certain percentage of the units in such a project should be subsidized by the state so that selected low-income families could live in them. Experience has shown that by creating a mix between middle and low-income families, the high standard of the middle-income group prevails. It is not known among the occupants of the project which family is receiving state aid and which is independent. Thus, the dependent families are more likely to maintain their self-respect.

3) The state should provide low-interest loans to rehabilitate existing low-income housing.

4) The state should have the power to demolish blighted buildings.

This and many other recommendations are being made to the legislature by the Massachusetts Commission on Low Cost Housing. A 125-million-dollar bond issue is being suggested to finance this program.

Mr. Hartman urged Winchester to respond to the housing needs of the state by planning to provide housing for all economic levels and not just for people in the top-income bracket. This is the only true way to obtain integration, and it is a much more satisfactory solution than busing children from one area to another.

An informal discussion continued after adjournment. Refreshments were provided by the hospitality committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Daniel Hritzay.

Mrs. Murray J. Palmer of Encampment, Wyoming, and her two children, James Robert and Leslie Ann, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawrence Usher of Grove Street. Mrs. Palmer, the former Deborah Usher, plans to remain about a month until after the wedding in June of her sister, Leslie to David C. Anderson.
